ABSTRACT

This technical guide is a resource to help educators implement the adopted social studies standards for South Dakota. The guide to the standards includes the goals, indicators, benchmarks, and grade level standards. It is organized in grade level clusters according to benchmark levels: K-2, 3-5, 6-8, and 9-12. This format is provided as a framework for school districts to use as they study and implement the state standards; design local district and classroom assessments; and align curriculum materials, resources, and technology to the South Dakota standards. The technical section of the guide is formatted into benchmark clusters so that teacher teams or individual teachers can easily reference the social studies standards at adjacent grade levels; for example, the first-grade teacher could survey the classroom learning objective in both the kindergarten and the second grade. The guide's four broad, conceptual goals (content area/discipline standards) are the K-12 strands/strings that define the essence of the discipline of social studies. Because they are the "end results" of what is expected of students after 13 years of study in South Dakota schools, the goals are worded the same at each grade level. The guide's goals are that students will understand: (1) the emergence and development of civilization over time and place; (2) the interrelationships of people, places, and the environment; (3) the historical development and contemporary role of governmental power and authority; and (4) the impact of economics on the development of societies and on current and emerging national and international situations. # A TECHNICAL GUIDE FOR IMPLEMENTING SOUTH DAKOTA SOCIAL STUDIES STANDARDS

THE PURPOSE OF THE TECHNICAL GUIDE

The South Dakota Social Studies Technical Guide serves as a resource to assist educators with the implementation of the adopted science standards. The document provides an opportunity for educational dialogue. The expectations inherent in the document will never be fully realized unless teachers are provided meaningful dialogue about the communications, ideas, concepts, and skills outlined by this document and the ongoing implications for assessment and instruction aligned with the standards.

In addition, to this professional dialogue about assessment and instruction, school districts will need to use this document to address technology issues. Educators must determine how technology can and should be used to help provide the rich learning environments and experiences that are demanded by the expectations in this document and what district technology decisions should be made to meet those demands.

THE ORGANIZATION OF THE TECHNICAL GUIDE

This Technical Guide to the Standards includes the Goals, Indicators, Benchmarks, and Grade Level Standards. It is organized in grade level clusters according to benchmark levels: K-2, 3-5, 6-8, and 9-12. This format is provided as a framework for school districts to use as they study and implement the state standards, design local district and classroom assessments, and align curriculum materials, resources, and technology to the standards. The technical section is formatted in benchmark clusters so that teacher teams or individual teachers can easily reference the social studies standards at adjacent grade levels. For example, the first grade teacher could easily survey the classroom learning objective in both the kindergarten and the second grade.

- ❖ Goal: The four broad, conceptual goals (content area/discipline standards) are the K-12 stands/strings which define the essence of the discipline of science. Because the goals are the "end results" of what we would expect after thirteen years of science study in South Dakota schools, they are worded the same at each grade level. This is done to provide consistency in K-12 curricular focus and alignment. It should also be noted that although history, geography, civics, and economics have traditionally been thought of as "courses", in this document, they refer to social studies strands which should be addressed throughout a K-12 program.
- ❖ Indicators: The indicators further define the goals and set the framework for social studies. The indicators remain the same at all instructional levels (K-2, 3-5, 6-8, 9-12), thereby providing an ongoing and constant focus for the standards. The indicators also provide the targets and anchors for broad district-level, program evaluation.
- ❖ Benchmarks: The benchmarks articulate what the goal and indicator represent at the different developmental levels: K-2, 3-5, 6-8, and 9-12. They provide the targets for student performance and are an essential and critical component for local school districts to use in designing district and classroom assessments aligned with the goals, indicators, and grade level standards.

- ❖ Grade Level Standards: These statements represent the classroom learning objectives or activities which should be provided at each grade level to help students reach the expectations articulated in the benchmarks, indicators, and goals. These are presented in single grade levels except at the 9-12 level. Currently in South Dakota, state statute requires that high school students take at least a minimum of three units (years) of social studies to graduate, (1 unit of U.S. history, 1/2 unit of U.S. government, 1/2 unit of geography, and 1 unit of an elective). It is the responsibility of each school district to "organize" the 9-12 grade level standards into the courses they offer at the 9-12 level.

Since education is often described as a "journey through learning", that analogy helps clarify the components which make up a set of standards. The goals represent the final/ultimate destination—where all students should "arrive" after the required years of social studies study in K-12 South Dakota schools. The indicators provide targets and guideposts throughout the journey. The benchmarks serve as mile markers and weigh stations along the way and the grade level standards represent the turns, hills, traffic signs, and the white lines along the road.

