ABSTRACT

This report on the current status of state advisory councils on adult education contains data concerning the 1975 and 1980 status of state councils in the 50 states. It consists of an introduction, four sections, and an appendix. Provided in the introduction are some conclusions of a 1975 survey on state advisory councils on adult education as well as 1980 updates to these conclusions. The current status of each of the 50 states in the area of state advisory councils on adult education is outlined in Section 1. Those passages of the Adult Education Act and all its amendments through 1978 of relevance to state advisory councils are presented. Summarized next are federal regulations on state councils. Finally, comparisons are presented of state grants for adult education in fiscal 1975 and fiscal 1981 and the maximum amounts allowed for administration. Appendixes include supportive information on the design and operation of programs in the following states: Alabama, Alaska, California, Georgia, Hawaii, Iowa, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and South Carolina. National Advisory Council on Adult Education

Sec. 313. (a) The President shall appoint a National Advisory Council on Adult Education (hereinafter in this section referred to as the "Council").

(b) The Council shall consist of fifteen members who shall, to the extent possible, include persons knowledgeable in the field of adult education, State and local public school officials, and other persons having special knowledge and experience, or qualifications with respect to adult education, including education for persons of limited English-speaking ability in which instruction is given in English and, to the extent necessary to allow such persons to progress effectively through the adult education program, in the native language of such persons, and persons representative of the general public. The Council shall meet initially at the call of the Secretary and elect from its number a chairman. The Council will thereafter meet at the call of the chairman, but not less than twice a year. Subject to section 448(b) of the General Education Provisions Act, the Council shall continue to exist until October 1, 1984.

(c) The Council shall advise the Secretary in the preparation of general regulations and with respect to policy matters arising in the administration of this title, including policies and procedures governing the approval of State plans under section 306 and policies to eliminate duplication, and to effectuate the coordination of programs under this title and other programs offering adult education activities and services.

(d) The Council shall review the administration and effectiveness of programs under this title, make recommendations with respect thereto, and make annual reports to the President of its findings and recommendations (including recommendations for changes in this title and other Federal laws relating to adult education activities and services). The President shall transmit each such report to the Congress together with his comments and recommendations. The Secretary of Education shall coordinate the work of the Council with that of other related advisory councils.

This report is published under provisions of the Adult Education Act and the Federal Advisory Committee Act.

State Councils in 1975

State Councils in 1980

Preface

This is one of the projects the National Advisory Council on Adult Education scheduled in preparation for recommendations to the United States Congress when the Adult Education Act is examined for reauthorization in 1982. Such recommendations are part of the Council's mandate.

There are several issues and questions that arise when comparing the state advisory council picture in 1975 with that in 1980.

Why has there been so little change?

Why is there such a variety in the scope and composition of the Councils?

Is there any reliable method to evaluate these Councils? (Some states obviously benefit from councils; some do well without them.)

Are Governors and elected State Boards of Education that do not appoint councils aware that they have the authority to do so? Are clients aware of the authority?

Should the Congress provide special funds for an independent professional staff for councils that meet Federal standards?

Should Congress attempt to deal with the fact that the operations of a council in a sparsely populated state are about as expensive as the operations of a council in a more populous state?

Should the Congress consider mandatory councils supported by a separate appropriation?

These are some of the issues and questions that readers of the report may wish to ponder.

The Council assigned the Program Liaison Committee the responsibility for this state advisory council project. Mr. Sam Brightman, a consultant to the Council, conducted the state interviews, and together with Council staff assembled the data.

The material in this report is not only for the Council's use, as it examines the State Advisory Council provisions of the Act, it will also be of interest to persons responsible for adult learning programs in stimulating discussion on the multiple questions and issues of advisory bodies.

The Council wishes to thank state directors and state advisory committee members for their assistance in gathering this information.

Introduction

This survey was undertaken to update the information concerning State Advisory Councils on Adult Education obtained in a survey conducted by the National Advisory Council on Adult Education in 1975.

Interviews by the consultant who conducted this and the 1975 survey is the primary source of the information. State Adult Education Directors in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico were interviewed in person or by telephone. The results sometimes reflect subjective judgments by the interviewed and the interviewer.

To provide insights that might be useful when the next reauthorization on the Adult Education Act comes before the Congress, it seems helpful to list some conclusions of the 1975 survey and follow them by 1980 conclusions.

1975 There are few effective "full service" state advisory councils.

1980 The number of effective "full service" state advisory councils seems to have increased slightly.

1975 There is not in existence a state counterpart of the National Advisory Council on Adult Education. Only one state council plans to meet Federal criteria and use Federal funds.

1980 Two states have now met the Federal criteria, and one, Rhode Island, has embarked on a comprehensive, long-range program to increase and improve all adult learning resources in the state.

1975 The state advisory council amendments and the resulting OE regulations are counter productive. States seem to want freedom to relate membership selection to what they perceive as special conditions, and find funding a council out of the 5% administrative allotment to be impractical. Few states have immediate plans for a state council meeting OE requirements.

1980 Possibly the only change in this condition between 1975 and 1980 is that the new requirements for participatory planning, requiring widened contact with a variety of individuals and interests and the additional requirement that these interests be involved in the implementation of a state plan, are seen in some states as making a state advisory council unnecessary.

1975 The suggestion that additional funds be taken from 309 funds for administration occurred several times. It was indicated that this might encourage the formation of state councils.

1980 The need for an increase in the administrative allowance was raised frequently.

- 1975 There was no expressed enthusiasm for councils mandated by the federal government. It was argued by some that the cost of these would reduce program funds.
- 1980 There was increased resentment to Section 312(a) and (b) concerning the appointment authority and the prescriptiveness of council membership.
- 1975 There were some indications that there might be more state advisory councils under the federal program if the requirement of appointment by a Governor or an elected state board were eliminated.
- 1980 This condition still exists in 1980.
- 1975 States which had no advisory councils and had no desires to form one still found the National Council helpful.
- 1980 This condition has not changed.
- 1975 The main thrust of most existing councils concerns program planning and ABE operation. Lobbying and public relation activities are infrequent.
- 1980 Lobbying and public relations activities seem to be increasing slightly and there also appears to be a broadening of the scope of activities by many councils.
- 1975 Public and student representation is weak on most councils.
- 1980 There seems to be an increase of public and student representation.
- 1975 Larger adult education concepts such as lifetime learning rarely come before state adult education councils.
- 1980 Although most state councils seemed to concentrate on issues involving the Federal Adult Education Act, there seemed to be increased interest in a comprehensive approach to adult learning.

The Current Status of the States

ALABAMA

Alabama has an Ad Hoc Committee on Adult Education appointed by the State Superintendent. It has written rules and records, includes representatives of the general public among its members, and has the primary purpose of advising the State Coordinator of Adult Education. There is a minimum of 15 members who meet at least biannually. Expenses are paid from state funds. The composition and function of the Ad Hoc Committee on Adult Education is described in the appendix. Officials believe the present advisory mechanism is effective and there are no plans to seek federal certification.

ALASKA

Alaska has recently organized a State Advisory Council on Adult Education entitled "The Adult Continuing Education and Right to Read Council." The Council is appointed by the Education Commissioner. The Council's membership includes general public representation, adult education students, and minority groups. The members are appointed to represent various regions of the state. Its primary purpose is to advise the State Board of Education and the staff. Alaska has a stringent law which prohibits state employees from discussing legislative matters with legislators. Council members are not state employees and therefore, can work on behalf of adult education with the legislature. The appendix provides additional information about the Council.

ARIZONA

Arizona does not have a State Advisory Council on Adult Education. It feels that a Council that met Federal requirements would not serve the special needs of the state. The Deputy Associate Superintendent for Adult Services reports that there is informal liaison between the state adult education staff and other state agencies, and with private and public groups that have an interest in adult learning.

ARKANSAS

The Arkansas State Advisory Council on Adult Education is appointed by the State Director. Members are recommended by the Supervisor in six districts of the state. The public is represented on the Council, which becomes involved in legislative issues. It meets regularly and has written rules. It is funded by the state and its principal function is to advise the state director. It maintains liaison with the State's Vocational Education Council.

- CALIFORNIA California prefers to work with ad hoc groups rather than to have a permanent state advisory council on adult education. An example of this cited by the State Director is "A Planning Process for Adult Education—Report of the Adult Education Ad Hoc Advisory Committee," published in 1979. This group, named by the State Superintendent of Education, made a comprehensive survey of current problems, and related them to the history of state support for adult education in California. A part of the report was a statement of philosophy submitted to the state superintendent and board. It is printed in the appendix.
- COLORADO Colorado does not have a state advisory council on adult education. The state director obtains outside input from an ad hoc group of local program directors.
- CONNECTICUT Connecticut does not have a state advisory council on adult education. The state director names ad hoc advisory groups to advise on special problems. State officials suggested that Federal requirements for broad participation in the development and implementation of the state plan might duplicate the major activities of a state advisory council.
- DELAWARE The Delaware Adult Education Council was organized recently. Its membership reflects provisions of the Adult Education Act and Federal rules and regulations. The Council receives administrative services and technical assistance from the state department adult education staff. Council members are not reimbursed for expenses. The Delaware Council may apply for Federal certification.
- DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA The District of Columbia Advisory Council on Adult Education represents a wide variety of interests, including former adult basic education students. It serves primarily to advise the adult education director. The Council is appointed by the District Board of Education and the Mayor.
- FLORIDA The Florida State Advisory Council on Adult and Community Education is appointed by the elected chief state school officer. The Council advises the Commissioner, the State Board of Education, and the State Director of Adult Education. Council members represent a wide group of interests beyond education.
- GEORGIA The Georgia Adult Education Advisory Committee has been in existence since 1973. The Committee reports to the Georgia State Board of Education, which was responsible for establishing the advisory committee. The appendix contains authorization and procedure rules of the Council and lists some of its recent concerns.
- HAWAII The State Advisory Council for Adult Education of Hawaii is appointed by the State Board of Education and has a minimum membership of fifteen. It includes citizen representation. Now state funded, it may seek Federal certification so that it may spend Federal funds to pay for a recent expansion of activities. The appendix contains details of the Council's operations and membership.

- IDAHO Idaho does not have a state advisory council on adult education. There is no state appropriation for adult basic education and it is felt that the expense of a council would take too much from the state's $50,000 administrative allotment.
- ILLINOIS The State Advisory Council for Vocational Education is mandated by state law to serve as the official Advisory Council on Adult Education and Career Education.
- INDIANA Indiana does not have a state advisory council on adult education. State officials indicate that the Federal regulations are too restrictive and there are no state funds available for a council that does not use Federal funds. However, the state has used a variety of committees in preparing the state plan and in reviewing special projects. This system has provided some of the outside advice and counsel that would be obtained by an advisory group.
- IOWA The State Advisory Council for Adult Education in Iowa is an active and effective body which meets all Federal requirements except that it is appointed by the State Board of Public Instruction, which is appointed by the Governor. It was supported by a state budget of $4,000 for FY'80 and has a member from each of the state's 15 area school districts. Five new members, nominated by their districts, join the Council each year. Portions of the 1979 Iowa Advisory Council Report are contained in the appendix.
- KANSAS The Kansas Advisory Council for Adult Education was the first state council to meet Federal requirements and receive Federal certification. Its activities are an integral part of the state plan and it is credited with leadership in obtaining funds for a special project for mentally retarded adults.
- KENTUCKY The State Board of Education has assigned to the State Advisory Council on Vocational Education the responsibility for adult education advisory recommendations.
- LOUISIANA The Louisiana Adult Education Advisory Council is authorized and appointed by the State Board of Elementary and Secondary Education.

