The Cover: Autumn's Centerpiece, the lake reflects the trees that line the shore. Drained in June of 1964 to permit construction of a $100,000 spillway to eliminate a flood threat, the lake bottom had gone from mud to four-foot grass and back to mud, depending on the season. With most of the accumulated silt removed, the valve was closed on September 14 and on October 8 water was dripping over the spillway.

D.S. Freeman: He Knows the Value of Time

It is entirely appropriate that the newest dormitory for men on the University of Richmond campus should honor one of Alma Mater's most distinguished sons.

Douglas Southall Freeman, a graduate of the class of 1904, would be in the very top echelon of those great men whose names have adorned the alumni roster of our University. As editor of the Richmond News Leader, as the biographer of his life-long hero, R. E. Lee, and as the biographer of Washington, he was internationally known. Both his Lee and his Washington, a task on which he was at work when death claimed him in 1953, won for the author Pulitzer prizes.

With so much to do over the short span of a lifetime, he husbanded time as others hoard gold; to him it was the most priceless of all commodities. He was up before the crack of dawn and thus was able to finish his editorial stint before the pests who bother editors are afoot. Then he would retire to the seclusion of his home, where the unlisted telephone seldom rang, to write the definitive biographies that added new luster to the lives of great Americans and won immortal fame for the author.

So mindful was he of the value of time that he developed for himself a regimen so efficient that, by excluding the trivial, he gained the time to do the work that he had set for himself to do. He computed the amount of time he spent daily in lighting and smoking cigarettes—and then stopped smoking, not for health considerations but because he couldn't spare the time.

But he could spare the hundreds of hours he gave to the University he loved, repaying in part the debt he owed Samuel Chiles Mitchell and others of his teachers, and the debt he owed President Frederic W. Boatwright, with whom he worked closely as a member of the board of trustees and later as rector of the University. Two of the saddest duties of his life, and yet two of his most memorable addresses, were eulogies of Dr. Mitchell and Dr. Boatwright, delivered at memorial services in the Chapel.

He was in the forefront of those who recognized the worth of the comparatively young man who had come to the University from Princeton University to serve as professor of economics and director of the evening program in business administration. Time has proved the validity of his prophecy that in George Matthews Modlin the trustees had elected as President Boatwright's successor "the man of all men to fulfill the great future of the University of Richmond."

Freeman Hall will be an appropriate reminder to students of a scholar who knew the value of time and therefore put it to the most effective service of his fellowman.

STUDENT LIFE ON THE OLD CAMPUS

by BROADUS MITCHELL

Though there are numbers among my contemporaries who knew the old campus and its people from childhood, perhaps they are not moved to record particulars. Vivid memories of the scene, beginning early seventy years ago, may one day be welcome as local history, and living persons who shared those impressions will be glad to have them recalled. Much with which I was familiar could be dug out of the College archives, and with greater accuracy, but more was never written down (unless in letters that would be hard to collect), because inconsequential or having to do with the manners and atmosphere of the community.

I was taken to the old campus in 1895, a child of three years. The buildings were the same as later except that the large dormitory, Memorial Hall, beside Broad Street, and the Science Hall across the campus at Franklin Street, had not been erected. The athletic field at the northeast corner had no equipment except for a wire mesh backstop behind home plate. In the summers it grew up in coarse grass that invited goats from the other side of the railroad tracks. These animals, semi-wild, were the ruminant equivalent of alley cats, picking up a living where they could, except that they were powerfully odoriferous. Stray dogs hung about the campus and neighboring streets, to be taken up periodically by the public dog-catcher with his oversized butterfly net and a closed wagon into which he thrust his protesting captives. The only cat not belonging to one of the households, that for years was a denizen, was a large calico. She attached herself to the refectory, and regularly had litters of kittens under the back steps.

Being confined to the campus as a play area, indeed constituting our little world, the faculty children, or those in my family at any rate, got to know many of the students intimately. Ray Staples, whom I called to see years later when he was a Baptist minister in Orange, Virginia, made us our first kites. Brothers named Wade, in Deland Cottage, were clever at making pictures, and entertained us with their watercolors. Another took me on a walk to find a young willow tree from which, with a few deft cuts of his pocket knife, he made me a remarkably shrill whistle. More of the students gave us peanuts which they had brought from home, unroasted, or shared with us cookies sent by their mothers. The highlight of these treats was a whole nickel's worth of candies from Collins' store on Broad Street. At that time a penny for candy was a child's portion, and five cents bought a bonanza.

The students were sharply divided, in campus allusion, into those (on scholarships, I suppose) who looked forward to the ministry (the "Jaspers," doubtless from the celebrated Negro preacher, John Jasper, of the Sixth Mount Zion Church), and the worldlings. I do not know that those expecting to enter the ministry were more purposeful than the others, but they were the objects of good-natured disparagement. However, they were far more numerous than one finds on a college campus today, and needed no defense. On the whole, I suppose the Jaspers were obliged to be more economical than others, and were more apt to come from country districts or small towns. However, few of the students gave evidence of having money or sophistication. Their campus amusements were innocent. Aside from organized athletic teams, the chief outdoor exercise was "shinny" played with homemade hockey sticks in the field to the east of Deland Cottage and the houses of Professor Winston and President Boatwright. The "Shirttail Rangers" had informal baseball contests at the opposite end of the campus.

Once a year a "jollification" in the chapel included gymnastics and barbershop quartets, and also annually a play was presented on a special stage built at the north end of the chapel. A few students had bicycles, but I recall only one, very much the city slicker, who had golf clubs. I cannot remember that drinking on the campus was any problem, though saloons were close at hand and a large brewery flourished immediately opposite on Broad Street. A single instance of a girl in the neighborhood complaining that a student (a "Jasper" too) was the father

About the Author

Broadus Mitchell, who writes so delightfully of those days on the old campus when every student knew every other student by his first name, was three years old when he came to the campus with his father, the late great Samuel Chiles Mitchell.

Young Broadus attended Miss Kate Winston's school on the campus and the Richmond Academy nearby but, unlike a younger sister, Mary, and brother, George, he did not attend Richmond College.

He taught economics in several institutions, and is now a member of the faculty of New College of Hofstra University, Hemstead, Long Island. His latest book (with his wife, Louise Pearson Mitchell), is A Biography of the Constitution of the United States (Oxford University Press, 1964).

New Session Opens

The University of Richmond launched its 1965-66 session on a familiar academic note of "bigger and better," but there were growing pains which may become worse before they become better.

First semester enrollment totaled 6,107, a new high, but it could have been much higher had the University adequate facilities for housing all the competent young men and women who sought admission.

Dormitories for men—or rather, the lack of dormitories for men—was perhaps the most difficult of all the problems facing the University administration. Dean Robert F. Smart of Richmond College pointed out that at least three new dormitories would be needed, in addition to the newly constructed Douglas Southall Freeman Hall, to accommodate all of the out-of-Richmond students who are living off campus or in the barracks, now picturesquely described by students as "the Green Mansions." These barracks were labeled "temporary" structures when they were erected after World War II to house returning veterans, but they are still in service and probably will be for years to come.

In addition to the 200 men living in homes near the campus, there are 135 men in the barracks—a total of 335, enough to more than fill three dormitories of the capacity of Freeman Hall which houses 106.

The problem is not the result of a drastic increase in enrollment, Dean Smart said, but rather in the percentage of resident students. Twenty years ago, he pointed out, more than half of the students who attended Richmond College were commuters. Today slightly more than one-fourth (27 per cent) commute. He estimates that by 1970 the resident population will be less than 20 per cent.

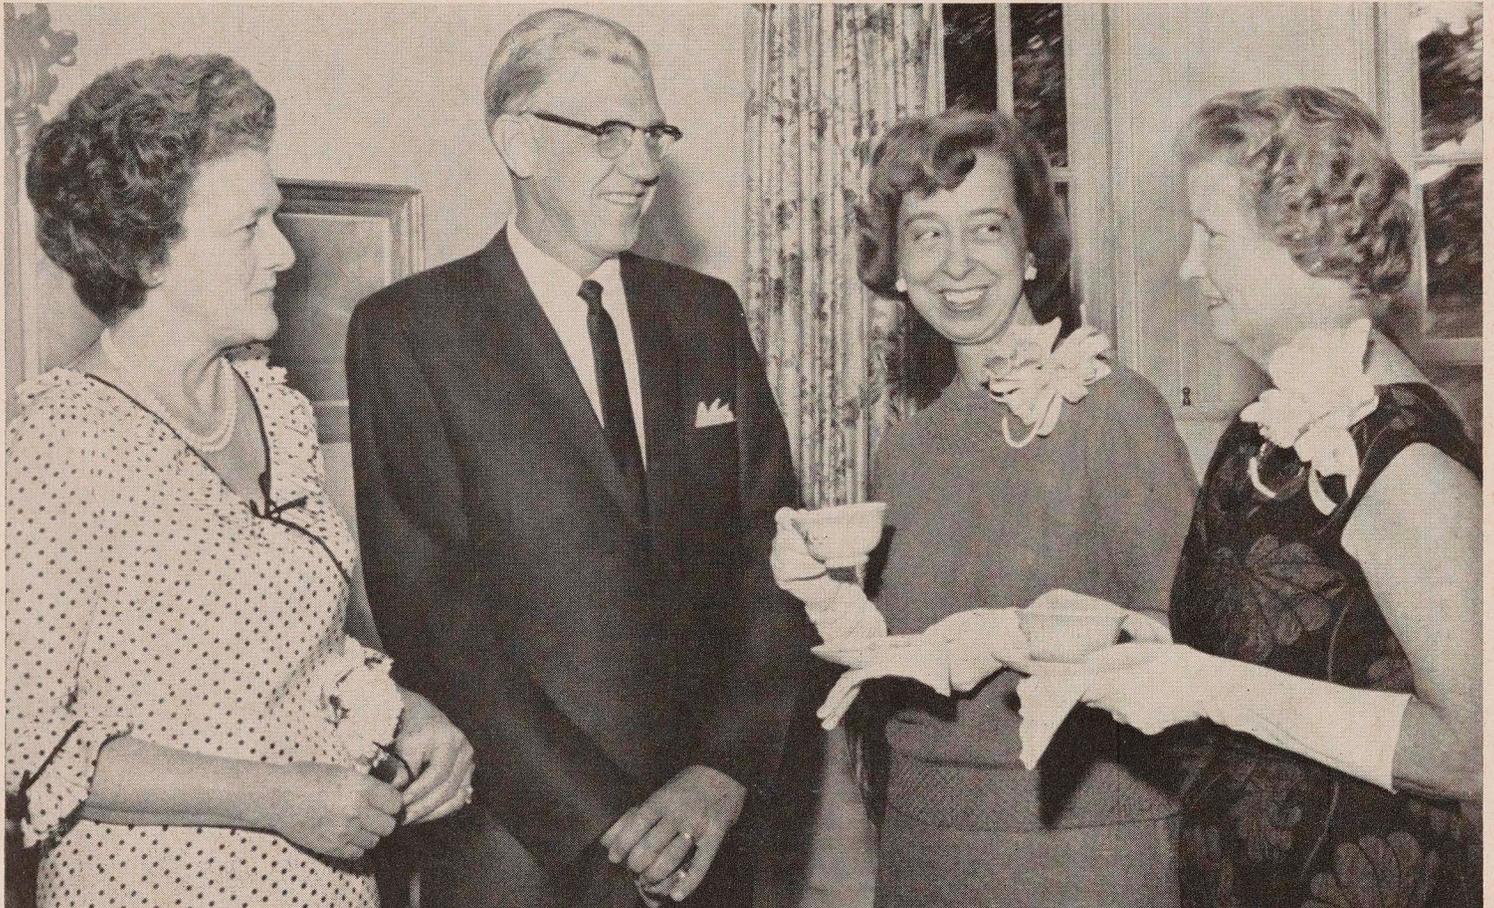

Why this shift? There are at least two factors, Dean Smart says. There is more money in circulation; students who want to get away from home can, in most cases, afford to go. Further, many of the Richmond students are enrolling in the University's junior college on the old campus.

The story can be graphically told by pointing out that Thomas and Jeter halls, dormitories completed in 1914 when the University moved to its present campus, were sufficient over a long period of years to house students who desired to live on campus. The need for additional dormitories became apparent in the 1940's and became acute in the 1950's. Wood Hall was constructed in 1956, Robins Hall, 1959; Dennis Hall, 1963, and now Freeman Hall.

On the Westhampton College side of the lake, the problem is identical, with dormitory space the principal factor in determining enrollment.

All hands were agreed that the great increase in the number of applications had made for selectivity and that entering classes in Richmond College and Westhampton College have never been of higher cali-

With Record Enrollment

ber. The University's total enrollment of 5,616 reported at the opening convocation was 491 over the preceding year, with most divisions reporting slight gains.

The convocation was held in warm late September sunshine with all of the accustomed academic panoply. Seniors marched for the first time in academic procession with members of the faculty, administration, and honored guests. They heard Dr. Vernon B. Richardson, '35, pastor of the nearby River Road Baptist Church, assert that those who have the advantages of an education but are unwilling to take the risks that go with it are like a fully-trained astronaut who is afraid to leave the launching pad.

"They are unmitigated phonies," he said, "shirking their responsibilities. Such persons want life without venture, reward without risk, experience without use of it, faith without commitment."

He told the students that "once you have exposed yourself to education there is no hiding place." The natural fulfilment of learning, he said, is service.

The largest increase in full-time enroll-

QUOTABLE QUOTES

Excerpts From the Remarks of Dr. Vernon B. Richardson, '35, at Opening Convocation

A University convocation is the pause at the beginning of the year to remind ourselves of the direction. It is the University saying with T. S. Eliot "The only wisdom that we can hope to acquire is the wisdom of humility." It is the student addressing himself with the words of Solomon, "With all thy getting, get understanding." It is scholar, student and community saying that we need one another.

* * * * *

The true purpose of learning is not to make sense of life but to discover its meanings. These two are not the same, for life is not a neat rational package. It is contradictory, ambiguous, puzzling. It's a small mind that cannot accommodate contradictions.

* * * * *

The unmitigated phony is the person who has the advantages of learning but won't take the risks that go with them. A phony is an astronaut who won't take off. He is a prepared person who won't function. He is the individual who wants life without venture, reward without risk, experience without use of it, faith without commitment.

* * * * *

The unauthentic life, masquerading as a mature person, is the one who has need to take flight but stays earth-bound hoping to learn there more about the sky.

* * * * *

Once you have exposed yourself to education, there is no hiding place; not in security, not in escape, not in conformity, not in rebellion. The only resting place for the learner is the fulfilment of learning in service.

* * * * *

The authentic life will accept not only the consequences of its learning but of its ignorance, of its non-mastery of life. The pain, blight and burden of the world is ours because we are involved in its causes as well as in its cure. We are the tormentors and the tormented, the pursuers and the pursued, the hungry and the affluent.

Let us then in a trinity of concern as student, teacher, community, accept the risks of learning, the results of ignorance, and the guilt of sin. Let us, responding to the Divine imperative at work within us, walk where we cannot see, believe what we cannot prove, and obey what cannot be enforced.

ment, was in Richmond College where the total of 1,351 was 140 above last year. It was the largest Richmond College student body since 1948 when returning GIs swelled the class rolls to 1,384.

Westhampton College reported 645 students, up 42 over last year, and the University's Summer School reported 1,550—an increase of 38.

University College, including the Junior College, as well as part-time student enrollment in evening classes, reported 1,780, an increase of 252.

The Graduate School was up four with 121, the School of Business Administration up six with 221. The Law School enrollment of 187 compared with 199 last year.

Two of the deans who made their enrollment reports were new in the role, Dr. Mary Louise Gehring, former head of the speech department at Stetson University, who succeeds Miss Marguerite Roberts at Westhampton College (see page 16), and Dr. Edward C. Peple, '32, the new dean of the graduate school, succeeding Dr. B. C. Holtzclaw, retired.

U. R. European Tour: It Was Fun

by CAROLYN GARY HUGO, '41

Take a couple of college professors, sprinkle in a few attorneys, add a dash of businessmen and their wives, and finally, a few teen-agers. Shake them all together with some affiliation to the University of Richmond as a catalyst, and you have one of the most congenial groups of Americans going to Europe that you could hope to find. That was the composition of the University of Richmond alumni group of sixty that toured six European countries in mid-summer.

To say that each of us learned something is, of course, superfluous. Not one of us will soon forget gazing at history in the Roman Forum or the beautiful program called "Sound and Light" there, depicting the history of that exquisite city. Nor is anything quite comparable to the symphony under the stars at the Pitti Palace in Florence. Time and history seemed to seep from the cobblestones of Westminster Abbey right up through our feet. (As a matter of fact,

St. Patrick's Square, Vatican City

a lot of pain as well as a lot of culture seemed to seep up through your feet in Europe!)

Spending a day at the western wall in West Berlin, seeing the homemade wreaths in memoriam from relatives to people young and old, who had tried to escape East Berlin and failed. Then, an afternoon crossing through Checkpoint Charlie, and going into East Berlin and seeing the mass of rubble still remaining from the war were as frightening a lesson in modern history as many of the bloody scenes recalled to us in ancient England, France, and Italy.

I will never forget the bare little room with magazine pictures of American film stars where Anne Frank hid from the Nazis for four long years. The excruciatingly hot day in the Tivoli gardens where there were thousands of steps to climb and hundreds of exquisite fountains with millions of gallons of water but not a drop to drink is another memory.

But, no trip can be all culture and learning, and this one had as many ingredients of fun as of history. For example, there was the night when our canal boat got "locked in the locks" in Amsterdam, and only our own "Admiral" Robert Randolph (Bob) Jones, Richmond attorney, could get us out.

There was the night in the Crazy Horse Saloon in Montmartre when we thought only the gendarmes could get us out! There was the hotel in West Berlin where the lift didn't work, and most of us could not get in or out! There were the beautiful hotel garden dining rooms in Madrid and Florence heavy with oleander and bouganvilla and soft with the music of violins while we dined and drank heavy, sweet expresso coffee under the stars.

Still and all, with the many exciting and wonderful experiences, the main ingredient was finally, the people. No one could forget

OVER-MATCHED SPIDERS FIND GOING ROUGH; HOPE FOR IMPROVEMENT

by WALT DREWRY

Coach Ed Merrick's University of Richmond football team, making mistakes but improving, dropped its first five games of the season. Powerful West Virginia triumphed, 56-0, in 90 degree weather. Virginia Tech scored a 25-7 decision before 11,000 at Richmond City Stadium. Southern Mississippi won, 28-7, over the Red and Blue. East Carolina won, 34-13, and Buffalo blanked Richmond, 24-0. As the Bulletin goes to press the Spiders were on their way to Boston for another underdog assignment, against the Eagles of Boston College.

The Spiders played their best game against Southern Mississippi which boasted one of the nation's top offensive leaders in Quarterback Vic Purvis. Three touchdown underdogs, the Spiders scored first and trailed by only 14-7 at intermission.

Merrick had to start Larry Shotwell, subbing for the ailing Jan Linn, at quarterback against USM and the youngster did well. It was Shotwell who directed a 73-yard scoring drive in the first quarter, setting up the score by Fullback Ron Gordon from the two-yard line with an 11-yard run. Gordon and Halfback Ronnie Grubbs picked up short yardage and Shotwell completed a 20-yard pass to End Ed Kullaf and an eight-yard pitch to Dennis Phelps during the march.

Purvis, however, broke loose on a 66-yard scoring jaunt for the Southerners and then connected with a 23-yard scoring pass to Wingback Rabbit Brown to give Southern Mississippi a 14-7 advantage at intermission.

Spider Halfback Ronnie Grubbs (with football) is tackled by a Virginia Tech player after picking up five yards in the game with the Gobblers at City Stadium. Other Richmond players are Tackle Bernie Ortwein (77), Fullback Ron Gordon (31) and Halfback Don Matthews (42). Wayne Rash is No. 27 for Virginia Tech. Virginia Tech won, 25-7.

Purvis, who was to gain 203 yards on 19 rushing attempts and to complete 10 of 22 passes for an additional 123 yards, scored again in the third period and USM added another marker against a dead tired Spider team in the final stanza.

Despite the record, Merrick is encouraged about the future. Both Shotwell and Linn, who suffered a knee injury in the Virginia Tech tilt, now are quarterbacks with some game experience. They both were untried signal callers at the beginning of the season but are progressing rapidly. The backs have run well and the line, both offensively and defensively, has done well. However, there are just too many sophomores to provide adequate depth and the play of an inexperienced secondary hasn't been up to par.

The heavily favored Mountaineers scored 28 points in each half, rolling up a total offense of 458 yards—311 on the ground. West Virginia Quarterback Allen McCune threw touchdown passes of 26 and 35 yards, Sophomore Halfback Garrett Ford romped 67 yards for another and Fullback Dick Leftridge rammed over from the two all in the first half.

The depth-shy Spiders, unable to cope

CAPTAIN'S CLUB TO SALUTE THREE

Three Richmond businessmen, Richard C. Walden, III, Clyde H. Ratcliffe, Jr. and Alfred J. Cohn, will receive the University of Richmond Captain's Club's "distinguished service" awards at the club's annual banquet at the Hotel John Marshall on Saturday night, October 30, following the Homecoming football game between The Citadel and the Spiders.

Hugh Keyser, '42, president of the club, pointed out that the awards are presented to those, not necessarily alumni of the University of Richmond or former athletes, who have contributed to the University's athletic program in various ways.

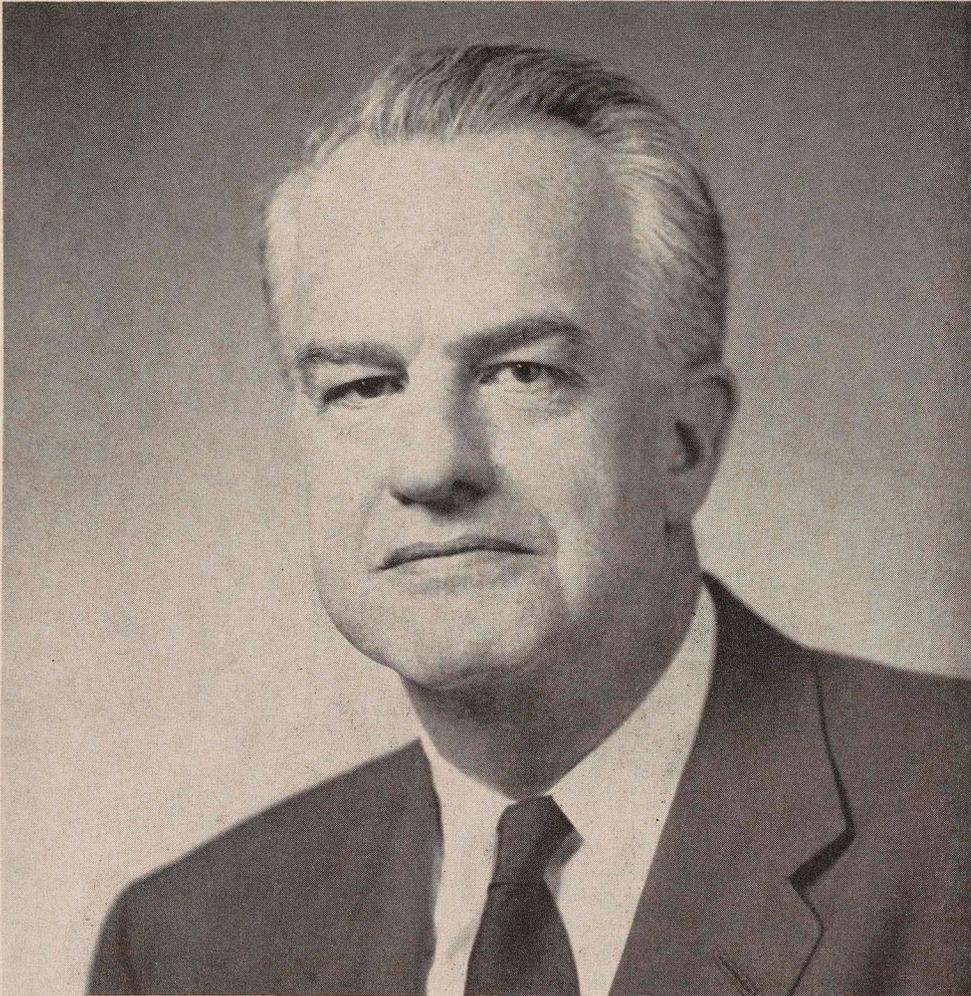

Walden, '22, is president of the Old Dominion Mortgage Corporation. He earned three letters in baseball and participated in track two seasons. He was president of the varsity club and active in other student activities. He was chairman of the Athletic Council from 1931-45 and one of the organizers of the Richmond Student Aid Foundation.

Ratcliffe, '34, is president of the Ratcliffe-Goolsby Paint Company. He served as vice-chairman of the Athletic Council for nine years and was co-founder of the Red and Blue Club with Walden. He's president of the Richmond Arena, site of the Spiders' home basketball games, and has served on the board of the Richmond Stadium Authority, the Thanksgiving Festival and the Tobacco Festival.

Cohn, a manufacturer, is president of Dixie Dinettes, Inc. He's a native of Buffalo, N. Y., attended the University of Richmond and is a graduate of the University of Florida, '42. He's on the board of directors of the American Institute of Management.

The banquet, which will follow a social hour at 6 o'clock, is open to all alumni and friends of the University. A Homecoming dance follows. Tickets are priced at $10 each.

DR. WILLINGHAM, who has retired after distinguished service as general secretary of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Societies, and an earlier outstanding career in the pastorate.

Mr. Forward Thrust: Edward B. Willingham, Missionary Pioneer, Christian Statesman

by JOHN C. SLEMP

If a Pulitzer Prize were to be awarded for geniality, and another for forward thrust, Edward B. Willingham, '21, would win them both, with votes to spare.

Friendly, affable, gracious, genial—Dr. Willingham is all of these and more. And yet, in the deep springs of his winsome personality is a dominant element of forward thrust, of invincible faith, and of courageous action that one rarely finds in a person as gentle as he.

Soon after becoming general secretary of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Societies (January 15, 1956), Dr. Willingham took note of the revolutionary changes that were taking place in the world at that time—the rise of nationalism in many lands, the reawakening of dormant religions, and the struggle between ideas seeking to control economic and social patterns everywhere. Yet, in spite of all this, he insisted, it is imperative that Christians respond with a reaffirmation of their missionary commitment.

Dr. Willingham recognized that modern world conditions called for changes in missionary strategy. Indeed, he saw clearly that definite, basic changes had to be made, and made quickly, if the missionary cause were to survive the impending crisis. In an article in Missions, American Baptist international magazine, for October, 1956, he declared: "The forward thrust in world missions now needed calls upon us to encourage and to cooperate with younger churches in lands where our past efforts have borne fruit. Local leadership must be trained and entrusted with responsibility. . . . If certain doors close to our witness for the Master, we must seek to enter new ones. We find no basis for lethargy or retreat in our faith."

Here is an example of Christian statesmanship of a high and noble order. In a day of increasing restrictions on missionary service in Burma, in India, and in other lands, the answer was to train Christian nationals to carry on much of the work formerly done by missionaries, and, as soon as feasible, to transfer to them all mission property. The mission societies would continue to send missionaries to serve on an equal basis with nationals where needed, and to give financial assistance.

And now, in retirement as of May 31, after a decade of courageous, creative service as a missionary executive, including extensive travels in Asia, Africa, and Europe, Dr. Willingham leaves the work of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Societies on a firm and solid base. He was as much a pioneer for the new day in missions as William Carey and Adoniram Judson were more than a century and a half ago.

Those who have known Dr. Willingham through the years can testify to his courage and his unwavering faith in the triumph of truth. This faith, this philosophy applies to his student life at the University of Richmond and at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary; to his pastorates in Lynchburg, Va. (1928-1932), St. Louis (1932-1940), Huntington, W. Va. (1940-1945), Washington, D. C. (1945-1956); to his many denominational and interdenominational services; and to his keen and perceptive interest in civic, national, and international affairs.

Still in robust health, still marching breast forward, Edward B. Willingham is in retirement only in a technical sense. Hand in hand with his beloved wife Harriet (Westhampton '26), who accompanied him in his travels and shared the burdens of his task, he will be among all courageous and dedicated souls who seek new worlds to conquer for Christ and his church.

Alumni In The News:

Oscar Robert "Horse" Thraves is a member of the County Board of Supervisors of Albemarle County, and resides near Burnleys, Va.

Senator A. Willis Robertson has received the Distinguished Service Award by the Americans for Constitutional Action.