Goals

- 1. Students will understand the emergence and development of civilization over time and place.
- 2. Students will understand the interrelationships of people, places, and the environment.
- 3. Students will understand the historical development and contemporary role of governmental power and authority.
- 4. Students will understand the impact of economics on the development of societies and on current and emerging national and international situations.

SOUTH DAKOTA SOCIAL STUDIES

Goals and Rationales

In this 1999 South Dakota Content Standards document, the format has been organized into four overall K-12 goals, which represent the discipline of social studies. Each of the four goals is listed below, accompanied by a rationale. The rationales are brief descriptions of the goal and its importance for our students as they prepare for adulthood.

Goal 1: HISTORY

Students will understand the emergence and development of civilizations over time and place.

RATIONALE:

An understanding of civilization and diverse cultures is indispensable to an understanding of human history. People's travel from their earliest beginnings; their rich diversity of ideas, beliefs, values, and institutions; and the significance of their continuing interactions provides a context for students to understand where we came from, where we are now, and what we might be like in the future. The study of history includes analysis of time, continuity, and change. When students develop an understanding of specific times and places, they see how change affected others and how other brought about change. But the study of history goes beyond remembering facts and dates. Real historical understanding requires students to think through cause-and-effect relationships, to reach sound historical interpretations, and to conduct historical analysis and research leading to the knowledge on which informed decisions in contemporary life can be based.

Goal 2: GEOGRAPHY

Students will understand the interrelationships of people, places, and the environment.

RATIONALE:

The study of people, places, and human-environmental interactions assists learners as they create their spatial views and geographic perspectives of the world. A knowledge of the influence of patterns, cycles, connections and links between people and their environment (the human and the physical) provides a basis for understanding the development of political, social, and economic systems. Knowledge of how human perceptions of their environment act as stimulus or barrier to behavior is vital to a deeper understanding of historical and contemporary events. Students must grasp the importance of our location in relation to the rest of the world, our interdependence as inhabitants of earth, and the complexity of decisions we have to make concerning environmental and non-environmental issues.

Goal 3: CIVICS(GOVERNMENT)

Students will understand the historical development and contemporary role of governmental power and authority.

RATIONALE:

History reveals a variety of arrangements people have developed in their efforts to live successfully and peaceably together. A study of these arrangements, as well as the values, practices and institutions which define the United States political system, is essential to appreciate and participate in that system. Students need to understand the origins, forms and purposes of government and the underlying principles and values of the United States government in order to use their civic skills to participate as a well-informed citizen.

Goal 4: ECONOMICS

Students will understand the impact of economics on the development of societies and on current and emerging national and international situations.

RATIONALE:

The goal of civics instruction is to develop in all students the requisite knowledge and skills for informed, responsible participation in public life. Civics instruction should provide regular opportunities at each grade level for students to develop a basic understanding of politics and government and to practice the skills of good citizenship. Students should develop an understanding of the values and principles of American constitutional democracy. They should be aware of their rights; be willing to fulfill their responsibilities; be able to obtain, understand, and evaluate information relating to the performance of public officials; and be willing to hold those officials accountable.

SOUTH DAKOTA SOCIAL STUDIES

Goals and Indicators

1. Students will understand the emergence and development of civilizations and cultures over time and place.

Indicators:

- Analyze the chronology of various historical eras to determine connections and cause/effect relationships.
- Evaluate the significance of interactions among cultures and civilizations and the impact on cultural diffusion.
- Evaluate the influence of varying values and philosophies on the development of civilization and cultures.
- Evaluate the influence of varying values, philosophies, and world religions on the development of civilizations and cultures.

2. Students will understand the interrelationships of people, places, and the environment.

Indicators:

- Analyze information from geographic representation, tools, and technology to define location, place, and region.
- Analyze the relationships among the natural environments, the movement of peoples, and the development of societies.
- Analyze the impact of Earth's natural processes, patterns, and cycles on various regions of the United States and the world.

3. Students will understand the historical development and contemporary role of governmental power and authority.

Indicators:

- Analyze the various forms and purposes of government in relationship to the needs of individuals and societies.
- Evaluate the impact of historical events, ideals, and documents on the formation of the United States government.
- Analyze the constitutional rights and responsibilities of United States citizens.

4. Students will understand the impact of economics on the development of societies and on current and emerging national and international situations.

