ABSTRACT

Citations of Child Development Associate (CDA) curricula and supplemental resource materials are included in this annotated bibliography published by the CDA Clearinghouse. The materials are grouped according to the six CDA competency areas, the bilingual/bicultural training competencies, the personal capacities (social skills), and general supplemental resource materials. Curriculum materials include educational packages, instructional booklets, learning packages and modules, etc. The CDA competencies are: (1) establishing a safe and healthy environment conducive to teaching preschool children; (2) advancing physical and intellectual competence in preschoolers; (3) building positive self-concept and individual strength; (4) promoting positive functioning of children and adults in a group; (5) establishing productive parent/teacher relations; and (6) cooperating with other staff members in policy and curriculum planning. The CDA program also stresses supporting bilingual education and promoting personal capacities (such as social skills). Supplemental resources include content oriented early childhood educational materials not specifically developed for CDA training. Each curriculum or supplemental resource citation contains publication data, a cross reference index, and a summary of key features of the document. (Author/SE)

INTRODUCTION

The Annotated Bibliography of CDA Curriculum Materials is an information exchange publication of the CDA Clearinghouse. It includes CDA curricula and supplemental resource materials applicable to each of the six CDA Competency Areas, the Bilingual/Bicultural Training Competencies, and the Personal Capacities, as well as a separate section of general supplemental resource materials.

CDA curricula and other training materials submitted to the Clearinghouse are reviewed and analyzed for their suitability for inclusion in the Annotated Bibliography. Those who submit their CDA and CDA-related training materials to the Clearinghouse make it possible for other child care trainers--whether individuals, agencies, or organizations--to share in the progress they have made in developing training methods and materials.

SELECTION OF MATERIALS

To be included in the Annotated Bibliography a document must be readily available from its publisher by mail request and must comply with part or all of the CDA Training Criteria. These Criteria are guidelines for implementing CDA training that have been developed by the Administration for Children, Youth, and Families. They stipulate that:

- Training should be based on the CDA Competencies and should lead to their acquisition
- Valid credit should be offered for CDA training
- Fifty percent or more of the intern's total training time should be spent in supervised field work
- Academic content and field work should be an integrated set of experiences
- Training should be individualized according to each intern's strengths and needs with respect to acquisition of the CDA Competencies
- Training should be flexibly scheduled so that length of training time varies according to each intern's rate of acquisition of the CDA Competencies.

ORGANIZATION OF THE BIBLIOGRAPHY

Training materials included in this Bibliography are referred to as "documents," and are classified either as Curriculum Materials, Supplemental Resources, or General Supplemental Resources. Curriculum Materials include educational packages, instructional booklets, learning packages, learning modules, etc. Supplemental Resources include content-oriented early childhood educational materials not specifically developed for CDA training. General Supplemental Resources are non-content-oriented materials developed for CDA training, such as checklists, appraisal tools, guides, etc.

Documents are grouped according to:

- Functional Area or Areas within each major Competency Area
- The Bilingual/Bicultural Training Competencies
- The Personal Capacities
- General Supplemental Resources.

The Competency Areas and competency standards for each Functional Area are stated at the beginning of each major grouping.

Within each of the Competency Area groupings, Curriculum Materials appear first, followed by Supplemental Resources. Documents are listed either as MAJOR ENTRIES or as CROSS-REFERENCES under each grouping. MAJOR ENTRIES are listed alphabetically by author, editor, or institution, and numbered consecutively. Numbers assigned to Curriculum Materials are prefixed with the letter "C"--for example, C-1, C-2, etc. Numbers assigned to Supplemental Resources are prefixed with the letter "S" (S-1, S-2, etc.). For easy reference the Supplemental Resource materials appear on color-coded sheets. General Supplemental Resources are prefixed with the letter "G" (G-1, G-2, etc.). The General Supplemental Resources appear in a color-coded section after the Personal Capacities listings.

Information for each Curriculum or Supplemental Resource document is provided according to the following elements:

- Publication Data: Author, full title (underscored), city of publication, publisher, date of publication, number of pages, and price
- Cross-Reference Index: Other Competency Areas, Functional Areas, and/or Personal Capacities, if any, covered in the document
- Training Process: The CDA Training Criteria that are included in the training process described in the document

- Format: The methods used by the author(s) to present the Curriculum Materials:

--Instruction only: The document contains information on how the intern is to proceed and where to obtain content information

--Instructions, some content: The document contains information on how the intern is to proceed. Although some content is included, references are made to additional, necessary sources

--Comprehensive: The document contains all necessary materials and information for the intern

- Content: A summary of the content included in the document, including its key features.