1911—

Paul E. Hubbell, a professor at Eastern Michigan University, represented the University of Richmond at the inauguration of Dr. Harold E. Sponberg as president of the Michigan university October 2.

1913—

John J. Wicker, a Richmond attorney and former state senator, has been re-elected counsel for the Virginia Thanksgiving Festival.

1915—

Dr. R. Inman Johnson now lives at King and Queen Court House, Virginia. He is a retired member of the faculty of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

1916—

Joseph A. Leslie, Jr., of Norfolk has been named vice chairman of the Hampton Roads Educational Television Association. Leslie is vice chairman of the Norfolk school board.

Reverend George T. Terrell, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church in Norfolk for 21 years, has been named pastor emeritus of the church. He has served churches in Virginia and Louisville, Ky., during his ministry of more than 50 years.

WINGO WILL DIRECT EDUCATION PROGRAM

Alfred L. Wingo, '26, a Virginia educator for 39 years, is the new director and co-ordinator for the federally assisted educational programs operated through Virginia's Board of Education.

Wingo will devote much of his time to carrying out the provisions of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, under which Virginia will receive an estimated 34 million dollars during the coming fiscal year.

For the past two years Wingo has been director of special services in the State Board of Education.

Wingo's other duties will include assisting in administering the state program of integration compliance required by the Civil Rights Act.

He joined the Department of Education in 1940 as a high school counselor and advanced to head of special services in 1963. He received his master's degree from Columbia University and held principal, teacher and coaching positions before joining the Education Department.

GRIDDERS OF 1925 UNITE

Enough players to put a team on the field showed up September 25 for the 40th reunion of the team of 1925. They had dinner, attended the V.P.I. football game at City Stadium and then reassembled for a gab fest that lasted far, far into the night. All agreed that the party was a success and all were grateful to Joe DeMotte and Herbert Peterson, Richmond businessmen, who made arrangements for the reunion.

BOB CAVERLEE GOING STRONG AFTER 50 YEARS IN MINISTRY

Dr. Robert F. Caverlee, '21, celebrated his 50 years in the ministry by preaching his anniversary sermon in Fredericksburg Baptist Church in August.

It is a career that has included 29 years as pastor of the Fredericksburg church, from which he retired in 1961, and 32 years of teaching Biblical literature at Mary Washington College.

Still a robust figure at 71, Dr. Caverlee, is far from retired. He calls himself a "circuit rider," traveling throughout Virginia and neighboring states, filling vacant pulpits and speaking at special assemblies.

Born in a one-room log cabin near Huntington, W. Va., he was the son of a machinist with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, but decided not to follow in his father's footsteps. He preached his first sermon in the church in which he and his family were members; his second sermon was delivered outdoors under a sycamore tree and from the gathering was organized a church with Caverlee as pastor. His first salary was $25 a month.

Recognizing the need for more education, he enrolled at Richmond College, where he played right end on the football team and edited the yearbook, while earning his degree. He served as pastor of Fairmont Avenue Baptist Church while in college.

In 1933, Alma Mater conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Divinity. He is one of the few ministers to head the Baptist conventions in both Virginia and West Virginia.

DR. KRUG APPOINTED GEORGE MASON DEAN

Dr. Robert C. Krug, '40, has been appointed dean of George Mason College of the University of Virginia.

Dr. Krug, who was professor and chairman of the chemistry department at VPI, will serve at George Mason not only as dean but as chairman of the chemistry department there. He is the first faculty dean to serve at the new Fairfax campus, dedicated last fall.

Dr. Krug received his master's degree from Pennsylvania State University in 1941 and his doctorate from Ohio State University in 1944. He spent four years as a research chemist in Philadelphia and then taught at Washington and Lee University in 1948-49. He joined VPI in 1949.

At VPI, he received the W. E. Wine award for excellence in teaching in 1957. He has served as a consultant for the American Pigment Corporation and as a research chemist for the Virginia Institute of Scientific Research.

I HATE YOU, I LOVE YOU

by LOUIS D. RUBIN, JR., '46

There were, as I recall, five of us who put out The Collegian, the University of Richmond's student weekly, back twenty years ago when the War was just concluded and the campus was jammed tight with ex-servicemen renewing, beginning, or enhancing their education with the help of government grants. There were Cliff Long, '47, Thad Crump, '48, Paul Duke, '47, myself—and Guy Friddell, '46.

Duke is now a top-flight NBC newsmen in Washington. Cliff Long is an executive with the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Division of Socony-Mobil. Thad Crump is vice president of Wilson Paper Box Co. I have fallen below the estate of the others; I teach school. And Guybo—as anyone of us could have told you back in 1946, Guybo is in the public eye most of all, for Guybo is the best newspaper columnist in this part of the country, as well as the hard-hitting editor of the editorial page of the Norfolk-Virginian Pilot. Now comes forth a volume from Doubleday and Company, entitled I Hate You, I Love You ($3.95 at your bookstore), containing a selection of some of the best pieces he has written, and I predict that its nationwide reception will be enthusiastic.

For Guy Friddell hasn't changed. To be sure, there is considerably less hair on his fat head than formerly, and I believe he requires a somewhat larger waist size when he buys a new pair of pants. But the sense of humor, the high, mischievous tomfoolery, the way with words, the sharp insight into the customs of his fellow mortals—these are still there. Twenty years have brought him only increased knowledge and wit and a great deal more subject matter—principally a wife who keeps him headed in as much as is humanly possible, and three teen-age children who give him the excuse to continue to go to circuses, baseball games, zoos, parades, and the like, and to write about them.

Guy Friddell's columns, as contained in I Hate You, I Love You, are about small matters for the most part: small matters which constitute 99 per cent of our experience, and which we do and think about most of the time, and which, when we consider them, are what most of us call life. Only most of us don't consider them, and it takes Guy Friddell, who does, to come along and remind us what we are and therefore who we are.

Guy isn't a satirist; he isn't the sort of newspaper columnist who slices some people up for the edification of other people. So much newspaper columnizing and editorializing consists, it seems to me, of cutting down anybody or anything big enough or good enough or intelligent enough to be noteworthy. There is more pious grovelling and less humility in most newspapers than jellyfish in the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries. Not Guy Friddell; as a writer he hasn't a mean or envious bone in his body.

In I Hate You, I Love You there are children learning how to spell CENEPEDE, children saying yuk-yuk-yuk at dinner and infinitum, well-known silver-headed baseball coaches missing the Pro Bowl game to play basketball, with circuses and memories of circuses, grandchildren outside, flags flying on Armistice Day, weary automobiles that won't start (Guybo can't drive a car any better now than in 1946 when the winding road up past the Chapel to the Westhampton dormitories used to be a perilous place just before sign-in time on Saturday night.)

There is Sergeant Maypop, the World War II top sergeant who with infinite patience and exasperated understanding shepherds a company of limited service GIs through the vicissitudes of army life. "Yers must call me Sergeant," he tells recruit Friddell. "It is another one of those silly regulations, like saluting with yers right hand instead of the left, but yers will learn." The Sergeant's war, and Friddell's war, involved what war was for most of us most of the time—an aggravating, awkward, monotonous interlude when civilians had to be soldiers for awhile.

There are famous men and women in I Hate You, I Love You, too—but through Guy Friddell's eyes they become human beings to us instead of public figures. Particularly are there politicians (Guybo was the best political reporter in Virginia before he turned to editorializing)—Truman, Stevenson, Harry Byrd, Eisenhower, Barry Goldwater, Lyndon Johnson ("What did Dick Nixon ever do for Culpeper?"). And, a high point in this fine book, a moment at Atlantic City during the 1964 Democratic nominating convention when Robert Kennedy took the rostrum and an ovation broke loose:

Until that moment the docile delegates had gone along with stage directions, but all along there had been at the edge of their consciousness the muted memory of a tall, urbane, and yet boyish young man, and now they stood and voiced their wordless anguish at what had happened last November and their human frustration at not being able to set it right. It was the only truly genuine demonstration, and it was for a man who was not even there.

That, and not nominating speeches, acceptance speeches, seating disputes, phoney campaign songs, and the like, was what was most memorable at Atlantic City, and Guy Friddell saw it and captured it for all of us.

And that is what Guy Friddell's book is made of: the same old Guybo, always worth reading. I find the Guy Friddell who in this book frightens his neighbor's dinner guests by standing outside the house and shouting, "I KNOW YOU'RE IN THERE, LARRY GOULD. YOU WON'T GET AWAY THIS TIME," to be approximately the same Guy Friddell who ran several hundred yards across the State Capitol grounds in 1946 to wash his face in the Capitol fish pool after vaulting the iron railing around it, in order to impress the young lady who is now his wife with his bravado and his sincerity. ("Get that mackerel out of your ear, Friddell," said J. Hamilton Barnes.) And among numerous books I have read recently, I find this book one of the most delightful of all. Now of course I am biased. Who wouldn't be?

Examining one of the precast concrete panels are Supt. Basil Miller, Jr., Bert W. Milling, '42, president of Underwood, and Robert L. Foster, vice president in charge of sales.

BERT MILLING PIONEER IN CONCRETE BUILDING

Bert W. Milling, '42, is known in the building business as a man who has built a career as solid as the concrete products his firm produces.

Milling, president of Underwood Builders Supply Company, of Mobile, Ala., led his firm into a half-million dollar expansion into precast concrete building components two years ago.

Now, his firm has captured a large portion of the market. Underwood was chosen to furnish the precast panels for the 33-story First National Bank Building in Mobile, a job involving more than 3,000 tons of gleaming white concrete facing with decorative half-diamond panels of exposed aggregate above and below windows forming the exterior walls.

Other buildings using the Underwood product include the dormitories and administration buildings at Mobile College and the University of South Alabama, the student union building at Spring Hill College, buildings at Scott Paper Company and the Marshall Space Flight Test Center at Picayune, Miss.

Milling joined Underwood Builders Supply Company as superintendent of the ready mix concrete department in 1945, then served in the clerical, bookkeeping, sales, and administrative and executive departments before his election to president in 1961.

Between his graduation in 1942 and his post-war occupation, Milling earned the Air Medal with three Oak-Leaf Clusters as a B-24 bomber pilot with the Eighth Air Force, in England.

Colling received his master's degree in biology in June. He is a 1963 graduate of Roanoke College. He will accompany the chairman of the Roanoke College department of biology, and with one other man, they will study parasites in fish and mammals.

They will collect specimens for numerous institutions, including the University of Hawaii and the University of Virginia. He will be working on Hallack Station, a small outpost 350 miles from McMurdo, the Antarctic. The three men will live in quonset huts.

DR. FILER'S JOB: DOLLARS AND SENSE

Dr. R. J. Filer of the University's department of psychology is a full-time professor and a full-time president of his own firm, Psychological Consultants, Inc.

With Dr. Merton Carver, also of the psychology department, he formed a partnership in 1955, taking the name of Psychological Consultants in 1958. Now they answer some of the toughest questions confronting businessmen today—questions dealing with employee problems.

Their answers prove that the cold dollars and cents figures that determine the success of a business often revolve around the very human factor of personnel. The firm now has a growing clientele of almost 50 business and industrial firms.

"The whole theme of this organization," said Dr. Filer, "is to combine the theoretical and practical. We are concerned primarily with the application of the basic principles of psychology to industry. I have no doubt that being a consultant makes me a better professor and being a better professor makes me a better consultant."

LYNDON JOHNSONS WORSHIP AT SAINT ANN'S CHURCH

Rev. William Speer, '59, rector of St. Ann's Episcopal Church in Smithburg, Md., preached his sermon Sunday, May 16 to his regular congregation and two visitors—President and Mrs. Lyndon Johnson.

The Johnsons, spending the weekend at their Camp David retreat, sometimes visit the area churches for Sunday services. On this particular Sunday, the big, black car with the presidential seal on it pulled up in front of the church, the Johnsons got out, entered the church, and took seats near the front.

Mr. Speer was equal to the occasion, though somewhat surprised. He preached his prepared sermon, and administered communion.

Johnson thanked the rector after the services and signed a guest book on the way out.

College Welcomes New Dean

Westhampton College this session welcomes a new dean, one of only four in the long history of the College which joined the University family in 1914.

First there was Dean May L. Keller who set the course and gave direction from 1914 until her resignation in 1946. Then there was Dr. Maude H. Woodfin, a great scholar and teacher, who served briefly pending the selection of Miss Keller's successor. That successor, Dr. Marguerite Roberts, after long and distinguished service which began in 1947, asked that she be relieved of executive duties in order to devote more time to research and writing, as well as her duties as member of the English faculty. After a long search, the administration found the person to give leadership to the college in this very important period of its existence.

She is Dr. Mary Louise Gehring who comes to Westhampton after distinguished service as chairman of the department of speech at Stetson University. The welcome she has received from students, faculty and alumni has been more than cordial. She is now well embarked on her new duties at Westhampton.

She is impressed, she said, by the beauty of the Westhampton College campus, the co-operation of the faculty, and the friendliness of the students, not to mention the welcome by the alumnae, one of whom sent her from Hawaii a beautiful corsage of orchids.

The new dean, who spends her spare moments checking the progress of the renovation of the deanery, which will be her home as soon as the alterations are completed, has been the popular guest of honor at social functions on the campus and in the city.

In August, the board of Westhampton College Alumnae Association entertained her at a luncheon; on September 24, Westhampton alumnae and their escorts sponsored a reception for her in Keller Hall; Dean Gehring shared the spotlight with Dr. Edward C. Peple, new dean of the Graduate School at a reception in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Modlin on September 29. The faculty and staff of the University attended the reception.

Still later, she was one of the 37 new faculty members honored on October 8 at a Keller Hall reception.

Dean Gehring, a woman of warm personality, brings to the University a wealth of experience in education.

She earned her Bachelor of Arts degree in 1943 at Baylor University where she won several awards for debating, including the national Pi Kappa Delta championship in debate and extemporaneous speaking.

After a short stint at a civilian job, she enlisted in the U. S. Coast Guard in 1944, and received training in radar and loran at the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Connecticut. She served in New Orleans and in Washington, D. C. until her discharge in 1946.

Dr. Gehring traveled to Japan as a civilian employee for the War Department in 1946-47, before enrolling at Louisiana State University, where she earned her Master of Arts degree in 1949 and her Ph.D. in 1952.

She began teaching in 1949 as an instructor in speech at Auburn University and later joined the Mississippi Southern University as an associate professor of speech and director of forensics. She became a member of the Stetson University faculty in 1956.

She taught summers at State University of Iowa, and at Baylor University. In the 1962-63 session, she was visiting lecturer in speech and education at the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Gehring is co-author of a book, "Speech Practices," and is the author of several book reviews in various speech journals. She is a member of a number of professional organizations.

Her home in Richmond will be the deanery at Westhampton, currently being remodeled and renovated.

1917 Secretary

MRS. GORDON BARLOW
(Gladys Holleman)
Smithfield, Virginia

Anne Ruth Harris made the journey from Boston and helped Florence Boston Decker represent our class at Alumnae Weekend.

Ruth Elliott Trice and her husband visited their son and his family in El Paso, Texas before Ed left for military duty in the South Pacific area.

Our sympathy goes to Mabel Henderson Crabtree in the death of her husband, Dr. Asa Routh Crabtree.

Helen A. Monsell and I went to Mexico in the summer. We divided our responsibilities. I tried to speak Spanish while she attempted to understand it. Since both of us had one year of the language in college fifty years ago the Mexicans enjoyed our efforts. Mexico is surely a must, we think, in any travel program.

1920 Secretary

MRS. WILBUR RYLAND
(Sallie Adkinson)
4107 W. Franklin St.
Richmond, Virginia

This is a brief account of her European tour with the University of Richmond alumni this summer written by Virginia Truitt Swan:

This summer was my first real vacation since 1946. I fully enjoyed the opportunity to do what I liked when I liked. And frankly I realized that the lack of push was what I needed. The trip abroad was all I had wished for. I'm no tourist and I had not intended to do all the things a traveler in Europe is supposed to do. But there are vivid memories; flying at 45,000 ft. into a brilliant sunrise, with a full moon shining on the other side of the plane; seeing the Rembrandts through the eyes of a guide who loved art and wanted to share the details with us; flying over the Alps and seeing Northern Italy like a mosaic below us; riding around Capri with the spray of the blue, blue water coming into our faces; flying over Spain with a different coloring and pattern from that in Italy; finding the relative sizes and distances that were part of my misconceptions. (I thought the Thames would be larger, the Seine smaller, and Tiber more than a shallow creek. The news today that the Tiber threatens central Rome sounds unbelievable. It was nearly dried up when I saw it a few weeks ago.)

I did what I wanted to do and left undone what I don't like. I had no desire to see six bulls killed and I didn't go to the fight.

Even what some people felt was taking advantage of us was to me part of the experience. The fact that we had tickets so far up that the people looked like puppets on the stage of the Baths of Caracalla in Rome was to me proof of the size; we would not have known what a tremendous place the Bath is.

Leslie Booker was a real friend. She got tickets in London and Paris for interesting plays. Through her aid, I was able to have extras that I enjoyed. For example, in London we saw a mystery with ultra-correct middle class Englishmen. The next night we saw a musical about dock workers in Liverpool with real cockney flavor. The two plays gave us England.

Both in Madrid at the Prado and in Amsterdam we had guides that knew how to show a few things well. In Rome we were herded about with hundreds of other tourists so that we had only the vaguest notion of the Sistine Chapel. The contrast to me was impressive.

I was thrilled by West Berlin. Its lovely buildings and wide streets and sense of pride and well-being and its sensitiveness to destruction so that bombed out buildings stand as reminders of war—all these are exciting. We spent an afternoon in East Berlin. It is a city stopped in time. We had an East Berliner as guide who fed us propaganda and showed only what he was willing to have us see.

In Naples a little boy left his play and put on a dramatic begging voice and act as soon as he heard us speaking English. The change from laughter to pain was too well rehearsed.

We went to the house of Anne Frank in Amsterdam. The gnawing hurt after all these years of the murder of the Jews is evident on all sides. A statue of a dock worker in a public square is a constant reminder to the lay citizen.

Paris is clean and wide and unencumbered. But Versailles palace without furniture is a shell. Windsor Castle is alive—one feels the touch of Elizabeth there.

Now I've written at random about the trip. But it shares with you some of the things I liked.

1923 Secretary

MRS. BARTEE E. CORPREW
(Dorothy Sadler)
7100 Horsepen Road
Richmond, Virginia 23226

The few of us who attended the Alumnae Day in June were happy to be together; but saddened by the loss of two members, Virginia Collins and Elizabeth Gayle. We deeply regret Virginia's untimely death resulting from an automobile accident; and I shall miss Elizabeth's quiet, self-effacing, but very efficient help in class affairs.

At the luncheon that day Hannah Coker received the award for her years of service to the college, but she was more thrilled at the prospect of a Fine Arts Building in the near future.

This summer we have gone our various ways, traveled or stayed home. Ethney Selden Headlee had her daughter, Anne Patterson, and grandchildren with her for a time, as well as other family guests. She still found time to relay some news, however.

Rennie Parks Rue, who teaches and lives on the Eastern Shore, was in Richmond visiting her daughter, Eva Frances Mapp. The latter had just presented Rennie with her first grandchild, a boy. Dora Ransome Hartz, who boasts three, drove up to visit her.

Lelia Doane holds a record for teaching in the same school from graduation until now. She teaches Latin in Petersburg, and frequently hears from former students. Recently, one of these has received a Latin scholarship at the University of Richmond, one is a Rhodes Scholar in Germany; and one, a graduate of Westhampton, is in Rome. Lelia adds, "I still have fun teaching that dead language." Personally, I remember how we "sweated out" Livy in Miss Beggs' freshman Latin class. Anyone else likewise?

Altha Cunningham claims to have done nothing interesting, but she is modest and has doubtless accomplished much in her quiet way.

Our senior member, Miss Caroline Lutz, flew to California for a reunion with her family, but she has returned to her apartment here.

Virginia Kent Loving spent the summer with her son, Edward, and his family in the West. Characteristically, she did not merely visit, but attended summer school there.

We have no direct news from Elizabeth Hill Schenk, but Betty Beryl has been reporting the local horse shows for the newspaper.

Josephine Tucker had a trip to New England which included the music and drama festivals; and, en route, a visit to the New York World's Fair. Our final item is from her. Mildred Campbell Broome, our British member, is now in this country, and will visit her within the week.

Watch your mail for word of Fall Homecoming and send us news of you.

After our long newsy letter in the summer bulletin, I'd hoped everyone would write me lots of news.

MRS. CLARK MOORE BROWN

207 Memorial Avenue
Bluefield, West Virginia

A nice letter came from Gene Edmondson Barney right after the deadline for the notes for the summer Bulletin. She has retired after working for her brother for twenty-five years. Gene says that she hasn't had time to miss working yet. Her daughter, Gracie, was seriously ill last winter and Gene kept her boys, five and two years of age, during her illness and convalescence. All of us who have small grandchildren know how busy she was for those weeks.

Gene says that she is already making plans to come back for our reunion next spring.

Which brings me to an important reminder. Do you all realize that in 1966 we will be celebrating our fortieth reunion? I don't think it is too early to begin making plans for it. Each one please make a firm resolve to be there—some of you have never come back and you have missed a lot of fun. We would like to have some suggestions to what activities you would like us to include in the entertainment. The brunt of this always falls on the Richmond girls and I'm sure they would like to know what you would like.

In the meantime send me some news. When you receive this Bulletin it will be almost time for me to get notes for the next one so sit right down now and write to me.

1929 Secretary

MRS. HAMPTON WAYT
(Clare Johnson)
4804 Rodney Road
Richmond, Va. 23230

Elizabeth Hale wrote July 28 of a wonderful change in her plans. Freedom has been given her to continue as a missionary under the Board and work towards the old folks home on the side. The idea of working as a missionary and getting the work at Bethel Hill going, came from Miss Juliette Mather and was approved by Dr. Cauthen and Dr. Crawley. Ah Soo and others will move out to Bethel Hill to supervise the work there and Elizabeth will continue her present work. Since Elizabeth will remain with the Board she will have her furlough in '66 and she is thrilled beyond words at the way things have worked out. Much has been done at the "home" this year: The land purchased, cleared, burned; the hill terraced and flat land plowed, the whole fenced and the first unit going up.

Here at home—Virginia and Tom Yeaman are back from a sightseeing tour of Europe with Tommy Jr. as guide and chauffeur. Tommy is out of the service September 17, but will see some more of Europe before returning home.

Louise Hardaway Boswell and her daughter Meade were in Europe six weeks, managed to see eight countries and have a wonderful time together.

Our sympathy goes to Liz Barton who lost her father in June and to Mildred Pope Andersen who lost her mother in the spring. Liv was in Richmond this summer and visited Helen Moon and Jimmie Mattox. Lix is anxious to get back to her teaching and wants to go back to her old school in Columbus, Georgia. Mildred and Ernest sold their home in Norfolk and have moved to Roanoke to be near Jane and her family.

Mary Butterworth's daughter Rennie graduated from Randolph-Macon in June and was married to Dave Cave Jr., the fourteenth of August. Rennie, who looks like Mary, made a lovely bride. She will teach at Collegiate this coming year and Dave will work as a chemist for Albermarle Paper Company.

Mary Stevens Jones, her sister, niece and a friend took a guided tour of Canada this summer. Mary Stevens also had her annual house party with Jimmie, Helen and Mary Butterworth as guests.

Jimmie visited Miriam and Wes Rankin at their lovely home in Darien, Conn. and met their guest from India. Sunita is a graduate student at the University of Rochester. She wants to get her Masters and then go back to India and help her people. Jimmie was completely charmed with her and her story of India as she knows it.

Frances Schofield was here visiting her aunt for Labor Day week. It was wonderful seeing her again.

Ruth Cox Jones' son Putney and his wife are living in Richmond now and Ruth was visiting them here in August. Ruth's other son, "Skip," is studying law at Columbia and her daughter Ann is a senior in High School.

Doris and Miss Turnbull were in Sweden this summer. I know that must have been a pleasant experience.

Frances Sykes De Hart's son, Henry Sykes De Hart, married Frances Loring on August 28 in the Chapel at Duke University. He is a junior in medicine at Duke and she will graduate as a nurse in June.

Let me hear from you—.

1930 Secretary

MRS. JOHN E. MILLEA
(Priscilla Kirkpatrick)
8 Mt. Ida St.
Newton, Mass. 02158

You doubtless wish you'd fired your secretary since you have had to wait so long for reunion news. We apologize. It was our understanding that the deadline for the Summer Bulletin was May 15 and at that time, 1930 had no news.

How good it was to hear from so many of you late in May even though it was just to let us know you couldn't get to our reunion. We missed you. On the other hand, you missed a rare opportunity to be with old friends once again.

Twelve of us met for dinner at the Richmond Country Club on Friday, June 4: Elsie McClintic, Alice Richardson Connell, Virginia Prince Shinnick, Lina Light, Dorothy Smith Stone, Frances Willis Overton, Gladys Smith, Helen Harwood Parr, Jean Collier Withers, Estelle Crenshaw Hutchinson, Virginia Saunders Thomas, and Priscilla Kirkpatrick Millea. (Many thanks to Elsie for sponsoring us and Billie, Frankie and Alice for all their assistance.)

Only eight attended the Alumnae Meeting and luncheon on Saturday. After lunch we had an opportunity to speak to Miss Ross (who had been given special recognition) as well as to Miss Turnbull and Miss Lutz. Virginia Thomas and I were fortunate to reach the new swimming pool in time to have Miss Crenshaw give us a personally-conducted tour. (You'd be very proud to see the results of your contributions over the years.) Leslie Booker's party in the formal garden concluded the planned activities.

Alice Connell and her mother invited Virginia and me for breakfast Sunday morning before we drove to Fairfax, where Virginia's daughter and family now live. The day in Fairfax gave me an opportunity to see the three grandchildren (Virginia, Susan, and Billy) before starting back to Boston.

Alice Connell's son received his M.A. from V.P.I. in June as well as a fellowship for further study at the University of Florida. Dick and his family will be living in Florida next year while he works on his Ph.D.

Virginia Prince and Bill Shinnick announced their daughter, Elizabeth's, engagement in June to Wilfred Allen Roper Vaughan. A September wedding was planned.

Margaret Flick Clark's son, Robert, spent the summer in California.

Elsa Logan, Chrissie's daughter, graduated from Lutheran High School last spring and will enter Lake Erie College this fall.

Helen Lieb's son, Joe, Jr., is attending the Univ. of Southern Florida in Tampa.

Margaret Lampson, Grace Watkins' daughter, danced in Kismet at the Mosque in Washington early in June.

Katherine Tyler Ellett sent the following:

"After three years in the Navy and the past two at the U. of Va., Frank will receive his degree from the Graduate Business School. Lucy has been teaching up there. They expect to return to Roanoke where he has accepted a job beginning in Sept.

"Susan has been in Boston almost ever since she finished at Hollins, but will seek her fortune closer to home next year.

"All our children are going west for the summer, all headed for Cal. Arthur and I had a lovely vacation in New Orleans, just after I returned from an exciting opera tour of Europe. (Did you know music is one of my hobbies? I still study piano though I cannot really play)."

Your secretary agreed to continue in that capacity provided someone else would handle the alumnae fund letters each year. Katherine Tyler Ellett has very graciously consented to over this work for 1966.

Please write me soon and often!

Then in July I broke another one—so it is truly my aching back.

You all know that our 35th reunion comes up next June so have a good winter and make plans to come back in June.

Betty Bailey Hooker was in Richmond in May and saw Carolina. Also went to Palmer and saw Page and Clark Spellman.

If you all have any news please let me know.

Suzanne Hartley graduated from Huguenot High School in June and has entered Mary Baldwin College. Her mother, Inez Hawke Hartley, is serving this year as president of the Woman's Club of Bon Air, Va.

Olga Pitts DeSahazo's son, George Newton Minor DeSahazo, was married Aug. 28, 1965 to Helen Diane Rose of Jacksonville, Florida, in the Ephesus Baptist Church, Dunnsville, Va. The couple will make their home in Williamsburg, Va.

Evelyn Gardner Ward's son, Nathaniel Plummer Ward, III, was married June 13, 1965 to Diane Ruth Nottingham of Richmond, Va. The ceremony took place in the chapel at VMI following graduation with a reception at Alumni Hall. At present they are stationed at Fort Knox, Ky. Evelyn and Pete spent 8 weeks vacationing in Wisconsin, but will now make their home permanently in Hampton, Va. where they have purchased a home on Allegheny Road.

