ABSTRACT

The South Dakota Career Education Project has prepared this abbreviated bibliography to assist in the integration of career education into the established secondary curriculum. Instead of producing a comprehensive bibliography, a very selective listing of materials in the field of career education is presented. The bibliography is divided into five sections: basic literature (5 entries); career education bibliographies (4 entries); printed curriculum materials, including basic references (6 entries), commercially produced curriculum materials (5 entries), and curriculum materials produced by State and local education systems (7 entries); audiovisual software, including basic literature (6 entries), slides (3 entries), and films and filmstrips (17 entries); and simulation and instructional games (6 entries). Each listing includes the publisher's address and, wherever possible, the purchase price of the item. (Author/SC)

A VERY SELECTIVE CAREER EDUCATION BIBLIOGRAPHY

SECONDARY CURRICULUM

The South Dakota Career Education Project has prepared this abbreviated bibliography to assist in the integration of career education into the established secondary curriculum. Instead of producing a comprehensive bibliography, we have chosen to produce a very selective listing of materials in the field of career education. We have done so on the assumption that plowing through a massive bibliography is too often an exercise in frustration, instead of enlightenment. Those investigators who desire more extensive information should consult some of the sources cited in Section II of this document.

This career education bibliography for secondary curriculum is divided into five sections: basic literature, career education bibliographies, printed curriculum materials, audio-visual software, and simulation and instructional games. Each listing includes the publisher's address and, wherever possible, the purchase price of the item.

I. BASIC LITERATURE FOR CAREER EDUCATION.

Career Education: What It Is And How To Do It by Kenneth B. Hoyt et al. This book analyzes the basic concepts of career education, traces the development of these concepts, discusses the potential benefits of career education, and outlines procedures for establishing a career education program. Educational Properties, Inc., P.O. Box DX, Irvine, California 92664. Price - $4.95.

Career Education: A Handbook For Funding Resources by Charles W. Ryan. This guide shows how to obtain financial aid for career education programs. It outlines the procedures required by federal and state sources, contains guidelines and samples for funding proposals, and lists referral sources. Houghton-Mifflin Company, Two Park Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02107. Price - $.75.

Career Education In The Middle/Junior High School by Rupert N. Evans et al. An excellent introductory treatment of career education in grades 6, 7, 8, and 9. This volume contains extended discussions of such topics as: basic concepts of career education; nature of career development in the middle school years; career development practices; career education in the basic academic classroom; organizing career education in the middle/junior high school; etc. Educational Properties, Inc., P. O. Box DX, Irvine, California 92664. Price - $7.95.

Career Education Monograph Series. This series includes nine brief studies of basic topics in career education written by authorities in the field. #### IV. AUDIO-VISUAL MATERIALS FOR CAREER EDUCATION.

A. INTRODUCTION:

Audio-visual instructional materials - particularly, films, filmstrips, and slides - can provide excellent exploratory activities at the secondary level. For many schools, these materials can add new dimensions to career exploration which would be difficult to realize through the use of resource people and field trips.

It is our hope that schools that are members of a multi-district unit will consider the possibility of pooling some of their resources to establish a career education media center at the multi-district school. Such a joint effort would enable the participating schools to acquire an extensive library of audio-visual materials which would be beyond the means of an individual school, would eliminate unnecessary duplication, and would reduce the "dead time" in which audio-visual materials go unused.