The Council's primary function is to advise the State Board of Education. The members help the Council represent a broad range of professional interests and follow the general lines of Federal certification requirements, although the state does not plan to seek Federal certification. The section of the state plan explaining the role of the Council in more detail appears in the appendix.

MAINE

Maine does not have a state advisory council on adult education but does make use of special ad hoc task forces composed of educators and representatives of the general public. It plans to organize a state council for fiscal year 1981. The Council will be appointed by the chief state school officer, who is responsible for state adult education programs.

MARYLAND

The Maryland Adult and Continuing Education Advisory Committee is appointed by the state's chief state school officer. It includes representatives of business and industry, community groups, local education agencies, and students. Consideration is being given to reorganizing the committee to meet Federal regulations. At present the Committee's primary role is in advising state education personnel on the state plan and on discretionary grants.

MASSACHUSETTS

The Community Education Advisory Council of Massachusetts reports to the Bureau of Adult Services of the Massachusetts Department of Education. The Council is specifically concerned with implementation of the Community Education Act in the commonwealth, but it also concerns itself with all forms of adult learning. The state adult education director indicated that this arrangement is suitable to the needs and organization of state adult education activity.

MICHIGAN

Michigan's Adult Extended Learning Service Advisory Council is authorized and appointed by the elected state board of education. Its membership represents a broad spectrum of interests and its activities cover a wide range from adult basic education through postsecondary learning, continuing professional education, community education and adult education in churches and synagogues. It produces a comprehensive annual report that reflects the diversity of its oversight. The appendix describes the responsibility of the Council and contains its bylaws.

MINNESOTA

Minnesota has no state-wide adult education advisory council. The state prefers to form a citizen participatory group in each of the state's nine educational cooperative service units. These are unique organizations which serve local education agencies without depriving them of autonomy. The appendix provides additional information.

MISSISSIPPI

Mississippi does not have a state advisory council on adult education, but does have a participatory planning council.

MISSOURI

The Missouri adult education director believes that broader citizen participation is achieved through five area planning meetings held each year, than would be obtained from a state advisory council on adult education. The director stated the present system is less expensive than a council would be.

MONTANA

Montana does not have a state advisory council on adult education. The state director indicates that the cost of council operations and the requirements that the Governor or an elected state board appoint a council that is eligible to use Federal funds are obstacles to the formation of a council.

NEBRASKA

Nebraska feels that its Adult Basic Education State Planning and Evaluation Committee, authorized and appointed by the state board of education, provides a broad perspective and outside input and that an advisory council would be duplicative.

NEVADA

Nevada, which does not have a state advisory council on adult education, obtains input from the Nevada Adult Education Planning Committee, which is authorized by the state board of education and serves the state adult education department.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

The New Hampshire State Advisory Council on Adult Education is appointed by the state's adult basic education director and includes students and representatives of the general public. No decision has been reached on whether to revise the council to meet Federal requirements.

NEW JERSEY

New Jersey is one of the pioneer states in operating a "full service" state advisory council on adult education. The New Jersey Advisory Council for Adult, Continuing, Community Education meets regularly, holds at least one annual public meeting, cooperates with county advisory councils, and publishes, in a complete annual report, a box score on its successes and failures. Widely regarded as effective and representative of adult learner interests, the Council does not meet the requirements of the Federal regulations and because of the limited amount of administrative funds available to fund a Federally certified council, it is not likely to seek Federal certification. Excerpts from the Council's annual report are carried in the appendix.

- NEW MEXICO The New Mexico Adult Education Advisory Board is appointed by the elected state board of education and primarily serves the adult education department. New Mexico also has adult education advisory boards at the community level. The State Director of Adult Education feels that the operations of a council meeting Federal requirements would take an undue amount of funds from the state's administrative allocation from its Federal grant.
- NEW YORK New York has a Commissioner's Statewide Advisory Council on Adult Learning Services. It is designed to provide advice to the State Education Commissioner on how the adult learning programs of a variety of public and private agencies may be meshed effectively. The Council's work is coordinated by a member of the education agency staff. Its own official history and its current work plan are carried in the appendix.
- NORTH CAROLINA North Carolina does not have a state advisory council on adult education but does have a State Participatory Planning Committee. The state director indicates that special efforts are made to have broad citizen input on local programs and projects.
- NORTH DAKOTA North Dakota, which does not have a state advisory council on adult education, seeks to get broad input from a variety of interests by mail contact with 350 persons who participated in regional planning meetings and agreed to serve in an advisory capacity.
- OHIO Ohio does not have a state advisory council on adult education, but it feels that the Participatory Planning Committee appointed by the State Superintendent of Education provides adequate advice and counsel. The state director noted that a state council is neither mandated nor funded by the Federal government.
- OKLAHOMA The Oklahoma Advisory Council for Adult Education is appointed by the State Board of Education and seeks to represent all segments of the state's population. It mainly serves to advise the state adult education department and is supported by state funds. Its guidelines are in the appendix.
- OREGON The State Adult Basic Education Advisory Committee of Oregon is a broad-based group that has been in existence for some years and is regarded as an effective body. It is appointed by the chief state school officer, a condition which the state's education officials desire to continue. It is probably eligible for Federal certification except for failure to comply with the statute's appointment provisions. The appendix lists the charges and duties of the Committee.
- PENNSYLVANIA The ad hoc committee which worked on the state's plan for use of Federal adult education funds has recommended the organization of a state advisory council on adult education. No decision has been made on the proposal. The appendix contains the guidelines proposed for the Council.

RHODE ISLAND

This state is unique. The provisions for a state advisory council, now one of two that are Federally certified, were written into a new adult education statute designed to be complementary to the new Federal Adult Education Act. The Council, appointed by the Governor, is called the Rhode Island Adult Education Commission. Its membership includes members of the state legislature, who play an active role in its activities. The Chairman (elected by the Commission) was the principal author of the state adult education legislation which created the Commission. The Commission has allocated $10,000 by the State Department of Education.

The Commission has been holding public meetings throughout the state and reports substantial response from clients and potential clients. Staff assistance is provided by the State Education Department and student interns are also providing support.

The Commission has prepared a report to the Governor and the legislature which outlines its history and its objectives. Substantial portions of the Commission's 1980 report giving additional details of an ambitious program to expand the coordinate adult learning programs are printed in the appendix.

SOUTH CAROLINA

South Carolina had an Ad Hoc Committee for Adult Education until 1976 when the state legislature enacted a Community Education Act which provided for a nine-member State Community Education Advisory Council. This Council is appointed by the State Superintendent of Education and the statute requires that it represent recreation, health, cultural, social services, community services, education, business-industry, aged and minority groups. Adult education is part of South Carolina's community education operation and the state director reports that this Council concerns itself with adult learning problems and is an effective body. See appendix.

SOUTH DAKOTA

South Dakota does not have a state advisory council on adult education. The state director has indicated that the provision of Federal law and regulations which require appointment by the Governor or an elected state board in order to obtain Federal funds for a state council was a negative factor.

Task forces to carry out special projects are appointed as the need arises.

TENNESSEE

Tennessee does not have a state advisory council on adult education. The state director indicates that the Tennessee Commissioner of Education prefers ad hoc task forces to permanent advisory bodies.

TEXAS

The Advisory Council for Vocational-Technical Education in Texas is officially designated as the state's advisory body for adult education. The state director reports that a subcommittee of the Vocational-Technical Council deals with adult education issues.

UTAH

Utah does not have a state advisory council on adult education. The state director prefers to obtain input from informal meetings with local adult education directors and members and representatives of target groups.

VERMONT

Vermont is served by the Governor's Adult Education Advisory Council which is chaired by a former member and Chairman of the National Advisory Council on Adult Education. The Vermont Chairman recently led the Council in a successful effort to persuade the state legislature to appropriate an additional $300,000 over the amount recommended in the state budget. The Council is broadly representative, and the state director reports that the Division of Adult Education in the U.S. Education Department has been approached informally to determine if the Council can obtain Federal certification.

VIRGINIA

Virginia does not have a state advisory council on adult education, although, it has a Participatory Planning Committee that meets twice a year. The Virginia State Education Department has a basic philosophy of not organizing formal advisory committees unless they are mandatory.

WASHINGTON

The State of Washington does not have a state advisory council on adult education. The state director reports that the state does not have funds to support a council designed to fit its perceived needs and that the Federal regulations that must be met in order to spend Federal funds on a council are too prescriptive.

WEST VIRGINIA

West Virginia does not have a state advisory council on adult education. The state director reports that the cost factor is the major obstacle. The state's Vocational Education Council sometimes directs its attention to adult education concerns.

WISCONSIN

Wisconsin does not have a state advisory council on adult education. The statutory State Vocational Education Council has a special relevance to adult education because Wisconsin has a separate Board of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education. The activities carried out under supervision of this board are organized into sixteen districts and efforts are made to obtain public participation in these districts. There is a Participatory Planning Committee.

WYOMING

Wyoming does not have a state advisory council on adult education. The expense and the Governor's dislike of a proliferation of advisory groups were cited as factors in the decision to rely on various ad hoc panels for advice from outside the state educational establishment.

AMERICAN SAMOA

American Samoa does not have an advisory council on adult education. The adult basic education director obtains advice and information from the Office of Samoan Affairs, which is comprised of district governors, county chiefs and village mayors.

GUAM

Guam obtains citizen input from its Vocational Education Advisory Committee, its Participatory Planning Committee and directly from local people. The adult education director suggests the territory is so small that a proliferation of councils would wind up with many of the same people on all the councils.

PUERTO RICO

The State Council on Adult Education of Puerto Rico seeks to advise all public and private agencies involved in adult learning. It was appointed by the Secretary of Education from candidates recommended by public and private agencies and institutions concerned with adult education. A member of the Vocational Education Advisory Council serves on the adult education body. Council members are not reimbursed.

TRUST TERRITORY

The Micronesian Board of Education supervises both vocational and adult education and the State Advisory Council for Vocational Education serves this board.

VIRGIN ISLANDS

The Virgin Islands regards the preparatory planning sessions for the development of the State Plan as filling the role of an advisory council.

NORTHERN MARIANA ISLANDS

A response to the NACAE questionnaire was not received.

Adult Education Act

Section 312 refers to State Advisory Councils.

The Adult Education Act

Short Title

Sec. 301. This title may be cited as the "Adult Education Act".¹

Statement of Purpose

Sec. 302. It is the purpose of this title to expand educational opportunities for adults and to encourage the establishment of programs of adult education that will—

- (1) enable all adults to acquire basic skills necessary to function in society,
- (2) enable adults who so desire to continue their education to at least the level of completion of secondary school, and
- (3) make available to adults the means to secure training that will enable them to become more employable, productive, and responsible citizens.