For you class members who are active WMU members, look in your copy of the magazine, Royal Service, for Sept. 1965, page 37. There you will find a picture of Mary Lucile Saunders. Write to her at the Baptist Book Store in the Philippines.

Helen Pollard Deck had a wonderful trip to Europe this summer. She and a fellow counsellor flew over and picked up a VW in Amsterdam. They drove 5,012 miles and visited 9 countries. According to Helen, they stayed clear of tourist groups and took in "everything". Helen's daughter, Margaret Anne, is now a full-fledged bank examiner, employed by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, Mass.

I had a nice letter from Elizabeth 'Cappy' Beaty. Her twins, Virginia and Carolyn, graduated from High School in June '64 and entered the University of Arkansas that fall. In the summer of '64 they had a nice trip to Mexico with a small group from their Spanish class. This summer, Virginia worked at Grand Lake, Colorado and Carolyn won a Danbury Scholarship to camp at Stony Lake, Michigan. Her youngest daughter, Mondella, has attended a band camp held at the University. Carolyn plans to be married in September to Lewis Miner, also a student at the University there and both of them will continue with their college education.

Jessie Miller Turner and her daughter, Carolyn, had a wonderful trip to Anchorage, Alaska, where they visited Dr. and Mrs. Lewis John Turner. John and Ellen are stationed there with the Army. Jessie Miller enjoyed her grandson, Lewis, so much. En route home they made several stops in California and visited other places of interest.

Mary Wheeler Myers, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Irvin Myers, was married October 9, 1965 to John Anthony Bickl of Bannockburn, Ill. at St. Mary's Church, Fairfield, Iowa. Both are students at Parsons college in Fairfield, where they plan to continue with their schooling.

Marion West spent part of her summer studying at the University of Chicago. Mollie M. Simpson had a lovely motor trip to Nantucket. Phoebe, with family, went to Myrtle Beach and the Smokies.

Vivian's oldest daughter, Virginia, was married in September to Joseph Thompson Dickinson, Jr. He is in his first year at the Memphis State University Law School. Virginia will continue with her job as a welfare worker there.

Etta, with family, had a vacation on the river fishing and relaxing before taking son, Dudley, to William and Mary for his freshman year.

Matilda Tisinger was married August 7th to Madison Stedman Massey in Atlanta.

Two of our class were European travelers this summer. Frances Gee, a member of the Alumni Tour, says she enjoyed every minute abroad, especially her time in Amsterdam.

Nancy Seaton is most enthusiastic about her 2½ months across the sea. She flew to Athens last May and visited Mediterranean places of interest including Istanbul, Cairo, Beirut, Damascus, Jordan, Thessaly, Macedonia, and Jerusalem. Her trip was continued into Italy, France, and England, followed by a return home on the Queen Mary. Of all these fascinating spots Nancy's favorite was Greece. She has lots to tell anyone planning a similar tour.

Grace and Luther Wells had a leisurely vacation on the inland waterways, cruising the sounds of North Carolina. Their daughter, Linda Goodwin, has moved from Florida to Lynchburg where her husband has been appointed Director of the Art Wing at the Lynchburg Art Center.

From Grace I obtained news about Margaret Proctor Swetnam's daughter, Ashlin. The latter married James Sargent Bray on September 4th at Herndon, Virginia.

Another recent bride was Virginia Puckett's daughter, Janet, who became the wife of Harold G. Smith on September 11th at Northminster Baptist Church, Richmond. They are making their home in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Dog lovers, take note of the following announcement! Frances Folkes Duncan has bred a Champion Maltese and is justly proud of this achievement. Also important is the addition to the family of a granddaughter, Mary Duncan Bryant, who arrived on July 12th. Frances' son, Robert Blinn, has begun his freshman year at the University of Richmond.

Liz Henderson has a grandson, Timothy Merrit Marum, born on July 10th. Her daughter and family reside in Lexington Park, Maryland.

Ammye Hill, a member of Woman's Council, finds time, in addition to her painting, to serve as a Tour Guide at the Virginia Museum. Son, Tucker, a graduate of William and Mary, has continued his studies this fall at the Graduate School of Architectural History, University of Virginia.

Congratulations to Hazel Seay who obtained her Master's Degree in Psychology from R.P.I. last June. Her daughter, Pat, has enrolled as a sophomore at Westhampton while her husband, Sergeant Lorraine, serves with army in Vietnam.

Please, you out-of-town girls, write me your news about yourselves and other classmates. I'm sure you have lots to send in and we shall be delighted to hear from you.

The following attended our 30th reunion: Our very special guests, Miss Fanny G. Crenshaw, Miss Margaret Ross, and Miss Jean Wright, our sponsor; and our classmates, Susie Anderson Ackerman, Ellen Barnard Wallinger, Beverley Bates, Lottie Britt Callis, Peggy Brown Dixon, Lucille Drake, Mary Pat Early Love, Vida Elsea Norvell, Margaret Gravatt Baker, Mary Anne Guy Franklin, Mary Bruce Harper Heisler, Nannie Harris Fuqua, Jackie Johnston Gilmore, Betsy Marston Sadler, Mary Mills Freeman, Marjorie Puryear Carwile, Billy Perkins Rowlett, Martha Saunders Ziebe, Jean Shafer, Gladys Smith Tatum, Carolyn Walker, Susan Whittet Wilson, Lola Williams Pierce, and Evelyn Wycoff Eure.

We had a gay time but missed those of you who were unable to come.

Estelle Veazey Jones called from California to send her greetings and regrets. (A month later Estelle said, "Aloha," while vacationing in Hawaii.)

Mary Anne Guy Franklin gave us a most interesting talk at the reunion, telling us about her work in educational TV.

Anna Hallet Sniffen wrote that at the time of the reunion she would be visiting her son at Trinity College in Hartford, Connecticut, before he left for summer volunteer work in Alaska with Bishop Gordon of the Diocese of Alaska.

Alice Harrington Hunt wrote from North Augusta, South Carolina, that a vacation with her family prevented her being with us. Alice's daughter, Julie, had Billy Rowlett Perkins' son, Bob, as a sub-instructor in freshman history at the University of South Carolina. She is now a senior in biology, aiming at some kind of research. Alice's son, Peter, is also at the University of South Carolina, and her older son, Dan, is in the midst of his masters in chemical engineering at Clemson. Alice reported that Mary Harrington Meaker is still in Vermont and that her daughter, Diane, was salutatorian of her high school class and was awarded a Latin scholarship by the Junior Classical League.

Betsy Cannon Kimball was attending the graduation of her older son from the University of Virginia Medical School while we were reunioing.

Nan Owen Manning sent her love and best wishes too. She was attending the graduation of her oldest son, Larry, at W & L. Larry was married in August to Diane Bright, a William and Mary graduate, and he is now attending University of Virginia Law School. Nan's second son, Don, is a senior at Duke. Her daughter, Nancy, is in senior high. Nan received a masters in guidance at George Washington University and for four years has been a visiting teacher in Arlington schools.

Helen Caulfield, our President, sent the following telegram: "Tonight I wish I were twins. Surely am sorry to miss this reunion but send my love to all there." The engagement of Helen's daughter, Anne, to Conrad Moss Shumadine has been announced. Anne was a June graduate of Wellesley, and her fiance is a Harvard Law School student.

Harriet Walton attended the wedding of Hazel Weaver Fobes' daughter in old Pohick Church. Hazel's son remained in this country to attend Knox College. Harriet received a National Science Foundation grant and studied at the University of Indiana during the summer.

Mary Mills Freeman is often in the news. She is on the University of Richmond Board of Trustees and assisted in the selection of Westhampton's new Dean. She is also President of the Council of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts.

Bev Bates gave us news of Grace Ashton. She is Mrs. J. Brooks Nichols, Jr., and lives at 250 Rogers Forge Road in Baltimore. She has a 12-year-old son.

Rhea Talley Stewart had a business vacation in the Bahamas. She spent part of the time at the luxury hotel, the Lucazan Beach, on Grand Bahama and the remainder in Nassau. Rhea's cat made the newspaper when he walked home, about 20 miles to Manchester, after she gave him away.

One of the delights of summer is the arrival of friends not often seen. Judith Hodges Schulte spent her vacation on the Potomac and in Richmond visiting her mother and sister. While here, she saw Margaret Bowers, Helen Hopson, Esther Dutton and myself. Her husband, Harold, and youngest son, Ricky, were here some of the time. Daughter, Katherine, is a Junior at the University of Indiana, and Lynn is a Sophomore at Earlham College in Richmond, Indiana.

We all join in love to Sarah Covey Hurst and family in the death of her father in July, and we were sorry this brought her to Richmond. It was good to see her. She and her husband enjoy Winter Park, Florida and have taken some delightful vacations in the Caribbean Area. Jeanie Bradford, Sarah's daughter, graduated in June from the University of Pennsylvania—Magna cum Laude and Phi Beta Kappa.

Among our rovers this summer was Margaret Bowers, who visited Sue Bonnet Chermiside. Both of them took a Great Lakes' Cruise and drive across the state of New York to see Ginny Kirk Lennox. Sue's daughter, Mary Eggleston Chermiside, graduated from Honeaye Falls Central School in June.

Can you believe many of us approach silver weddings? Alice Pugh and Warren Bartz have just celebrated.

Westwood and I have our first grandchild and my namesake, Lucy Deanne Wold, born June 4 in Greensboro, N. C. to parents Edith and Warren Wold. This is a most wonderful experience.

Jackie Warner Warren's son, George William Warren, IV, was married in June to Paula Patricia Powers here in Richmond. The newlyweds are living in Charlottesville.

Honors to our children: William S. Hopson, IV (Helen Denoon's son) has been elected to the Raven Society, honorary organization at the University of Virginia. He is also editor of the school paper. Randy Tabb (Margie Pugh's son) was elected president of Thomas Jefferson Student Association and also tapped into the National Honor Society.

News is rather scarce this time, but we were happy to hear from Margaret Dudley Griffith. She is employed by the Dawbarn Division of W. R. Grace & Co. as supervisor of the R & D Lab and a U. V. analyst. Her three children are Beverley, a junior at Hollins College, Susan, a high school senior, and Robert, a high school sophomore. Margaret's job keeps her quite busy and requires some traveling, but she has found time to serve as president of the high school P.T.A. this year. She is still living in Waynesboro, Virginia, but has a new address—460 Pine Avenue.

Another new address is that of Elizabeth Angle: 1012 Park Avenue, Richmond.

My vacation this year was spent in attending the Pilot Club convention in Dallas, Texas. I drove out with three friends and we enjoyed stops along the way as we took a different route to and from Dallas.

Let us hear about your vacation and all of the exciting plans that you and your family have for the coming year.

Richmond, Va.

While Emily Parker Kendig packs for her trip to Tokyo I shall relay news she turned over to me.

Ruth Ruffin Banks' son, Lee, attends Tyler Junior College; Dennis, age 17, is in high school in Richmond and Elizabeth Anne in elementary school. The family had a trip to the World's Fair, returning via Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Arkansas to Texas.

Julia Gunter Davidson's oldest son, Jimmy, is a Sophomore at State College, N. C., as is Gene at W. & L. while Douglas and Mary Carol attend the local schools in Durham. Julia's doctor husband sometimes employs his wife as secretary. Recently they toured Canada.

Caroline Smith Ward (Mrs. William B.) is living at 1533 Wyndham Road, Columbia, S. C., where her husband is pastor of Eastminster Presbyterian Church. His son, Rockwell Porter, is a married student at Union Theological Seminary and David attends Southwestern.

Last December Catherine Carswell Thomsen's daughter Selma was a Senior at Baylor Medical School, while Harry was a Senior at the Air Force Academy and Bob attended Fresno State. In spite of one-year-old Ricky and two-year-old Tommy, Catherine taught the first grade in Montclair, California.

Barbara DeJarnette Bagwell's (Mrs. Don Pyle) son Don attended the University of Richmond; Barbara Blair is a student at Halifax High and Mary Bagwell at Halifax Elementary. In 1963 Barbara travelled in Europe.

Martha Byers Beall has three daughters in Marlboro, Md. elementary schools while she instructs in Latin at the University of Maryland. Her travels include New England and Nova Scotia.

Margaret Lockwood Nolting, last year, had a son Richard at V. P. I. and a son, Jimmie, working at Scott and Stringfellow. Mark and George attend Richmond schools. "Peggy" teaches kindergarten.

Elizabeth Shaw Burchill has two children, Jean and Fred, in Richmond schools and says she's "still hoping" to travel. She's a librarian assistant in the reference department at Richmond Public Library.

Allie Martin Holbleib's two daughters attend Ashland schools and Craig attends the University of Richmond. Allie is a counselor at Patrick Henry High School.

In December Edna Loving Young wrote that Mary Alice was a senior at Madison College and Robert, a senior in high school. Edna instructs in Biology at Danville branch of V. P. I.

Jean Bobbitt Grubbs has four boys. Ronald played football at the University of Richmond while Jerry, Gene, and Kim attend school in Ashland. According to Jean, "Daily, daily, daily . . . Ashland to Richmond" where she teaches at Hermitage High.

My son, Charles IV or "Chuck", teaches math at Collegiate Schools where his brother Bill is a student. Anne attends Marjorie Webster Junior College. I always hope to see a thirty-eight on the campus!

This catches us up on some of the girls but let's hear from Julia, Olive, Doug, Augusta, and the rest of you by return post cards to Emily, 5008 Cary St. Rd.

for the fall Bulletin as she is really a busy girl. First of all, she has been made Head of the Middle School at St. Catherine's and will be teaching 7th grade Math and 8th grade General Science. This summer she commuted by bus to William and Mary's summer session.

Garland's Betty entered Westhampton this fall after spending the summer as a counselor in a camp in Vermont. Garland and Greg had a grand trip to the World's Fair also.

Dott Shell Wood's Betty was one of the finalists in the Miss Teen-Age Richmond contest. Their oldest son, Dick, is taking pre-med at V.M.I. and Jack and Betty are students at Collegiate, where Dot teaches fourth grade.

Petey and I spent another wonderful summer at Camp Virginia. Nancy Lee Riley McFalls' son, Charles, was a junior counselor there and Louise Chewning's Bobby was a camper. Our son, Malcolm, is at Indiana University working on his M.A. in French and our son, Lucky, is a freshman at William and Mary. Did you ever think that Petey and I would be cheering for the Indians?

Our sincere thanks go to Frances Bailey Gill and Millie Gustafson Donohue for their hospitality last Spring. Reunion time found us having a delicious dinner with Frances on Friday evening and a most pleasant visit with Millie on Saturday afternoon. Here is a report of some of the news that was passed around. If I miss anyone, please, forgive me and drop me a line or call and remind me.

Libby Johnson Alvis' eldest is attending William and Mary. Dimple Latham Gravatt has three in college, two boys at Old Dominion College and girl at Longwood. Janet Gresham Manson's daughter, a sophomore at Averett Junior College, is a house president this year. Dell Williams Smith's son, Carter, is president of his class at Collegiate School in Richmond. Kitty Wicker Long's daughter was the second runner-up in last year's Miss West Virginia Contest. Jane Aler VanLeeuwen's daughter, Jane, is a freshman at Westhampton. Charlotte Anne Dickinson Moore's daughter is a freshman at Hollins College. Helen Smith Moss has a budding author in the family. Her eleven-year-old has written a mystery story.

Charlotte Ann worked with "Project Headstart" last year. Jane Reid is a religious education consultant.

We were very pleased to have with us Annie Laurie Parker who had been lost to us since the end of our freshman year. Now I've "goofed" and lost her again. I hope to have her address for you in the next issue. Annie Laurie has lived on the west coast but is now in Arlington, Va. Her husband is with the FBI, and they have two children.

Fred and Maude Smith Jurgens celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary this summer. Doris Hargrove Kibler will have a busy time as president of her PTA group this year. Margaret Brinson Reed traveled to California. The Jordans, John and Marie Keyser, however, left California to spend a year in England. Among others who traveled abroad in the last year or two are: Pauline Cortopassi, Brinson, and Caroline Doyle Saunders who chaperoned a group of teen-agers to Europe.

We extend heartfelt sympathy to Charlotte Ann whose father, Josiah L. Dickinson, died last May; also to Mary Sue Carter Patterson who lost her brother in August.

The family of Al and Elsie Mattingly Dickinson had an interesting write-up in a Richmond newspaper in July as the Middle Atlantic Lawn

Tennis Association's "Tennis Family of the Year."

Elsie is attending Westhampton to complete requirements for her degree. Another school "drop-in" is Harriet Yeamans Mercer who is attending Richmond Professional Institute and studying on ETV to get her Collegiate Professional certificate, planning to teach Math in junior high and high school.

Let me hear from you. It was good to see so many of you last June.

Please note we've changed our address without moving! Many of the streets in Fairfax County were renamed or renumbered last spring, in an effort to lessen confusion where streets had grown in varying directions. A considerable amount of confusion was caused thereby, too, as visitors tried to find numbers that no longer exist—and all correspondents had to be notified of yet another change of address. Ah, progress!

George Mason College in Fairfax received a new dean on August 1, the first faculty dean to serve at the new campus. He is Robert Charles Krug, until recently chairman of the department of chemistry at VPI in Blacksburg; his wife, of course, is one of us—Kathryn Leviston Krug. Their new address (accomplished by moving there!) is 3716 Acosta Road, Mantua, Fairfax, Virginia. A "child" of the University of Virginia, George Mason College was formerly located at nearby Bailey's Crossroads.

I talked with Kay today, finding that appliances are running, homesickness is passing, and the Krugs begin to feel they belong, particularly after yesterday's faculty reception. Son Jeff will soon depart for his sophomore year at VPI. Daughter Robyn is a student at Woodson High School. The family enjoyed a Labor Day weekend in Richmond. Shortly before moving, they were visited by Ada Land and her mother.

Kay had written me in May that her life centers around three C's—children, church and chemistry. Robin "is happiest when she's swimming, singing or driving. She's also a very good student and beginning to think about college (and Westhampton, we hope!) Jeff . . . learned a lot both in and out of books these last five months, and so have we!

"I was elected president of the Women of the Church last spring," continues Kay, "and . . . find good old W. C. graduates in Presbyterian places like Bitsy Epes at Massanetta last summer." She had to relinquish her second year as president upon moving from Blacksburg.

To quote further from this interesting letter: "I've learned that even a history major can whip up receptions for 50-100 people without too much notice and feeding 30-40 at a buffet dinner doesn't scare me any more! We entertained Linus Pauling last spring. . . . I was happy to have a chance for a brief visit with Cecile Gaddis Smith when Robert took me along to Gainesville in February when he had a chemistry meeting. Cecile hadn't changed a bit and has a delightful family and was a very gracious hostess.

"I often see Mildred Owen Stanley and Liz Cardwell Brown. . . . Liz has been teaching the past year or two. Their oldest son is at Davidson and Billy will be a high school senior next year. I'm hoping the three of us will be headed for Richmond this time next year! It's hard to believe it's nearly 25 years!"

How excellent it is to receive such letters. Be the next! And do be planning towards that upcoming anniversary.

Virginia Lee Ball Glover is also reliable. In June she wrote, "LeRoy is in Wisconsin on a fresh-water-clamshell-buying trip for the Japanese pearl industry. This waste business leads one into the strangest channels! It's fantastic what so-called 'trash' can be used to produce useful and beautiful articles.

"We were in Pa. in the spring and spent an evening with Dotty Hewes McGlincy. We had Peter, our ten-year-old, with us and he enjoyed meeting their son. . . . Dotty is in the real estate business now and is surely the ideal personality for it.

"On our way home I called Marion Yancey Petroff. Chris was in the hospital at the time; he'd suffered a heart attack and was being ordered to relax for several weeks." Certainly all of us send the Petroff family our good wishes and hopes for an early recovery.

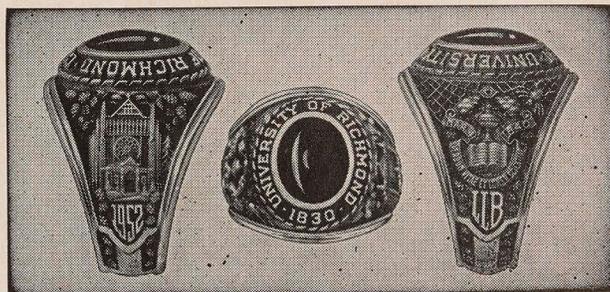

Virginia Lee adds, "Diana Curwen, Kira and Geoffrey's oldest child, will enter W. & M. in the fall.

"While we were in Philadelphia Peter and I 'did' the town—seeing Independence Hall on tour—museums—planetarium. I was astonished at the stamina of a young boy."

It was heartwarming to receive evidences of your loving friendship when my father died in May, two days less than a year after Mama was killed. Such enduring friendships, deepening with the years, are among the most meaningful elements of life. And I hope you are all as aware as I have become of the value of parental heritage.

The five of us spent a weekend in August at The Chamberlin, Old Point Comfort, and found there Mayme O'Flaherty Stone and her family. Entrancing conversation ensued. Mayme has recovered from surgery which interfered with Christmas; their younger son's health seems improved, too. She related glad tidings of Henrietta Sadler Kinman's family and their happy life together, and also told me of Betty Tabb Slipek (daughter of Elizabeth Holden), who has achieved excellence in math. I learned that Anne Marie Rue Stringfellow is keeping the family business going in a splendid way.

Ann Garrett had a coffee in early July and several "42er's" were there honoring Dot Quinn Keeling '42 who is in Richmond for six weeks with her children (who are attending summer school here). She and her doctor husband, Bob, take turns commuting on weekends. Odds and ends picked up there are as follows:

Annie Loie Walker Seacat was in town overnight with husband, Lot, and daughter, Langley, en route to a short vacation at the Homestead, Hot Springs, Virginia. They love their latest home out in Winnetka, Illinois. Lot is comptroller for Bell and Howell. Langley will enter Smith in September as a freshman.

Lucy McDonough Powell's and Horace's daughter, Lynn, has recently won honors in living in a state diving meet.

Dot Quinn Keeling saw LaVerne Priddy Muse shopping in Miller and Rhoads, had a nice chat about children and husbands.

Ada Moss Harlow and Bill are moving to 2301 Buckingham Avenue, Bryan Parkway, Richmond, Virginia and are quite excited about their new home.

Mary Virginia Mangum Arrington reported seeing Frances Calisch Rothenburg grocery shopping and said this is her usual meeting place with Ann Robey Gaulding. Frances was a dancer in "Under Two Flags" at Dogwood Dell in June.

Emma Bee Waldrop Cruickshanks' son, Doug, who was president of the senior class at Huguenot High, graduated and will enter Randolph-Macon in September.

Ann Pavey Garrett and her family visited the World's Fair and New England for their vacation in July.

May Thayer Holt with her husband, Doug, and their four children took a cottage at Sandbridge Beach for an August vacation.

It is great to read the news of the classes before and after us, but it would be nice to have more news of our own. Won't you all pick up your pens, now that fall has come and send in an item or two?

MRS. GLADSTONE HILL

Helen Curtis Patrick's daughter, Dale, entered Westhampton this fall. She is the first of our daughters to follow in her mother's footsteps. Helen's Tommy, age 15, is at Frederick Military Academy here in Portsmouth. After substituting for three years Helen has joined the ranks of full time teachers. She writes, "I am looking forward to starting with a group and I hope to finish with the same ones. Having done all kinds of volunteer work, church and club work, played bridge and drunk coffee, it will be an interesting change to feel as if I am doing something worthwhile. Thank goodness I still have my three other boys to keep me company this winter."

I can report on the following summer vacations: Gene Keever and family had a two week trip to New England, Betty and John Goldsmith spent a month on Cape Cod. B. J. Baker and family visited New York and took in the Fair, Museums, Major League baseball, etc. They also visited Rita in Rhode Island. Rita has since moved to Maine but I don't yet have her new address.

Gloria Robertson did further work on her Master's degree this summer and is back at work with the Portsmouth schools. Clayton has taken on many "building projects"—in addition to remodeling and adding to their house. He has bought some property and is busy developing it.

I know you will all be proud to know that Deedee is participating in the new program of having alumnae adopt W. C. students from out of town. Sounds like a fine undertaking.

We were sorry to hear that Dot Ihnken's father passed away very unexpectedly last spring. Also that Ann Fisher Keppler lost her mother recently.

Our son Bob is taking Russian in school. I had high hopes of learning with him but soon became a "dropout." I guess I'm really getting old. This will be an especially busy Christmas season for us as Fleet is making her debut.

Do write so I can share your news with the rest of the class.

First, highlights from some of the letters we all enjoyed at the reunion.

Anne McElroy MacKenzie and family are loving country living. They have 3½ acres of ground and their home is a converted carriage house. They did some additional remodeling in the hayloft and now feel quite settled. Their three children are riding and have begun bringing home ribbons.

Mary Ellen Tucker Lowry wrote a newsy letter from Paducah, Kentucky, where she, Stewart and two children seem to be busy with baseball, basketball, dancing, cub scouts, Sunday School, church, a dog, a cat, and two turtles. Her only complaint is that they are "just too far from dear old Richmond."

Thanks to Liz Parker Cone news comes about Lottie Blanton Applewhite and husband, Warren. Liz had a Christmas letter from Lottie and brought it along to the reunion. Lottie and Warren are living on the shores of Lake Tahoe, about six miles from Squaw Valley. Beautiful weather and beautiful country. Warren is a faculty member at a new private school, Fleur du Lac. Lottie seems busy riding her 10-speed Schwinn and dispensing various forms of TLC to nearly 100 students.

Dot Frances Atkinson wrote most interestingly of her farm life on the Pamunkey River. She says, "Besides truck driver, I am also an occasional tractor driver, assistant mechanic, gardener, water boy, dietitian, cook, housekeeper and market girl." She is enjoying studying local history, family history, and the history of their 174 year old home!

Ann Clark Howe, husband, Chuck, and three children, after 8 years of living in Potsdam, New York, where Chuck was a chemistry professor at Clarkson College of Technology, have moved to Chicago. Chuck is a theological student at the Unitarian Seminary. Ann is teaching elementary science in the laboratory school of the University of Chicago. She writes glowingly of their activities and opportunities, the excitement that has come with the change of direction in their lives, and their completely different future.

Ann Twombly Leland writes that Dede did well at Sweet Briar, making freshman honors. Melissa, Jimmy and Meredith are keeping her busy with taxi service, and she and Jim had just completed their annual stint with Gilbert and Sullivan.

After sending out about 70 cards, I am happy to have replies from the following. I do hope I will hear from more of you by December 1st.

Lillian Belk Youell and family are "window shopping" for their next duty station. Mac has just been selected for Captain and his tour at the Pentagon will be completed next summer.

Connie Sutton Richards has spent the summer traveling to the river, Delaware, New York and Miami.

Betty Lawson Dillard is staying busy with family, church, civic activities and golf. She had enjoyed a visit with Jen Lea and her children since the reunion. She saw Gin Pitt Friddell at the bus terminal, while they were waiting for their respective boys to come home from Camp Virginia. Gin and Guy were in New York during our reunion, arranging for the publication of Guy's new book, "I Love You, I Hate You." It was published in September and the Friddells were at Miller and Rhoads for an autographing session.

Ellen Brooks Blackwell and Roy arrived in Hawaii in July for their new tour of duty.

Jen Lea, Yancey Scott, Eddy and I spent an evening visiting with Nancy Lazenby Stables and Linton. They were visiting Nancy's sister here in Culpeper. They are thrilled with Texas hospitality.

Carrie Trader Drinkard and Dan paid us a visit in June. Our deepest sympathy is extended to them for the loss of their son, Danny.

Ruth Latimer has had a busy summer golfing, swimming, boating and entertaining family. She has sent along slides which she took at the reunion. I am to send them along to you who were there so you will have them shortly.

Charlotte Thomas Partrick and husband, Hall, now live in Mexico City. Ted and John, their oldest two sons, were just here for a visit before entering Virginia Episcopal High in Lynchburg.

Jany Wray Bristow McDorman, George and their three children arrived for a short visit with us one Sunday afternoon in July. I was delighted to see them and meet their children.

The Yanceys (Jen Lea) and the Adairs keep busy with the normal activities of family, church and community. Our children (three for each of us) range from high school to first grade, and our recreation is golf—for which we have little time.

As usual, we are grateful to the members of our class who live in Richmond for making our reunion such a happy occasion.

According to our news Fall will begin a settling down period for many of us. An assortment of vacations, Bible Schools and trips came as usual with the summer months and perhaps now a routine is welcomed by many.

The New York World's Fair was visited by many of our families this past summer including the families of Marion Lawton Kinzey, Cornelia Reid Rowlett, Jeanne Yeamans, Frances Anne Beale Goode and the rest of you whom I did not hear about.

