THE JOB TRAINING PARTNERSHIP ACT (JTPA)

5. ....

The following report provides suggestions on coordinated activities by the State Advisory Councils on Vocational Education, working with other interest groups in the vocational education community, to assist:

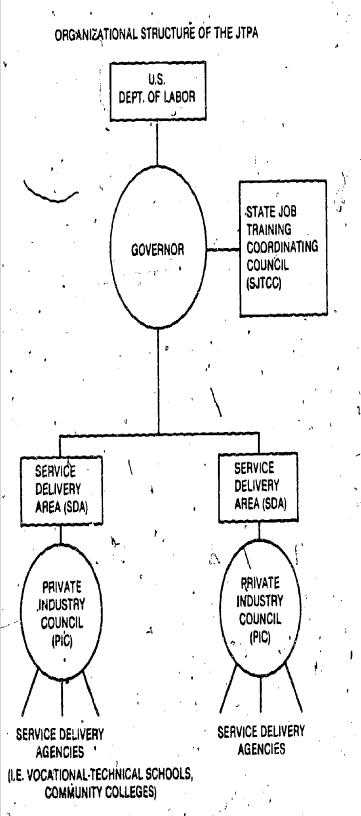

(1) the development of overall JTPA policy at state and local levels:

5

(2) the planning for programs to be implemented at state and local levels.

SECTION ONE: PURPOSE OF THE REPORT

The need for action:

This report has one central function: to alert the State Advisory Councils on Vocational Education of the need for voc-ed representatives to begin having input into the planning and implementation of the Job Partnership Act (JTPA). On October 1, 1983 and Will officially replace. the final remnants of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

The transition period from CETA to JTPA has already begun. States are at a wide range of stages in forming the organizational structures mandated under the JTPA (pictured left).

The training programs authorized under the JTPA will be some of America's most ambitious efforts to provide meaningful and lasting relief to serious unemployment problems for the disadvantaged.

Vocational education's resources will be instrumental in assuring the success of the JTPA programs at state and local levels. In-place training and counseling delivery systems offered by vocational education, as well as expertise in administration, curriculum development and instructor development will be of vital importance to JTPA planning and program implementation.

Management of JTPA programs, however, is designed to be developed only at the initiative of interested private and public sector groups at state and local levels. Voc-ed's involvement in the planning and implementation of the JTPA will largely be determined by the initiatives taken by the voc-ed community itself.

The State Advisory Councils are and will be important catalysts in the creative development of these initiatives by vocational education. This is especially true during the immediate transition period.

What Vocational Education can do for the JTPA:

The State Advisory Councils on Vocational Education, working closely with the Local Advisory Councils and other agencies concerned with vocational education, can begin to take action to assist in the activities of the transition period. Partnerships which develop around the JTPA now will be central to the long-term developments of the JTPA at state and local levels.

Below are some general areas in which voc-ed can assist the planning and implementation of the JTPA:

- Providing in-place effective training with efficient and non-duplicative use of tax dollars;
- Providing services and expertise in training program support, such as counseling, administration, curricula and curricula development, instructor development, and enrollment procedures;
- * Providing high quality instructional facilities and equipment;
- Neveloping lines of communication with private sector employers, and with eligible program participants:

* Providence information on local labor market statistics and braining needs;  Assisting the formation of Service Delivery Areas for communities of less than 200,000 population, through assisting the development of consortia with other communities.

* Assisting the development of state and local cooperative education agreements, and the development of coordinated state training plans.

What the JTPA can do for Vocational Education:

The Jobs Training Partnership Act offers vocational education one of its greatest opportunities to become a truepartner in the development of much needed employment training in each state, and in each community.

The landmark JTPA program places job training 'administration and program selection responsibility with private and public sector partnerships formed voluntarily at state and local levels. The act repeatedly encourages th involvement of the voc-ed community in the partnerships.