When the content of a document covers more than one Functional Area, the full annotated entry appears only under the MAJOR ENTRY listing. Cross-Referencing information is limited to the information included in the Publication Data with a reference to the MAJOR ENTRY listing--for example, "See PHYSICAL."

To Locate Documents: Documents may be located through the Table of Contents, which lists Competency and Functional Areas, the General Supplemental Resource section, or by publisher through the Publisher's Index on page 57.

DEFINITION OF TERMS

Publishers and authors of the training materials that appear in this Annotated Bibliography have used different terms for the roles of intern and field advisor and for the training components. For the purposes of clarity and continuity, however, the following terms will be used throughout this Bibliography:

- Intern: The person in CDA competency-based training whose goal is acquisition of the CDA Credential. Comparable terms are trainee, candidate, student, etc.
- Field Advisor: The person who advises, counsels, makes recommendations to, guides, and assists interns in their field work. Comparable terms are field supervisor, field trainer, instructor, etc.

- Appraisal (pre-appraisal, exit appraisal): The process in which the training program and the intern alike make judgments regarding the intern's demonstrated competence before he or she begins training or exits from the training required in a particular module or learning package. Comparable terms are assessment, pre-assessment, exit assessment.
- Assessment, final assessment: The process in which the CDA Consortium, through its Credential Award System, makes judgments regarding the competence demonstrated by a CDA candidate for the purpose of awarding the CDA Credential.
- Indicators: Subcategories of skills related to the six CDA Competency Areas and Functional Areas. The indicators provide a basis for observations and for classifying or categorizing observations of an intern's performance within each Area.
- Personal Capacities: The patterns of relating to children identified by ACYF as essential to the CDA's ability to demonstrate the CDA Competencies. Stated as indicators these are:
 - Is sensitive to children's feelings and the qualities of young children
 - Listens to children to understand what they mean
 - Uses nonverbal means of communication and adapts adult verbal language and style to maximize communication with children
 - Protects orderliness without sacrificing childish spontaneity and exuberance
 - Is perceptive of individuality and the positive use of individual differences within the group of children
 - Exercises control without being threatening
 - Is emotionally responsive, taking pleasure in children's successes and supporting them when they experience troubles and failures
 - Brings humor and imaginativeness into the group situation
 - Is committed to maximizing the child's and his/her family's strengths and potentials.

● Training Process:

Uses academic/field integration and supervised field experiences.

● Format:

Instructions, some content.

● Content:

Focus is on the incorporation of cultural activities and materials (such as play materials and games used in the home and community setting) into the teaching of mathematics to young children. The goal is to enhance the child's self-concept by establishing cultural and ethnic identity in learning the basic skills. In addition, the theories of Piaget, Bruner, and Gagne are explored in terms of stages of development and implications for teaching mathematics.

Included in the module are general objectives, behavioral objectives, a preassessment, and three groupings of activities that relate to the objectives. Activities involve the intern in application of theory in the community and classroom settings. A bibliography of readings pertaining to each activity grouping is included, as is a script of an audiotape presentation of the three theorists.

No instructions are included for instructor or field supervisor to use in evaluating activities for exit assessment.

Instruction only.

● Content:

Module focuses on methods and materials to enhance the teaching of children's literature, with emphasis on the use of culturally relevant materials to elevate self-esteem in minority children. Instructions are given for learning activities that relate to 11 objectives. Objectives become more complex as interns proceed through the module--from demonstrating knowledge by accurately defining children's literature and its division to demonstrating the ability to use print and non-print media creatively with children. Ages covered are from three to eight.

Although several attachments that are necessary for completion of learning activities are included in the module, the intern is referred to required reading in two textbooks.

A paper-and-pencil examination that serves as both a pre- and post-test is included in the module. No instructions are included for instructor or field supervisor with respect to evaluation of learning activities.

- Content:

Content focuses on theoretical knowledge and practical application of skills used in language development of children--how children use language, encouraging children's language growth, and symbol recognition. Three documents are included in the module: a trainee's workbook of exercises, a packet of readings related to the content area, and a booklet guide to speech and language problems. No outside resources are needed. Provides documentation products for training and final assessment portfolios. Uses indicators of demonstrated competence.