Marion Lawton Kinzey also enjoyed a jet plane trip to California with her husband and two sons for the purpose of a Kinzey family reunion combined with sightseeing. Disneyland was a favorite attraction of the Kinzeys.

A girl with foresight is Mary Frances Bethel Wood. Before her vacation in Quebec with husband and 12-year-old daughter she enrolled in a summer conversational French class. The class helped greatly during her visit—especially in dealing with menus.

Jeanne Yeamans enjoyed a cottage vacation at Myrtle Beach, S. C. with Barbara Ritchie Branch and her family. According to Jeanne, Barbara and David had attended and enjoyed a medical meeting held in the Bahamas this past spring. Jeanne also reported that Lucy Harvey and Virginia Gibson were going to Virginia Beach together over Labor Day weekend. Yes—our college friendships are lasting ones.

Jacqueline Hodges Walker maintained a definite routine this past summer as an instructor in a Virginia Camp for Retarded Children.

Bev Ryland who is perhaps one of the most widely traveled members of the class of '46 enjoyed a special trip this summer to a spot she had never visited in her many travels—Niagara Falls.

With school opening two of our class members are doubly affected. Not only will they be getting their own to school but Mary Lane Williams Brockenbrough will also be beginning her second year as a teacher in the kindergarten of All Saints Episcopal Church here in Richmond while Ammy Hickerson Dalton will be teaching two classes in the School of Business of our own University.

By the newspapers we know Anne Skinner Nottingham had a "sailing" summer, for her husband, Curtis, prominently helped avoid a boating mishap by responding to a help call and towing a party in Virginia waters for more than nine hours.

An acquaintance reported that Betty Bloc Gross is now living near Boston and enjoying a very academic life with her three children and husband who is both an M.D. and Ph.D. and is engaged in research. Please let us have your new address, Betty.

This same acquaintance also told me Dorothy Ann Fishberg Feinberg has an 18-year-old daughter entering Brandias University and that Dotty is still painting.

1947 Secretary

MRS. JOHN C. HORIZAN (Mildred Daffron)
4636 Stuart Ave.
Richmond, Va. 23226

Susie Guard Woody spent a good part of the summer with her leg in a cast. She cracked an ankle bone stepping in a depression in her yard while hanging up clothes—something we all do nearly everyday. She had the cast removed in July and was planning to recuperate in the sun at Virginia Beach.

Martha Edwards Allen really lives a busy life. Her Robert is a boy scout and Patricia had made the school basketball team and the "All-State Chorus" for the 1964-1965 school year. The little girls are "precious" and spend most of their time in the sandbox or swimming pool. The whole family are great camping enthusiasts.

Verda Stetten Hobbs was home on a visit this past summer. While she was in Richmond Betty Tinsley Andrews had a luncheon for her in her home and about 10 of the girls who live in Richmond were here. Ann Wiley Kelley came from Yorktown to be with us. Most of the talk was of past reunions and the next which will be our "20th." Verda has three daughters, one six and four-year-old twins. Her husband will be at the University of Illinois for one year where he will teach in the Political Science Dept. Her address is now: 603 W. Illinois St., Urbana, Illinois.

The Stirlings, Ollie and Hank, are back on the east coast. Hank had orders for Quantico, Va. for September. They dashed madly across the country to be here when school opened. I hope I'll have their address next time.

We welcome Robert Coles McClennan, who was born last February to Keeling and Bill McClennan.

The World's Fair and New York beckoned again this summer. The Andrews were planning an August visit to the Fair. Anne Higgins Borger and Dan went in June and the Derieux family, Sara Frances Young and Sam, paid a return visit during the summer. We ran into the Borgers at the Chamberlin over Labor Day. Higgie said she had seen both Martha Allen and Margaret Goode Vicars and "both have darling children and lovely homes."

Some others of us went south this vacation time. The Allins, Izzy Ammerman and Jay, piled their tribe, four children, 2 cats and a dog, into the station wagon and went to Florida. They had a reunion with Jay's sisters and brother.

Nancy Richardson Elliot was in Miami earlier in the year for the World Baptist Convention.

We took a two-week tour of Florida in August. Since it was my first trip we did most of the tourist "musts." We especially enjoyed St. Augustine and Ft. Lauderdale.

Marion Collier Miller spent the summer in the U. of R. summer school. She completed the work necessary for her Master's Degree in Education. Our congratulations!

Please drop me a line before the December deadline.

One of our number raised the question concerning our "class secretary" system. '48ers have no system! We just volunteer, usually on a yearly basis. Primarily, the girls are in Richmond, which seems preferable, because of close proximity to AA office. So send your news to me or your Richmond friends, since we give the city girls a call before we "go to press."

Ginny Smith Kynett, who lives in Pennsylvania, wrote an interesting letter, saying her family have joined the ranks of the boating enthusiasts and are proud owners of a 40' ketch. Ginny is busy learning to be a good first mate. They went sailing with Lucia MacClintock ('50) this summer. When not sailing, Ginny stays busy golfing and keeping up with her 10, 12, and 14-year-olds. Her daughter is a scout and Ginny is active in that work. We were sorry to learn of her mother's death last February, prior to which Ginny had made frequent trips to Poughkeepsie.

Doris Moore Ennis, who is a guidance counselor, wrote of her many activities and trips connected with her work. During the spring, she was busy traveling to several Virginia cities, D. C., and Pittsburgh. After 17 years in education, she says she finally is getting around.

Millicent Hutcherson Taylor, Betty Yates Dick and their families visited Doris in the spring. They had a miniature WC reunion.

We understand Doris Vickers Hall, whose husband's untimely death was reported in last letter, is staying in California, and will increase, by 1, the number of teachers in our class.

Peggy Stone Cunningham heard from Sally Taylor Dubose who reported she and Betty Hardin Elmore had gotten together in Baltimore.

The beaches were well represented this summer by '48ers, among whom were Maude Giles Mann, Russell Elliott Wiley, Monty Elliott Ownby, and Betty Hickerson Butterworth. The World's Fair also had its share of WC visitors, including Betty Butterworth (they really got around), Lois McClanahan Garrett and Sara Brenner Rubin. Lois said she, Jack, and their 3 children had a delightful trip through the Hudson Valley, while Sara's family toured Penn.

Alice Goodman, who works in heart research, went to a religious convention in Dallas and returned via New Orleans to see Elsie Keyser Robinette, her husband and 2 children.

Marie Carter Satterfield vacationed in Maine and has spent a great part of the summer learning to be a good sailor on their new sailboat.

Johnny and I had a "never a dull minute" (and fun) week, when Faye Hines Kilpatrick's 4 children stayed with us, while Faye and Bob went to Lake Placid on a business-pleasure trip. They joined us on the week-end and we went out to Peggy and Jerry Cunningham's commercial pool, where Peggy and Faye had a chance to visit and exchange news. Peggy says she spent her summer swimming and golfing. What a life—particularly when it's free!

Emily Smith Powers, Jack and their 3, who are enjoying a new "structural" addition to the house, visited with Betty and Jack Butterworth at the beach. Betty's daughter spent a week with the Powers, and the 2nd generation children had a ball.

After an extended stay abroad, while her husband taught, Vivian Borton McKenzie has returned to Atlanta. We don't have her address yet.

After reading this, you may not think we have very exciting news, so get busy and do something fabulous—then let me know. Next deadline December 15. . . .

Change of address:

Mrs. THOMAS E. CLEMENS, JR.
(Hathaway Pollard)
St. John's Church
McLean, Va.

Sorry there was no Newsletter last time but it seems that news is scarce these days. Last June Mary Ann Peddicord Williams and family stopped briefly in Philadelphia on their way home to Richmond from the World's Fair. They all looked well and had a wonderful time seeing the sights of the Fair and New York. They also stopped to see Pat Driscoll Foster in Port Royal. Pat's older son is 15 and her younger son is 13. They are all well.

Libby McNeal Claybrook writes that the main activity of those in Richmond this summer was visiting the World's Fair. The Beningshaves (Hazel Jennings), the Groves (Brooke Triplett), and the Claybrooks all took it in this summer. Libby sees Mary Burton Haskell Finlayson often as they live on the same block. Hathaway Pollard Clemens moved last spring to McLean, Va. where her husband is Curate at St. John's Church. Betty Evans Hopkins saw the Fair also while visiting friends in New Jersey. She had been to Virginia Beach earlier in the summer and saw Mag Knapp Howe there. Mag had been in the hospital earlier in the summer for minor surgery but all is well now.

Our very best wishes to Martha Kinney Christiansen who was married to William Channing Christiansen, June 16th, 1965, in St. Thomas, Virgin Islands. Last winter Bobbie Rodewald Forrest went on a cruise through the South Pacific with her mother. She flew to San Francisco, docked in Los Angeles (saw Disneyland, etc.) then took off for the high seas. She saw Bora Bora, Tahiti and the rest of the itinerary has not been forthcoming. Hope for more details in the next letter.

Jane Dens McManigal has moved into a new home (no new address yet!). Not new to her husband though, as it is the home that he grew up in. They had been looking for a larger home and never dreamed that this one would come on the market. Jane now has five bedrooms and is practically next to the Tennis Club—which is where they want to be. Speaking of Tennis, that brings us to the Ellis' most recent project. We were fortunately able to buy an extra piece of ground adjoining our and are now in the process of having a tennis court built. Could write a book on it, as what seemed to be a simple matter, has turned into a Mr. Blanding's Dream House sort of thing. It will probably not be completed until the spring. Right now it looks like a launching pad and we call it Cape Ellis. . . . We expect Gemini VI to ascend any day. Other than that our summer has been uneventful. Two of our girls were at camp, one at home, and our eldest (Marsha) went on a camping trip through the Southwest. She saw a good deal of Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, California, and Utah. And a tiny bit of Texas and Mexico. It was very exciting and we all enjoyed it vicariously.

Please Group Leaders and Classmates let me hear from all of you! Change of addresses, family additions, travels, and anything else that you can think of.

1950 Secretary

Mrs. ROY M. MARTIN
(Jean Tinsley)
1917 Sweetwater Lane
Richmond, Virginia 23229

It was a great 15th Reunion and how we missed you! It seemed all of us were talking at once and each of us was trying to listen to five conversations at one time, so for the benefit of those who attended as well as far all of you who couldn't be with us, we will review our activities during Reunion.

On Friday night, June 4th, twenty-four of us met together at Vivian Betts Lewis' lovely home for a buffet supper. How pleased we all were that none of us had aged one bit! During the evening, Doris Balderson Burbank held a business meeting to elect officers for the next five years. Audrey Lynn Moncure will serve as our President, Virginia Sims was elected Fund Raising Chairman and Elizabeth Givens Pierce and myself serve as your Class Secretaries. Our sincere appreciation goes to Doris for being our Class Secretary for such a long period and for planning our Reunion.

Saturday morning found us at Westhampton and five of us stayed for the luncheon. That night thirteen girls from our class and their husbands got together at Willow Oaks Country Club for a delicious dinner followed by dancing. Each girl at Vivian's on Friday night gave us up to date information on herself which is listed below.

Doris Balderson Burbank and David live at 910 Hampstead Avenue in Richmond. Doris teaches at St. Christopher's School.

Frances Sutton Oliver lives in Newport News with her husband, Raymond, and their three children; Ray 12, Bill 8 and Cynthia 5. Raymond is minister of First Christian Church in Hampton and Frannie is church organist. They had a busy summer for they took the children to the World's Fair and later on Frannie and Raymond went to Puerto Rico for the World Convention of Christian churches.

Ross Lou Soles Johnston has recently moved to Kilmarnock, Virginia, where her husband, Mandley, will practice as a country lawyer. They have four children; Karen 9, Joni 7, Cindy 5 and Ray 3. They too went to the World's Fair this summer.

Margaret Alexander Anderson and Sattler live at 905 Beveridge Road in Richmond. They have three boys; Stephen 8, David 4 and Chris 18 months. Sattler is a coach at John Marshall High School.

Elizabeth Givens Pierce and Bucky live at 4304 Augusta Avenue in Richmond and have three children; Walter 13, Johnny 10 and Elizabeth Ann 8. During the month of August they toured the United States and enjoyed every minute of it. When they were in California, Libby called Libby Rowse Wilson and both were thrilled to hear each other's voice.

Marjorie Parson Owen lives in Jarratt, Virginia with her husband, Ralph, and their three children. They are engaged in farming and quite busy in community activities.

Lorraine Chapman lives in an apartment in Richmond and works for the Dept. of Recreation and Parks.

Clarice Ryland Price and her husband live at 814 St. Christopher's Road in Richmond. They have three children; 12, 10 and 3.

Vivian Betts Lewis and W. P. live at 5630 Monumental Avenue with their two daughters; Susan 9 and Beverley 5. This summer they vacationed at the Hotel Chamberlin and Eastern Shore.

Barbara Lee Jones Jones and Harry live in Berryville, Virginia. They live on a 400 acre farm with their two girls; Katharine Terrell 9 and Carol 6. Both Barbara Lee and her husband are active in community affairs.

Winifred Schanen Mitchell and her husband, Bill, came from Severna Park, Maryland for the Reunion. Bill is District Sales Manager with General Electric and they have three children; Karen, 11, Paul, 8 and Laurie, 5. Win has consented to be a Group Leader for us.

Barbara White Balderson and Lester live at 6517 Patterson Avenue in Richmond with their two daughters; Lyn, 11 and Susan, 8. Barbara is teaching part-time at St. Christopher's School and is going to night school for teaching certification.

Gene Hart Joyner and Floyd live at 9525 Newhall Road in Richmond. They have two children; Debbie, 12 and Celeste, 7. Floyd is treasurer of Fidelity Bankers Life Insurance Co.

Virginia Sims lives on the Petersburg Pike with her family and teaches at Highland Springs Elementary School. She figured out she had been teaching for fourteen years.

Janice Brandenburg Halloran and Charlie live at 8236 Barningham Road in Richmond. They have three children; Stuart, 12, Susie, 6 and Amy, 1 1/2. Janice is the "keeper" of our Scrapbook so please send her any interesting clippings on you and your family.

Louise Covington Randall came from Appomattox for the Reunion. Her husband, Harry, is in Viet Nam and she is spending the year with her mother. Her children are Jane, 8 1/2, Jennifer, 7 and Jon, 4.

Maud Tyler lives at 710 W. 25th Street with her mother and keeps busy with a class of piano pupils.

Maryanne Bugg Lambert and Pete live in Chester, Virginia with their three children; Susan, 12, Catherine, 10 and Mary Wilson, 7. Maryanne plans to do some substitute teaching this year.

Audrey Lynn Moncure and Richard live at 1402 Giltspur Road in Richmond with their children: Lynn, 13, Harriet, 11 and Richie, 4. Audrey is our new president so send her any suggestions you may have on our next get-together.

Marianne Beck Duty and Les have recently moved into their new home at 3005 Douglasdale Road with their daughter, Mary Leslie, 4. Marianne is working toward her doctorate degree and is still teaching at Westhampton College. Barbara Covington O'Flaherty and Bill live at 3607 Noble Avenue with their two children; Jeff, 13 and Deedi, 11. Bea is quite busy in community activities.

Joyce Betts Pierce and Jack live at 3434 Hanover Avenue with Linn, 12, Stan, 11, and Warren, 7. Camping is their favorite recreation.

Betty Scott Colbert lives at 1911 Duquesne Avenue. The Colberts have two daughters; Jackie, 13 and Claire, 10.

Yours truly completed the group at Vivian's house on Friday night. Roy and I have four children; Roy, Jr., 10, Cathy, 7, Suzanne, 3 and Rusty born on April 21st. It seems I stay busy running a taxicab service for my children! For Saturday's activities we had five other members of our class to join us. They were Dot Warner Gardner, Martha Spencer Fidler, Tucky Bellows Morrisett, Joanne Waring Karppi and Doris Lee Reeves Childress.

Several members of the class sent letters to Reunion to be read and I'm sure the letter from Dr. Joanna Maiden in Nigeria came from the most distant point. It was so good to hear from her and learn of her worthwhile work.

Ludie Hickerson Wiley and Doug took their two girls (age 11 and 9) to Arizona and the West this summer. The grandparents kept the two boys (age 5 and 2½) while they were gone. This school year finds each one of her children in a different school—Jr. High, Elementary, Kindergarten and Nursery School. This fall, Ludie is teaching a four year old class in Kindergartens.

Marty Lowry Greene reports that she and her family moved in January from Washington to Burlington, New Jersey where her husband, Jack, is rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

A newsy letter arrived from Josephine Martens. She had recently heard from Nancy Adams Shields. Her husband, Bruce, has been promoted to manager of Metallurgy for Heavy Products (U.S. Steel Corp.) and they have moved back to Pittsburgh. Part of his duties involve metallurgical consulting in International Operations and he had to spend four months in Spain. Nancy and their two boys joined him for the summer.

From Josephine, we found out she had been working for the General Aniline and Film Corporation for fifteen years and was honored by her company with a lovely charm bracelet with the "GAF" emblem on it. Jo and her mother do a great deal of volunteer work for the blind ladies who come to the Diamond Spring Lodge in the summertime. The Lodge is about five miles from her home. Jo has taken a great deal of interest in these ladies and has a birthday card list on them as well as greeting cards which she sends them throughout the year. For Easter she sent out 102 cards! Besides all that, she is learning Braille on her own.

Martinsville welcomes back Pat Kelly Jordan and Alex. Alex will manage a mortgage loan department for First National Bank of Martinsville.

Leslie Whitman Johansen visited her mother in Winchester this summer with her five children—fourteen years old to eighteen months. They still live in Natick, Massachusetts.

Louise Cheatham Chandler and Bruce have moved to Bristol, Virginia where Bruce is Director of Instruction for the Bristol School System. Nancy Harrison Davis and her husband also were on the move this summer when they were transferred with the C&O to Huntington, West Virginia.

Pris Enslin Marsh reports that they moved into their new home this spring which her husband, Jim, designed and built. In April, they adopted a little girl, Jodi Ann.

Alice Clarke Lynch and family took a six week vacation to California. In Richmond, Alice is executive secretary of the Third District of the Republican Committee.

We have one birth announcement to report in this letter. Stella Dalton Wallner and Jon are the proud parents of Jon Thomas born on May 26.

The letter in the Bulletin each time is made possible by your news. If you have lost contact with your group leader, drop me a line and I will see that you are put back on a list. Then too, send me any news on any member of our class and I will put it in the next Bulletin. See you again in December!

MRS. CHANNING F. BASKERVILLE, JR.
(Elizabeth Eanes)
McKenney, Virginia

There might be a strange sound to this news item as I am not sure that I am capable of writing with such quiet around the house. After 12 years, I have all three children in school. My baby, Edward, is in the first grade and seems to love his new life. Field, who is 12, is in the seventh grade and Jean, 10, is in the fifth.

Belated congratulations to Frances Allen Schools and William on the arrival of their first child, David Allen, born December 11, 1964. This summer the Schools boated on the Chesapeake Bay and spent a week at the New York World's Fair.

Doris Goodwyn Bridgforth and her family have moved to Kenbridge, Virginia from Farmville, North Carolina.

Jane Ellis Babb and her family added 6,000 more miles to their travel record with a combined business and pleasure trip to Yellowstone, Colorado Springs, Mesa Verde and all the cliff dwellings in New Mexico. Jane and the children also spent a month with her family in Waverly.

Ann Jones Moffatt and George live in Norfolk with their children Georgianna, 9, and Alex Paul, 7. George is in the U.S. Navy and is an instructor in survival techniques. Ann stays busy with P.T.A. work and is also a group leader in her Sunday School. This summer the Moffatts went to Chicago.

Paula Abernathy Keeton writes "After John and I left camp we went to New York and took the children. Our trip was totally unplanned and unexpected but my folks left New York on August 27 for an around-the-world cruise (Daddy retired in July) and we just decided to go up and see them off. We spent one day at the Fair and a couple of days in the city. I called Piret Koljo Cruger and had a nice chat with her. She said she would try to do her best to get to the reunion. On our way home we stopped in Washington and spent the night with Betty Munsey Spatz and Bob and their three adorable children. They have a lovely and spacious home in Annandale. We got home last Sunday and started school Monday morning—Routine once more!"

Natalie McKessick Hussar and her family had a cottage right on the beach in Sandbridge, Virginia. Her daughters went to camp in Virginia and when they came to pick them up they took a family vacation on the coast. They went to Nags Head, Manteo, back to Richmond and spent four days in Washington.

Bobbie Brown Yagel and Myron were in Newport, Rhode Island while Myron did his Navy stint. From all reports Newport was fabulous and the Navy Base was nice. While there the Yagels did quite a bit of sailing and passed their sailing test.

Joan Dalve Heizer and her family enjoyed a visit with her parents in Albany, New York. They also spent time at their cottage at Nags Head. Channing and I enjoyed the fourth of July holiday with them at the beach.

Betty Tredway Blake and her family have enjoyed their cottage at Gaston Lake. Her daughters Belle and Bette were in a wedding in September.

I do hope to hear from all of you before the December issue.

1952 Secretary

MRS. S. SCOTT HERBERT
(Bettie Snead)
Box 38
Boydton, Va. 23917

I am so glad to have your news of vacations, etc. for this issue. Our big news is the birth of our daughter, Ellis Snead on August 21st. Earlier in August Jane Ozlin Given and her two boys visited me. Jane, Fred, their two girls and Dr. and Mrs. Ozlin went to New York and the Fair this summer. Scott and I attended a Drug Show in Lynchburg and saw Ray and Nina Landolina Byrd and Lou Glading Shelton. Also saw Janie Tune Sease and her four children while she was visiting her mother in Halifax. Janie was ill with hepatitis last spring but you'd never know it now. Earle and Betty Crews Watkins visited us after we came home from the hospital. They spent their vacation at Va. Beach.

On July 3rd Kathy Cole Lee was married to James V. Doss, Jr. at St. Giles Presbyterian Church. Her address will be 108 Rebel Ridge Drive, Lexington, Va.

Betty Hurt Beasley and Bob have moved to Harrisonburg where he will do oral surgery. Their address is 299 Franklin St. We welcome them back to Va.

Jeanne Hootman Hopkins writes that they spent their vacation in Wrightsville Beach, N. C. They also went to Bel Air, Md. while Peter attended a NSF Summer Institute in Chemistry at Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. They attended the summer productions of the Harford Music Theater where Peter's brother is assistant manager-director. Jeanne is teaching 1st grade at Gretna this year.

Mary Ann Coates Edell writes that they spent 2 months of their vacation in Virginia where they worked in trips to Richmond (Westhampton-where they saw Miss Stewart), Charlottesville, Fredericksburg, Waynesboro, Va. Beach, Williamsburg, and Washington. While at the Beach they saw Carl and Nancy Ayers McClees. Nancy was rehearsing for a part in "Anything Goes" in Theater-Go-Round. They have joined the rest of the country as "boat-enthusiasts."

Morris and Georgie McTeer Cooke had just purchased a 42 ft. cruiser. Mary Ann and family then went to the World's Fair. While there they had lunch at the Spanish Pavilion with Wilton and Lelia Adams Anderson. Will is Guest Relations Manager again this year at the Johnson Wax Pavilion and they took them on a fabulous tour of "the best of the Fair." The Andersons have enjoyed their past two summers living on Long Island and are not looking forward to the cold winter ahead in Racine after the Fair closes. Mary Ann's parents are restoring an old home near Fredericksburg and hope to be in by Oct. as Mary Ann and family plan to return to spend Christmas with them. All three of Mary Ann's children will be in school this year and Mary Ann is Room Mother.

Sue Easley Candler writes that in early August she and her three children joined husband Ralph in Florida while he works for several months on an engineering project there. They located a furnished house to serve as their temporary quarters in Lakeland, 30 miles east of Tampa, and Sue says they have "fallen in love with Florida." They expect to return to Va. by the end of the year. Current address: 928 Lake Hollingsworth Dr., Lakeland, Fla.

Barbara Cawthorne Clarke writes that back in July she received a phone call from Harriet Willingham Johnson as she and her family had stopped briefly along the Pennsylvania Turnpike on their way back to Minnesota from a 2-week visit to Harriet's family and friends in New York. "Willy" also flew to San Francisco in May to attend a dinner meeting honoring her father given by the American Baptist Convention.

Anne Gibson Hutchison spent their vacation in Pawley's Island, S. C. and went to see friends in Johnson City, Tenn.

Eleanor Bradford Tunell writes of their busy summer getting settled and says they now feel quite at home in Charlotte, N. C. They too made a trip northward to New Jersey and New York to visit family and friends and to spend a day at the Fair.

Lucie Dearing Hunt and Jack are the proud parents of a daughter, Heather Lucette, who was born on August 8th. Lucie says it is "not at all difficult to see all my friends march off for the first term's teaching assignments while I sit home." Lucie has a new address: 10264 Yellowstone, El Paso, Texas 79924. It is their desert dream house and faces mountain ranges in two directions and their "cactus garden ideas adorn both front and back."

Nola Texley Breckenridge has a new address: 2019-D-Miami, Leavenworth, Kansas. However, it is temporary as they leave for London in December. Bob has been selected to attend the British Staff College in Camberly, England. This is a one-year course so he will finish in December of '66. They had a nice trip this summer going from Ft. Bragg to Kansas via New Orleans, Memphis, St. Louis, Omaha, Rapid City and through the Badlands. They went to Yellowstone Park and spent 2 weeks in California with Nola's parents. Nola says the vacation was nice "after the experience of last spring. Bob was in the Battalion that landed first in the Dominican Republic when U. S. forces were committed on April 29th. He was in the thick of the first days of the struggle. Living on C rations he lost 12 pounds when he was down there, so I was mighty glad to get him home so I could start fattening him up again."

Bev Gilbert Lovell has also moved. Bud has been transferred to White Plains and now works in Planning and Procedure for IBM. The Lovells have bought a "lovely 8 room Colonial split in Wilton, Conn. with 2 acres of land—mostly trees." Bev says "I was going to be president of PTA so really didn't mind our having to move!" New address: Tanner's Drive, Wilton, Conn.

Claire Carlton visited Joyce Bell Cody in July and they had a wonderful "talkathon." Claire also went to Va. Beach on her vacation.

Bill and Joyce Bell Cody are so pleased to announce that they have a daughter, Susan Elizabeth, born August 27th. Their 3 boys are delighted with her and quite impressed by her tiny fingers and toes. Stephen is 7 and in 2nd grade. Doug and Dave are 5 and in kindergarten this year.

Marilyn McMurray Rishell writes that her husband has been promoted. He is a Lt. Colonel now and there was a party to celebrate at Walter Reed. They vacationed at Rehoboth Beach, Del. and spent the summer swimming. Murf has all 4 children in school this year—5th, 3rd, 1st grades and kindergarten but since they all come home for lunch she "can't go wild with freedom yet."

Joy Selby Scallon has a new address: Care of Asia Foundation, Room 408, Wing on Life Insurance Bld., Jesselton, Sabau, Malaysia. Cal is the representative at Jesselton in charge of the programs for the Barneo states of Sarawak, Brunei, Sabah. They will be there until 1967. Cal was in Jesselton last year and says the town looks like the windward side of Hawaii. "The Foundation house is new and modern and even the tap water is safe."

Dizzy is back in California. She wrote about the red tape involved in getting out of Ethiopia. "You have to get an export license to ship out your own personal possessions that you originally brought in with you"—as an example of the red tape. Diz had quite a trip back, including Bombay—the prelude to a 4-week train, plane and bus tour of part of India, and Kashmir. From there to Rangoon, Bangkok, Singapore, Manila, Hong Kong and Toyko. Toyko will be the jumping off point for a 10-12 day train tour of Japan. And then home via a swim in Honolulu. She will spend a week in Seattle visiting friends before settling back down to work at Stanford for 2-3 months. Her address: 538 Alvarado Row, Palo Alto, California.

Addie Eicks Comegys writes that they "are the enchanted owners of 'Captain Kidd,' a year-old South American parrot who is learning to talk and sit on our shoulders."

Betty Geiman Newton writes that their new son, Bruce Hunter, was born on August 21st.

Isn't this amazing—five new babies to report and all born in August! And just under the wire is Betty McLean Soukup born on August 31st to Roy and Lu Angell Soukup. They have a son, Alan in 5th grade, and a daughter, Nancy in 2nd grade. They sold their house the day before the baby arrived, and are moving into a larger house in Wilmington only a few blocks away from their present one. Lu's husband works for duPont and is also organist-choir-master for an Episcopal church.