Indicators:

- Analyze the economic impact of the availability and utilization of various resources on societies.
- Analyze the role of various economic systems in the social, political, and economic development of societies.
- Analyze the complex relationships among economic, social, and political decisions.

Instructional and Delivery Options

The National Council for Social Studies (NCSS) describes the primary purpose of social studies as “[helping] young people develop the ability to make informed and reasoned decisions for the public good as citizens of a culturally diverse, democratic society in an interdependent world.” Emphasis needs to be placed on powerful instruction strategies to move towards active and engaged learning.

Examples of Instructional Strategies

Discussion

Examples

- Attributes of a good citizen
- Lawmaking process
- Impact of people on the growth and expansion of the state, region, United States

Debate

Examples

- Causes, costs, and benefits of major events in American history
- Factors that affect economic systems (family, finance, drought, tourism)
- How technology affects perceptions of places and regions

Writing

Examples (narrative mode)

- Problem/solution journals
- Observation diaries
- First person biographies and narratives based on history
- Imagination diaries
- Postcard narratives
- History letters and newspapers
- Historical fiction

Examples (descriptive mode)

- Compare and contrast geographic locations, historical figures, forms of government
- Describe with accuracy
- Factual reports
- Biographical Images expressing the historical person’s feelings and sensory observations (focus on the person’s reaction to the event)
- Personification- writing from another point of view (musket in the hand)

Examples (persuasive mode)

- Use supporting facts and examples to explain an issue
- State opinions to identify points of view, write from two points of view, and analyze different view points
- Testimonials (civil rights movement)
- Back up generalities with facts
- Write a declaration-(study Declaration of Independence- 27 facts listed), list student’s point of view, present at least three facts, and suggest a solution
- Numbers to Words (poll results)- discuss questions respondents had to answer, develop paragraph summarizing opinions shown in the chart

Examples (expository mode)

- Announcement of an event in history (headline, main idea, details, name of organization)
- Invitation of a long-ago event (imagine the event has just about to happen- witness the signing of the Declaration of the Independence)

- Explanatory paragraph-(give opening sentence and have the students explain why something happened, direct it toward an audience that wishes to understand a process, and good explanations present steps in time sequence)
- Fill out an employment application
- Provide written directions and a map to a major event in history
- Dramatic monologue for a historical figure (his/her accomplishments, compare/contrast with another famous person, show how accomplishment caused change in the lives of people, explain the accomplishment)
- Letters of inquiry (ask a local or national political figure for his/her position on an issue, writing letters to Chambers and tourism bureaus for information and maps)
- Interviews (oral language practice) for reports and to gather information
- Write a report (note taking, textbook strategies-bold face headings, questions, captions, and pictures, outlining, quoting sources, format)

Historical research

Examples

- Identify, analyze, and interpret events and life in United States and the world
- Analyze the reasons why the colonies were able to defeat the British
- Analyze and explain United States foreign policy since World War II

Geographical research

Examples

- Identify, analyze, and interpret global population distributions from the Middle Ages to the present
- Locate on a United States map all 50 states, the original 13 states, and the states which entered the Union since 1877
- Identify and compare contemporary national boundaries with the location of civilizations, empires, and kingdoms from 4000 BC to 1000 AD

Historical analysis

Examples

- Identify, analyze, and interpret primary sources (artifacts, diaries, letters, photographs, art, documents, and newspapers) and the contemporary media (computer information systems) and to make generalizations about events and life in United States history
- Recognize and explain how different points of view have been influenced by nationalism, race, religion, and ethnicity
- Distinguish fact from fiction by examining documentary sources
- Construct time lines of United States history since 1877 including landmark dates, technological and economic changes, social movements, military conflicts, and presidential elections

Electronic Media

Examples

- Use search strategies to retrieve electronic information
- Use electronic encyclopedias, almanacs, indexes, and catalogs to retrieve and select relevant information
- Use laser discs with a computer in an interactive mode
- Use local and wide-area networks and modem-delivered services to access and retrieve information from electronic databases
- Use databases to perform research

1. study the relationships between geography the historical development of the United States, including locate and explain the location and expansion of the original colonies; trace the advance of the frontier and territorial expansion of the United States, and explain how the physical environment influenced it; locate new states as they were added to the Union; understand the settlement patterns, migration routes, and cultural influence of various racial, ethnic, and religious groups; compare patterns of agricultural and industrial development in different regions as they relate to natural resources, markets, and trade, and; analyze the political, social, and economic implications of demographic changes in the nation over time.