Definitions

Sec. 303. As used in this title—

 - (2) are not currently required to be enrolled in schools.
- (c) The term "adult basic education" means adult education for adults whose inability to speak, read, or write the English language constitutes a substantial impairment of their ability to get or retain employment commensurate with their real ability, which is designed to help eliminate such inability and raise the level of education of such individuals with a view to making them less likely to become dependent on others, to improving their ability to benefit from occupational training and otherwise increasing their opportunities for more productive and

(j) The term "institution of higher education" means any such institution as defined by section 801(e) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

Grants to States

Sec. 304. (a) The Commissioner is authorized to make grants to States, which have State plans approved by him under section 306 for the purposes of this section, to pay the Federal share of the cost of (1) the establishment or expansion of adult basic education programs to be carried out by local educational agencies and by public or private non-profit agencies, organizations, and institutions and (2) the establishment or expansion of adult education programs to be carried out by local educational agencies and by public or private nonprofit agencies, organizations, and institutions. Operation of State Plans; Hearings and Judicial Review

Sec. 308. (a) Whenever the Commissioner, after reasonable notice and opportunity for hearing to the State educational agency administering a State plan approved under this title, finds that—

(1) the State plan has been so changed that it no longer complies with the provisions of section 306, or

(2) in the administration of the plan there is a failure to comply substantially with any such provision, the Commissioner shall notify such State agency that no further payments will be made to the State under this title (or, in his discretion, that further payments to the State will be limited to programs under or portions of the State plan not affected by such failure), until he is satisfied that there will no longer be any failure to comply. Until he is so satisfied, no further payments may be made to such State under this title (or payments shall be limited to programs under or portions of the State plan not affected by such failure).

(b) A State educational agency dissatisfied with a final action of the Commissioner under section 306 or subsection (a) of this section may appeal to the United States court of appeals for the circuit in which the State is located, by filing a petition with such court within sixty days after such final action. Upon the filing of such petition, the court shall have jurisdiction to affirm the action of the Commissioner or to set it aside, in whole or in part, temporarily or permanently, but until the filing of the record, the Commissioner may modify or set aside his order. The findings of the Commissioner as to the facts, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be conclusive, but the court, for good cause shown, may remand the case to the Commissioner to take further evidence, and the Commissioner may thereupon make new or modified findings of fact and may modify his previous action, and shall file in the court the record of the further proceedings. Such new or modified findings of fact shall likewise be conclusive if supported by substantial evidence. The judgment of the court affirming or setting aside, in whole or part, any action of the Commissioner shall be final, subject to the review by the Supreme Court of the United States upon certiorari or certification as provided in section 1254 of title 28, United States Code. The commencement of proceedings under this subsection shall not, unless so specifically ordered by the court, operate as a stay of the Commissioner's action.

State Grants for Adult Education

A COMPARISON OF STATE GRANTS FOR ADULT EDUCATION IN FY 1975 AND FY 1981 AND THE MAXIMUM AMOUNT ALLOWED FOR ADMINISTRATION

The fact that State Advisory Councils on Adult Education that meet Federal requirements can utilize only Federal administration funds has been cited as an obstacle to the creation of state councils in the 1975 and in the 1980 survey.

Further, some respondents feel that the Federal maximum administrative allotment was not adequate without the added burden of funding an advisory council.

The table on state allotments lists the amount of Federal grants and the maximum administrative allowance for each state in FY 1975 and FY 1981.

Excerpts from 1979 "Annual Report"

ADULT & CONTINUING EDUCATION/RIGHT TO READ ADVISORY BOARD

OVERVIEW

The 1979 report reflects the Board's recommendations in the six programs it covers:

Fire Service Training
Right to Read
Adult Vocational Education
Adult Basic Education
Community Education
Alaska Skill Center

Three meetings were held between July, 1978 and June, 1979. At each meeting, one program was selected to be the focal point of study and consideration. Recommendations by this Board for each program are attached for consideration as the body of this report.

Other tasks consistent with the purposes of the ACE/R2R Board related to the six programs were a review of the budget and legislation, formulation of a G.E.D. Regulation, finalization of ACE/R2R Board goals and objectives, identification of major issues to be considered in 1979-80 and review of education developments.

Recommendations concerning these tasks are attached.

FIRE SERVICE TRAINING

In the area of Fire Service Training, the Board recommends the development of multiple resource delivery systems instead of direct delivery of services by the Department. This new direction initiated by the Fire Service Training Program appears to be the most cost efficient and effective means of upgrading the actual level of competency among fire fighting personnel throughout the State.

The goal of this delivery system is to enable local and regional fire fighting units to deliver their own training by:

1. Using model programs developed and disseminated by Department personnel. These programs adopt national standards.
2. Creating a cadre of certified fire instructors from existing local personnel who can deliver instruction at various levels to local departments and regional centers.
3. Keeping local departments current in their accreditation efforts.
4. Expanding fire science programs throughout the community college system.

This system would provide for a high standard of on-going training at both entry levels through more sophisticated fire science programs.

RIGHT TO READ

The Board recommends that the State Board of Education actively seek FY81 funding at the State level to support a full time Right to Read position with the Department of Education. The position should be funded in order to address the areas initiated by the Right to Read Director in the past six years. Right to Read has been a federally funded project these six years with the intent that the State of Alaska would continue to support its efforts. In July 1980, the Right to Read federal grant expires.

Right to Read programs have focused particular attention on the area of State Leadership and Training, providing local administrators and reading specialists with such opportunities as training at the Regional Capacity Building Seminars. This project has also been coordinated with, and fed into, the Reading is Fundamental, Promising Practices, SPAN, Alaska Knowledge Base and SMERC Projects.

THE BOARD FEELS THAT THE RIGHT TO READ EFFORTS HAVE BEEN OF SUCH SIGNIFICANT PRACTICAL VALUE TO THE DEVELOPMENT OF READING PROGRAMS IN SCHOOLS AND SCHOOL SYSTEMS THAT IT SHOULD BE CONTINUED BY THE STATE and further that the RIGHT TO READ PROGRAM HAS ACTED IN CONJUNCTION WITH OTHER PROGRAM SUPPORT PROJECTS TO PROVIDE VALUABLE RESOURCES TO SCHOOLS.

It should also be noted that the Right to Read program is providing the kinds of resources and program support which will be a tremendous asset to emerging rural schools.

ADULT VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

The ACE/R2R Board recommends that the State Board endorse the Adult Vocational Education projects in Articulation and Adult Career Development.

These projects are designed to provide opportunities for adults in career exploration, career counseling, and extended vocational education opportunities to adults. The Articulation and Adult Career Development Projects are operating at very little expense to the state because, in most cases, they are organizing and using existing resources and federal funds.

The Articulation project seeks to organize the existing personnel in adult training (including Community College, A.B.E., high school counselors, and Department of Labor personnel) in such a way that these various agencies and systems are able to provide smoother movement of adults into appropriate vocational programs. It also encourages agencies to plan vocational curriculum development in a more articulated fashion so there is a smoother transition of adults from one program to another.

The Adult Career Development project hopes to provide for adult career exploration by using federal monies to pay for career counselors in community colleges who will work with all related agencies to provide in-depth career exploration for adults.

ADULT BASIC EDUCATION

The Board recommends that the State Board promote the expansion of Adult Basic Education efforts to include:

1. Program expansion to all regions of the State;
2. Continued use and further development of Alaskan-oriented GED by TV programs;
3. Development and implementation of an Alaskan-oriented ABE/GED by correspondence study program.

The Adult Basic Education efforts in the State are still embryonic in comparison to the existing needs in both urban and rural parts of the State. Four regions of the State are not being served and, even in the served regions, less than one half of the villages have instructional programs.

In an effort to provide statewide instructional opportunities, the Department of Education has initiated instruction through GED by TV and ABE/GED by correspondence study. Although these two projects have greatly expanded the Department's ability to reach rural students, they also have severe limitations. The number of satellite TV receivers in rural Alaska is far below the number anticipated and, in many cases, GED by TV is being received in already operative sites.

ABE/GED by correspondence study currently serves 83 students. This is a heavy load for the one half time teacher involved. Additional funding is needed to expand this program.

COMMUNITY EDUCATION

The Advisory Board, after reviewing the Community Schools Act, Chapter 36, recommends:

- (1) That coordination and cooperation among related programs be strengthened;
- (2) That the State Board of Education support and promote the passage of a new Community Schools Act and adopt regulations at the earliest opportunity;
- (3) That the language of this Act, rather than administrative regulations, encourage cooperation and coordination among the various agencies involved; and
- (4) That the State Board of Education adopt regulations which would permit funding through different educational agencies but only allow one grant per LEA (geographical boundaries).

ALASKA SKILL CENTER

The Board recommends that the State Board of Education endorse and support the Alaska Skill Center's efforts to provide quality technical training for adults.

Statistics indicate that Skill Center graduates have advantages in the job market over non-Skill Center graduates. One reason for the Skill Center's excellent placement record is the fact that it keeps close ties with industry in order to determine which areas have the greatest need for skilled workers. Then the Skill Center adjusts course content and class size to reflect the current demand. For example, the past year has seen expansion in the fields of Oil Technology and Forestry Technology.

In addition, the Skill Center runs a number of short-term programs designed to upgrade the skills of employed individuals. Some of these programs serve rural Alaska (i.e. Rural Electronics, Rural Accounting, CDEC and Rural Cooks) while others benefit non-rural residents of the state (Driver's Education and Oil Training for Alyeska).

The Board feels that these efforts on the part of the Skill Center should be acknowledged and that funding be provided as necessary to ensure the continued operation of the Skill Center.

GED REGULATION

The Board recommends that the State Board appoint a task force to review and evaluate the administration, management and impact of the new GED regulation by July 1980 and report its findings and recommendations to the State Board. This task force should include, but not be limited to representatives from the Adult and Continuing Education/Right to Read Advisory Board, the State Board of Education, the Association of School Boards, the Association of Secondary School Administrators, the U.S. Military, the Department of Education, the Community Colleges, and Adult Basic Education personnel.

The new regulation made some significant changes in the requirements for a GED and set up some new processes to make the regulation more consistent. The regulation should be evaluated to determine whether it is indeed effective for the purposes of its formulation.

COMMUNICATION PROCESS

The Board recommends that the communication process between the Adult and Continuing Education/Right to Read Advisory Board and the State Board of Education be improved as follows:

The chairperson of the ACE/R2R Advisory Board will (1) transmit a summary of major concerns and recommendations to the president of the State Board of Education immediately following each advisory board meeting, (2) present a list of suggested activities for the succeeding year and (3) present an Annual Report with specific recommendations to the State Board of Education at the end of each fiscal year.

The State Board of Education can then communicate its approval or disapproval of advisory board activities and/or suggest alternative or additional tasks.

Adult Education Ad Hoc Advisory Committee Planning Process

STATEMENT OF PHILOSOPHY

WE BELIEVE THAT the individual is the most important element in society.

WE BELIEVE THAT the development of each person's potential is our highest ideal.

WE BELIEVE THAT an educated adult population is essential to the continuance of our society.

WE BELIEVE THAT the accelerated rate of societal change requires that adults have the opportunity to learn throughout their lives if they are to meet the challenges of living in a modern society.

WE BELIEVE THAT our society has the responsibility to provide a publicly-supported learning system which includes a focus on the educational needs of adults to assist them in achieving their fullest potential.

WE BELIEVE THAT adult education must actively encourage adults to take advantage of these educational opportunities so that the above ends can be achieved.

Many people beyond the compulsory school age seek help in learning effective ways not only to earn incomes but also to maintain households to meet the challenge of their changing circumstances and to share in neighborhood and civic responsibilities.

The adult schools draw upon many types of resources—professional as well as volunteer, rented as well as donated; adult schools are supported by taxes as well as fees. Certainly not all learning requires instruction. At every life stage, however, each adult should have available to him or her some kind of teaching-learning institution in which he or she feels comfortable.

The relevant measure of the effectiveness of a teaching institution is not the ability of those who enter or how much those who leave earn; the real measure of the institution's effectiveness is how much and how well each person who comes into contact with it learns. These learning gains must be determined for each person who comes to the institution seeking to learn; they should not be determined as an average for those who stay.

AND WE FURTHER BELIEVE THAT within California's system for helping people pursue their changing individual learning goals, there are manifold needs for one educational segment to specialize in non-collegiate subject matter. Adult schools provide an appropriate vehicle for these basic functions and implementation of these beliefs.