Thanks for all the news. Hope to hear from the rest of you by the next issue!

(Gerrie Kantner)
8309 Vernelle Lane
Richmond, Virginia 23229

Some of our classmates have moved this summer, so we'll start by giving you changes of address:

Betty Andrews Rhudy—76 Reitz Parkway, Pittsford, New York

Lou George Wolfe—9917 Maplested, Richmond, Va.

Janet Johnston Parsons—Rt. 2, Warrenton, Missouri

Betty Lear Miller—102 Cumberland Ave., Hampton, Va.

Betty O'Bannon Culp—348 Crestmont, El Paso, Texas 79912

Alice Jane O'Brien Mansueti—Box 38, Solomons, Md.

Carolyn Orange Watkins—5629 Woodgreen Rd., Va. Beach, Va.

Jeanne Plunkett Beckett—5602 Chamberlayne Ave., Richmond, Va.

Connie Shuford Ambler—2 Duke St., Asheville, N. C. 28803

Babies, too, have been taking the spotlight. Jane Wilcoxon Councill and Phil have a son, Scott, who was born January 4, 1964. Jane said she can always find something to do with a "walker" around the house.

Methyl Young Bruce and Bill have a new daughter, Mary Vivian, born April 1, 1965. Their two older girls are in the 4th and 5th grades and young Billy is almost 2 years old. When we heard from Methyl, she was anticipating a trip to New York and Atlantic City with Bill.

Jean Martin Beasley and John have a son who was born in early July and named for his papa. John is an accountant for the Virginia Vocational Rehabilitation Department. The Beasleys are neighbors of Jo Deter Sullivan in Bon Air.

Joan Perlin Ruby and Arlin's fifth child was born a week before Jean's first.

Ginny LeSuer Carter and Bill announce the arrival of Laura Ann on April 2. Laura Ann is reported to be the same doll that Jenny was at that young age.

Janet Johnston Parsons, Ron and the children have moved to Missouri. They will be located outside of St. Louis, near Ron's parents and near Betsy Williams Roberson. Janet has been a faithful group reporter and we trust you will continue to write to her at her new address.

Betty Andrews Rhudy writes that they have moved into a new house—two-story colonial with pillars and veranda. The Rhudys stay busy with Little League Ball, Brownies and Cubs, Sunday School recruitment, plus Bill's growing practice. The Rhudys visited Jackie Gustin Boeh on their way to Marion to pick up their children. From there, they went to Myrtle Beach for a week.

Jackie and Virgil are planning to build a new house this fall. Jackie's mother was ill this summer, but is improving nicely.

Betty Davis Cocke took a leave of absence from the Welfare Department this summer to be with her boys. They will both be in school this year and she wanted this time with them.

Ginny Carter visited Mary Creath Payne who will have an empty house this fall with all her children in school. Ginny also heard from Doris Johnston MacEwan when she was visiting in Virginia. You'll remember that Doris, her husband and twin daughters live in Ottawa.

Jeanne Plunkett Beckett, Charles and the babies are home from East Pakistan for a furlough. Richmond will be their headquarters and we hope to hear more of them in the next letter.

Peggy Dietrich Shackelford reports on a restful, routine summer with brief visits to relatives. She saw Carla Waal and Ruby Vaughan Carson who were visiting in town. Carla spent the summer with her mother and took trips to Wisconsin and Miami. She returns to Athens, Georgia for her second year of teaching drama and speech.

Betty Montgomery Marsh called in August while she and Cecil were in town visiting. Their church will have a daily kindergarten this year and Betty will direct it. She did some teaching last year to fill out the semester in a vacated position. The Marshes took a three-week vacation in a new station wagon with their three children. They attended the Baptist World Alliance in Miami with side trips to New Orleans, Mississippi, Georgia and Myrtle Beach.

Gayle Mephram Hensley and her family vacationed in North Carolina and Williamsburg where the children enjoyed visiting their grandparents, fishing and swimming.

Gayle has put us in touch with Alice Jane (A. J.) O'Brien Mansueti. A. J. left W. C. after our sophomore year and became a medical illustrator at Johns Hopkins in Baltimore. Now, she and her four children live in Solomons, Maryland where A. J. works as an illustrator at the Chesapeake Biology Lab. A. J. was widowed two years ago.

Connie Shuford Ambler, Chase and Scott have moved to Asheville, N. C., their growing up place. They are delighted to be back in that area.

Barbara Watkins Beale graduated in June from W. C. with a B.A. in psychology. She will be giving all her time to her home and three children this year with prospects of teaching again in the future.

Betty O'Bannon Culp, Ray and the children left New Jersey for Texas by way of Virginia. Betty spent some time in Falls Church with her family before moving to El Paso, Texas. She has been one of our most faithful reporters.

Mary Kathryn Manuel Clark and Ed spent three weeks at Gwynn's Island and said it was the closest thing to Maine they had found.

Faye Kilpatrick Gillespie and Arthur sound very busy. He is president of the Mars Hill Alumni Association, chairman of the pulpit committee for their new church and works for Research Triangle Institute. Faye directed the Bible School at Parkwood Baptist Mission and is circle chairman. Enlisting in the founding of a new church has been a rewarding and fulfilling experience for the Gillespies. A vacation at Hatteras, a sewing class and getting children out of camp and into school has completed their summer activities. Arthur III is 10 years old, Mary Ann, 7, and Becky, 2. It was her arrival that kept Faye from our reunion in '63.

June Pair Carter is teaching the 3rd grade.

She and Margaret Gooch Williams visited Barbara Warren Reardon this summer. June has two girls, Margaret has one girl and Bobbie has two girls and three boys.

Lou George Wolfe and Billy moved across the river this summer. They have three boys in school, Ben in kindergarten and Kate at home. Billy went to Houston this summer for a Kappa Sigma conclave and the Wolfes took trips to the beach for their recreation.

Nancy O'Neill Camden, Don and David, two years old, vacationed at Wrightsville Beach, North Carolina. They entertained Nancy's sister and three children on her visit to Richmond from Tennessee.

Nancy Fling Fowler's family camped near Boone, N. C. Margaret enters 1st grade and Ed is a pre-schooler.

Jo Deter Sullivan's family also camped in North Carolina at the Outer Banks and in Virginia at Buggs Island. Jo continues to teach at Gill's Country Day School where her two older girls are in the 2nd and 5th grades.

Harriet Wheat Fralin and Cotton traveled to Washington, Roanoke, Charlotte and the beach with their two boys and Beverly.

Pauline Decker Brooks, Joe and the girls spent a week at Myrtle Beach. Pauline and the girls visited her sister in Roanoke. They fished and went boating at nearby Smith Mountain Lake.

For the closing item, I have saved the details of Betty Lear's wedding. She was married to Jules Miller on Saturday, July 10th at the Hampton Baptist Church. June McClur Sasser, Deanie Dungan Mitchell and Shirley Mason represented W. C. in the wedding party. Jo Hull Mitchell served at the reception and Chester Brown (R. C. '52) performed the ceremony. It was a lovely pink and white wedding with Betty's mother looking almost as pretty as the bride. Betty has a wonderful husband and we wish them all good things.

And the same to all of you! Thanks for all the news. Our next deadline is December 1st. Drop me a card or your group leader and let us know if you have survived September, that terrible month when everything and everybody has an organizational meeting and all you want to do is get a good book, a couple of hours of quiet and a place to rest your feet.

1954 Secretary

Mrs. ROBERT J. SYNOVITZ
(Jane Lanier)
1505 Riley Road
Muncie, Indiana

Sincere best wishes to Marcella Anne Hammock and Dr. John Boyd Bullock who were married in Blackstone, Virginia, on July 10, 1965. They are now living at 103 E. Hamilton Street, Richmond, Virginia. Marcella graduated from Westhampton in 1954 and received a master's degree from Syracuse University. She has been teaching in Richmond for the past few years. Dr. Bullock is a graduate of the University of Richmond and the University of Maryland School of Medicine.

Beverly and Earl Dunklee have been thrice blessed now. The newest member of the family is Peter Burke Dunklee who was born on June 12, 1965. The other children are Edward (7), and Anne (5).

Another happy family is that of Harry and Castella (Washburn) Barnes because their second daughter, Mae Charles, was born on Mother's Day, May 9, 1965.

The Barnes (Route 4, Bassett, Virginia) also have a daughter, Anna, and a son, John. Cos occasionally gets to see Polly Newman Smith, Sue Simpson Cooper, and Linda Goodman Lewis.

Jo Sue Leonard Simpson and family (210 Ren Road, Fairfax, Virginia) enjoyed a trip to Freeport and Nassau in May. They took a six day cruise from Norfolk, and Jo Sue writes, "... managed to stay just ahead of that case of seasickness with a variety of pills. The weather was perfect and the food extremely fattening."

In addition to her regular activities, Jo Sue taught Vacation Church School during the summer. Susan is beginning school this fall.

Sue Perry Downing writes very enthusiastically about her new life in Baltimore, Maryland. Tom's new pulpit is wonderfully challenging and they love Baltimore and their new residence on a lovely, shady street. The address is: 210 Witherspoon Road, Baltimore, Maryland 21212.

Claire Millhiser Rosenbaum (Mrs. Robert S.) enjoyed being a delegate to the Virginia State Garden Club convention this year. Most of her days are filled with caring for her husband, three children, a kitten, and a turtle. Her address is: 4305 Bromley Lane, Richmond, Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Flannagan, 4403 Kingcrest Parkway, Richmond, Va., were present at a Flannagan family reunion in Norfolk during the summer. Sixty-three of Warren's family were there. Young Warren (7) attended a day camp in Chesterfield County, Virginia, for a month, and several members of the family were in Grace Baptist Church's Bible School in June. Barbara writes that her parents now live in Richmond.

Laura Mapp has been busy teaching summer school at Bridgewater College for most of the summer.

News comes from Polly Newman Smith that she and John Ron stay busy at Nolle Clinic in Charlotte where he is an internist. John Ron (5½) has been excelling in a summer swimming class; Jane (4) enjoys being with her mother; and Jim (2) "goes all day long, usually in the wrong direction."

Besides her domestic and social activities, Polly is a member of the Nature Museum Guild, Medical Auxiliary, and the First Christian Church where she teaches Sunday School and is a circle member. The Smiths live at 432 Scofield Road, Charlotte, North Carolina 28209.

It was good to hear from Garnetta Anderson Coates. She and Jim have been living in Fairport, Virginia, for three years. Jim is the pastor of the Fairport Baptist Church and Garnetta is a busy minister's wife and mother of three: Millie (9) who is an avid reader of such books as Little Women, Sherlock Holmes, and Anderson's Fairy Tales; Lynda (4), the naturalist of the family—lover of grasshoppers, turtles, baby birds, and the like; and Roderick Alan (Rod) who was born on June 23, 1964.

Garnetta makes all of the girls' clothes and has canned many shelves of jams, fruits, and vegetables this summer. She also has been teaching a class of young people, leading the ladies of the Missionary Union in the study of mission books, and working with intermediate girls in the Girls' Auxiliary.

The Coates' address is: Fairport Rural Station, Reedville, Virginia.

Felice Abram Stern and Hank have two children. They are Jules (8½) and Alison (4½). Hank is a lawyer and Felice has gone back to school and has completed one year of work toward a master's degree. She is only taking one course at a time and feels, therefore, that she will be working on this project for about four and one-half years. Felice is Mrs. Harold M. Stern, 4008 Edinburgh Drive, Virginia Beach, Virginia.

Betty Fleet Schmutz and Roger have a son, Doug (2), born October 3, 1962, and a daughter, Anne Elizabeth, born two years later on the same date. The duties of child care keep Betty close to home most of the time, but she and Roger had a pleasant time seeing Hello Dolly and eating at a marvelous French restaurant in New York City last March. Roger is with Standard and Poor's, a financial publishing company in New York. He and Betty live at 55 St. Andrews Lane, Glen Cove, Long Island, New York.

Sara Leek was married October 10, 1964. She is now Mrs. John Bright Hill, Jr., 1663 Forty-fifth Street, N.W., Washington, D. C. Belated best wishes to both.

Mary Lou Gilbert Dorsey had a fun day at the Elizabeth Arden Salon recently. This included private exercises, steam cabinet massage, pedicure, manicure, facial, hair, etc. All of this was followed by dinner out with John and Hello Dolly, "Quite a day!" say Mary Lou.

Our family spent several days at Wisconsin Dells in June. The boys loved Fort Dells with its Indian ceremonial dances, will stage coach ride, Black Bart's holdup and then his capture, riverboat ride, and other fascinations. The old-time steamer ride, Storybook Land, the Enchanted Forest, and a sightseeing boat excursion through the Dells were much pleasure, too.

We also visited Circus World, winter home of Ringling Brothers, at Baraboo, Wisconsin, and Santa Claus Land at Dundee, Illinois. It was a dandy trip for two young boys (and parents, too).

1955 Secretary

Mrs. ZED J. WAMPLER, JR.
(Jody Weaver)
6307 Colebrook Road
Richmond, Virginia 23227

It doesn't seem possible that three years have gone by since I first started begging news from our class! I've enjoyed it thoroughly, but now it's time for some fresh talent to take over, and I'm delighted to tell you that Nancy Johnson White has graciously accepted the responsibility of keeping us all informed. I must extend my very deepest thanks to my group leaders who had the difficult job of finding the news so that I could forward it to you. Without them, there would have been no newsletter, and so my heartfelt gratitude goes to Burrell Williams Stultz, Barbara Turner Willis, Barbara Reynolds Orrell, Arnette Kizzia Neuville, Joy Winstead Propert, Margaret English Lester, Myra Embrey Wormald, Ann King Cloyd, Polly Bundick Dize, and Pat Minor Aldhizer.

Last June was a time that many of us won't forget for a long, long time. Our ten-year reunion was a resounding success, and everyone who came had a wonderful time. We were only sorry everyone couldn't have been here. On Friday night we had a delicious dinner at the Dobbs House with Dr. Matilda Chalkley and Miss Martha Stewart as our guests. Our class sponsor Miss Jean Wright was attending another class reunion and so could not be with us, but she and Miss Stewart did join us at Marty Glenn Tinsley's on Saturday night for a delicious outdoor supper to which the husbands were also invited. As if we didn't eat enough then, Burrell Williams Stultz had us for coffee on Sunday morning after which everyone reluctantly said good-bye and headed home. Those who were here for the festivities were Barbara Turner Willis, Margaret English Lester, Ginny Swain Saunders, Dottie Smoker Nielson, Bobbie Reynolds Orrell, Polly Bundick Dize, Shirley Garrett Maxson, Virginia Murden, Alice McCarty, Betty Jean Parrish Knott, Betty Leigh Stemberge Leggett, Mariah Chisholm Hasker, Sue Smith Van Wickler, Jean Ruddle Migneault Grace Phillips Wright, Burrell Williams Stultz, Marty Glenn Tinsley, Peggy Armstrong Clark, Nancy Johnson White, Myra Embrey Wormald, Jane Soyars Glover, Carole Straus Morrison, Renee Gartner Diamonstein, Ginny Thomas Phillips, Mary Ida Nelson Bolton, Jackie Kilby Brooks, Pat Minor Aldhizer, Mary Ann Logan Mongan, Jean Crittenden Kaufmann, Joy Winstead Propert, Carlene Shuler Saxton, Pat Kantner Knick, Ann Cohen Schiff, Emily Menefee Johnston, and yours truly. Sue Van Wickler took the prize for coming the greatest distance (Michigan) but Ginny Saunders and Dottie Neilsen came a long way, too, (Pa.). We were all surprised when, at the luncheon at Westhampton on Saturday, they announced that the Class of '55 had the largest percentage present of any of the reunion classes and they presented us with a huge box of candy for our efforts. My deepest thanks to all those Richmond girls who worked so hard to make the weekend the huge success it was!

Angela Groth Guenther was here in Richmond for a visit last Spring with her three children, Craig, Bret and Linda, and we had a nice chat about dentists here and in California where the Guenthers live.

Our congratulations to Betty Molster who is president of the Junior League here in Richmond.

The following are new addresses:

Betty Jean Parrish (Mrs. Charles Knott)
7525 Donder Rd.—Richmond
Peggy Armstrong (Mrs. James Clark)
4727 Village Dr.—Fairfax, Va.
Mary Ann Logan (Mrs. Benton Mongan)

Norma Howard (Mrs. Brock Matthews)
2704 Cabernet Way—Rancho Cordova, Calif.
95670
Peggy Hall (Mrs. Ed Flippen)
76 Maas Dr.—Fort Bragg, N. C.
Maritza Garrido (Mrs. Basil McManus)
25021 Jim Bridger Rd.—Hidden Hills, Calif.
91302
Ann Pettit (Mrs. Harland Getts)
81st Tac. Ftr. Wg.—New York, N. Y. 09405
Jean Ruddle (Mrs. Earl Migneault)
37 Westbrook Dr.—Hampton, Va. 23366
Miriam Thurston (Mrs. James H. Butt, II)
567 Lewis Dr.—Fairborn, Ohio 45324
Ruth Owen (Mrs. Karl Batt)
37 Buchanan Dr.—MCAS, Cherry Point, N. C.
Arnette Kizzia (Mrs. Robert Neuville)
4726 Glenbrook Dr.—Roanoke, Va.

Let me say again how much I've enjoyed being class secretary. Don't forget to send all your news to Nancy from now on. Thanks again for everything!

P. S. Nancy is Mrs. Clifford White, 6413 S. Mayfield Lane, Mechanicsville, Va.

1956 Secretary

Mrs. PHILIP FREDERICK, JR.
(Ann Peery)
4106 Kensington Ave.
Richmond, Va.

With several more information blanks and letters coming in, the class of '56 is making a presentable showing on the news front this time. However, if your name has not appeared this year, send in your letter this week so it can.

Lillian Stephenson Stroud (Mrs. G. H., Jr.), 1302 Wilroy Rd., Suffolk, Va., announces the arrival of George Walter (Walt) Stroud on July 10, 1965. Jack, Lillian, and the two girls were "quite surprised and thrilled" with their first boy.

Alice Holladay was married in January, 1965 to O. Stanley Combs, an attorney in Louisville. Their new address is 4019 Hillbrook Drive, Louisville, Kentucky, 40220. She wrote that he was a widower with a twelve-year-old son, so she "became a mother right away." While at the Kent School of Social Work, Alice was chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Ellice Simmons Wells (Mrs. Charles), 1856 Capri Drive, Charleston, S. C., has her second daughter, Ann Hilary Wells, born on June 23, 1965. Lisa sent Jeanie Branin's address: 8811 Elmhurst Ave., Elmhurst, N. Y. She wrote that Jeanie worked at the World's Fair, singing in a chorus.

Joyce Still Gibson (Mrs. Harold), 8508 Holly Hill Rd., Richmond, Va., has another boy, James Newton Gibson, born on March 4, 1965. Harold finished his Masters this summer, and Joyce continues to teach one night a week at R.P.I.

Anne Jennings Vaughan (Mrs. Judson, Jr.), 3925 Stratford Rd., Richmond, Va., after two boys has her first baby girl, Melissa Perrin, born on March 10, 1965. The Vaughans vacationed at Nags Head and at the River this summer.

Nancy Saunders Johnson (Mrs. Charles H., III), 1903 Haviland Dr., Richmond, Va., just made the deadline. The Johnson's third boy was born on September 2, 1965, Kirk Martin Johnson.

Rose Dranchak Martin (Mrs. Charles), 4907 Edgfield Circle, Richmond, Va., spent a vacation at Nags Head this summer. Rose and Charles bought a new boat this year for water-skiing and fishing which they enjoy. Rose saw Angela Groth Guenther last February when she was in Richmond on a visit. Angela's address is Mrs. R. H. Guenther, 5086 Tiberan Way, San Jose, California, 95130.

Diane Brown Higgins (Mrs. Charles) has moved to 209 Park Ave., Culpeper, Va. Edna Wagstaff Warncke visited the Higgins in their "great big house" in Culpeper and says they like it very much. Edna's new address is 3109 Parham Road, Richmond, Va. She received her Master's degree in Education from U. of R. in August, and is the assistant principal at Crestview Elementary School.

Helen Melton Lukhard (Mrs. Rawley) made her second trip to the World's Fair in August with her mother and two oldest girls, Lindsay and Martha Ellen. She and "Dee" plan a trip to Virginia Beach for a convention in October. Helen and Pat Eanes Jackson are co-chairmen of the Alumnae Children's Christmas Party, which our class sponsors this year.

Helen Crittenden Culbertson (Mrs. Wayne), Dalgren, Va. sent a long, newsy letter telling about her twin girls, Jennifer and Jeannine, whose birth (on May 14, 1965), but not the names, made the last issue.

Pat McElroy Smith (Mrs. Steve), Dahlgren, Va., went to Betty Brinkley's wedding in Suffolk on May 22, and also visited Barbara Ann Whaley in Portsmouth and Virginia Jones that same weekend. Virginia Jones was married this summer to Robert Miller, and her address is James River Country Club, Newport News, Virginia.

Barbara Pratt Willis (Mrs. J. M. H., Jr.), 1111 Colony Road, Fredericksburg, Va., had her fourth son last spring. Barbara and her two sisters had their baby boys all baptized at the same service in St. George's Episcopal Church; this event was pictured in the Fredericksburg paper.

Lois Reamy is a free-lance writer, traveling abroad for the past two years in Israel, Italy, Greece and France. At present she is living in Paris where she took a course in a French cooking school. This led to a series of entertaining articles published in the Richmond Times-Dispatch which she wrote on French gourmet cooking, complete with recipes.

Ann App usually returns from her European teaching each summer for a visit. This year in June Margie Kantner Snader (Mrs. George), met her in New York while George baby-sat. Margie lives in Collegeville, Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia, where she is a part-time secretary for their minister, a Sunday School teacher, and telephone answering service for the fire department.

Brigitte Zickmantel is Mrs. Howard Reimer, 376 Guildford Street, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada. Her husband is a teacher and they have two children.

The above information is credited to Helen Culbertson, and much appreciated.

Carolyn Baker's family has moved to a new home in Chamberlayne Hills, 8219 Tyndale Road, Richmond, Va.

Pat Ballard Larus (Mrs. Charles, IV), 6505 Wessex Lane, Richmond, Va. has one daughter, Elizabeth Dunning (Betsy) born on Sept. 6, 1961. Her husband has a new job in the production department of WRVA-TV. They are members of St. Stephen's Church, and Pat's hobbies are sewing, reading, and refinishing furniture. They enjoy their boat at Urbanna, and vacationed at Virginia Beach and in Charleston, S. C. during Garden Week.

Shirley Evans Hart (Mrs. Douglas) lives at 5423 Sanger Drive, Apt. 111, Alexandria, Va. Shirley is a teacher, and her husband works for the Patent Office. Charlotte Hart saw the Douglas Harts on a skiing weekend last winter. Shirley toured Europe before her marriage.

Charlotte Hart has moved to 3515 B Hanover Ave., Richmond, Va. She is a research technician at M.C.V. Charlotte is a member of First Baptist Church where she is active in the choir and the bowling league. In fact, she bowled the highest woman's game this summer. She also enjoys trips with the Richmond Ski Club, and took a week's vacation in Miami this summer.

Anne Stuart Hartz Hill lives at 4508 Brook Road, Richmond, Va. Her children are Anne Welford (April 16, 1960) and Stuart (April 6, 1962). She teaches fifth grade at Lakeside Elementary. This summer she taught handcrafts at a playground for the Henrico Recreation Association, and took her children along every day—"a very enjoyable summer job." She also sang for a friend's wedding in Blackstone recently.

Barbara Glantz, 312 E. Acacia Road, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, is an interior designer who decorates offices as well as homes. She has had several trips to St. Thomas, V.I. with her family. Last year she took a trip to Europe, spending three weeks in the Scandinavian countries and one week in England and Scotland. "Am now thoroughly fascinated with the fjords of Norway, the fields of Denmark and Sweden, and the people of all," she writes.

Helen Siner Wood (Mrs. R. M.) has arrived with her family as a Baptist missionary in Luxembourg. Their new address is Rte. de Bourglinster, 66; Gonderange, Luxembourg. The Woods plan to be there four more years, and are studying French, the official language of the country. Helen writes that "touring Europe and living in Europe are two vastly different things. We found we were greatly spoiled to the many everyday conveniences of America not so commonplace here. My husband pastors an English-language church attended by many nationalities, but chiefly by Americans who are in this tiny country with various industries. We have persons of many religious backgrounds attending, making it a rather unusual situation, but a very fine fellowship."

Pat Eanes Jackson (Mrs. Royce, Jr.), 8714 Wyteland Rd., Richmond, Va., has two sons: Stephen Royce (Jan. 14, 1962) and David Cabell (Aug. 6, 1964). Her husband is Controller for the United Givers Fund. They are members of the Reville Methodist Church where Pat is active in the circle and the crêche. Her hobbies are gardening and "a prospective interest," golf. She has collected some hours in night school toward a Librarian's Certificate. The Jacksons vacationed at Buckroe Beach this summer.

Phyllis Gee Wacker (Mrs. Louis A., Jr.), lives at Hampden Sydney, Va. where her husband is a coach at the college. This September she became a member of the Longwood College faculty, Psychology department. She received her Masters in Psychology from U. of R. this summer. The Wackers have three children: Bruce Elizabeth (Mar. 30, 1957), our "silver cup baby," Kristen Laura, "Kris" (Feb. 7, 1960), and Louis Alexander, III, "Alex" (Sept. 21, 1962). They are members of College Presbyterian Church where Phyllis is a member of the Women of the Church and the Circle. She is also active in the Garden, Club, Junior Woman's Club, and the College Hill Club. Her hobbies are sewing, gardening, and raising three ponies—"all brood mares, so we are expanding."

Winkey Gray Stettinius (Mrs. Wallace), 8902 Alendale Road, Richmond, Va. has two children: Elizabeth Gordon, "Beth" (Mar. 13, 1959) and Wallace Gray (Sept. 26, 1960). Wally is vice-president of Virginia Capital Corporation, and they are members of St. Stephen's Church. Winkey is active in the Junior League and the Crippled Children's Hospital Junior Board. The Stettinuses are just starting to build a new home in the same area of Richmond, so Winkey has a busy year ahead.

Doris Huffman Moore (Mrs. William), 1309 Forrest Ave., Richmond, Va., has two children: Laura (Jan. 26, 1960) and Hudson (July 2, 1963). Bill is an adult instructor in Distributive Education for the Richmond Public Schools. They are members of River Road Baptist Church and Doris belongs to the Thomas Jefferson Jr. Woman's Club. The Moores vacationed at Myrtle Beach this summer.

Sara Thompson Flinn (Mrs. Stanley, Jr.), 3025 Cottingham Road, Richmond, Va., has one son, Claiborne Reid (Feb. 3, 1962). Stan works in Sales for the Albermarle Paper Manufacturing Co. They are members of Stratford Hills Methodist Church, where Sara is a Sunday school teacher. Sara has attended night school at R.P.I., and does private tutoring in Junior High English and History. The Flinns spent a week on the Rappahannock River this summer and bridge is their "avocation," since they are members of five bridge clubs.

Mark your calendar now for the first weekend in June; we want a big crowd for our tenth reunion. We will have a meeting of the Richmond group in January to make our plans for the reunion, so if you all have any ideas or suggestions, write to me before then.

MRS. JAMES WALKER ROBERTSON
(Carolyn Naumann)
7741 Randy Drive
Garden City, Michigan 48135

September, 1965. Remember the beautiful fall colors on the Westhampton campus, and the crisp air as you walked to classes? Can it be possible that our first year there was twelve years ago?

A very nice, long letter from Faye Jones Townsend arrived this summer. She and Bob are living at R.R. #1, Manhattan, Kansas. Bob is Science Librarian and head of the Reference Department at Kansas State University. Faye has been active in the League of Women Voters, a faculty wives group, P.T.A., room mother for kindergarten, and a reading club. This fall she is taking some zoology courses to apply toward her M.S. Faye and Bob have three sons, Jimmy, 6, John, 4, and Tommy, 2.

Margaret Foster is now in Geneva, Switzerland working for CERN—the European Center for research in high energy physics.

Sallie Trice Greene and Jimmy attended the Baptist World Alliance Congress at Miami Beach, Florida the last week of June. They found it a thrilling experience to worship together with people from all over the world.

Carol Dickerson Kauffmann has a new address: 1371 Washington St., Indiana, Pennsylvania.

We are very happy to announce the birth of our third child, a baby girl born June 5, 1965. Carol Elizabeth has already brought us much joy with her sunny smiles and happy disposition! She has completely captivated her brothers, Craig, 6½, and Scott, 4.