SOCIAL STUDIES STANDARDS

9-12

Goal 1 – HISTORY

Students will understand the emergence and development of civilizations and cultures over time and place.

Indicator 3: Evaluate the influence of varying values, philosophies, and world religions on the development of civilizations and cultures.

9-12 Benchmarks:

- a. analyze the role of major religions within and across cultures.
- b. analyze the values and belief systems found within various groups and cultures.
- c. evaluate the impact of philosophies and religions on the development of various civilizations.

GRADE LEVEL STANDARDS STUDENTS WILL

Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, and Twelfth Grade

1. analyze and explain the participation of the United States in world affairs and the importance of World War I in terms of political, social, and economic motives for American acquisition of the colonial empire; causes and effects of the Spanish-American War; American colonial policies; causes of World War I; consequences of World War I on the declining role of Great Britain and the expanding role of the United States in world affairs; and end of the Ottoman Empire and the creation of new states in the Middle East.
2. demonstrate an understanding of the origins and effects of World War II with emphasis on the Holocaust and its impact.
3. demonstrate an understanding of domestic history from World War II through the 1900's by explaining current patterns of Supreme Court nominations and decisions and evaluate their impact, such as the Warren Court and the Thomas/Bork nominations; comparing the positions of the political parties and interest groups on major issues; and analyzing the causes and manifestation of social change, such as feminism, counter culture, and the youth movement.

9-12

Goal 2 – GEOGRAPHY

Students will understand the interrelationships of people, places, and the environment.

Indicator 1: Analyze information from geographic representation, tools, and technology to define location, place, and region.

9-12 Benchmarks:

- a. evaluate and select resources, data services, and geographic tools to generate, manipulate, and interpret information.
- b. analyze location, direction, size and/or shape to develop and refine complex mental maps.
- c. analyze multiple criteria to distinguish various locations, places, and regions.

Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, and Twelfth Grade

1. use maps, globes, and other geographic tools to acquire, process, and report information from a spatial perspective by selecting appropriate maps, map projections, and other graphic representations to analyze geographic problems; constructing maps using fundamental cartographic principles including translating narratives about places and events into graphic representations; interpreting maps and other geographic tools through the analysis of case studies and using data; and using geographic tools to represent and interpret the earth's physical and human systems.
2. know the changes that occur in the meaning, use, location, distribution, and importance of resources by analyzing how technology affects the definition of, access to, and use of resources; describing why people have different viewpoints with respect to resource use; and evaluating policies and programs for resource use and management.
3. know how to apply geography to understand the past by analyzing how differing perceptions of places, people, and resources have affected events and conditions in the past; and analyzing the fundamental role that places and environments have played in history (e.g., the Russian winter played an important part in the defeat of Napoleon's army).
4. know how to apply geography to understand the present and plan for the future by evaluating a contemporary issue using geography knowledge, skills, and perspectives; and comparing and contrasting how different viewpoints influence the development of policies designed to use and manage the earth's resources.

SOCIAL STUDIES STANDARDS

9-12

Goal 2 – GEOGRAPHY

Students will understand the interrelationships of people, places, and the environment.

Indicator 2: Analyze the relationships among the natural environment, the movement of peoples, and the development of societies.

9-12 Benchmarks:

- a. analyze the impact of natural environment and characteristics of particular locations on settlement patterns.
- b. analyze how humans modify and/or are impacted by the natural environment.
- c. analyze how past and present trends of human migration worldwide impact politics, environment, and societies.

Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, and Twelfth Grade

1. know how to analyze the dynamic spatial organization of people, places, and environments by analyzing geographic information using a variety of scales - local, national, and international (e.g., growth issues in Sioux Falls, New York City, and Southeast Asia); analyzing patterns of distribution and arrangement of settlements; and analyzing patterns and processes of the diffusion of human activities.
2. know the physical and human characteristics of places by analyzing human and physical characteristics that give a place meaning and significance, and describing the changing human and physical characteristics of places.
3. know how and why people define regions by applying the concept of regions to organize the study of a geographic issue using multiple criteria, and analyzing changes in regions and recognizing the patterns of those changes (e.g., the Middle East has become a region of economic importance to the United States).
4. know how culture and experience influence people's perceptions of places and regions by analyzing why places and regions are important to human identity, comparing and contrasting how and why different groups in society view places and regions differently, and analyzing the ways places and regions reflect cultural change (e.g., the change in the use of the South Dakota prairie from grazing to cultivated crops).
5. know the characteristics, location, distribution, and migration of human populations by analyzing reasons for variation in population distribution, analyzing the causes and types of human migration and its effects on places, evaluating trends and effects of world population numbers and patterns, and analyzing the physical and cultural impact of human migration.
6. know the patterns and networks of economic interdependence by comparing and contrasting the characteristics and distribution of economic systems; analyzing factors influencing economic interdependence of countries, including world trade; analyzing connections among local, regional, and world economies (e.g., transportation routes, movement patterns, and market areas); and analyzing how and why levels of economic development vary among places.