FOREWORD

This is a revision of the Guide for Members of the State Advisory Council for Adult Education, last amended in January, 1975.

The purpose of this guide is to provide, for members of the Council, Department of Education personnel, and other interested persons, a brief compendium of the legal authorizations, Department policies, and other relevant documents which have been established to govern the Council's organization and activities.

Inasmuch as the Department of Education is required by law to establish and regulate a program of adult education, and to appoint an advisory council for the program, it is hoped that this revised guide will be of use and value to all concerned with the implementation of those requirements.

Excerpts from the 1979 "Annual Report"

STATE ADVISORY COUNCIL FOR ADULT EDUCATION IN IOWA

Robert D. Benton, Superintendent
Iowa State Department of Public Instruction
Jolly Ann Davidson, President
Iowa State Board of Public Instruction
Grimes State Office Building
Des Moines, Iowa 50319

Dear Dr. Benton and Ms. Davidson:

It is with pleasure that I submit to you the Annual Report of the State Advisory Council for Adult Education in Iowa for July 1978 - June 1979.

This report reviews the objectives and significant activities of the council. During the year, the council made many new friends and shared ideas and purposes of adult education. From a solid knowledge base, the council took actions to improve and further adult education in Iowa.

This report reflects the investment of time and talent of council members who serve willingly without compensation except for travel, meal, and lodging expenses as determined by the Department of Public Instruction.

It has been a distinct honor and privilege for me to serve my state as chair for the council. Each member has my full gratitude for the encouragement, interest, support, and total commitment to the council activities while I served as chair. It has been an unforgettable pleasure.

R. E. McIntyre,
Chair

Background

This is the fifth annual report of the State Advisory Council for Adult Education in Iowa. As outlined in the overall objectives for the council, our responsibilities clearly focus on the needs and possibilities for statewide adult education programs and on developing a positive image of adult education in the state of Iowa. To advise on these matters requires a familiarity with programs presently being offered, a knowledge of the learning-needs of Iowa adults, and a cooperative working relationship with the staff of the Adult Education Section of the Department of Public Instruction (DPI). The activities of the Iowa Council in 1978-1979, were designed to respond to these responsibilities, as well as to formulate recommendations regarding appropriate directions for adult education.

Goals

- To assist the adult education staff of the DPI in developing a positive image of adult education as related to all aspects of the adult population of our state
- To advise the DPI staff on the needs and possibilities of adult education programs in the state
- To advise and assist the staff in cooperating with various agencies and interest groups in serving the needs of their particular organizations
- To encourage and direct the staff to collect and disseminate information concerning adult education
- To advise and assist the adult education personnel of the state in the evaluation of programs
- To serve as a sounding board for the state adult education staff regarding any proposed project and/or program.

Activities

Toward meeting the goals, the council initiated or continued the following activities:

- Participated in community activities by appearing before public and private groups to discuss adult continuing education; by meeting, at the merged area school, with the adult education director; and by attending adult high school graduation exercises
- Established continuing communication regarding adult continuing education problems and issues with the president of the State Board of Public Instruction
- Developed and forwarded to the State Board of Public Instruction a position paper concerned with the purpose, intent, goals, and coordination of efforts within adult and continuing education
- Originated and coordinated with the merged area school adult basic education coordinators a comprehensive evaluation system for the Adult Basic Education program of each school
- Became active members of the Area School Participatory Planning Committee
- Attended and participated in the 1978 Iowa Association for Lifelong Learning Conference
- Met with key Iowa educational leaders, local advisory council members, and the DPI staff to become better informed on and to promote adult and continuing education.

Recommendations

The State Advisory Council for Adult Education in Iowa recognizes a need for better coordination and cooperation among the various institutions and agencies who provide the delivery system of continuing education to the citizens of Iowa. The council believes that the needs of the non-traditional learner could be more nearly met if a more coordinated approach to continuing education in Iowa became a reality. The State of Iowa has a multi-faceted approach to the problem of providing adequate, worthwhile educational programs to meet the needs of the people of the state. Since many different interests exist, this diverse approach seems the most appropriate way to meet the citizens' educational demands. From the council's vantage point it appears time to move towards a more coordinated educational effort—an effort that is more clearly defined as to purpose, intent, and goals. Administration of the overall program seems to be spread out in many directions. This council feels that the overall administrative and coordinated effort could be more clearly and assertively handled.

In Iowa there are numerous agencies dealing directly with continuing educational demands, and many more that are indirectly involved. These agencies have elected boards, citizen advisory councils, and other forms of grassroots involvement. Each works independently and in many cases they are in competition for funding, enrollment, and providing services. A more coordinated effort would make the delivery system more efficient and responsive.

The council requests your consideration of the expressed concern so that we may further discuss and clarify the issues involved.

Conclusions

Adult education in our country is becoming more significant each year as the demand for a better quality of life for all citizens increases. With an emphasis on life-cooping skills, adult education not only offers maintenance and improvement of a way of life, but for many it is the only entry to the mainstream of our society. With the increasing importance of adult education in our country, the Iowa State Advisory Council views its charge from the DPI to advise the state educational agency on long-range plans involving adult education programs, services, and activities as a serious and challenging assignment.

Council members have been selected not only for their demonstrated energetic concern for the people of our state, but also for the ability to reflect the diverse interests and needs of the general public affected by and requiring the services offered by adult education programs. These people serve without compensation except for travel, meals, and lodging expenses determined by the DPI. Many members are voluntarily involved in advancing the adult education commitment in their own communities, thus creating more evidence of their dedication and concern.

The council is pleased to recognize the excellent support given selflessly by the professional staff and secretarial service for Adult Education Section of the DPI. We have enjoyed an independence of thought and action in a truly creative partnership with them in all joint efforts related to adult education.

The council searches for and welcomes any opportunity to discuss with Iowa citizens their views of adult education, its purpose, intent, or administration. Through its representation of the adults of Iowa, the council pledges conscientious effort to assist in the continued development of adult education programs and services to meet their needs.

Respectfully submitted,

Ron McIntyre, Chair

Ken Allbaugh, Secretary

Excerpt from Louisiana State Plan

State Adult Education Advisory Council

Purpose

Unless contrary to federal or state law, the Louisiana Adult Education Advisory Council shall be established and governed by the rules and procedures for all standing advisory councils of the State Board of Elementary and Secondary Education. These rules and procedures were adopted as policy and apply to all advisory councils appointed by the Board.

The Louisiana Adult Education Advisory Council shall function in an advisory capacity to the State Board of Elementary and Secondary Education, and it shall make recommendations, suggestions, and indicate to the Board areas of need for improvement, change, and progress.

Membership

Composition

Unless otherwise provided by law, each standing or permanent Advisory Council of the Board shall be created by Board policy. The policy shall determine the size of the Council membership, the number of persons to be appointed by each Board member, and the persons, organizations, affiliations or interest groups to be represented on the Council.

Unless required by law, no member of the Board shall be a member of an Advisory Council.

Representation shall be drawn from different areas of the state and should include persons knowledgeable in the field of adult education, persons who have received adult education services, persons representative of urban and rural population, persons representing the elderly, persons representing agencies, institutions, or organizations providing adult education services to the educationally disadvantaged, persons representing adults of limited English-speaking ability.

Term of Appointment

Members appointed to Standing Advisory Councils shall serve two-year overlapping terms. All appointments are subject to ratification by the Board. Removals, however, are not subject to Board ratification, and a Council member may be removed without cause by the Board member making the appointment.

Beginning with 1979 persons appointed to and serving on Advisory Councils shall begin to serve two-year staggered terms. To this effect, all Council appointments in existence as of January 1, 1979, shall be made or reaffirmed by June 30, 1979. At that time one-half of the membership appointed to each Council shall serve one-year terms, terminating June 30, 1980; one-half of the appointed membership shall serve two-year terms, terminating June 30, 1981. Thereafter, all members appointed to Advisory Councils shall serve two-year overlapping terms. To initiate the staggered terms, Board members shall draw lots to determine which appointees shall serve one-year terms if each Board member has only one appointee. If each Board member has two or more appointees, then the Board member shall designate which appointees will serve one or two years.

A vacancy in an appointed position shall occur if an appointee, for any reason, fails to serve the full extent of his two-year term. Appointments to fill vacancies shall be considered interim appointments, and such appointments shall be for the unexpired portion of the original two-year term. Interim appointments to fill vacancies shall be ratified by the Board.

Should the term of any Board member terminate for any reason, appointments by the member to Advisory Councils shall also terminate; the new Board member shall then fill vacancies for any unexpired term and, thereafter, shall make appointments on a regularly scheduled basis.

Meetings

Each Standing Advisory Council shall meet whenever necessary in order to consider referrals from the Board. Special meetings shall be on call of the Board, and emergency meetings may be called at the discretion of the Staff Director.

When possible, regular meeting dates shall be standardized and shall be determined by the Chairperson of the Council in consultation with the Staff Director. In January and June of each year the Chairperson of each Council shall present to the Director a tentative schedule of meeting dates for the ensuing six months; the Director shall give final approval to the schedule and shall approve all subsequent amendments. When meeting dates cannot be regularly scheduled, the Chairperson of each Council shall set each meeting date in consultation with the Staff Director.

Special meetings shall be held at such times as are named in the Board calls. The Staff Director shall set the dates and times of emergency meetings.

Notice of Council meetings shall be mailed to Council members by the Board staff at least 10 days in advance of a meeting. Minutes of each Council meeting shall be mailed to Council members within two weeks of the meeting of the Council.

Officers

Each Advisory Council shall select from among its membership a Chairperson and a Vice-Chairperson. Elections shall be annually and the councils shall report election results to the Board. This includes the Title IV Advisory Council which shall take a straw vote to select a chairperson and report the results to the Board.

A maximum of six (6) meetings of the State Adult Education Advisory Council may be called during the fiscal year.

Reimbursement for Attendance

All members of the Advisory Councils, including salaried public employees, shall be entitled to reimbursement for actual travel expenses and may submit requests for reimbursement for such expenses in accordance with the regulations promulgated by the State Commissioner of Administration.

The Board will abide by the rules set forth by the State Ethics Commission which allows salaried public employees to receive per diem payments as long as they are on annual leave.

All expenditures of the Louisiana State Advisory Council shall be provided for by state funds and no federal funds shall be utilized to support the activities of the Council.

Proxies

Any person serving on an Advisory Council who cannot attend a given meeting may appoint a person to attend as his proxy. No proxy shall have voting privileges. Any Council member who is absent from regular meetings for three consecutive times may not be represented by proxy.

For a proxy to receive reimbursement for travel expenses, he must have a letter from the Chairman of the Council to the Board's Staff

Director stating that the person was granted permission by the Council membership to serve in that capacity at a given meeting.

Quorum

The quorum for each Advisory Council shall be a majority of the total appointed membership, and no business can be conducted without a quorum. In counting the membership needed for a quorum, proxies may be counted.

Procedures; Reports

In all particulars, except for those listed in these Rules and Procedures, the business in Advisory Councils shall be conducted according to Robert's Rules of Order, and in particular with Procedure in Small Boards, Rule 48.

Every motion passed by an Advisory Council whether or not made as a recommendation to the Board, shall be made as a main motion and must be seconded. All motions must be voted on with a show of hands, and roll call votes may be requested by any of the memberships in attendance at a meeting.

Each Advisory Council shall present reports of its meetings to the Board. If a report contains a substantive recommendation for Board action, the Chairperson or a designee of the Department or Board Staff shall be present at the Board meeting to present the report.