Always glad to hear from each of you! Why not take pen in hand today—even a postcard will hold lots of news that's interesting to your classmates.

1958 Secretary

MRS. GENE L. HOLDER (Sarah Ashburn)
45 Holiday Hill
Endicott, New York

Many from our class had the opportunity to spend time in Europe this summer. Suzanne Kidd was back for the third or fourth time. This trip she was in Iceland, Copenhagen, and then went to Aarhus, Denmark, where she stayed with friends. From there she went to Oslo, before Stuttgart, where she picked up her new Volkswagen. She spent July studying organ in Haarlem, Holland and most of August visiting in Switzerland, where she did some rather vigorous hiking. On her way home she stopped in England and Ireland. Suzanne is now choir director and organist for Ginter Park Presbyterian Church in Richmond.

Suzie Prillaman Wiltshire, Charlie and Beth, all went abroad where they spent most of their time in France, particularly Paris. They saw Susan Payne (1959) while they were there. Suzie wrote that Beth liked the pigeons of Trafalgar Square and the chalk pictures on the pavements and St. Paul's Cathedral (à la Mary Poppins).

"Alas, there was no bird woman at St. Paul's and we almost had tears." Suzie and family connected with Kay Ownby for the London and Paris portion of their trip. Kay was over with the Alumnae sponsored tour visiting London, Amsterdam, Madrid, Berlin, Florence, and Rome. Now the Wiltshires have bought a home at 4814 Park Avenue in Richmond, and Charlie is teaching Russian, French, government and humanities at John Marshall. Beth started kindergarten in September.

Jo Anne Garrett West's husband, William, has won a Fulbright Scholarship to study in Greece for a year. They left in August on a Greek line ship. Jo Anne will work in the library at the American University in Athens.

Anne-Martin Baker left September 24, to be a member of the International Opera Center of the Zurich Opera Company, in Zurich, Switzerland. She will be there until June, 1966, and says that this is a "sort of finishing school for aspiring opera singers where they work on repertory and all phases of operatic performances." Anne-Martin was thrilled with this opportunity to work in the field she loves best.

Anne Hite Owen Huband and Otis have been back in the states since December. They were staying in Saluda, with Mrs. Owen, while Otis concentrated on painting and woodcarving and Anne Hite on cooking and sewing. They planned to move to Houston, Texas in August. Nancy Jane Cyrus visited with Anne Hite this summer.

Mary Alice Revere Eastwood and Bernard went to Nags Head this summer. I understand that Reb Steckman visited Ann App in Europe this summer. Shirley Hill Bishop and family rented a cottage at Ocean City, Maryland, for a week. The Bishops have also been busy remodeling their basement. Billy is a first grader this year and Chris is in Nursery School. Chris and Laura Brown, daughter of Nancy Nelson Brown, are in the same room. It's a small world.

Marti Haislip Padgett and Puggy spent two weeks in Stanardsville and Alexandria, Virginia, in July visiting family and friends. Robbie started kindergarten this fall and Marti plans to keep busy with the church choir, being a circle chairman, and working with the Presbyterian Guidance Program.

Kay Crawford Trimble and family moved bag and baggage to an apartment in Arlington for the summer, while Bob was on an assignment for the government in Washington. When his operations sent him on to New York City, Kay and the boys flew to Florida and had a visit with Kay's sister. Kay visited with Bev Coker Hobbs in Alexandria, while she was up that way. Bev and Don and their children went with Bev's parents on a pleasure cruise in July. They traveled on the waterways from Washington to South Carolina.

Beth Smith Steele and Bob have bought a big roomy fifty year old house in Altavista and are excited and busy fixing it up. Mary Jean Simpson Garrett is enjoying her two boys and the golfing that she and Harry do. They vacationed with other couples from Bedford at Roaring Gap, North Carolina.

Peggy Williams Lowe and Frank, Joanne Byrd Giles and Les, Janie Davies Wheless and Don, Dottie Wiltshire Butler and Edgar, were all entertained by Violet Moore Neal and Jack at the Neals' home in August. Violet's new address is 8255 Greenock Dr., Richmond. Sam Beale Swallow is taking up horseback riding which is the only way to sight see at Guantanamo Bay. Peggy Ware and her parents are now in their new home in Chesterfield County. Peggy Williams Lowe is in Fayetteville, North Carolina, where Frank is a professor at Chowan. Annette Masters is with the Welfare Department in Winchester, Virginia. Libby Jarrett Burger's new address is 6322 Stonybrook Dr., Richmond.

Carolyn Smith Yarbrough and family made several trips to Virginia Beach this summer. They were actively involved in the wedding plans of Dabney's brother's August wedding. Bobi Wilson Crumpton and Gene were in New York City for a week in June, combining business and pleasure. They visited friends and saw several Broadway plays while there.

Eddie Knippling Lake and family returned to California in June. They camped out along the trans-Canada-highway and had a marvelous time. Eddie spent the rest of the summer getting settled and gardening at her new home. Kevin is in kindergarten this year and the second son is in a Co-Op Nursery. Eddie works there one day a week. In early September, Eddie attended a meeting of the Westhampton Alumnae group of Northern California. There were eleven members present. This is remarkable considering the distance that Westhampton is from the West Coast.

Pat Doggett Colonna and Bill are still serving as counselors for the Senior High MYF. Beth is an independent two year old now. Pat was critically ill in May and spent a quiet summer gaining back her strength. Jackie Ryerson Cockrell and family are now in Cooleemee, North Carolina, where Grafton is pastor of two Episcopal churches.

The Holders had visits from Gene's brother and family in July and later my parents came up. I spent a week at my parents' home at Virginia Beach, while Gene was away on a business trip. On our way home we stopped for a delightful visit with Cora Sue Spruill and family in Tappahannock. Their home which is located right on the Rappahannock River is beautiful. In August we spent three days at Chatham, Mass. on Cape Cod. This was a wonderful treat since Gene has been working quite hard all summer. John is now a second grader and J. D. is in Nursery School. I stay busy with my home, family, PTA, bridge, sewing and a few community interests.

The next deadline is December 10. Please drop me a line.

1959 Secretary

MRS. RALPH L. HAGA, JR.
(Carolyn Nash)
3609 Chamberlayne Ave.
Richmond, Virginia 23227

I am delighted to have as one of our new group leaders this time around Margaret Spencer Hernandez. It was only last September when I began this job and you can easily see what excellent cooperation I've had. I'm merely the co-ordinator, you know!

One of our newest arrivals is Leslie D. Campbell III, born July 3rd to Eleanor Dickson Campbell and Leslie, who are "still ecstatic." "He's the best baby we've ever had," Eleanor says. Sally is now 5, Mary Scott will be 4 on Nov. 11. Eleanor returned to her former job at MCV Sept. 2nd and will continue to work two days a week as before. Another new and interesting responsibility is hers as Ashland Junior Woman's Club president for the current year.

A long newsy letter from Eleanor Caldwell Godsey reports their daughter, Melanie Jane, born May 22. Gregory is only 16 months her senior, so it makes a busy household. Step-daughter Vicki is in 9th grade at Albemarle High and they have moved to a "little ole plantation" (my quotation)—listen to this: they have a mere 1170-acre farm which accommodates a 3-acre stocked pond, 500 beef cattle, and a 3-storey old English house! It's 15 miles from Charlottesville, the address being "Devon Hills," Earlsyville, Va. Roie is the new vice-pres. of Virginia National Bank and director of the recently opened agri-business dept.

Jackie Connell Atkinson writes that Charlie's been transferred to G.E. in Waynesboro, Va. She gripes, "We're selling (our house) on a buyer's market and will be buying on a seller's market—and I consider it very poor planning!" To add to the confusion, Missy had her tonsils out the end of August, and Mark Evan, who was 1 in August, suffered third-degree burns on the palms of both hands when he touched the inside of a hot oven door. He is wearing "boxing glove" bandages (covered with Baggies, just in case he gets any ideas about dabbling in water) and is busy compensating for the temporary loss of digital dexterity by pulling papers from the trash can with his teeth! What a life!

A long time ago Mary Lee Fountain moved into a new apartment at 519 Logan Place, Apt. 4, Newport News, Va. and began decorating it in a Spanish motif. It sounds delightful.

Ann Goodwin Meek, Bert, and daughters Shelly and Shannon are now living at 230 Saint Barnabas Street, Pensacola, Florida, where Bert is a flight instructor at the Naval Air Station. They've bought a new home and Ann is adding the final touches to her decorating scheme. She's really enjoying her introduction to landscaping, and is taking courses in sewing and cooking. She and Bert plan to get their licenses to sell real estate after taking a course this fall and will have interesting part-time jobs.

Eileen Cordle is happily settled at 237 Linden Drive, Danville, Va. in a private home. "I'm very pleased with my classes and the work done by The Chatterbox staff," and she wants all you girls in Danville to call her (SW 2-9231). She enjoyed the 10th-year reunion of her high school class this summer and had a nice long visit with Peggy Yarbrough Boulden.

LaVerne Watson Edwards and Bob are moving from Frankfurt about 40 miles to Geissen, Germany, where Bob will head a one-man legal office. Until June, when they'll be back in the U. S. her address is Judge Advocate Division, V Corps, Geissen Branch; APO New York 09169. They intend to tour Italy and Switzerland and other fascinating places before heading home.

Cynthia Patterson Douglas wrote a long, detailed letter from 4436 Knight Arnold Rd., Memphis, Tenn., where Bobby is pastor of Southland Baptist Church. The parsonage is a beautiful new 3-bedroom brick home in a subdivision which adds new houses daily, so the potential is unlimited. There are 500-plus members in their church, mostly young couples. While in Mississippi Cynthia taught school after receiving her Master's in Religious Education.

Marian Gates Breeden "finally found a house to 'accommodate' us (3 children, sailboat, and airplanes)" at 1601 Keswick Drive, Norfolk, Va. "What a mess moving!" Daughter Carlie was 3 in August, Eddie's nearly 5, and baby Lucius a third healthy specimen. It is amusing to hear Marian relate her sailing adventures: "Ed says I'm a good crew now—I think mainly because I enjoy doing it. I was doubtful at St. Mary's (Regatta) in the cold drenching rain when we pulled the boat out of the water, getting stung by jelly fish." They went to the Langley Regatta in August and to Norfolk's over Labor Day.

Sarah Coleman Marroni's husband Lou was transferred to Virginia Beach in May and promoted to Assistant District Manager for Texaco. They're now settled in at 608 Berkley Place, King's Grant, Virginia Beach, "only 6 miles from the waterfront, and we've spent considerable time there. Our guest room has been filled nearly every weekend." Michael starts kindergarten this year.

Becky Keller Ottinger and Charlie have moved to 110 Valley View Ave., Apt. 22, Leesburg, Va. where Charlie is working with a local attorney. Becky is teaching social studies at National Children's Rehabilitation Center for children who have epilepsy. Both love their work and their new home.

Sylvia Olney received her M.Ed. in the teaching of social studies from U. Va. in June, '65, taught in summer school, took in the World's Fair, and her address is now back at 504 Blount Pt. Rd., Newport News, Va.

Another of those effervescent letters from Florida gives us Peggy Dulin Crew's address: 1100 Delaney, Apt. E-22, Orlando. Merrill is pleased with his new job as Assistant Executive Director of the Florida Hospital Assn. He resolves problems at the various hospitals and does a good bit of traveling to state, district, and national meetings. Peg is on a furniture-buying spree (Early American for the living room, modern elsewhere.) She's taken the National Teachers Exam and is qualified as a Florida teacher, but will substitute this year while taking an Education course at Orlando Jr. College. She and Merrill spent 3 weeks in Culpeper this summer and managed to visit Cary Hancock Gilmer and to talk with Bev Eubank Evans.

Susan Payne went to Europe this summer on the U. of R. Alumni tour. Margaret Tabor Small had lunch with her but didn't go into detail when she wrote, and Susan was too busy to write! Margaret and her family enjoyed visiting relatives in Kentucky and Ohio during their 2-week vacation.

B. J. Stamps Rasmussen has been on the go too! She and daughter Beth flew to Lexington for a long weekend visit with Diane Paddock Smith and "took in the Kentucky Derby." In June B. J. took her Girl Scout troupe to the World's Fair, and topped off her summer in Miami, with a side trip to Nassau. B. J. is still going to school, working toward June '66 and her Master's. Beth is in kindergarten this year.

Another gadabout is Jean Martin Wyndham. When she and Herb weren't cruising up and down the river in their new 14-foot fiberglass boat (their 2 dogs pre-empting two of the boat's four seats) they managed to visit Atlanta, the Smokies, St. Augustine, Myrtle Beach, Charleston (seeing all the famous places and landmarks) and Dauphin Island in the Gulf of Mexico (out from Mobile, Ala.) where Jean's cousin is a marine biologist. They also enjoyed several trips to Williamsburg and boat trips to Yorktown. This year she's teaching in a newly-constructed addition at Maude Trevvett, and has 24 fifth graders. She loves working with children ("especially this time of year—don't ask me in June!") and is also starting work on her M.A. in Humanities at University College.

Nancy Kipps Hughey's letter reads like a brochure from the Virginia Chamber of Commerce. They did some camping at Big Meadows off the Skyline Drive and continued on to Front Royal. Later they drove to Annapolis and across the Bay Bridge, then down the Eastern Shore and across the Bay-Bridge Tunnel, enjoying Jamestown and Williamsburg on the way home. All Mike's aunts have been houseguests at one time or another lately and he adored the extra attention. He considers himself grownup now that he's 3. In June they visited Nancy Rae Taylor Baker and Bill, who is the new pastor at Shiloh Baptist Church, about 5 miles from Kippy's. Nancy Rae and Bill were rehearsing an act for a Mental Health Assn.-sponsored talent show in Bowling Green. Nancy says she's "sort of replaced Steve in the old act!" They have two cute children (girl, 4, boy, 2) and a very nice home Kippy says. Ray made several trips to San Francisco this spring to transact business at Lockheed and is very busy in his work. Kippy has assumed the duties of W.M.U. president because "no one else seems to be willing to tackle it."

Martha Jordan Chukinas is one of our Nags Head enthusiasts. They thoroughly enjoyed their vacation there. Martha stays "real busy with my part-time work for the plant—bookkeeping, etc.—and the church work, garden club, etc. Warren works hard but likes the plywood business and is happiest when he's busy." To top things off, Sarah's husband, George, is now affiliated with the plywood business too. School started atrociously early in Danville—August 25—and George is already in 2nd grade.

Julia Jett Shepherd and Company enjoyed Labor Day at Nags Head. She, Robbie, and Sharon, spent two weeks in Roanoke while Bob went to Fort Meade for a 2-week vacation.

I thought we'd like to hear from Miss Chapman so I added her to Peggy Crew's list. Had a very nice card from her. "Not much (news) as I spent a leisurely summer. Thoroughly enjoyed myself. Took a 3-week camping trip in New England, also took in the Fair, all of which was lots of fun. Have been in and out of Richmond, to the beach several times, including chaperoning the seniors of '65. Brought back memories. Wish more '59ers would come by school or come to see me."

Pat Nettles Harrington writes from Boulder, Colorado, where they're vacationing, "seeing what beautiful and different mountains these are." The children, Janey, 3, and Susan, 5 (who'll start kindergarten at St. Andrew's this year) were horseback riding and looking forward to two weeks in San Francisco, where Dick was to take a course at U. of C., and to the return trip through Yellowstone National Park. Last winter they also had a trip to California and visited Disneyland. Dick and Pat bought a boat this summer "and are having such a good time water skiing. Both children have learned to swim and Susan has received her beginner's certificate."

Barbara Dulin Polis says her summer included "an attempt at water skiing, a visit from Charlie's folks, and a one-day trip to one of the border towns of Mexico. Charlie's long hours in urology residency (2nd year) have turned Barbara into "official gardener, lawn-trimmer, and car-washer—the car looks so good now I may go into the business." Chuck will be 3 in October, "is a husky little fellow, loves the water, and enjoys all kinds of ball games!"

Bev Wine Bowers reports a busy but uneventful summer. She and Al have thoroughly enjoyed Charlotte, N. C.'s wonderful summer theater. In September Bev attended a church music school in Statesville and is directing her church's first-grade choir.

Jo Edwards Mierke visited in Aberdeen, Md., with Nancy Olliver Rogers, who was in our class for 3 years. Nancy has 3 children, Steve, 5, Glenn, 4, and Sharon, 1.

Jo Barker Campbell's newsy card reports "I've been on an 'irregular hours' project at NRL which has been a lot of night work so the spring has just slipped away without our knowing quite where. The boys are growing by leaps and bounds. Ben was 1 in June. Otho is in graduate school at American U. and working part-time for Congressman Moss of Calif. driving an elevator on the Hill. We had to trade our VW in for a micro bus when Ben was born, then drove to San Francisco to break it in. Fran Shebar went out with us and stayed a few months but is back in NYC now."

Carroll Andrews Roberson's husband, Dave, graduated at R.P.I. in June and is doing research for W. J. Barrow. They enjoyed a vacation in Gloucester, Mass., Sturbridge, Conn., Cape Cod, and dropped by the World's Fair. Their little girl, Leslie, is just starting to talk.

Gary Moore Barnes says, "Well, we Barnes have found that two children are quite a houseful at times and haven't had a real vacation lately . . . but did enjoy a week's visit to my home town, Danville, and several long weekends at the Barnes' cabin on Lake Jordan. We've gotten very enthusiastic about golf again—Bill is trying his hand in the Huntsville Country Club's Annual Invitational Tournament. I was interested to read that Dr. Lavender is joining U. of Ala. Modern Language Dept. and will be here in Huntsville at the Extension."

Margaret Spencer Hernandez has had company most of the summer. Jess' parents spent most of August with them. She and Jess got away for one weekend to go "antiquing" up in Pennsylvania.

Margarite Dorsey Fussell spent the summer getting her house painted. She continues to work for the Health Dept.

Margaret Rutherford Compton was busy "helping Delano 3 days a week, supervising and painting the inside of our house, planting flowers, taking golf lessons, and playing with my little son. Delano has been extremely busy—lumber has never sold this way before during peacetime."

Sibby Haddock Young and Paige were able to spend a few weekends of leisure at their beach cottage and look forward to more leisure time this year. Although Sibby was home every weekend this summer she spent the week itself in Charlottesville as a National Science Foundation Scholarship participant for algebra teachers, at U. Va.

Another minister's wife, Bev Brown Floyd, happily writes of their reappointment to their church in Tallahassee, for another year.

Mabel Shupe Cosby has fulfilled all requirements for her Master's except for writing her thesis, which she plans to start this fall. She and her husband did some loafing and fishing on the Outer Banks and at "their place 35 miles up the James."

Gaile Sykes this summer taught a course in remedial speech for the Dept. of Agriculture ("It's a 'college' for government employees, from illiterates to Ph.D.'s!") and did some private therapy with the deaf. This fall she'll teach "Oral Interpretation of Literature" in night school, and continue as Speech and Hearing Therapist with Montgomery County Public Schools, in addition to counseling 10 hard-of-hearing and deaf Jr. and Sr. High boys and girls. Recently a professional journal published a story about her work with two deaf teens "learning to hear on the telephone," a technique which Gaile has had a hand in perfecting. "They've learned to recognize various conversational phrases by the melody and pitch pattern. Sounds complicated, but it's like a verbal shorthand." The Bell Telephone Co. has also featured this in their trade journal, "The Transmitter." One of Gaile's deaf students graduated in June as an honor student ("I was more excited than he at graduation!") and is now at Franklin & Marshall College. Gaile is taking flying lessons at a Baltimore airport and loves flying, even was co-pilot on a trip to Ocean City, Md., Hampton, and Virginia Beach. She visited N.Y.C. later, and also had the chance to taste the "dry pack astronaut food—No thanks! I'll eat my own cooking!" She has taken graduate courses at U. of Md. and G.W.U. and has been guest soloist at the Elgin AFB Catholic Chapel.

Katherine Schools Covington says that both Carol, nearly 4, and Diane, who'll be 2 in January, are blue-eyed blondes and quite big for their ages. Her husband, Bill, is manager of the Applied Science Lab, Aerospace Division, Melpar, Inc. "This summer he took a course in advanced astrodynamics at UCLA which accelerated a full semester's work into two weeks. Needless to say, he went to classes from 8 to 5 every day. The girls and I spent the time visiting family and friends in Richmond. Now Bill is taking two night courses at G. W. Some of these could be applied toward a Ph.D. if he wished, but his main objectives are expediency, enjoyment, and as refresher courses. The engineering world changes so fast it is almost impossible to keep up." Katherine sews occasionally, reads when she can, and enjoys League of Women Voters. This summer she worked with her county group preparing a report on mental health services in Va. The family spent a week at Bill's home in N. C., went to Williamsburg, the beach, mountains, zoo, museums, etc.

A short note from Sue Riley Lambiotte praises Ruth Adkins Hill's efforts as program planner for the Peninsula Alumnae Chapter. Sue is teaching third grade this year—"so far so good."

Dottie Sparks is Director of Christian Education at Westover Hills Methodist Church. Early in July she had a group over to see her slides of Japan. Elizabeth Ramos Dunkum, Katherine S. Covington, Jean Martin Wyndham, Margarite Dorsey Fussell, Meurial Webb ('60), and Eileen Cordle "enjoyed reminiscing almost as much as we did the lovely pictures and the commentary that went along with them."

The most ambitious summer I've heard about was Nancy Phillips' 2100-mile camping trip to the midwest to visit Bill's aunt. Nancy's four children are real personality kids! Nancy's mother left on July 29 for Teheran, Iran, where she will be doing library work under Fulbright auspices.

Bonnie Lewis Haynie says she's been lucky this summer, winning a new 9' x 12' rug in a drawing, and with Jerry winning a portable TV through Allstate. She and Scott spent 2 weeks in Reedville and Scott had a big time fishing from Mr. Lewis' boat. She and Jerry were in Baltimore for the 10th year reunion of his high school class. Bonnie had a long visit with Betsy Minor Stafford at a party this summer. She and Tom are still in Florida, have four children, "and Betsy looks just exactly the same."

Bev Eubank Evans and Tom are happy to announce the arrival of a second daughter, Karen Rae, on May 30, joining Katherine, who is 3. Tom is taking a course toward his M.A., and Bev has resigned from the garden club and is now in the Westhampton Junior Woman's Club, along with Mary Trew Biblecomb Lindquist.

Mary Trew and Jerry announce that the new daughter, born on May 14, is named Carey Elizabeth. This is their second phenomenally good baby—before she was 3 months old Carey decided three meals a day were plenty, and she'd just sleep the rest of the time! The three of them drove to Mary Trew's home to spend a long 4th of July and Labor Day.

Barbara Worrell Jessup and Walt are back in Richmond at 4814 Old Brook Rd., and spent their summer getting caught up on old friends. They also took a trip to the World's Fair with Barbara's parents. Barbara is teaching sixth grade at Maude Trevvett in another of those new classrooms, with 21 children, but expects the enrollment to jump as new homes are being built in the county. Walt is taking over "Buster" Ward's job at Randolph-Macon College, and has begun directing the glee club. In the spring he will teach some music courses as well, when Buster leaves to work on his doctorate. Besides this, Walt is working on his Master's in voice at R.P.I.

Margaret Griffin Thompson writes that they are about settled in their new home at 518 Oak Lane, Jacksonville, North Carolina, 28540. Art has been assigned to the 2nd Field Artillery Group, Force Troops at Camp Lejeune. Margaret hopes he will be home oftener than when they were in Norfolk, when he was gone 18 months out of 24.

Dorothy Deering wrote that she'd spent the summer at Indiana U. working on her doctorate and taking courses in French and in the 19th Century English novel. She was delighted that her brother and his family were there too, and was able to visit them often. She's back at Carson-Newman College teaching freshman and sophomore English.

Eileen McCutcheon is raving about the fabulous vacation she had: first to Denver, Colo., spending a week with Janice Dowdy Briggs. Janice and Ed took her sightseeing to the beautiful snow-capped mountains, and fascinating, rocky countryside as well as to the Air Force Academy. Then on to Monterrey, Mexico, to visit another friend. "This was the most interesting experience of my life! We went to a bullfight, saw Flamenco dancers, listened to mariaches and ate Mexican food in the Spanish-speaking restaurants, rode a burro, and saw so many interesting things I can't begin to tell all of them."

Patsy MacDonald Allen and Dick had a wonderful vacation trip on their way to Portland mapped out by the A.A.A. They did lots of sightseeing and got up into Canada too. Dick and Pat are happily residing at 2825 North Commercial Ave., Portland, Oregon. Pat isn't working this winter and Dick is happy that he doesn't have to cook his own lunch.

Elizabeth Ramos Dunkum and Ellis are proud to announce the adoption of a son, David Burgess, on July 28. David was born March 29th, has light brown hair, blue eyes, and fair skin, and is the kind of child everybody "takes to" right away. Elizabeth still has a busy social schedule, and on Sept. 9th had the new day-students (new to W.C.) to a tea at her home. There were 75 or so girls who came. She's too busy to teach this year.

Patsy Kelly Clark and Doug spent the summer finishing off their family room and having lots of fun with Paige.

This year Laurie stays at school until 2:15 P.M. and I suddenly have "prime time" free during Jeff's noontime nap. I have notified Ralph that his gardening is to be sharply curtailed next year so I won't need to can so much. I am busy with church work too, will be a circle leader this fall, and supt. of the Junior dept. I enjoy it and it really doesn't take much effort.

I understand that within the next year ZIP codes will be compulsory for most mail and magazines. Please notify your group leader or me of your correct address and ZIP code. I will consider printing new address lists at that time. Next deadline—December 1st!

1960 Secretary

MRS. ROBERT H. LEMMON
(Linda Ann Morgan)
651 Andrews Road
Aberdeen, Maryland

It was a happy reunion of old friends that gathered together on June 4th. We wish everyone could have shared in that memorable evening!

On behalf of Clare Earl Ahlers and myself, I would like to thank the class members for entrusting to us the important job of class secretary. This office will be a joy for Clare and me provided you do your little part. Without your cooperation, there can be no column. I know you will all join me in thanking Jeanne Kosko Light for doing such a splendid job.

I am trying a new system of correspondence, which was discussed at the reunion. Before each deadline, your area secretary will get in touch with you, then relay the news to me. She may use a round robin letter, a phone call, or any method that works best. I have set up the following areas and found willing helpers to act as secretaries: New York—Ruthi Greenfield Zinn; Lynchburg-Roanoke—Anne Paige Jones Hurt; Baltimore: Peggy Gore Sykes; Portsmouth, Newport News, Norfolk—Martha Jane Pugh Woods (not definite); Richmond-Petersburg—shared by Loretta Hudgins and Jeannette McWilliams Welsh; West coast—Dodie Tyrell. The two areas without secretaries as of yet are North Carolina and Florida. Pat Hunt has volunteered to act as secretary reporting from across the seas in Europe. If your place of residence does not fall within one of these areas, then you should correspond directly with me, unless there is an area with which you would like to join. If so, just let me know. In some cases, you have been included in the area which is closest to you. Please cooperate with your area secretary and let's make this system work!

I have one wedding to report. Em St. Clair became Mrs. Wendell Wayne Key, Jr. on August 7. After a northern wedding trip, the Keys are making their home at 2210 Chalfont Drive, Richmond.

Jane Morris wrote to inform me of an address change. Kitty Whitey Fiege has moved to 312 Stevenson Lane, A-7, but continues to reside in Baltimore.

Jeanne Kosko Light and Robley had a busy summer entertaining house guests, of which there seemed to be no end! Their big new house "seems to attract visitors," but Jeanne is delighted with it all. Jeanne and Robley are planning a week-end in Sarasota, Florida and will attend several plays at the Asoto Theater there. This is a birthday treat for Jeanne. Unfortunately after their holiday, Robley must undergo surgery.

Anne Paige Jones Hurt finds her days are busy ones, thanks to her two little ones, Bennett, age four, and Anne Carson, age two. Wally is teaching chemistry and physics and working toward his master's degree which he will receive next summer.

Becky Grissom Van Ausdall and Jerry spent a delightful week-end in New York with Phyllis Jenkins Polhemus and Bob. Becky and Jerry dropped in to visit with Bob and me on their way home.

Four of our classmates planned a reunion of their own recently and met for lunch in Richmond. They were Sarah Hudgins Rice, Lynn Mapp Wiggins, Loretta Hudgins and Becky Grissom Van Ausdall.