SECTION TWO: SUGGESTED ACTIVITIES DURING THE TRANSITION PERIOD (STATE LEVEL)

THE STATE JOB TRAINING COORDINATING COUNCIL (SJTCC)

SJTCC REPRESENTATION:

N.	33% BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY
AT LEAST	20% STATE AGENCIES & ORGANIZATIONS
AT LEAST	20% LOCAL GOVERNMENT UNITS
AT LEAST 20%	GENERAL PUBLIC, LABOR, LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES, ELIGIBLE PARTICIPANTS, COMMUNITY BASED GROUPS

PRINCIPLE RESPONSIBILITIES:

- Recommends a JTPA coordination and special services plan to the Governor
- Recommends a state plan for Service Delivery Area designation (SDA)
- Certifies consistency of Governor's JTPA plans with other state plans
- Recommends changes in state JTPA plans to improve service delivery programs
- Reviews the vocational education needs of the state and the extent to which JTPA coordinates with other programs to fulfill these needs

Importance of input at the state level:

The creation of policy governing or guiding the use of JTPA funds will be done, in most states, through the Governor's office.

Congress intended for vocational education to play a key role in working with the Governor in the development of JTPA planning and operational policy, and assisting the Governor in developing coordinated state training plans. This involvement of voc-ed is not required by the act, however, and is assured only through the initiatives of the vocational education community.

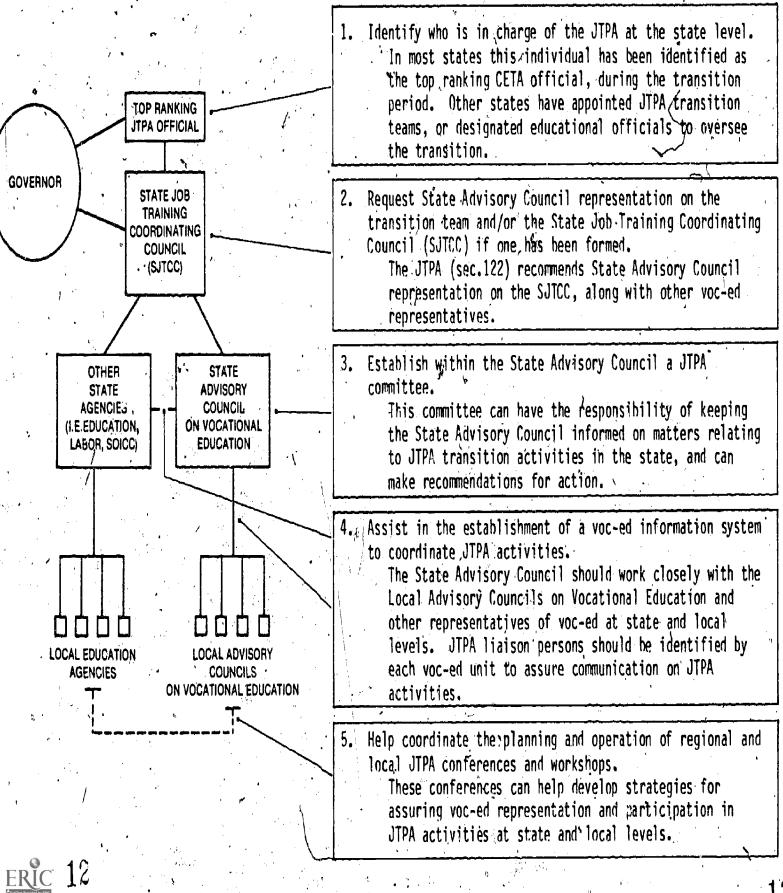

The State Job Training Coordinating Council (SJTCC) is the organizational unit created by the JTPA to assist, in an advisory capacity, the Governor in developing JTPA policy. The representation on, and responsibilities of, the SJTCC are outlined on the left.

The SJTCC can be an effective advisory body in helping to mold the JTPA into an efficient and successful program. The impact of the SJTCC will be greatest during the immediate transition period.

The State Advisory Councils on Vocational Education are important factors in assuring voc-ed's maximum representation on the SJTCC or on the various state level task forces or committees appointed to precede the SJTCC's creation.

. SJTCC representation on the State Advisory Council continues to be required by the Vocational Education Amendments of 1976.