At the discretion of the Board, Advisory Council reports may be referred to Standing Committees of the Board for further review and public hearing. Any such report so referred to a Committee shall be returned to the Board with a recommendation from the Committee for final Board action.

Functions

In general, the function of an Advisory Council is to advise the Board in the discharge of its policy-making supervisory control and budgetary duties and responsibilities. Advisory Councils shall deal exclusively with matters referred to them by the Boards. The Director shall transmit the reports to the Board as recommended by the Council.

Specific functions of Advisory Councils are determined by the creating policy.

Excerpt from Minnesota State Plan Concerning Citizen Participation

Lay Citizen Participation

Authority: Adult Education Act:

Strategies For Outreach Activities.

a. Strategies for FY 1979

1. Establish nine Citizen Participatory groups. One in each of the E.C.S.U. (Educational Cooperative Service Units).

(a) Representatives of business and industry, labor unions, public and private education agencies and institutions, churches, fraternal and voluntary organizations, community organizations, State and local manpower and training agencies, and representatives of special adult population, including residents of rural areas, residents of urban areas with high rates of unemployment, adults with limited English language skills, and institutionalized adults, and other entities in the State concerned with adult education, will be provided an opportunity to suggest persons, or volunteer themselves, for selection by the Department of Education to meet with one of the nine Participatory Groups.

(b) In order to insure the broadest possible representation from the groups listed, and, at the same time keep the group at a workable size, of about 20 each. The actual selection of persons to meet with the groups will be made by the Department of Education.

(c) Persons whose names are suggested and who are invited to meet with one of the groups will also be given the option of not meeting with a group but to receive information by mail and to have an opportunity to be involved by responding in writing.

2. Each Participatory Group will meet a minimum of two times during Fiscal Year 1979 to:

(a) develop an operating plan for the group;

(b) select a chairperson;

(c) discuss the Adult Education Act;

(d) discuss the federal regulation for the Act;

(e) discuss the process for developing a State Plan; and

(f) formulate recommendations for developing, implementing, and carrying out the State Plan.

3. Nine Participatory Groups or representatives of each group will meet in joint sessions two times each year to formulate recommendations for implementing, carrying out and/or amending the State Plan for the Minnesota Adult Education Program.

Recommendation made by joint meetings of the Participatory Groups will be communicated to the Department of Education for consideration.

4. Establish a comprehensive mailing list of persons who represent agencies, institutions and organizations which have resources that could be used to expand the delivery system through cooperative programming.

NOTE

LAY CITIZEN PARTICIPATION

At this time organization of the lay participatory group is proceeding on schedule. Requests for suggestions about persons to be a part of each of the nine groups have been mailed out and over 600 suggestions have been received in this Office. Meetings are being held with each of the Education Service Unit Directors and within the Department of Education to select the members. The group will not be active in time to be involved in developing the State Plan. However, individuals that represent each group are being contacted on a one-to-one basis and meetings are being held for local Adult Basic Education program directors and staff to involve them in developing the Plan. It should be noted that many of the important decisions related to this State Plan will be made only after the lay participatory groups are active and have had an opportunity to be involved in a meaningful way. This is evidence of a commitment on the part of the Department of Education to implement the Adult Education Act with significant and meaningful involvement of lay citizens in all phases of developing, implementing, and operating this program.

b. Strategies for FY 1980

1. Each of the nine participatory groups will meet each year during August and November.
 - (a) at each meeting provide inservice training which will include but not be limited to:
 - (1) program evaluation;
 - (2) needs assessment data;

- (3) changes in Federal or State laws, or rules and regulations that may effect the program; and

- (4) develop recommendations to suggest at the joint meeting.

2. There will be a joint meeting of all nine participatory groups or representatives from each group, not more than 40 days after the last meeting with the nine participatory groups to consider suggestions for recommendations from each of the nine participatory groups.

- c. Strategies for FY 1981 will be developed and added by addendum.

- d. Strategies for FY 1982 will be developed and added by addendum.

Responsibilities of the State Department of Education.

- a. Establish the meeting schedule for the first meetings of the nine participatory groups.
- b. Provide a chairperson for each of the nine participatory groups during the organizational period. A chairperson will be selected from the group no later than the second meeting.
- c. Provide meaningful inservice training for each of the nine participatory groups on a continuing basis.
- d. The Supervisor of the Adult Basic Education program will serve as the communication link between the State Department of Education and the participatory groups.
- e. Provide for necessary support, such as but not limited to:
 1. disseminating information selected by the participatory groups;
 2. disseminating information selected by the State Department of Education; and
 3. disseminating information selected by the U.S.O.E.

Responsibilities of the Participatory Groups.

- a. Develop recommendations in all or any areas related to developing, amending, implementation and carrying out of the State Plan.

FOREWORD

This Fifth Annual Report is intended to give an overview of the Adult, Continuing, Community Education Program in New Jersey. We believe that you should be very proud of what has happened in this state.

This report will reveal that it is one of the finest programs in the nation and has become a model not only for other states, but other countries as well. The recommendations contained herein are made to improve the program so that it may continue to be emulated across the country.

In a report issued September 9, 1979, entitled, "Adult Illiteracy in the United States: A Report to the Ford Foundation," it was pointed out that two million adult Americans never attended any school, 14 million more never finished the fifth grade, 10 million others dropped out between the fifth grade and the eighth grade and 30 million dropped out of high school, making a total of 56 million adults without diplomas.

The members of the Council join me in submitting this report to you and are ready to work with you in accepting future challenges of Adult, Continuing, Community Education. We have developed and we have learned and that is what education is all about.

Lois E. Marshall
Lois E. Marshall, Chairperson

INTRODUCTION

It is estimated that 32 million adults annually take part in some form of educational program designed exclusively for adults. The passage of the World War II "baby boom" population into adulthood and declining birth rates have resulted in an increase in the average age of Americans. It is projected that by the turn of the century, the median age in this country will be 34.5 years. Consequently, there is a rapid growth in education at the adult level in the United States (12%) as compared to the growth rate at the pre-college level (2%).

More important than the upward movement of the median age range is the growing realization that education is not confined merely to the years of formal schooling for youth. Education is indeed a lifelong process which changes in nature as life situations and adult needs change.

Educational opportunities for adults have long been considered luxuries. However, with changing social patterns, increased technology, inflation and rising unemployment, providing educational opportunities for adults is now a necessity.

Our nation is in the throes of a crisis of rising literacy standards. Our lives revolve around the printed word. As a result, functional illiteracy - the failure to read and write well enough to be a productive citizen - is growing. It is a problem that is costing our country millions of dollars a year in lost tax revenues. It is costing more is the loss of human potential.

Adult, continuing and community education play an important role in addressing these needs as well as those of special populations - the older American, the handicapped, the displaced homemaker, the refugee and the unemployed. During the year covered by this report, the New Jersey Advisory Council for Adult, Continuing, Community Education has attempted to study the problems of educating adults in New Jersey. This was done to provide the Commissioner of Education with information and recommendations for addressing those problems.

This report reflects the council's commitment to adult, continuing, community education, and it's desire to serve the Department of Education in providing educational opportunities for adults. The council, in presenting its recommendations to the commissioner, is hopeful that they will give impetus to action designed to improve adult, continuing, community education efforts in New Jersey.

Part I

ASSESSMENT, CONCERNS, AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Learning
is Lifelong

"To become a learning society, the United States must invest a considerable proportion of its resources in the education of all citizens on a continuing basis, at all educational levels, and for a variety of needs and motives including job training and retraining, education for more effective and enlightened citizenship, better use of the retirement years, and personal fulfillment."
Clifton R. Wharton, Jr.

ASSESSMENT

Adult education is the fastest growing type of educational instruction in New Jersey today. While many school districts in the state are experiencing a decline in pupil enrollments, the demand for adult education programs and services far exceeds available resources. Many programs have waiting lists of adults who are eager for the opportunity to continue their education.

Today, the New Jersey Advisory Council for Adult, Continuing, Community Education is progressing in attaining three of its major goals:

- promotion of the concept of lifelong learning
- increased inter-agency cooperation, and
- promotion of awareness of adult, continuing, community education opportunities.

As in all areas of education, financial constraints limit growth potential. Progress towards the council's fourth goal, "encouraging adequate and stable funding for adult education," presents the greatest challenge.

In order to assess needs and keep abreast of issues affecting adult, continuing, community education in New Jersey, the council conducts an annual public meeting. Testimony given during this session urged expansion of parent education programs, development of child care programs to assist adults who attend classes, inter-agency collaboration to eliminate competition and promote better use of scarce resources and expanded educational opportunities for displaced homemakers, handicapped adults, the incarcerated and those in need of vocational training. The council has recommended that the Bureau of Adult, Continuing, Community Education continue to act on these expressed concerns.

In addition to the public meeting, council members attended county council meetings, annual conferences of professional associations and meetings sponsored by the Bureau of Adult, Continuing, Community Education. These meetings provided members additional opportunities to meet with practitioners to share information and concerns.

CONCERNS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

The energies of the New Jersey Advisory Council for Adult, Continuing, Community Education are focused on long and short term goals. Council efforts currently are directed toward a statewide commitment to eliminate illiteracy and expand educational opportunities for adults. Progress in this regard is slow and is built on a series of successful endeavors not readily evaluated.

Based upon information gained from the past year's experiences, the council has selected four areas of concern to be addressed in the immediate future. Committees have been formed to investigate each issue and recommend action to the Commissioner of Education and the Bureau of Adult, Continuing, Community Education.

Concerns

Coordinated System for Handicapped Adults

A primary interest of the council is development and expansion of educational opportunities for handicapped adults. Those who have been educated in the public schools through age 16 frequently have no place to turn once they have left school. Yet, they still have need for employment and job up-grading, recreational activities or life coping skills for independent living. Many handicapped students never graduate. Additional numbers spend a great part of their lives in institutions.

A variety of agencies offer assistance to handicapped adults, but their efforts are fragmented and inadequate for the demand. The council hopes that through a coordinated effort handicapped adults will have the educational programs they need.

County Communications Network

Regional planning for cooperation and collaboration is essential to enable all adults to acquire basic skills, employment or employability training and the economic, health and social services that foster participation in education endeavors. The first step in this process is communication.

The council believes that if public education worked in concert with agencies, organizations, institutions, business, labor and industry, the educational needs of adults as learners would be better addressed. Because these groups are so diverse and operate within special parameters, effective communication leading to cooperative planning and resource sharing is difficult to develop. However, a network for communication, established in each county, would increase the possibility of groups working in concert to provide maximum services to the public.

Last spring, the council sponsored a Communications Seminar for leaders from departments of state government and agencies/organizations that have a statewide focus on and a concern for the educational needs of adults. (Details of this seminar can be found on Page 12.) Prompted by the need for cooperation to benefit mutual clients and the increasing demands placed on educational service providers, the council organized the Communications Seminar as a first step towards interagency cooperation and collaboration. This meeting verified the council's belief that service providers want and need to communicate with each other and are willing to do so when given the opportunity.

Council assessment activities have prompted the following conclusions:

- * As adult participation in educational programs continues to grow, the present delivery system and its funding base become less adequate for the need.
- * Because of varied lifestyles and demanding schedules, educational opportunities for adults have to be flexible, accessible and responsible to client needs
- * In order to serve adults most in need of an education, service providers must cooperate with each other particularly in the areas of: (1) planning to eliminate duplication of effort and fill gaps in the delivery system and (2) provision of the ancillary services adults need for initial or continued participation in education programs (i.e. brokering and counseling services, financial assistance, health services, child care, etc.).