Lynn Mapp Wiggins and Ben are residing in the new city of Chesapeake, Virginia, where Ben is practicing dentistry. Lynn will go back to being a career girl and teach history in junior high school. Lynn and Ben saw Nancy Wheeler Farthing and Bill over the fourth of July week-end. Nancy will be teaching in Roanoke. The Wiggins' home was damaged by fire during a terrible storm and a portion of the house was destroyed.

While vacationing in Rehoboth Beach, Delaware, I was pleasantly surprised to meet up with Suzanne Foster Thomas and Bill who were also enjoying the sun and surf. Bill is practicing law in Alexandria and Suzanne finds her time occupied tending little "Will."

Ruthi Greenfield Zinn and Steve were enduring the long, hot, humid New York summer as they made plans for a 10-day September holiday in Jamaica. Their European tour had to be cancelled. Ruthi and Steve, Gloria Viegner Price and George and Shirley Satterfield Flynn and Les recently enjoyed a night on the town together.

Cynthia Rabon Barry and hubby are making the most of their stay in Honolulu. They have toured Japan, Korea and Okinawa, with time out for the arrival of a daughter, Stephanie Lynn, on June 28. Congratulations are also in store for Paula Williams Davis and Joe, who are the proud parents of Leigh, born in May.

Frances Templeman Latham and husband are residing in Ft. Lewis, Washington while he is interning with the Army.

Uncle Sam has uprooted Pat Hunt Worthington and husband from their happy Florida home and we found them awaiting port call to Germany! They expected to leave by Labor Day and will stay temporarily in Heilbronn until base housing is available. The Worthingtons were taking advantage of their leave time by visiting with Pat's family in Oakton, Virginia.

Peggy Gore Sykes reports that they have "real big news" at their house. A baby girl, Suzanne, arrived on July 10, 1965 and Billy 2, is an adoring little brother.

Dodie Tyrell makes all other news seem mundane with her reports of sailing the Pacific on the yacht Salee, and trips to Mexico for the bull fights, Shelter Island in San Diego, and Lakes Arrowhead and Big Bear in the mountains. Gigi Greenfield Harris and husband were guests of honor at a Bon Voyage Dinner hosted by Dodie. The Harris' leave for France so that Jay can begin his studies at the University of Paris.

Em St. Clair Key and Jeannette McWilliams Welsh, two of our new class officers, kept each other company while their respective husbands were away working. Jack Welsh spent several weeks working at Strawberry Banks in Norfolk with the Barksdale Theater. Wayne was working nights at the hospital.

Two of our classmates have recently returned to Virginia to live. Nancy McCulloch Pickands and Jim are residing at 110 Allendale Court, Blacksburg, Virginia. Judy Cyrus Walker and Phil are happy to be back in Richmond where Phil will take up his duties as Assistant Pastor of Bethlehem Baptist Church. Phil has completed his class work for his Master's degree. If you drop in at 7108 Medford Avenue in Crestview, you will find Judy up to her neck in curtains, paint and slip covers. Chip and Brian Walker find the big yard quite a treat.

Loretta Hudgins and Sarah Hudgins Rice had a reunion with Peggy Sue Roberts Ferebee while she was home for a visit in June. Loretta reports that they had a real old-fashioned "con-fab."

Paulita Patterson, a member of our class for two years, is now Mrs. P. D. Wade and she and hubby live in Aylett, Virginia, where they've just built a new home.

Clare Earle Ahlers and David continue to reside up north in Pittsburgh while David attends the Graduate School of Industrial Administration at Carnegie Tech. He is busy preparing for qualifying exams this fall and after that's over, Clare says they'll be able to breathe easier. With David studying night and day, Clare reports that they are leading a pretty quiet life.

Bob and I spent an eventful summer. Uncle Sam planned a two-week vacation at scenic Camp A. P. Hill for Bob, so I went to Rehoboth Beach, Delaware to stay at my parents' cottage. Upon his return, Bob entered the hospital for minor surgery. After this ordeal, we packed our bags and headed for Chesapeake, Virginia to visit for a week with Bob's family. The highlight of our trip south was an evening in Richmond spent with Becky Grissom VanAusdall and Jerry attending the Redskin-Cardinal pro football game. We are looking forward to fall, as we are lucky enough to have season tickets for the Colt games. I have retired from the teaching profession and find being a full time housewife absolutely marvelous.

The next deadline is December 7, so when you hear from your area secretary, please be prompt in replying.

1961 Secretary

MRS. JERRY H. JONES
(Betty Wade Blanton)
1104 Johnson Avenue
Petersburg, Virginia

Attention '61 classmates! Put your thoughts about our June '66 reunion on paper and send them to me as quickly as possible. We will need to elect a class president, secretary, and fund raising chairman, so any suggestions you have will be appreciated.

Those of you who have not seen your news items please send them again since I finished school, moved to Petersburg, and started to summer school at William and Mary all in two weeks and I must admit a few things were lost. Sorry! News for the winter Bulletin should reach me by December 1st.

A new "doctor" has arrived at the home of Dr. and Mrs. P. James Chandler, Jr. (Louise Inman) in St. Louis, Missouri. He is Preston James Chandler, III and he arrived August 28th. Louise sends these words, "It's wonderful—this baby business!"

Lynne Stephenson Cox, Skip and Cameron spent and unexpected summer in Dallas, Texas. This is certainly a family on the go. While Skip studied in school, Lynne and Cameron toured Dallas. They are back home in Bowie, Maryland now and this fall Lynne is busy with church nursery work, art gallery tours, W.C. alumnae, A.A.U.W. and International Center entertaining. In place of a second car, Skip got Lynne a bicycle with a seat on the back for Cameron. New fad! Barbara Bertsch Cox and Bob have had a busy summer spending several weeks in Mississippi, a week in Baltimore and several weeks at the beach. Barbara and Bob are settling down once again to the Chapel Hill routine. She is again teaching in the upper elementary grade and Bob will be working on his Ph.D. in English. Anne Abbitt Kerr and Sam will be in Fort Sheridan, Illinois after he completes JAG school at the University of Virginia.

Anne Coleman Jarrell, Jim, and family have moved to Cary, North Carolina. Jim is working on his Ph.D. in biochemistry at North Carolina State. Anne is a first year librarian in the Pittsboro Elementary Library. Jay is four years old and in nursery school.

Joyce Smith Allison was in Mildred Tierney's August 14th wedding to Don Kerr. Mildred and Don are living in Newport News. Paddy Dozier Brezina and Denny also attended the wedding. Denny is now working for the Department of Commerce. Joyce and Ed moved into their first home in September and at the same time school opened again so Joyce writes that she has been very busy. The opening of school has brought Nancy Adams Booker back to 8th grade math at Chandler Junior High School. Nancy spent the summer in the summer school at William and Mary.

Evelyn Spivey Drum writes that big things have happened for husband, John. He is now a Registered Professional Engineer. She said "engineers are allowed to study five years and complete all parts of the examination, but John took and passed the whole thing in one fell swoop." Jenny Stokes Howe is busy moving to Alabama, Blackstone and Germany all at once. She and Bob feel very lucky to be sent to Germany.

Marcia Bowman Mosby and Sandy and Chris have moved to 119 Monte Vista Avenue in Charlottesville. Marcia says that their home has a large yard and the first thing that had to be done was to fence Chris in. Sandy has been very busy getting the new Leggett's store opened up. It opened the last of August.

Barbara Spiers and Lt. j. g. Robert Causey were married in Roanoke September 25th. Barbara and Bob will make their home in Virginia Beach. This summer Barbara received her M. Ed. degree from the University of Virginia and will be teaching at Virginia Beach again this fall. Barbara ran into Shirley Southworth Saunders and Bob at the University this summer. Shirley is teaching in the county while Bob is working on his Ph.D. in history.

Gloria Holland Merrifield and Don have bought an Anne Hathaway style house on Robinhood Lane in an area called (what else) Sherwood Park, near Huntsville, Alabama since their apartment was about to get too crowded. Don took Gloria with him when he flew to San Francisco for an American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics Convention. Gloria says many events were planned for the wives such as tours of the city, tours of the shops, and dinner and a fashion show in Oriental style on Nob Hill. In August they visited Don's family in Miami. Between travels and entertaining, Gloria and Don have found time to enjoy the beautiful Guntersville Lake in the TVA chain. Gloria says "it's great fun to search for a picnic spot and find your own sandy beach which also has trees for shade; and the real beauty of it all is that the scenery is natural and rather untouched by humans."

Gail Morrison Brooks and John bought a home last February and moved in on Gail's birthday. It is a tan brick split level on a very good sized lot. Gail says that with Bruce down on all fours their dog Tippy has found a grand playmate. Gail and John were in Roanoke in June and saw Peggy McVeigh Nunnally, Bob and family. Bob has been playing in some golf tournaments and Peggy has been going with him.

Adrienne Price Cox and Joe went to Europe on a three week tour with Helen Londeree Johnson and her husband. They had quite an interesting time. Adrienne will be teaching again this year while Joe gets started in his dentist practice.

Shirley Fish Kirchner, Pete and family have moved into their new home in Fort Washington just out from Philadelphia and they have been busy ever since. They spent six weeks at the shore so they didn't get to know their home until August. Jill started to school this fall which was a big event at the Kirchner home. Shirley and Pete also attended the Miss America contest in Atlantic City in September.

Barbara Ross Cobb writes that Kally weighs almost seventeen pounds now and is really growing. Barbara says that Betty Gaines Brown called her the other day when she read about Barbara being in Cleveland in the Bulletin. Betty's third child, a son, arrived on September 3.

Judy Olton Mueller and Bruce have bought another old house built in 1790 which they restored this year. They won an award for it—the most authentic in "Olde Towne" Alexandria in the past year. This past summer they went to Europe which Judy says was lots of fun since her parents had been over there all spring and they met and spent two weeks with them in London. From London they went to the continent, bought a Volvo, and picnicked all over the place. As compared to Judy, Nancy Tingle

Griffin says her summer has been quiet. Son, David, has learned to ride his tricycle and swing from branches. Nancy is working for a certified public accountant in Heathsville and she just walks to work.

Sandy Gott Gilliam and William took a leisurely trip to Canada for a week and then just loafed for another week.

Betty Lou Hillsman Gray and Lee have a son, Jeffrey Hillsman, born June 4. Teri, their daughter, is two years old now. Lee has been promoted as sales representative for U.S. Gypsum Company in the Washington area.

Sylvia Thompson Carlton writes that husband, Ash, is still a great golf enthusiast. In August she and Ash went to Ligonier, Pennsylvania to the PGA Tournament to watch Arnold Palmer and all the big guys. Ash has been playing some tournaments in Richmond including the Valentine over Labor Day.

Doralee Forsythe Richardson and Lee have been very busy in Denver where they have bought a home in the suburbs. For the past two years Doralee has been the secretary for a church while Lee was taking courses at the University of Colorado in Boulder toward his doctorate in business administration. They "traded places" this past summer. Lee passed his comprehensives in May and taught marketing on University of Colorado's Denver campus while Doralee was taking a full summer schedule of courses in journalism and education on the Boulder campus. This fall Lee will continue teaching in Denver and plans to be well along on his dissertation. Doralee will be teaching English and journalism and supervising the newspaper at a large, new high school near their home. Doralee also writes that on May 27 Lee was recognized, in absentia, as the outstanding graduate of the Business School class of 1962.

Kitty Thorburn Neale and Hobby have bought a home in Chesterfield County as school begins at Douglas Freeman where Kitty teaches. Mary Catherine Sellers Dunn has also returned to teaching at Elkhart Intermediate School.

Joyce Slavin Scher and Norman have a son, Charles Benjamin, born on April 25. She and Norman had a lovely time at the bar convention at the Homestead.

In June Ginny Needham Whitfield with son, Jimmy, who is five, and daughter, Paula, who is three, visited in Richmond. Gwynn Barefoot Raper got in touch with as many '61 classmates as possible to attend a coffee for Ginny. Adrienne Price Cox, Nancy Adams Booker, Betty Pritchett White and Suzanne DuPuy Black were among those who attended. Gwynn and Jerry have spent most of their spare time this summer sailing.

When I heard from Mary Burks Pipes she was preparing for hurricane, Betsy, and staying close to home. Mary writes that as they finally get settled in their new home, they are moving out for two months to stay in a couple's home with their children while they are in Europe. It really isn't bad as there will be two maids and two yardmen.

Cindi Deatelhauser Foltz saw Ginny Whitfield and family when she was in Richmond. Ginny had dinner with the Foltz's which includes Becky, age 4, and Donna, 20 months. Even though Cindi is listed as class of '62 she's really one of us.

Thanks for all the letters—keep them coming. All I ask is that everyone of you answer the letters you'll get about our reunion and make plans to be with us in June.

I hope all 62ers had a good and exciting summer. Wedding bells rang this summer for me and my two college roommates Pam Koch Fay and Robin Cramm Perks. In June I was a bridesmaid in Pam's wedding, in July a bridesmaid in Robin's, and finally in August I walked down the aisle as the bride. Pam married John Fay who works in Richmond at First & Merchants National Bank and Robin became the wife of Jerry Perks who attends R.P.I. and also works at Federal Reserve Bank. My husband, Scott Davidson, is from Buckingham County and he is with Philip Morris, Inc.

Barbara Harrell is now engaged to Jim Holdren of Richmond. Jim is a graduate of William and Mary and teaches in Richmond at Thomas Jefferson High School. The wedding is set tentatively for next June. Darlene Morgan returned this August from a summer trip to Europe with fond memories. She went with four other schoolteachers and they toured the continent in a Volkswagen. Darlene left the group in Rome and flew to Athens where she met a cousin. Having viewed the Acropolis here she enjoyed this part of the trip best. Leaving the ancient Greek capital, she flew back to the states alone and prepared for her duties as sixth grade teacher at the brand new elementary school, R. C. Longan in Richmond's west end.

Libbie Wambler Jarrett's husband, Harry, just graduated from the University of Virginia Medical School. Alice Hall says the Alumni Bulletin still reaches her in the land of snow, ice, floods, etc. She is still working toward her graduate degree at the University of Minnesota.

Mary Kay Williams is now Mrs. Alistair Weir. She was married in Scotland, July 24, and her husband will be teaching New Testament and Greek at the seminary of the University of Edinburgh with additional research in the New Testament for the next three years. Mary Kay will be working as a youth director in a large Edinburgh church near their newly purchased apartment in a quaint little Scottish village just outside Edinburgh. Their new address is: The Rev. & Mrs. G. Alistair Weir, 20D Main Street, Roslin, Midlothian, Scotland.

Ann Bennett Jones, wife of Paul S. Jones, Jr. earned her Master's degree at Fairleigh Dickinson University in New Jersey last year. They now live at 2127 W. Howard St., Chicago, Illinois 60645. She is teaching high school history and her husband is entering a doctoral program in philosophy at Northwestern.

I'm sure you've noticed the brevity of our class news. Please write me by December 1 and note my new address. Remember, we NEED News.

MRS. DENNIS M. ROZUM
(Margie Burkett)
2010 Redman Rd., Apt. 15
Richmond, Virginia

Well believe it or not, two years have already passed. In June we had our first official reunion. We all were anxious to catch up on the news and reluctantly stopped the chatter for a few bites of dinner. Mrs. Foy, our class sponsor was a delightful surprise guest. After dinner we had a brief meeting and we elected Peggy St. Clair Stevens class president and Margie Burkett Rozum class secretary. Patti Dix Angelino and Dee Harwood Perkins arrived too late for the reunion dinner but stopped by Peggy Stevens for the get-together Saturday afternoon. Dee, Robert, and their son are in the deep South, Magnolia, Arkansas, where Bob is an assistant professor in history. Patti and Angie are living in Baltimore where she works for the Baltimore Biological Lab. Congratulations are in order for Patti, as she was nominated by her professional woman's club for the Maryland Young Career Woman of the Year and placed second in the state.

A last minute note arrived from Barbara Cook Darling, Bill, and little Melanie saying they couldn't make the reunion after all as they were busily and excitedly moving into their new home.

Cecelia Stiff Mahan and Leland are living in Nevato, California (near San Francisco) while Leland is in the Air Force. Cecelia is planning to substitute in the public schools this fall.

Judy Cooke and Gerard Mosely were married June 12 in Durham, N. C. After a honeymoon trip to Europe, they are now residing in New Haven, Conn., where Gerry is working on his Ph.D.

Pat Rich Pastor and Alan are living in Alexandria where she is teaching the fourth grade and Alan is working for the Internal Revenue Dept. They had a lovely vacation in New England this summer—Pat said she was really impressed with Yankeeeland! She writes that she visited Danva Butts D'Zmura, Paul and their darling new son, Paul, Jr., in Arlington.

Charlotte Hines Forrester and Dick are now living in Franklin, Va. Charlotte plans to teach Latin in the public schools.

Nancy Berkowitz will be playing "musical apartments" throughout the year as she expects to visit Richmond frequently. In fact, she spent one weekend in late August with the Yaffas and this past weekend with the Gendersons. Of course Phyllis and Gail are delighted, although they don't get to see her that much as her sole purpose for coming is to see her fiance Ez Sohol, who is doing his residency in surgery at MCV. Nancy and Ez plan to be married next summer (if not sooner bet friends) when the commuting will stop and Nancy will take up house-keeping here until Ez finishes. Nancy's schedule did allow for a garrulous suitemate reunion at Gail Genderson's this past weekend. Marcia McMullin Cantrell, Khakki Elmore Rogers, Gail and Nancy had much to say after not having been together in almost two years.

Carolyn Hodnett and Charles Wyatt were married July 24 in Martinsville. They are living in Norfolk where Charlie is in the Navy and Hod is teaching 6th grade.

Just returned from a summer trip to Denver are Mimi Brent Booker and Judson who are back in Charlottesville this year where Jud is in Medical school and Mimi is teaching fifth grade. While they were returning, Ellie Williamson and Sterling were moving out to Denver where Sterling will be interning.

Betty Lou Giles, after receiving her MAT, is back home in Danville teaching English at George Washington High School. Carol Faye Johnston Butt and Dick are now living in Texas.

Beth Holland Maxwell and Jim are in Durham, N. C., where Jim, a senior at Duke Law School, will be president of the Student Bar Association.

Congratulations go to recent Law School graduates Sam Genderson and Bob Gillette. Sam and Gail are still living in Richmond where Sam is now practicing with the firm of Cantor & Cantor and Gail is head of the history department at Tuckahoe Junior High. Kay and Bob have bought a home in Suffolk. Bob has joined a law firm there and Kay is teaching 7th grade.

Judy and Jon Bolling visited Pat Kirby Percy and Stu recently. Besides their son, they have a precious daughter, Catherine Renee, who was born June 22. Their new address is 41 Jefron Drive, Ambler, Pa.

Grace Phelps Rhinesmith's husband is an assistant professor in the history department at U. Va. She sees Betsy Broadus Zimmerman quite often, since she and her family have moved to Charlottesville.

Diane Thurston Jones, Owen, and their happy baby Claire are coming up from New Orleans for a week in Richmond at Christmastime and hope to see a lot of their friends at this time. Also coming to Richmond at Christmas will be Jackie Smithers. She is working in a chemistry lab in California.

Betty Ann Sisler Rider and her husband Tom have both earned graduate degrees (she a Masters, he a Ph.D.) and plan to teach at Winthrop College in Winthrop, S. C.

Annette Rorrer Hash and Bob are now at Vanderbilt University where Bob is studying for his Ph.D.

Marie Morris taught summer school and plans to start graduate school this fall at William and Mary.

I would like to thank all those who contributed news for this letter, particularly Julie Haynie, Ann Hurd, Phyllis Yaffa, and Judy Bolling. This letter can only be as newsy as you all make it, so please send the news! We do hope to reorganize the "group plan" of sending in news and will let you know more later. Hope to see many of you at Homecoming!

How does it feel to be in the "ranks of the aging"? After all, the class of '65 has inherited from us the novelty and prestige of being the most recent graduating class from Westhampton. But then, one consolation to inject here is the fact that we are gaining experience in so many areas even though the "aging process" must continue.

Now I will proceed with the news. In the area of weddings and engagements there are several involved. Gay Shelton became Mrs. Hootz on August 7. Gay's husband works for C & P in Richmond.

Also Nancy Holland and Mr. Burnett Miller were married this summer. Bonnie Brooks and Paul Reddit will be married December 18. As far as engagements are concerned, I have heard of only one, which I am especially happy about. My roommate, Libby Schools, became engaged August 2nd. A December or June wedding is planned.

While at home the first of September for a few days, I talked with Sally Abel, had lunch with Betty Cheyney and by coincidence saw Alice Reynolds who was in our class through our sophomore year. Sally had a wonderful experience in the Far East this past year and is now trying to settle back down to an "ordinary American job."

Betty Cheyney looks great! Vienna really agreed with her. Since returning she has been busy singing in weddings and preparing for graduate school at Northwestern in Chicago. I hope to meet her there for Thanksgiving.

Alice Reynolds "appeared" in church the Sunday I was home. She is teaching in an elementary school in Maryland in the D. C. area and really loves it.

In August I received a letter from Lee Putney who transferred to Longwood our junior year. She graduated in '64 with a B.S. in Biology. This fall she will be taking graduate courses at V.P.I. with plans to go to veterinary school at the University of Georgia next year. This will involve a four year training program.

Joy Schmidt Prince and her husband have moved to Covington where he is now working for West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Susie Fleming is teaching in an elementary school in Cocoa, Florida. She is taking graduate courses hoping to receive her Master's in Education.

Concerning those of us who are still enthusiastic about the academic life, Linda Fridley received a fellowship from the Child Aid Society of Pennsylvania for a year's study in Social Work.

Bonnie Higgins Arrington is working on her M.A. in mathematics at the University of California in Berkeley. Her husband is working for the Lawrence Radiation Lab at the University on a research grant. Their new address is 2450 Warring St., Berkeley, California.

Kathy White began her clinical training in Occupational Therapy at McGuire's V.A. hospital the end of June. She will continue her training at Reisterstown, Maryland this September.

Leslie Yonce is working on her Ph.D. in Learning and Experimental Psychology at the University of Minnesota.

Mary Cross Brittle Floyd and her husband are at Southeastern Baptist Seminary this year where both are taking courses.

Both Barbara Powell and Frances Mayer attended summer school—Barbara at Southern Seminary in Louisville, and Fran at the University of Tennessee.

There were two errors made in the last issue which I wish to correct. Carole Hanson will be sharing an apartment with Linda Fridley but will be continuing in Rehabilitation Work in Philadelphia. Secondly, Carol and Bob Turner will be teaching in Richmond again this year.

Gloria H. Leber is a Statistical Assistant at the Logistics Management Institute. They are still living in Falls Church, Virginia.

Nancy Hall Lyon and Bill are again living in Richmond. Joyce Sanford Brittingham and Jim are now stationed in Selma, Alabama at Craig Air Force Base. Joyce will be teaching 5th grade this year.

Pat Stinson and Nancy Schriebeis are sharing an apartment in the D. C. area where both are working. Jean and Frank Knill are expecting a new arrival in December. Frank will receive his Master's in Psychology in February and plans to continue for his Ph.D.

Among our class members we also have some European enthusiasts. Connie Zeno, Nancy Loughridge and Kendal East spent July traveling throughout Europe. Also Ann Hardwick traveled abroad during the month of September.

I am now a graduate student at the University of Kentucky in Lexington. I received a two year grant to study in Vocational Rehabilitation Counseling and hope to receive my Master's in May 1967.

Some complications have prevented my obtaining all the news for this issue due to moving and change of address so I hope the next issue will be more comprehensive. Send news directly to me or to your group chairman at any time before December 5 to be included in the next issue. Please send in new addresses.

1965 Secretary

MISS BARBARA C. VAUGHAN
403 Westover Hills Boulevard, Apt. # 203
Richmond, Virginia

I feel sure that since graduation each of you has waited anxiously to receive news from the Class of 1965. It seems that it has been a busy few months for most of us.

Wedding bells have been ringing for many members of the class. Those who were not brides were bridesmaids. Anne Grant became Mrs. Carl Franklin Williams June 12. They are making their home in Richmond and Anne is employed as a technician at Philip Morris Research Center.

Phyllis Corker also was married on this day to Thomas A. Palmore. Phyllis is teaching in the elementary school in Victoria which is near her home in Kenbridge, Virginia.

June 12 was the wedding day for two others, Nancy Puryear and Phyllis Grasty. Nancy became Mrs. Earl Ronald Spence and Phyllis became Mrs. Nelson Decker Bristow. Nancy and Ron have rented a furnished home in Virginia Beach where they are both teaching. Phyllis and Decker are living in Lynchburg where Phyllis is teaching math at E. C. Glass High School and Decker is employed by General Electric.

The next week-end was no exception—more weddings. Mary Beth Palmer was married June 19 and Millie Bradshaw, June 20. Mary Beth is now Mrs. Wayne White. They are living in Washington, D. C., where Mary Beth is teaching fourth grade at Pierce Elementary School while Wayne attends seminary. Millie, now Mrs. Lawrence Weir Brown, is back home in Franklin where she is teaching math and science in the seventh grade and Larry is employed with Union Bag Camp Paper Corporation.

Sue Smola was married June 26 to Dr. Donald Floyd Reynolds. They are now at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi, Mississippi, and Sue is teaching math.

June may be the month of brides but July had its share, too. July 3 was the day Susie Greenwood became Mrs. James A. Crute. After a trip to the Poconoes, they are making their home in Richmond where Susie will enter the School of Social Work at the Richmond Professional Institute and Jimmy will enter medical school at the Medical College of Virginia.

Evelyn Garrett also was married July 3 to Kenneth Bowyer. They are making their home in Richmond where Ken is working with the state.

July 10 was the "big" day for Linda Holt, Mary T. Smith, and Phyllis Jane Bradshaw. Linda became Mrs. Edward Lewis Lilly. They are in Richmond where Linda will teach French at the Collegiate School for Girls and Eddie will be a second year medical student at the Medical College of Virginia.

Mary T. became Mrs. Murdock Lawrence Watson, Jr. They are living in Petersburg and Mary T. plans to devote her time to housekeeping and being a "good" wife to Lawrence.

Phyllis Jane is now Mrs. Robert Edward Meigs, III and is making her home in Fairmont, West Virginia, where Bob is working with the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

Sue Parrish became Mrs. Kenton B. Patrick July 17. They are living in Hampton where Sue is teaching math and Kenton is employed by a local Consultant Engineering Firm.

July 31 was the wedding day for Barbara Harton and William G. German. They are living in Richmond and Barbara is teaching second grade at Glen Lea School in Henrico County.

After singing for several other weddings during the summer, Barbara Gardner was the bride of Richard Baldwin Cook on August 14. She and Richard took another honeymoon to Puerto Rico while they trained for a Peace Corps mission to an urban area in Panama. The best of luck to you both for the next two years.

This same day, Jessica Vaughan was married in Richmond to James B. Pearman. They are living in Roanoke where Jessica is teaching twenty-eight second graders.

Diane Rose, Anne Askew, and Faye Martin graduated August 26 and were married August 28. What an exciting few days! Diane became Mrs. Newton De Shazo. They are making their home in Williamsburg where she is teaching the fifth grade.

Anne is now Mrs. Reginald Nash Jones. They are making their home in Richmond where Reggie will enter T. C. Williams Law School.

Faye Martin was married to James Gasquet di Zerega II. Faye is working at the Life Insurance Company of Virginia and Jim is a third year law student at T. C. Williams Law School.

Pam August became Mrs. Phillip Randon Leicht on August 28. Before her marriage she worked as a secretary at Entran, Inc., in Silver Spring, Maryland. They are now living in Pennsylvania.

September 11 was the wedding day for two more members of our class. Harriet Clay was married to Douglas Naismith, Lieutenant junior grade, U.S. Naval Reserve and Diane Byers was married to James R. Bodkin. Harriet and Doug are now in Monterey, California, where Doug is attending the Defense Language Institute.

Nancy Curtis became Mrs. Ken Wood, October 16. She is working with Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company in Richmond.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company in Richmond has employed several other members of our class. Jane Lasley has been working as a computer programmer in the Engineering Department since June 28. Susan Gunn is employed as a Staff Assistant in the Electronic Data Processing Division of the Comptrollers Department and Ann Carter is a Technical Assistant in the Traffic Engineering Division. All report that they thoroughly enjoy their work with big desks and name plates!

The teaching profession has claimed many of our class. Irene McDaniel is now teaching fifth grade at Oak Grove Elementary School in Richmond. This summer she became engaged to Tom Reynolds. Her summer employment was in the office of the Commissioner of Revenue in Richmond.

Caroline Pilcher Nichols worked for Psychological Consultants this summer and took courses at both RPI and the University of Richmond. Now she is employed by the Henrico County Schools.