7. know the processes, patterns, and functions of human settlement by explaining the causes and effects of urbanization (e.g., rural-to-urban migration leads to urbanization), comparing and contrasting the differing characteristics of settlement in developing and developed countries, and examining how and why large cities grow together.
8. know how cooperation and conflict among people influence the division and control of the earth's surface by describing how cooperation and conflict among people contribute to political, economic, and social divisions of the earth's surface; describing the forces and processes of cooperation that unite people across the earth's surface (e.g., the nations of Western Europe have joined together in the European Union); and analyzing how differing points of view and self-interests play a role in conflict over territory and resources.
9. know how human actions modify the physical environment by analyzing ways that humans depend upon, adapt to, and affect the physical environment; and evaluating ways in which technology has expanded human capacity to modify the physical environment

9-12

Goal 2 – GEOGRAPHY

Students will understand the interrelationships of people, places, and the environment.

Indicator 3: Analyze the impact of Earth's natural resource processes, patterns, and cycles on various regions of the United States and the world.

9-12 Benchmarks:

- a. analyze how changes in the environment can impact people worldwide.
- b. analyze the various physical processes which operate in the atmosphere, lithosphere, biosphere, and hydrosphere.
- c. analyze the ways in which Earth's natural processes and cycles alter the patterns of Earth's surfaces.

Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, and Twelfth Grade

1. develop knowledge of the earth to locate people, places, and environments by drawing a complex and accurate map from memory to answer questions about the location of human and physical features; identifying and locating physical and human features, in the student's own and nearby communities, in the United States, and in regions of the world (e.g., rivers, mountains, regions, and countries); and analyzing maps of a certain location people have made from memory and compare to determine similarities and differences.
2. know how the physical process shapes the earth's surface patterns by explaining the various interactions resulting from the earth-sun relationship; explaining the interaction of the earth's physical systems (e.g., the interaction of climate and ocean water as exemplified by El Nino); and explaining the variation in the effects of physical processes across the earth's surface (e.g., the effects of wind variations in shaping landforms).
3. know the nature and spatial distribution of cultural patterns by analyzing how cultures shape the character of a region, describing the processes of cultural diffusion, and describing the effect of technology on the development and change of cultures.
4. know how physical systems affect human systems by comparing and contrasting how changes in the physical environment can increase or diminish its capacity to support human activity (e.g., the Sahel), identifying and evaluating alternative strategies to respond to constraints placed on human systems by the physical environment (e.g., the use of irrigation in arid environments), and analyzing how humans perceive and react to natural hazards.

SOCIAL STUDIES STANDARDS

9-12

Goal 3 – CIVICS (Government)

Students will understand the historical development and contemporary role of governmental power and authority

Indicator 1: Analyze the various forms and purposes of government in relationship to the needs of individuals and societies.

9-12 Benchmarks:

- a. analyze the strengths and weaknesses of various forms of government worldwide.
- b. evaluate the historic acquisition of government power and authority in relation to the needs of the United States citizens.
- c. analyze the purpose of politics/political activity and the related implications for United States citizens.

Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, and Twelfth Grade

1. analyze national government with emphasis on the structures, functions, and authority of each branch of government; the principles of federalism, separation of powers, and checks and balances; the extent to which power is shared rather than divided or separated; and procedures for a constitutional amendment.
2. analyze the interrelationships and structures of the executive, legislative, and judicial branches with regard to the constitutional requirements and institutional procedures; the legislative process; judicial review; the hierarchy of the federal court system; the presidential powers including expressed and implied; executive departments, regulatory bureaucracies, and agencies; and the impact of bureaucracies and government agencies on the U.S. constitutional system.
3. analyze campaigns for national, state, and local elective office, including the nominating process; campaign funding and spending; the influence of media coverage, campaign advertising, and public opinion polls; demographic causes and political effects of reapportionment and redistricting; voter turnout and the constituencies of the major political parties; and the Electoral College.
4. compare the United States political systems with those of major democratic and authoritarian nations in terms of the structures and powers of political institutions, the rights and powers of the governed including grass roots citizen movements, economic goals and institutions and the role of government in the economy, the relationships between economic freedom and political freedom, and the allocation of resources and impact on productivity.
5. compare the state, local, and tribal governments with emphasis on their structures, functions, and powers; the election and appointment of officials; the division and sharing of powers between levels of government; the separation of powers within levels of government; and the role of the citizen in the legislative and electoral process such as referendum, recall, and initiative.
6. distinguish between the judicial systems established by the South Dakota and United States Constitutions with emphasis on the organization and jurisdiction of South Dakota and United States courts; the exercise of the power of judicial review; the process of bringing and resolving criminal and civil cases in South Dakota's judicial system; and the function and process of the juvenile justice system in South Dakota.
7. analyze the role of the national government with emphasis on the three branches of government; the law making process; the functions of departments, agencies, and regulatory bodies; the nature and functions of major political parties as they relate to the national government; and the impact and role of interest groups on the federal government.
8. describe the role of governments in the United States economy with emphasis on the basic concepts of the free market; provision of public goods and services; protection of consumer rights, contracts, and property rights; the impact of government taxation, borrowing, and spending on individuals and on the production of goods and services; and the role of the Federal Reserve System.

SOCIAL STUDIES STANDARDS

9-12

Goal 3 – CIVICS (Government)

Students will understand the historical development and contemporary role of governmental power and authority

Indicator 2: Evaluate the impact of historical events, ideals, and documents on the formation of the United States government.

9-12 Benchmarks:

- a. analyze major historical events and documents that led to the creation of limited government in the United States.
- b. analyze the central ideas that provide the foundation of the American Constitutional government.
- c. analyze the influence major contributors have had on the creation of specific United States documents.

GRADE LEVEL STANDARDS STUDENTS WILL

Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, and Twelfth Grade

1. critique the influence of European political thought on the formation of the United States constitutional system.
2. identify fundamental political principles contained in documents, such as the Declaration of Independence, Articles of Confederation, Bill of Rights, and the United States Constitution.
3. summarize constitutional issues relating to the rationale for constitutional amendments and the conflicts they address; landmark decisions of the United States Supreme Court; and the historical trends and contemporary patterns of the United States Supreme Court decisions.
4. analyze local public issues and distinguish between state and local governments including cities, counties and towns.
5. analyze current issues confronting local, state, and national governments in terms of perennial challenges to democracies, including conflicts between majority rule and minority rights, individual rights and the public interest, levels of taxation and the expectation of public services, and state and national authority in a federal system.
6. compare the Declaration of Independence, Articles of Confederation, the Constitution of the United States, and the South Dakota Constitution with emphasis on their treatment of fundamental political principles including constitutionalism and limited government, rule of law, democracy and republicanism, sovereignty, consent of the governed, separation of powers, checks and balances, and federalism; and fundamental liberties, rights and values including religion, speech, press, assembly, and petition, due process, equality under the law, individual worth and dignity, majority rule and minority rights.

SOCIAL STUDIES STANDARDS

9-12

Goal 3 – CIVICS (Government)

Students will understand the historical development and contemporary role of governmental power and authority

Indicator 3: Analyze the constitutional rights and responsibilities of United States citizens.

9-12 Benchmarks:

- a. evaluate the various means of influencing and participating in a democratic republic.
- b. analyze various issues involving individual rights and responsibilities in relation to the general welfare.
- c. analyze the basic rights enumerated in the Constitution and the related impact on United States society.

GRADE LEVEL STANDARDS STUDENTS WILL

Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, and Twelfth Grade

1. develop the skills needed for informed participation in public affairs by analyzing public issues, evaluating candidates for public office, evaluating the performance of public officials, and communicating with public officials.
2. explain and give current examples of how political parties, interest groups, the media, and individuals influence the policy agenda and decision-making of government institutions.
3. identify and explain fundamental concepts of democracy and the rights, responsibilities, and benefits of citizenship in the United States.
4. demonstrate an understanding of the rights and responsibilities of being an American citizen by describing ways individuals participate in the political process, being an informed voter and participating in the election process, being a productive participant in school and community life, describing the process of naturalization, explaining how United States citizenship differs from that in authoritarian and totalitarian political systems, and analyzing the nature of civic responsibility in a diverse society.
5. evaluate the impact of current social, ecological, economic, and political issues and events as an informed citizen.