SECTION THREE: SUGGESTED ACTIVITIES DURING THE TRANSITION PERIOD (LOCAL LEVEL)

The majority of 170

The majority of JTPA funds will flow from the Governor to the Private Industry Councils representing each Service Delivery Area (SDA). The Private Industry Council (PIC) is a three unit partnership of:

1. Units of local government and education

2. Private sector employers

Importance of input at the local level:

3. Service providers

The intent of the JTPA is to increase private sector involvement in the planning, implementation, and evaluation of job training programs for the poor. Thus 51% of the PIC membership must be representative of the private sector, and the chairman must be selected from this group.

Initial PIC appointments will be made by the chief government official in each Service Delivery Area. Thereafter the PIC will determine, within JTPA guidelines, its own membership.

The PIC is the principal planner and decision-maker in the allotment of JTPA funds at the local level. Primary PIC criteria used in selecting service providers will be demonstrated performance, and the ability to meet training standards in terms of quality and costs.

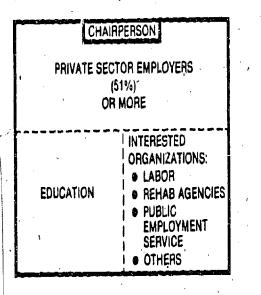

Local vocational education providers, such as vocational-technical schools and community colleges, need to he encouraged to take early initiatives in assuring their involvement in training plans developed by the PIC.

Voc-ed's representation on the PIC, including the representation of Local Advisory Councils on Vocational Education and local education providers, will help assure voc-ed's involvement in the JTPA.

15

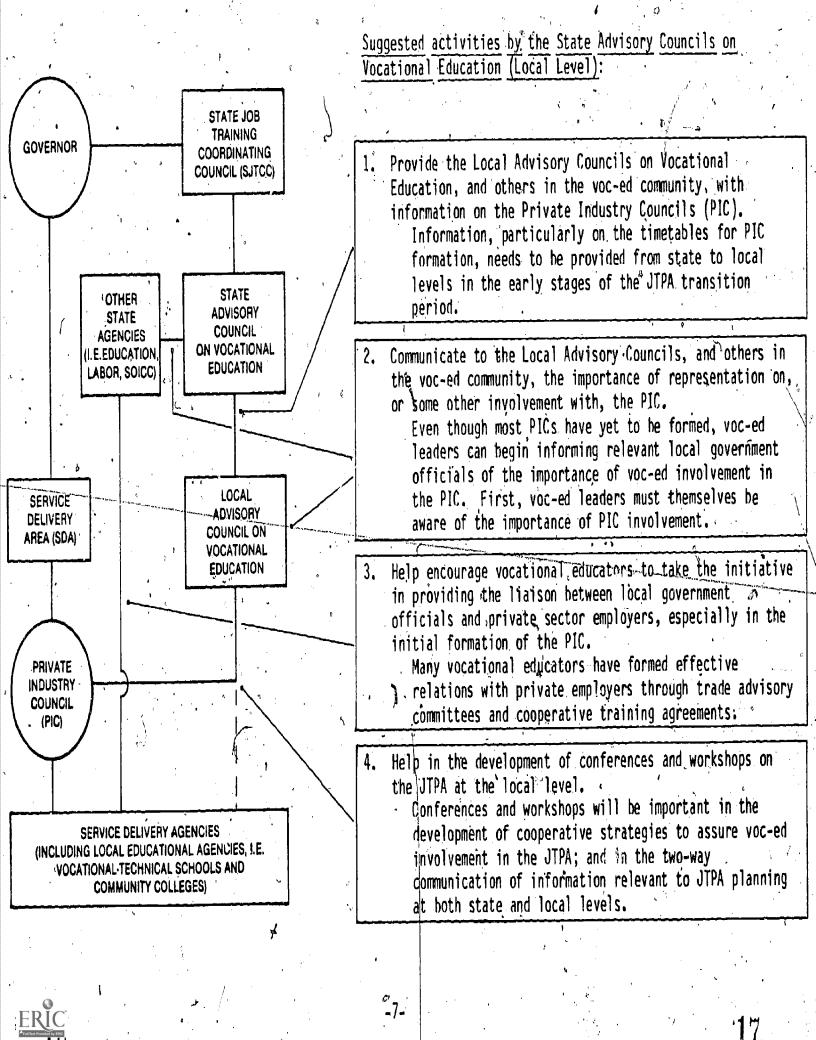

The Private industry Council (PIC): Representation and Responsibilities