High School Completion

According to the 1970 Census, 48 percent of New Jersey's adult population 25 years of age and older did not have a high school diploma. Many of these adults are either totally or partially illiterate and in need of educational opportunities to provide them with the basic skills necessary to complete their high school education.

Unfortunately, little progress has been made in decreasing the number of adults who lack high school credentials because the state's high school drop-out rate exceeds the number of adults receiving equivalent or high school diplomas each year. The state's new high school graduation requirements have the potential for aggravating the situation particularly for the marginal student.

In order to meet the challenge of the next decade, there is crucial need for a plan which would outline how New Jersey's Department of Education should proceed in providing adults with varied opportunities to complete their high school education. The council has initiated a committee to make recommendations for such a plan.

Extended and Multi-Use of School Facilities

School buildings reflect the quality of life in a community and are an integral part of that life. They are closer to more people than any other public edifices. They also have a wide range of facilities which are uniquely designed for educational purposes. Yet, the majority of these buildings are closed two-thirds of the day, on weekends and during vacation periods. The council feels this waste of a valuable community resource is a serious problem.

Since school buildings are in close proximity to the majority of the population, there also is impetus to turn them into community service centers, providing health and social services to the community as well as housing, recreation, education, and cultural activities. The council supports this concept as a means of preserving community identity and as an impetus for community renewal.

Recommendation I

Recommendation I

Until specific action can be recommended regarding the above concerns, the council requests that the Commissioner of Education support legislation and other activities that would promote development in these areas.

Furthermore, the council recommends that the Commissioner of Education work towards strengthening the role of adult education within the total school system and provide incentives for school districts which demonstrate commitment to meeting the educational needs of adults in the community.

Adult Education Growth and Stability

The New Jersey Advisory Council for Adult, Continuing, Community Education is proud of the efforts many local school districts have made in providing for the educational needs of adults in their communities. During the past year, 182 districts reported that they served 369,061 adults in the areas of basic skills, vocational training, parent education and self-enrichment programs.

However, the council is concerned about the superficial commitment of some school boards to the educational needs of adults. When faced with budget constraints and limited resources, support for the adult education program is often severely curtailed. This vacillation by local boards of education, coupled with inadequate state and federal assistance, keeps adult education programs in a state of flux and prevents long range planning.

There is also growing concern that, because of dwindling resources, adult education administrators are being given additional school district responsibilities. Such action robs adult educators of valuable time needed to develop programs and bring about agency collaboration for better utilization of resources.

Another concern is that nearly half of New Jersey's school districts provide no assistance to adults who need and want basic education instruction. Yet studies have shown that parental involvement in educational endeavors has a positive effect on children's motivation for and success in learning. It also is true that society today requires continuous involvement in the learning process so that adults can make informed decisions and remain abreast of changes affecting their lives and those of their children.

Recommendation

Recommendation II

With deep conviction, the council recommends that the State Board of Education adopt the following resolution to encourage local boards of education to give their support to the implementation of educational programs for adults in their communities.

ADULT EDUCATION RESOLUTION

Since adult education is a strong deterrent to an illiterate and ill-informed society, and since adult education can assist efforts to improve education for children and youth, the New Jersey Advisory Council for Adult, Continuing, Community Education recommends that the State Board of Education adopt the following resolution:

WHEREAS, learning is lifelong and the education of adults is an integral part of the process; and

WHEREAS, educational opportunities are increasingly needed to assist adults in making critical decisions in their roles as parents, consumers, workers, citizens, and members of communities; and

WHEREAS, adult education programs provide the opportunity for adults to gain basic skills, credentials, and information necessary to cope with changing life situations; and

WHEREAS, through participation in adult education activities, parents reinforce the value of education, and exemplify its importance to children.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED THAT THE STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION encourage local school districts to adopt adult education activities as a vital and necessary component of their educational systems.

UPDATE OF PAST RECOMMENDATIONS

Learning
is Lifelong

"Changes in adults are a necessary part of social change: the major problems of society cannot be solved without certain changes in people. Without an emphasis on helping people to learn or change, how can we move toward peace, economic development, productivity, zero population growth, more effective government, better cities, widespread physical and mental health, satisfactory race relations -- and away from poverty, crime, urban problems, and pollution?"
Allen Tough

Part III

COUNCIL ACTIVITIES AND ACCOMPLISHMENTS

"The changing nature of our society requires virtually all citizens to gain new skills and intellectual orientations throughout their lives. Formal education of youth and younger adults, once thought of as a vaccine that would prevent ignorance later in life, is now recognized as inadequate by itself to give people all the educational guidance they will need to last a lifetime."
Theodore M. Eschburg, Paul A. Miller, Clifton R. Wharton, Jr.

THE COUNCIL AT A GLANCE

The New Jersey Advisory Council for Adult, Continuing, Community Education was established in 1972 to advise the Commissioner of Education and the Bureau of Adult, Continuing, Community Education on legislative, resource and communication needs in the field. Since that time, council members have been appointed by the commissioner and serve on a volunteer basis.

The past seven years have been marked by significant growth and experience for programs and participants in adult, continuing, community education. Changing perspectives have continuously challenged the council which has responded by broadening its membership, its activities and its concerns. The council's dedication to the improvement and expansion of programs and activities is demonstrated through its service to the field. This is reflected in the activities highlighted in this section.

The council has:

conducted the annual public meeting where issues affecting adult, continuing, community education were brought to the attention of a diverse audience.

provided testimony which focused on communication and cooperation to eliminate duplication of effort. This testimony was delivered to the Commission to Study the Mission, Finance and Governance of the County Colleges.

provided comment on proposed legislation for the establishment of a program of standards for high school graduation, and another bill which caused the dissolution of Garden State School District.

sponsored a panel discussion on "How to Choose, Use, and Abuse Your Advisory Council" at the spring conference of the Association for Adult Education of New Jersey.

commissioned a series of awareness articles on the activities and developments in adult, continuing, community education in New Jersey, for publication in "Interact".

promoted Adult and Community Education Week through the county councils and member constituencies, and accepted the governor's proclamation from Commissioner Burke.

ADULT EDUCATION STATE PLANNING TASK FORCE

The Adult Education Act, as amended November 1, 1978, requires each state to submit a three-year plan which sets forth a program for the use of funds under the act with respect to all segments of the adult population in the state and in accordance with the following purposes:

- (1) enable all adults to acquire basic skills necessary to function in society,
- (2) enable adults who so desire to continue their education to at least the level of completion of secondary school, and
- (3) make available to adults the means to secure training that will enable them to become more employable, productive, and responsible citizens."

In keeping with the spirit and intent of the new legislation, the Bureau of Adult, Continuing, Community Education requested the council's assistance in establishing a state-level planning task force to ensure a continuation and an increase in cooperative and coordinated efforts among state agencies.

The council responded by assigning eight of its members to the Planning Task Force. This group will assume the leadership in meeting the following objectives over a three-year period:

1. To compile and produce a report of educational, training and support services available through state agencies and programs.
2. To develop specific goals related to the needs of least educated adults for inclusion in future State Plans of the respective agencies and programs.
3. To develop further avenues for cooperative planning and programming and for sharing resources.

Members of the Task Force, which include representatives from the Departments of Community Affairs, Corrections, Education, Health, Higher Education, Human Services, Labor and Industry, and the State Library, have begun to assess the education programs and support services available through their own and various other state-level agencies. This assessment report then will be used to initiate the next steps in the plan.

LOGO

A major goal of the New Jersey Advisory Council for Adult, Continuing, Community Education is promotion of the concept of lifelong learning. To broaden this promotional effort, the council requested that a logo be developed to raise awareness among the citizenry that learning is a "cradle-to-the-grave" process. The Communications Committee undertook the assignment.

With the assistance of Carlos S. Franco, graphics manager, New Jersey School Boards Association, the committee's task was accomplished. The logo Mr. Franco developed, which appears on this page and throughout the report, represents the continuous, uplifting nature of learning. While pleasing to the eye, it shows the strength of learning as well as its durability.

The council is grateful to Mr. Franco for his original design. It is hoped that it will be widely used by those who believe in the lifelong learning concept.

MEMBERSHIP UPDATE

During this past year, the council has continued its efforts to maintain a membership plan that provides group continuity, stability and eclecticism.

Members of the Council belong to one of three groups: associate members (representing the departments of state government, the State Board of Education and county council chairpersons) on-going members (representing groups most closely/directly involved in adult, continuing, community education) and rotating members (representing groups with interests or involvement in adult, continuing, community education although not necessarily their prime function.). This system allows for broad based representation. It takes into consideration culture/ethnicity, geographical region, type of community, as well as group affiliation of each members.

At present, the following groups are represented on the council:

Associate Members - the Departments of Labor and Industry (DELA), Higher Education, Community Affairs (Division on Aging), Health, Human Services, Corrections, and Education (Division of Vocational Education and Career Planning), the State Board of Education and county council chairpersons.

On-going Members - Institutionalized/Handicapped, Labor, Industry, College Continuing Education Administrators, Community Adult Education Directors, Adult Education Association, Association for Community Education, New Jersey School Boards Association and a community-based organization.

Rotating Members - Elected Officials, Business, County Superintendents of Schools, Librarians, Social Service Agencies, Recreators and Hispanics.

This plan, which has been functional for the past two years, has proven to be far-sighted in its approach.

Regulations for the new Adult Education Act mandate that programs be developed as a result of consultation, coordination, and cooperation among various agencies. The council, which advises the Bureau of Adult, Continuing, Community Education, has been instrumental in helping the bureau meet that obligation because of its eclectic nature.

Part IV

ABOUT THE COUNTY COUNCILS

"Reform does not come easily to education. But if it comes at all, it emerges slowly and laboriously from the work of many people -- especially teachers. In the end, our schools reflect the American society--its values, its hopes, its needs and its diversity."
Sidney P. Harland, Jr.

COUNTY COUNCIL ACTIVITIES

County councils for adult, continuing, community education, as part of the statewide interorganizational communications system, reflect the efforts of the State Advisory Council in maintaining communication with a broad constituency. The chairperson of each county council is a member of the County Council Chairpersons Task Force, with one member sitting on the state council. The task force is the link between the state council, the Bureau of Adult, Continuing, Community Education, and the county councils.

Because of their unique mission, county councils were chosen by the bureau last winter, to facilitate participatory planning for the New Jersey State Plan for Adult Education. In each of the 21 counties, two planning sessions were conducted, at which time diverse county groups met to:

- identify county needs for services authorized under the Adult Education Act.
- establish program goals in accordance with the needs.
- rank-order the goals.
- define resources necessary to meet the needs.
- identify available resources.
- explore avenues for cooperative programming.

This was done to ensure that competency-based basic education (instruction in the basic communication and computational skills in the context of knowledge areas necessary to function in society) would be available to all segments of the adult population, and especially to those who are least educated and most in need of educational assistance.

Commissioner's Statewide Advisory Council on Adult Learning Services

A Brief History

The Advisory Council on Adult Learning Services was appointed by State Education Commissioner Gordon M. Ambach in 1978 to think comprehensively about the learning needs of adults in New York State and advise him on what action should be taken to meet those needs. Specifically, the Council helps the Department relate its many efforts in support of adult learning to those of the multitude of agencies and organizations throughout the State that provide learning opportunities for adults. The Council is designed to play a major role in helping develop plans for comprehensive learning services for adults that will, by combining public and private resources, assure to every adult in the State access to the finest learning opportunities possible.