Pattie Wood Tillar is living in Franklin where Bill is working. She is teaching in the Newsoms Elementary School in the Southampton County School System.

Marvine Lanier is teaching eighth and ninth grade math at Patrick Henry High School in Ashland.

Janet Wooden writes that after a visit to Denver, Colorado, she worked as a counselor at day camp during the summer. Now she is at home and teaching fifth grade at Valley Forge Elementary School.

Pam Adams and Linda Webb share an apartment with two other girls in Richmond. Pam worked at Miller and Rhoads during the summer and is now teaching Latin at Huguenot High School. Linda worked as a Research Assistant at the Medical College of Virginia this summer and is now teaching biology at Douglas Freeman High School.

Ann Snead Swezey is teaching in Richmond while John attends his second year at T. C. Williams Law School.

Bettie Lee Currell spent the summer working for her father at the Rappahannock Record in Kilmarnock. She is now in Woodbridge, Virginia, teaching math at Fred M. Lynn Junior High School.

Tay Wynn was graduated in August and since has been teaching math at Stonewall Jackson High School in Manassas, Virginia.

Pam Myers did practice teaching during the summer and is now teaching English and French at Brookland Junior High School in Henrico County.

Fran Dix worked during the summer months as a secretary at Reynolds Metals Company in Richmond. She is presently employed by the Chesterfield School System and is teaching seventh grade at Elkhart Intermediate School.

Sandra Horner spent her summer traveling and visiting friends and is now teaching seventh grade at Chester Intermediate School, Chester, Virginia.

The summer found Carolyn Owen as a receptionist for Dr. Tucker and associates in Richmond. She is presently employed by Chesterfield County Schools, teaching history, health, and physical education.

Frances Rossel Caudill worked last spring and summer at the Medical College of Virginia in the Endocrinology laboratory. She is now teaching chemistry at St. Catherine's School in Richmond while her husband interns at Medical College.

Jackie Branch, Wren Dawson, and Marionette Parker are sharing an apartment in Hampton. Jackie is teaching French at Warwick High School and Marionette is teaching algebra and trigonometry at Kecoughtan High School after a summer of teaching tennis at a girls' camp in Maine. I understand that her Suffolk drawl really made a hit.

Wren has been working since July 1 doing Social Work at the Hampton Welfare Department.

Carolyn Brewster Robinson is teaching eighth and ninth grade science in the Roanoke County Schools.

Sandra Tarves is teaching in an elementary school in Chesterfield County.

Jo Ellen Ripley took English courses at Madison College this summer and is teaching English and French at Midlothian High School.

Pat Cox worked as a playground assistant for the summer and is teaching in the Washington, D. C. area.

Janet Taylor is teaching math for her second semester at George Wythe High School in Richmond.

Leslie McNeal attended summer school at Duke University under the M.A.T. program and is now teaching English at John Marshall High School in Richmond.

Mildred Burnett also attended Duke University under this same program and presently is employed by the Danville City Schools teaching English.

Cindy Shellhorse is teaching Spanish with the Henrico School System at Tuckahoe Junior High School.

Brenda Netherwood is teaching English at Lee Davis High School in Hanover County.

Diana Ryan and Susan Grable are both teaching in the Richmond area. Diana is with Chesterfield County in the second grade at Beulah Elementary School. Susan is teaching English at Tucker High School in Henrico County.

Judy Murden Brown taught at the "Project Headstart" nurseries in York County this summer—16 preschoolers. She and Gene are now in Texas where he is working on his Ph.D. in psychology at Texas Tech. Judy is teaching algebra, plane geometry and applied math in a small rural high school.

Several of our class have gone to New York City and the surrounding area. Mary Ellen Kyle has been working since July as a computer programmer for American Telephone and Telegraph in White Plains, New York. She is still in training school but writes that she enjoys her work very much.

She was joined in New York in September by Cheryl Kerr who will be doing the same work.

Bonnie Ray is now at Katherine Gibbs School in New York City. Her summer was spent as a keypunch operator for the C & O Railroad in Richmond.

Rita Davis Mahanes worked during the spring as a social worker in Richmond.

Jackie Harper is doing Child Welfare work with the City of Richmond Welfare Department.

The national capital is fortunate to have some of the Class of 1965. Grace Collins is employed by the Census Bureau as a computer programmer.

Carol Hybner is doing biological research at the National Institute of Health.

Susan Darden is working with the Department of Commerce in the United States Patent Office.

Florenz Stith and Virginia Davis are editorial assistants with the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board in Richmond. Virginia was a representative of the press staff at Glorietta, New Mexico, on an eight day trip to cover missionary appointments. Florenz is devoting much of her spare time to theater work in the Richmond Little Theater groups.

Karen Curtis is employed with Dupont in Wilmington, Delaware, as a research assistant in advertising studying consumer behavior and attitudes.

Carolyn Parks is living at home in Saginaw, Michigan, and is employed by the Second National Bank. She is also taking night courses working towards a master's degree in Business Administration. She wrote that she spent most of her summer playing golf and managed to take a few points off her score.

Further education is the main concern of many of our class. Brenda Matlock is studying psychology at Purdue University after having worked in the personnel department of Hoschild Kohns in Baltimore since last February.

Judy Swingle is studying at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky.

Dale Minter Poynter has entered the school of medical technology and Carol Damerel the nursing school at the Medical College of Virginia. Carol attended summer school at MCV in preparation for the coming year.

Fran Guyn began her studies at the School of Social Work at the University of North Carolina after a summer of work at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina.

Joanne Marshall is furthering her study in psychology at Wake Forest College. Her summer was spent working at the Lynchburg Training School and having her tonsils out.

Brenda Williams is studying English at the University of Wisconsin after a summer of working with an airline. I understand she even got in some flying herself.

Barbara Bryant attended summer school at Old Dominion College studying German. Now she is at Florida State University furthering her education and teaching one Latin class.

Janet Renshaw spent the summer working in the Bacterial Genetics section of the Radiation Microbiology Group at Oak Ridge, Tennessee. She is studying in the Department of Molecular Biology at Vanderbilt University this fall.

Vicki Batts is studying history at the University of Denver after a summer of work in Richmond, a part of the time with the YWCA.

Kitty Haller was a waterfront director at Girl Scout Camp this summer. She is doing graduate study at the Richmond Professional Institute School of Social Work. Her field work will be done in Newport News.

Linda Jones worked part-time during the summer and did some research at North Carolina State where she is now doing graduate study in entomology.

Lynda Beran worked at Miller and Rhoades during the summer and is now working towards a Ph.D. in clinical psychology at the University of Kentucky.

Barbara Royster is spending her time since graduation being a housewife.

Rosalind Rogers is employed in the Corporate Trust Department of State-Planters Bank of Commerce and Trusts in Richmond.

Lale Akbay, Judy Widener and Elizabeth Harrison completed their studies at the University of Richmond and graduated in August.

Peggy Saunders and Mary-Ellen Harvey spent the summer travelling in Europe. Peggy travelled with several other girls while Mary-Ellen travelled with her aunt.

Millie Wood is a training representative in the personnel department at Thalhimers in Richmond.

Noel Swinter began work in June as a adjudicator in the Foreign Claims Division of the Social Security Administration in Baltimore, Maryland.

Carol Baldwin who was a part of our class for three years graduated in June from George Washington University and is now working for a Congressman in Washington.

Eleanor Beck who went to the School of Business Administration after two years at Westhampton with us is now attending Wharton Graduate School.

Wanda Fearnow, Dianne Minter, and I are sharing an apartment in Richmond. Wanda is teaching seventh grade English and history at Tuckahoe Junior High School in Henrico County.

Dianne is working as a mathematical analyst with the Research Division of the American Tobacco Company in Richmond.

And me—I am employed as a statistician in the Investment Department of United Virginia Bankshares.

The best of luck to each of you in whatever you are doing. Keeping in touch with all of you has been most enjoyable. Please continue to keep your group leader or me posted on any news which you might have. Those of you that we failed to reach for this Bulletin, please let us hear from you.

'42, Ann Burnett Paulsen, '54, Edwina Knipling Lake, '58, Barbara Ramsey Bridgers, '60 and Ann Nunnally Nielsen, '62. Edwina Lake drove 120 miles one way to attend the meeting. And that was through an area similar to the Richmond to Washington "run" via Shirley Highway and U. S. 1.

The group enjoyed viewing recent pictures of the campus and listening to recordings of the ground breaking for the swimming pool wing and the luncheon ceremonies on Leslie Booker Day in 1963.

Penninsula Alumnae Club

Co-chairmen: MRS. STUART ATKINSON
(Betty Marlow '61)
121 Keith Road
Newport News, Virginia

and
MRS. JAMES B. THOMAS, JR.
(Jacqueline Thomas)
26 Brandon Road
Newport News, Virginia

The Peninsula Club entertained the Westhampton students, freshmen entering Westhampton in the fall, and high school seniors interested in the college at a coke party August 28th at 11:00 o'clock in the morning at the home of Mrs. D. W. Borger (Anne Higgins) 788 Yorktown Road, Poquoson.

We have a very enthusiastic executive committee working on the plans for the coming year, and we know they will be very interesting and exciting. We will let you know about them later.

Roanoke Alumnae Club

President: MRS. VIRGIL L. ROGERS
(Bette Hogan '43)
1839 Bluemont Ave., S.W.
Roanoke, Virginia

The Roanoke Area Club of Westhampton Alumnae launched its 1965-66 year with a reception for current and incoming WC students. About 20 students from the Roanoke area joined an equal number of alumnae for a pleasant evening at the home of Barbara Richie Branch (Mrs. David W.) '46.

The following new officers were introduced: Bette Hogan Rogers (Mrs. Virgil) '43, President; Jane Andersen Jennings (Mrs. C. Leon, Jr.) '56, Vice President; and Ginny LeSueur Carter (Mrs. W. J.) '53, Secretary-Treasurer. Charlotte Houchins Jones (Mrs. Robert) '51 assisted Mrs. Branch in planning the reception.

A skit written by Miss Cay Garrett '66 was presented by four students after which alumnae joined students in singing Westhampton songs. Refreshments followed.

Tidewater Alumnae Club

President: MRS. ROY DUDLEY
(Elizabeth McCrae '51)
1425 Monterey Ave.
Norfolk, Virginia

The Tidewater Club of Westhampton Alumnae Association presented a highly enjoyable luncheon for incoming students on Wednesday, September 8th. Mrs. William Green (Gay Winslow, '58) extended the use of her apartment and its terrace for the occasion. Mrs. Roy Dudley (Elizabeth McCrae, '51), president, presided, and among fifteen students attending, nine were incoming freshmen.

A full season for 1965-1966 has been planned. One program eagerly awaited will be featuring as speaker Mr. Guy Friddell, newspaperman and author of I Hate You, I Love You, recently published. Mr. Friddell is the husband of the former Virginia Pitt, Westhampton Alumna.

Word has been received of the death of John Elton Alrich of Charlottesville, Va.

1896—

Alexander H. Sands, Sr., 90, a Richmond lawyer for more than 60 years, died August 1. Sands, former commonwealth's attorney for Henrico County and past president of the Richmond Bar Association, started his career in 1895. He was senior partner in the firm of Sands, Anderson, Marks and Clark and specialized in fire cases. He attracted attention in 1905 for his defense of an accused killer of a police force captain.

Among the survivors is a son who also took up the law as a career. He is Alexander H. Sands, Jr., judge of the Law and Equity Court in Richmond.

Captain John Brooks Kaufman, 88, of the U. S. Naval Medical Corps, died at Coronado, California September 15.

It was Captain Kaufman who chose the colors of red and blue for the University, while he was an undergraduate here. He graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Medical School in 1903, then began a 41-year career in the U. S. Navy. He had been retired since 1947.

Although primarily a Navy doctor, he served as the first athletic officer at the Great Lakes Training Center, during World War I. Interested in sports, he had played varsity football and baseball in college, and pitched on three Navy All-Fleet baseball teams in 1906-09. He was instrumental in building a Navy football team which played such teams as Iowa, Illinois, and Notre Dame and the Naval Academy. His 1918 team included George Halas, now owner-coach of the Chicago Bears professional football team. His 1919 football team went to the Rose Bowl and defeated the Mare Island Marines 17-0.

Captain Kaufman served in both world wars and was in Hawaii at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack. He was decorated as a commander in the Military Order of Aviz by the Portuguese government in 1919 and was cited by the Secretary of the Navy for outstanding service during World War II.

Survivors include two sons, Rear Admiral John H. Kaufman USN (Ret.) and Capt. William M. Kaufman, USN, commanding officer of the Naval Station at Treasure Island, San Francisco, California.

Mary M. Percival of the Richmond College class of 1912, died on September 19, 1965 in the Seminole Memorial Hospital, Sanford, Florida. She had been living with her brother, Colonel G. M. Percival in De Land, Florida since June, 1965. Miss Percival had been a teacher in the Richmond schools for many years. Her last position before her retirement was at Bainbridge Junior High School.

1913—

Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, pastor emeritus of Waynesboro (Va.) Baptist Church, died August 12, in Richmond.

A native of Pocomoke City, Maryland, he was a graduate of Crozer Theological Seminary and did graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania. He received an LL.D. in 1937, conferred on him by National University, now the school of law of George Washington University.

His pastorates included churches in West Point, Va., Union Springs, Ala., Clemson College, S. C., First Baptist of Alexandria, Va., First Baptist, Tallahassee, Fla., and Waynesboro Baptist Church.

He was a member of the Virginia State Board of Missions and twice served as vice-president of the General Association of Baptists in Virginia. He was a trustee of Crozer Theological Seminary and New Orleans Baptist Seminary for several years. He was a Rotarian for 30 years and a Scottish Rite Mason.

He is survived by his wife, two children, five grandchildren and two sisters.

Word has been received of the death of J. Newton Gordon of Lynchburg. He died on January 4, 1965.

1919—

R. Paul Sanford, a Danville, Va., attorney, died September 17 in Danville.

Sanford was an All-Virginia football player at Richmond College in 1915 and 1916, and later a two-time All-Southern Conference selection at Washington and Lee University.

A native of Parksley, Va., he attended schools in Stuart, Va. and at Hargrave Military Academy before entering Richmond College. He received his bachelor of arts degree in 1916 and enlisted in the army in 1917, serving in France.

He was a former mayor of Stuart, a member of the town council and served as judge of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court in Patrick County. He served as chairman of the Danville Democratic Committee.

Survivors include his wife, three daughters, two sisters and a brother.

Boswell U. Davenport, 64, advertising copywriter at a Philadelphia advertising agency for 39 years, died July 11 in Philadelphia following a heart attack.

A native of Richmond, he attended the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York City after graduating from the University. He was an actor on the New York stage before becoming an editor of a General Electric industrial publication at Harrison, N. J. Later, he moved to Jacksonville, Fla., where he was a staff writer for the Florida Times-Union. He joined N. W. Ayer and Son, the advertising agency in 1926.

Survivors included his wife and a son.

E. Hobson "Hobbie" Snead, 66, of Portsmouth, Va., former athletic star at the University, died August 16 in a Portsmouth hospital.

Mr. Snead won letters in football, baseball and basketball at the University of Richmond, serving as captain of the baseball team in 1923. He coached athletics for many years, serving at Richmond's John Marshall High School, Bluefield College in West Virginia, and at South Boston High School. He also served with Virginia's Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

He is survived by his wife and four brothers.

Herbert J. Shrieves, assistant chief tariff compiler in the passenger traffic department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, died at his home in Philadelphia, Pa., May 5.

COLEMAN ANDREWS HEADS NATIONAL LIBERTY LIFE

T. Coleman Andrews, Sr., '22, commissioner of Internal Revenue under President Eisenhower, has been elected chairman of the board of National Liberty Life Insurance Company of Valley Forge, Pa.

Andrews began his business career as an accountant. He started his own firm in Richmond in 1922. Later he was a principal in the actuarial firm of Bowles, Andrews and Towne. He was president of the American Institute of Public Accountants shortly before accepting the post of Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

After leaving Washington, Andrews became chairman and president of one of the nation's largest underwriters of long-haul truck and bus insurance, American Fidelity and Casualty Insurance Company, in the physical damage field.

Andrews has received numerous governmental and professional awards and several honorary degrees. In 1956 he was an independent candidate for president of the United States.

Captain Jack Jouett
Hero of the American Revolution

The Road to Freedom JACK JOUETT'S RIDE

The road to freedom was really no road at all for little known Virginia hero Captain Jack Jouett. It was a punishing, 40-mile, cross country ride; a desperate, dead of night gallop to warn Governor Thomas Jefferson and the Virginia legislature that the British were coming.

No one ordered Jack Jouett on that ride. He saw his duty—and did it. Forty miles—from Cuckoo Tavern, in Louisa County, to Monticello, near Charlottesville. As Tarleton's redcoats trotted along the road to Charlottesville, Jouett cut his own road to freedom—through the fields and woods of the rough Virginia countryside. To his dying day, Jouett's face bore the scars of tree limbs. To this day, the nation bears him a debt of gratitude. For Jefferson and the legislature escaped. A disaster in our fight for freedom was averted.

The road to freedom is seldom a highroad, with bands playing and flags flying. It is more often a rough way, unmapped, through darkness and danger. It has not been the way of ease and expediency, but the way of individual initiative and determination, that has paved our long American Road to Freedom.

with a squad which numbered 27 lettermen, never threatened. Their deepest penetration was the 35-yard line early in the second quarter, Mike Bragg attempted a 52-yard field goal and it was short.

West Virginia's fresh troops continued the assault on the weary Spiders in the second half. Richmond's inexperienced secondary allowed Bob Uchic, sub WVU quarterback, to complete a 45-yard TD pass. Then a 74-yard punt return by John Mallory and a 56-yard sprint by Roger Blackwell gave the Mountaineers three other scores. A blocked Spider punt recovered in the end zone accounted for the other West Virginia score.

Richmond was limited to 111 yards, 89 of them on the ground. Fullback Doug Davis accounted for 35 of them on nine attempts in the first half but he suffered an ankle injury and missed the second half. Co-captain Gordon gained 27 on four attempts, one a 19-yard run and Soph Jim McKenna at halfback showed promise with 23 yards gained in six attempts. Bob Prince, senior end, played a fine game for the Spiders on defense.

The Gobblers got the jump on the Spiders on the opening kickoff when Dickie Longbeam raced down the sideline 95 yards for a touchdown. A pass interception enabled Virginia Tech to add three more first quarter points on a 32-yard field goal by Jon Utin. Tech made it 18-0 at intermission when Tommy Francisco scored from the nine-yard stripe to climax a 41-yard Gobbler drive.

The Spiders scored in the third period. Fleet Don Matthews ran the kickoff back 36 yards to the 47. Richmond moved from that point to the Tech 30 and Linn threw a touchdown pass to Kullaf in the end zone. The Gobblers, however, tallied again near the end of the third period on a 23-yard pass from Quarterback Bobby Owens to End Gene Fisher.

Statistically Virginia Tech held only a slight advantage over the Spiders. Richmond outgained the Gobblers on the ground 129 yards to 122. Tech, however, picked up 114 yards while completing 11 of 21 passes and Richmond had 82 yards via the air lanes, completing six of 15 tosses.

Merrick was pleased with the overall effort of his club. Had the Spiders made an interception, it would have stopped Tech's field goal attempt. A dropped pass on the Gobbler five-yard marker stopped one Richmond drive and the Spiders advanced to the Tech four in the final quarter only to be halted. The Spider mentor was highly pleased with the work of Linn, starting only his second game at quarterback, and called him the "state's most improved player."

Old Campus

of her illegitimate child created much noise. I happened to know and like the man, as everyone did, and as I look back on it his expulsion from the College was harsh treatment. But that was a different day, and perhaps he was punished chiefly for violation of his religious commitment.

Many of the students were a crude lot. They came from limited backgrounds for which the College was trying to compensate. Most people in the academic community were poor. The institution itself was always desperately grasping for funds, with meager results. The professors—I do not speak of those of lower ranks, of whom there were few—received salaries which, adjusting for the higher value of the dollar then, were not more than half of today's standard. Rents of the five homes for professors on the campus were much below what must be paid for similar accommodations in the city generally, but the College did little to keep them in repair, much less redecorate.

Our home was the oldest, had originally housed the whole institution, and is the only one still standing. In more than twenty years it was painted outside (though of brick) once, turned from gray to red. When the balustrade around the flat top of the roof decayed and blew off it was not replaced. No work was done inside the house. My parents mustered means to repaper the handsome living room, but when the wallpaper in one of the bedrooms was stained by disinfectant after my sister recovered from diphtheria, we had to live with it. We could have turned to with a bucket of calomine, but Father had no mechanical skill or inclination.

In the summers, in the effort to recruit funds, several of the professors would visit the Baptist associations throughout Virginia, and once or twice a year the many members of the Board of Trustees would meet for a day at the College. Probably they were numerous in order to get the widest representation geographically in the denomination. The College employed a well-known leader of the Baptists in Virginia as a fundraiser, and I am sure he needed to use all of his arts. Once when a deficit threatened, the professors volunteered to take a cut of a hundred dollars each in salary, and as I recall the amount was not restored for some time after. The South was still in the backwash of the Civil War, and all praise belongs to the devoted men and women who furnished training for a better future. Plain living and high thinking was the rule in that enclave, and this put even the children under a strain. I do not know what has kept this deponent in academic work most of his life, but the semi-monasticism of college campus upbringing had something to do with it.

Of course as a child I knew nothing of what went on in the classrooms. The classes were relatively large. More attention was given to Latin and Greek, moral philosophy, English, and mathematics than to the physical and biological sciences, and I believe my father was the first to teach history and government in the College. Most members of the faculty had little time and few facilities for original scholarship or publication, and no premium was placed on such performance. Though the College could not contribute directly to extending the frontiers of knowledge, be it said to its everlasting credit that it championed independence of thought and inquiry. When the leading Baptist theological seminary dismissed its president because he revealed early denominational practices at variance with the folklore, Richmond College invited and secured him as its professor of philosophy. One would have to live in that community to know how much courage this demanded. I never was aware of any heresy hunts on that campus, though I have encountered some since in institutions far better endowed in this world's goods.

Once a year a distinguished lecturer was brought to the campus on the Thomas foundation. I recall an English astronomer (Sir Robert Ball) who wisely adapted his remarks to the needs of a popular audience, but these visitors were regarded with suitable admiration. Poverty could have made the college community narrow and prejudiced and fearful. It did not. If the old College had much to give to the large and flourishing University of Richmond, the best was its mental honesty. At a later period when "fundamentalism" plagued the counsels of many institutions which were church-connected, the University of Richmond came through the controversy untroubled.

Tour

Mrs. Ella Hardaway and Mrs. Katherine Willis of the class of 1920 with their absolutely limitless energy and fun. Or Cecil Jones, the tour director, who nursed the sick and the needy, (the sick being those afflicted by that 24-hour European disease which is caused by salads, water, fruit or anything else under the sun). (The needy being those of us afflicted by that European dilemma of always running out of money before we got back to the hotel.) Or Paul Sanford, '19, Danville attorney, with his blue beret and polaroid camera, looking for all the world like Field Marshal (Monty) Montgomery.* Or Elaine Merrick whose beautiful brown eyes sparkled every time we'd pass a store that sold gloves. Or John Horsley whose favorite pastime was "girl watching" on the Via Veneto.

As far as the attitudes of the Europeans toward us, I found nothing but friendliness individually, and I believe most of the group feels this as well. I recall the attractive little guide in West Berlin who told us the story currently making the rounds there. A Russian met an American and said to him,

* Paul's many friends were saddened to learn of his death of a heart attack on September 18. (See page 36.)

"All right now. You've always talking about democracy, just what is it?" The American answered, "Well, it's difficult to explain. It would be better if I give you an example. For example, I could go and stand in front of the White House, and say, Lyndon Johnson is a darned fool, and nothing would happen to me."

"Oh," said the Russian, "Then, we have a democracy, too, because I could go and stand in front of the Kremlin, and say Lyndon Johnson is a darned fool, and nothing would happen to me either."

We ended three weeks of lovely experience and fun with a new and shared wealth of friendships feeling as though we were all kissing kin, and hoping against hope that the venture might be repeated by the University and that we could all be a part of it once again.

VIRGINIA JAYCEES ELECT KILPATRICK PRESIDENT

Phillip H. Kilpatrick, '56, of Petersburg, has been elected president of the Virginia Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Kilpatrick, an education specialist with the department of non-resident instruction at the Army's Logistics Management Center at Ft. Lee, was chosen for the Jaycee top post after serving the organization in various positions since 1958. He was elected a director of the Petersburg chapter in 1959, serving a year later as president of the chapter. He became a state director, then a national director before being chosen executive vice president of the state organization in 1963. In 1964 he was state secretary-treasurer.

Kilpatrick joined Central Louisiana Electric Company after graduating from the University in 1956, then went to the Army Logistics Center at Ft. Lee two years later.

He earned his Master of Science degree in Business Education from the University of Richmond in 1962.

MEDICAL INSTITUTE NAMES JOHN DECKER NEW CHIEF

Dr. John L. Decker, '43, a University of Washington rheumatologist, has been appointed chief of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Branch of the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases.

He will direct the branch's program of combined clinical and laboratory research on diseases affecting the joints, such as rheumatoid arthritis, osteoarthritis and gout.

Dr. Decker is former head of the division of arthritis in the department of medicine at the University of Washington, where he has been since 1958. Prior to that he had held teaching positions at Columbia and Howard universities.

He received his medical training at the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University.

SPIDERS' BASKETBALL PROSPECTS LOOKING UP

Coach Lewis Mills will have more experienced players on his 1965-66 University of Richmond basketball team than his past two seasons as the Spiders' cage mentor. Although it still will be a young club (four of the five lettermen are juniors) and lack of size and rebounding may be problems, the added experience should make Richmond (10-16 last season) a better team. The big loss was All-Southern Forward Tom Tenwick, but if the returning veterans and sophomores can fill his shoes, the Spiders (6-10 in the Southern Conference last year) should move up the ladder a notch or two.

Captain Johnny Moates, 6-1 junior guard from Richmond, averaged 14 points as a sophomore and was one of the conference's better guards at season's end. Tom Green, lanky 6-6 junior forward from Bristol, Tenn., averaged 11.5 points and 7.8 rebounds and should do better in both departments. Junior Billy McCann, a six-footer Richmonder, is a fine play-making guard and defensive player, and Senior Spike Welsh (12.6 point average), 5-11 guard, is one of the best outside shots in the conference. The other letterman is Buster Batts, 6-8 junior center from Richmond who improved rapidly as an offensive performer and rebounder.

TICKETS

Season tickets for the Spiders' nine home basketball games are priced at $15 (side court) and $11 (end zone). Checks should be mailed to UR Athletic Association, University of Richmond, Va. 23173. All home games will be played in Richmond Arena at 8:15 p.m.

Among those battling for front-line duty will be Harvey Roberts, improved 6-4 Norfolk junior; Bob King, 6-5 prospect from Salem, Ohio; Butch Renaldi, 6-4 junior from Easton, Pa.; Terry Burgess, 6-5 Colonial Heights sophomore who was the freshman team's most consistent performer, and Bill Deel, 6-4 sophomore from Clintwood.

Additional help at the guards may come from Robbie Baldwin, 5-11 Roanoke junior who started a few games, and Sophomores Charley Glisson of Chesapeake and Howard Dougherty of Sardis, Ohio, both excellent shooters. Dick Balderson, 6-4 sophomore from Portsmouth, also may see some service.

STRICKLAND DESIGNATED CHAPLAIN OF THE YEAR

Rev. Paul W. Strickland, '46, chaplain at Arizona State Hospital at Phoenix, Arizona, has received the designation as 1965 Institutional Chaplain of the Year.

The award was made to Chaplain Strickland at the board meeting of the Home Mission Societies in San Francisco. Award candidates were screened by the Committee on Health and Social Ministries of the American Baptist Home Mission Societies on the basis of character, competence and contribution.

Mr. Strickland became the first full-time chaplain at the Arizona hospital in 1959. He worked in the Florida State Hospital in a similar capacity.

After graduation from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky., he studied with Dr. Wayne E. Oates in the Department of Pastoral Care for two years. He took his clinical training at Missouri Baptist Hospital, North Carolina Baptist Hospital and Mississippi State Hospital. He spent four years in pastoral ministry in local churches.

DEATH BREAKS A DATE Her date was killed . . . speeding . . . trying not to be late. A promising career snuffed out in one tragic moment. It takes more than saying "Drive with Care."