In creating the Council, Commissioner Ambach noted that since all of the education in New York State is under the jurisdiction of the Board of Regents, the State is in a unique position to provide coordinated services to adults. Council members include representatives of major learner groups as well as of institutions that provide services, such as two- and four-year public and private colleges, proprietary institutions, public school districts, BCES, libraries, museums, public television, the media, and community organizations. The Council also includes representatives of business, agriculture, and labor and public and private agencies that provide related services to adults.

Members of the Council serve up to four years, with members being appointed for one, two, or three year terms in order to provide for continuity of membership.

Work of the Council is coordinated on behalf of the Commissioner by Dr. Norman D. Kurland, Executive Director of Adult Learning Services, and Robert Purga, Assistant to the Director.

At its first meeting on May 14, 1978, the Council decided to focus on six areas of concern: (1) the low status of adult education; (2) the goals of adult learning and the social trends impacting on those goals; (3) financing adult learning; (4) family development, including parent education; (5) information and counseling services for adults; and (6) standards and competencies.

Working committees were formed to look at the last five areas. One set of recommendations from these committees is attached.

At present the Council has 32 members and has an executive committee consisting of the Council chair and vice-chair, and the chairs of the Council's four working committees: (1) open learning, (2) financing, (3) education and the economy and (4) the family. An outline of the Council's current tasks is provided in the 1979-80 Workplan.

Excerpts from "Annual Report"
 RHODE ISLAND ADULT EDUCATION COMMISSION
 April 30, 1980

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

April 30, 1980

His Excellency, J. Joseph Garrahy,
 Governor of the State of Rhode Island;

The Honorable Members of the General Assembly of the State;

The Board of Regents for Education

Ladies and Gentlemen:

The Rhode Island Adult Education Commission was created last year pursuant to Title 16, Chapter 58, of the General Laws.

The commission's first annual report is presented to you herewith, in accordance with S16-58-6 (D).

This report represents the efforts and accomplishments of the commission during its first year of existence, through April 30, 1980.

Adult education is an area of major importance to our society. Please be assured that we are taking our responsibility very seriously.

We have set ambitious goals, consistent with the statute and your expectations. Clearly, they cannot be accomplished in the short time we have had, actually only nine months, since we initiated our work.

From this modest beginning, we are proceeding with renewed determination.

By this time next year, after having digested the testimony received during our series of public meetings, and having completed the first phase of our comprehensive study of adult education in Rhode Island, and also having concluded our legislative analysis, we will have a more complete report of findings, conclusions, and recommendations.

We also will be developing and submitting a package of legislative proposals, for consideration by the January, 1981, session of the general assembly.

We thank the Governor for entrusting us with this mission; we commend the legislature for enacting the statute which is making it possible, and we pledge our continuing cooperation to the Board of Regents.

There are thousands of people in Rhode Island who truly need the benefits of our endeavors. We now recommit ourselves to the cause of adult education and we promise that we will produce results.

We thank you for your valued cooperation during this first year of our work.

INTRODUCTION

For the first time in history, the words "adult education" now appear in our state law. And those words, along with what they mean and the need they represent, are being heard and heeded throughout the state.

Building on the work of previous committees and of many dedicated individuals over the years, the Rhode Island Adult Education Commission has devoted the past nine months to organizing itself, receiving initial input, and developing strategy. It has been a year of new beginnings for adult education in Rhode Island.

This annual report cites our accomplishments in 1979-1980 and indicates our goals for 1980-1981.

Hopefully, we are instilling the realization that education is for everyone, not only for children, and that adult education, although not a cure-all, will convert tax-dependents into tax-payers and will help solve many personal and social problems.

All this is happening here while the federal government inaugurates the new United States Department of Education, with its own proper national focus on the needs of adult learners.

It is shameful that, to this day, here in our own state, there are thousands of functionally illiterate adults, that 50.2% of the over-16 population do not have a 12th grade education or equivalency, and that many of our fellow citizens remain unemployed or underemployed because they lack marketable skills.

As our fact-finding continues, and after we have time to digest all the testimony and analyze the data, we will have substantive conclusions and recommendations. That activity will constitute the work for our second year, through April 30, 1981.

We take this opportunity to thank the hundreds of people who attended our regular meetings, participated in our public meetings, answered our survey, and assisted us in our many specific requests for information.

I personally am indebted to Governor Garrahy and my colleagues in state government for their encouragement and support; to the members of the Legislature for their interest and concern; to the Board of Regents and Commissioner Schmidt and his staff for their complete cooperation; to my fellow commission members for sharing this serious responsibility, and to so many others, those mentioned in this report, and more who are not, without whom this mission truly would be impossible.

Having made and stated our case, we will present it to the general assembly, and publicly, about a year from now. It certainly can be expected that we will call for a far greater state and local commitment to adult education.

The people of Rhode Island are its most precious resource, and this resource must be cultivated in order to reap maximum personal and societal dividends.

We believe that adult education, or life-long learning, is the only means by which this can be accomplished.

I

SOME STRAIGHTFORWARD STATISTICS

- Rhode Island has an adult (age 18 and over) population of 614,305 men and women.
- Of this total, 65,422 (10.6%) have less than eight years of schooling. This includes many who remain functionally illiterate, that is, who cannot read or write.
- Our state has 308,215 people (50.2%) in the adult population who lack a high school education or the equivalency. Nowadays, this is considered a minimum level of educational attainment.
- Relatively few adults (actually, only 57,000, or 8.8% of the over-18 population) have received a college or technical education.
- Most adults face job or career change decisions, for which they need relevant information, counseling, and education or training opportunities.
- Many people are stuck in dead-end jobs because they lack marketable knowledge and skills.
- The adult population is the fastest-growing segment of our society, while the traditional school-age population is shrinking.
- The 1979-1980 public school enrollment in our 40 school districts over-all is 4.1% less than last year.
- The school drop-out rate is very high. In Rhode Island, 25% of the youngsters now in Grade 7 will leave school without graduating from Grade 12.
- The number of students graduating from this state's high schools will decline from about 13,000 this year to only 7,900 by 1985.
- Conversely, the college enrollment in Rhode Island will remain essentially stable (at about 59,000) until 1985, but may dip slightly toward the end of the decade. There will be a considerable increase in the number of 25- to 44-year-olds participating in post-secondary education.

Further, we are concerned about ...

... welfare recipients who would go to work if they had appropriate education or training, even at entry-level;

... inmates in our corrections institutions who could be rehabilitated and diverted from further criminal activity to productive lives as good citizens if they receive adequate academic remediation and vocational training;

... immigrants and refugees who are anxious to mainstream into our American society through citizenship, English language, and bilingual instruction in both basic and occupational subjects;

... countless adults who suffer from stress and more severe psychological problems, arising from their inability to cope with employment and socio-economic demands, and who may find the solution by engaging in education or training and thus qualify for better jobs with increased satisfaction and more adequate compensation.

PRELIMINARY OBSERVATIONS

The Constitution of the State of Rhode Island, in Article XII, says that the state has the duty to promote all necessary and proper means for providing the advantages and opportunities of education to the people. It does not limit education to children or traditional school-age young people.

Hence, education is for everyone and it is a life-long process. That, in brief, is what adult education is all about!

People pursue adult education for a variety of reasons ... to survive in this complex world ... to lead fuller personal lives ... to get and keep jobs ... to assimilate into American society ... to spend leisure time constructively ... perhaps as many reasons as there are people!

Numerous individuals need education but do not receive it. There are many constraints ... lack of awareness that adult education is available ... not having or taking the time ... inability to afford tuition and fees ... being too shy or scared to come forth ... lacking confidence ... being afraid to fail ... again, all kinds of reasons.

THE CHALLENGE

Rhode Island faces the challenge of improving the quantity and quality of its adult education programs and services.

Surely, this will cost more money. But we already are paying a very heavy price in terms of unproductive people and social problems.

Of course, adult education, in itself, is not a cure-all. However, it is the best investment we can make in human potential and the economic strength of our state and nation.

THE STATUTE:

● DEFINITION OF ADULT EDUCATION AND ORIGIN OF THE COMMISSION

The Rhode Island Adult Education Commission came into existence by virtue of a law enacted by the state legislature and signed into law by Governor J. Joseph Garry on May 2, 1979.

The law is cited as Chapter 152, Public Laws of 1979, and is codified as Title 16, Chapter 58, of the General Laws of Rhode Island.

The statute actually has two major effects.

First, in S16-58-2, it provides a definition of adult education. Such a definition is needed in order to establish exactly what is meant by "adult education" in Rhode Island. This definition, translated into operational terms, delineates the state's adult education delivery system.

Our definition of adult education probably is the best and broadest in the country. It goes beyond the narrow confines of adult basic education as a measure to compensate for a lack of education during a person's earlier years.

Secondly, the statute creates the commission and sets forth its responsibilities.

● HISTORY OF THE LEGISLATION

The legislation, which later became the statute, was developed and proposed by the Adult Education Association of Rhode Island, which is the major state-wide organization of adult education professionals, consumers, and interested citizens.

The bill, as 79-H-5749, was introduced by State Representative Anthony J. Carciari, Democrat, of Warwick, on February 27, 1979. It was considered by the Health, Education, and Welfare committees in both the House and Senate. The bill enjoyed broad support and it was passed by large plurality votes in both branches of the legislature.

● COMPOSITION OF THE COMMISSION

The commission's composition, specifying the inclusion of legislators, state officials, adult education professionals, consumers, and the general public, is prescribed in the statute; at S16-58-3.

In selecting appointees, careful consideration was given to insure representation from all geographic areas of the state, and the presence of minorities, women, and a broad range of ages.

COMMISSION CERTIFIED AS THE STATE ADVISORY COUNCIL FOR ADULT EDUCATION

The United States Department of Education has certified the Rhode Island Adult Education Commission as the state advisory council for adult education, pursuant to the federal Adult Education Act (Public Law 91-230, as amended).

In order to be certified, the commission had to meet strict requirements specified in the federal law, namely, that the appointments be made by the governor of the state and that the appointees include state education officials, adult educators, past or present students in adult education, and representatives of the general public.

When our legislation was drafted, we anticipated the eventual certification by including precise language, from the federal act, to prescribe the composition of the commission and its role concerning the state plan.

This certification ratifies the commission's authority to be involved in the development of the state plan for adult education, review the plan, and advise the regents and the commissioner on matters of policy and administration of the plan, as well as to advise on long-range planning for adult education in the state.

The commission did review the state's current three-year plan. Our comments and recommendations are included on pages 21 and 22.

Since the commission is certified, it has qualified for a grant of $10,000, in federal funds, which we have received and which is supporting our work for the period from October 1, 1979, to June 30, 1980. (Please refer to budget on page 24.)

Governor Garry personally sent the letter, dated August 24, 1979, in which the certification was requested. The reply came in a letter, dated December 12, 1979, over the signature of Dr. Mary F. Berry, Assistant Secretary of the then United States Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Ours is one of only four state advisory councils to be so certified. The others are Iowa, Kansas, and Michigan.

This is a valuable recognition of our commission and places Rhode Island in a national leadership role in the field of adult education.

SECRETARIAT AND MEETING PLACES

By agreement with the State Department of Education the commission maintains a secretariat within the Bureau of Vocational-Technical Education. This enabled us to list a specified address and telephone number.

Dr. Frank M. Santoro, Deputy Assistant Commissioner as Secretary of the Commission, supervises this convenient arrangement.

Ms. Dayle Guida, Secretary to Dr. Santoro, serves as our administrative assistant at the secretariat.

Meetings and working sessions also were accommodated at the Governor's Special Grant Office, the Providence office of the U.R.I. Cooperative Extension Service, and the other locations listed on pages 7 and 8.

This was the first year of the commission's existence and operation. Given that the governor made the initial appointments in June and that the members were sworn-in on August 7, 1979, this was an abbreviated work-year of only nine months.

Our immediate emphasis was to become familiar with the background and current status of adult education in Rhode Island. We pursued this as follows.

- We received background information from the two major past and current committees concerned with adult education;

- We held several meetings with Dr. Thomas C. Schmidt, Commissioner of Education, and other key personnel in the State Department of Education;

- We conducted a survey of professionals, consumers, and public officials (see pages 13 and 14.)

- We launched our series of public meetings at various locations throughout the state (see page 11.)

- We initiated the strategy for the comprehensive study of adult education in Rhode Island, which is to begin on October 1, 1980 (see pages 17 to 19.)

- We participated in a number of related conferences, seminars, and activities ...

- the state's new Basic Skills program will include an emphasis on adult education;

- the commission is a member of the Rhode Island Community Television Access Committee;

- the chairman is a member of the state team for Legislative Initiatives in Guidance Programs;

- commissioners and staff participated in national, regional, and state adult education conferences.

1980 SERIES OF PUBLIC MEETINGS

As the commission proceeded to consider the entire field of adult education in Rhode Island, it sought the broadest possible input.

Through the 1980 series of public meetings, we attracted more than four hundred individuals, many now represented agencies, institutions, and organizations, but also many who were local officials, adult learners, and the general public.

Attendance was promoted through newspaper advertising, public service announcements on radio and television, a large direct mailing, and follow-up telephone calls.

Meetings were held at various locations throughout the state. The complete schedule appears on pages 11-12.

Each meeting had a "focus" theme, to promote a concentrated discussion of topics with high priority in adult education. However, the meetings were not limited to these themes.

Participants were invited from throughout the state, but each meeting also provided an opportunity for the commission to hear local and regional concerns from the people of specified cities and towns.

The meetings were essentially informal. After each speaker made a statement, board members and others asked questions, and there usually followed an open dialogue in which several persons participated.

They shared their thoughts about adult education in Rhode Island. They told us what they are doing. They asked questions. They offered ideas and suggestions. They expressed constructive criticism.

The experience was most insightful.

The public meetings were a complete success.

SURVEY OF CURRENT ISSUES IN ADULT EDUCATION

In January, 1980, as the commission invited professionals, consumers, and public officials to attend the public meetings, we included a survey form, by which we wanted to assess their views as to what are the current issues and priorities in adult education in Rhode Island.

The total mailing was approximately 2,500, and we received 274 survey forms by return mail, thus, a 10.9% response.

There were 38 items listed on the form. Respondents were asked to check those which they felt were major current issues in adult education in our state.

The following is a listing of the items, rank-ordered according to the number of times each was checked, thus indicating the priority assigned to each item by the respondents collectively.

LEGISLATION

Our first major mission, under the statute, was to undertake a review of Rhode Island state education laws as they specifically pertain to adult education. The factors to be considered are specified in S16-58-6 (A).

This work was assigned to one of our interns, a law school student, functioning as a research associate under the supervision of our Legislation Committee.

To date, our findings are that ...

- the state education laws are generally oriented to concerns for the traditional education of children and typical school-age young people, and
- there are relatively few laws which even mention adult concerns, namely,
 - S16-27, mandating vocational rehabilitation services;
 - S16-29, providing for Americanization schools and which seems to serve as the statutory authority for maintaining local adult education programs;
 - S16-40, governing the operation of private and proprietary schools;

- S16-41, defining the New England Higher Education Compact;
- S16-44, creating the state's original system of community colleges;
- S16-45, establishing the regional vocational schools;
- S16-50, setting standards for correspondence schools and home-study courses;
- S16-55, granting specific educational benefits to senior citizens;
- S16-56, providing for post-secondary student financial assistance;
- S16-57, creating the Rhode Island Higher Education Assistance Authority, and
- S16-58, which is our own statute.

We are considering the current relevance of these laws and how they could be improved or better enforced. We may suggest that some provisions be repealed.

LEGISLATIVE PACKAGE DUE NEXT YEAR

The commission plans to prepare a legislative package for introduction in the January, 1981, session of the general assembly.

The package will contain suggested amendments to our current laws and some proposed new legislation, all designed to enhance educational opportunities for the adult population of our state.

COMPREHENSIVE STUDY OF ADULT EDUCATION IN RHODE ISLAND

The commission's second major responsibility is to conduct, on an ongoing basis, a comprehensive study of adult education in Rhode Island.

The study is to include, but not necessarily be limited to, the five aspects specified in S16-58-6 (B) of the statute.

Those aspects consist of a systematic determination of ...

- ... what educational programs and services are needed and wanted by the people of our state? ("Assessment");
- ... how well is the current delivery system responding? ("Delivery System");
- ... is this response adequate? ("Adequacy"), and
- ... what are the realistic economics of providing an effective adult education program here in Rhode Island? ("Financial").

The commission is striving to make the study more than a surface exercise. We want to be thorough and thus reach sound conclusions and recommendations which can be translated into action.

We are anxious to undertake the comprehensive study, but we also wanted to admit the results of the survey and the input from the public meetings, because both those activities will have some bearing on the direction of the study.

The chairpersons of the four subcommittees, concerned with the comprehensive study, held their first meeting on October 25, 1979.

Since then, preliminary work has been initiated by the Assessment, Delivery System, and Financial subcommittees. Much momentum was gained as our student interns were deployed in January, 1980.

The first step, in earnest, is to design a "strategy" for the study. This will be a written plan detailing each aspect of the study, as precisely as possible, in terms of ...

- the parameters of the study, that is, what we are setting out to accomplish and how far we want to go, at least in this first attempt;
- the kind of information we will seek;
- what existing information we can use or adapt;
- the possible sources of still-needed information;
- the methods by which the information will be obtained;
- what outside help we can solicit;
- the personnel and consultant requirements for getting this done;
- the time-line, showing how long it will take, and
- the estimated cost of conducting each aspect of the study.

The Comprehensive Study Committee already has adopted a general outline, which appears on page 18.

The coordinator was retained, on a part-time consultant basis, for the four-month period from March 1 to June 30, 1980. She now is working with the interns to consolidate their respective activities and finalize the proposed strategy for the study.

RESPONSIBILITIES AS THE STATE ADVISORY COUNCIL FOR ADULT EDUCATION

Rhode Island's federally-assisted Adult Basic Education programs are being administered according to a state plan for the three-year period from October 1, 1979, through September 30, 1982.

The commission, as the state advisory council for adult education, has specific responsibilities in this regard. This becomes our third major function, as prescribed at §16-58-6 (C) in the statute.

At the time when the current state plan was written, the commission had not yet been created and certified. Hence, we had no formal opportunity for original input.

However, as soon as the commission was formed and began to function, we proceeded to work with the staff of the State Department of Education, in fulfillment of our cited responsibilities.

The State Plan Committee met on October 24 and December 20, 1979.

During the three-month period from November, 1979, to January, 1980, some members participated on evaluation teams which conducted on-site visitations to a number of Adult Basic Education programs, in local cities and towns, funded under the state plan.

Public Meeting #1, held on January 17, 1980, constituted the participatory process on matters of the state plan for adult education. Relevant testimony also was received at other meetings in that series.

Through these activities, the commission has developed the following list of observations and recommendations ...

1. Since the Rhode Island Adult Education Commission is officially constituted as the state advisory council for adult education, such inclusion is to be incorporated into the Plan (Section 1.4, State Plan Participatory Planning).
2. An amendment is to be made in Section 1.4.2 to reflect the change in the participatory process, i.e., the first public meeting of each year will be the open hearing for input into the state plan.
3. There is general agreement that other special sub-groups should be added to Section 2.1. These should include (a) retarded adults who are not institutionalized but have a need for adult education services, and (b) the physically handicapped who live in the community and have special needs for adult education services.
4. The lack of linkage and coordination among agencies and programs could be corrected (cf. Sec. 2.2) by forming a Bureau of Adult Education within the Department of Education.
5. Because of the considerable disagreement about the need for and the type of certification requirements, and because the proposed requirements developed by the task force (cf. Sec. 3.1.4) have been criticized by many groups concerned about adult education, the Commission recommends that no further action be taken until a review and another hearing have been completed.
6. Section 3.4.1 should be updated to reflect the present status of the State Advisory Committee.
7. It is recommended that no bilingual programs be initiated until the need for such programs, and the advisability for such programs have been substantiated by the 1980 census figures and the effectiveness of the EEL programs have been studied.
8. The fees collected for general adult education should be mandated by statute to remain in the adult education budgets of the local agency, and all state aid paid on adult education monies should also remain in those budgets.
9. School committees should be required to expend specified percentages of local educational funds for adult education. The State should expend additional funds for adult education equivalent to the funds granted to it by the United States Education department under P. L. 91-230.
10. Priority should be given to maintaining or improving attendance in programs (cf. Sec. 5.1 Goal 4) and to effective outreach programs for those adults less inclined to seek adult educational services.
11. Legislative action should be taken to bring the age requirements of the high school equivalency program into agreement with the definition of "adult" contained in the definition of adult education (General Laws 16-56-2).
12. The commission notes the lack of necessary counseling services among adult education programs. On-going personal, educational and vocational counseling are essential components of an adult education program.
13. As noted in number 3 (above), there will be additions to the Special Populations/Groups in Section 3.4.5 as changes occur in the philosophy concerning institutionalization. When the present state plan for desegregation takes effect, there will be increasing need for services to these additional groups.

Island Adult Education Commission was supported by a grant of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.) in federal funds, channeled through the Rhode Island State Department of Education.

The commission qualified for this funding by virtue of being certified as the state advisory council for adult education (see page 9).

An operating budget was adopted by the commission on November 7, 1979, and was revised on February 29, 1980. The budget appears on page 31.

Operations, under this budget, are continuing until June 30, 1980. Thereafter, a final financial report

An Act

An Act To Provide For The Community Education Act Of 1976.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. This act may be cited as the Community Education Act of 1976.

SECTION 2. The General Assembly finds that in recognition of the fact that the school, as the prime educational institution of the community, is most effective when it involves the people of that community in a process designed to fulfill their education needs, and since community education promotes a more efficient use of community facilities through an extension of buildings, personnel, and equipment, it is the purpose of this act to facilitate the provision of recreational, educational, cultural, social, health, and other community services, in accordance with the needs, interests and concerns of the community, through the establishment of the community education programs, for such activities, in cooperation with other governmental agencies and community service organizations.

SECTION 3. For the purpose of this act "community education" is a process by which public facilities are utilized as community centers operated in conjunction with governmental agencies and community service organizations to provide educational, recreational, cultural, social, health and other community services for all persons in the community in accordance with the needs, interests, and concerns of that community.

SECTION 4. The State Department of Education shall promote the implementation and operation of community education programs throughout the State of South Carolina.

SECTION 5. A nine member state community education advisory council, representing recreation, health, cultural, social services, community services, education, business-industry, aged and minority groups, shall be appointed by the State Superintendent of Education, for the purpose of promoting furtherance of this act and the advancement of recreational, educational, cultural, social and health opportunities through the maximum utilization of public facilities. Members of the council shall be appointed for a four year term, provided that staggered terms shall be established so that after the first year no more than one-fourth of the members will be appointed in a given year. A majority of the council constitute a quorum.

SECTION 6. The board of trustees of each school district of the State is hereby authorized to, but not obligated to, coordinate a community education program in its district. Each participating board shall provide the general supervision of the program.

SECTION 7. This act shall take effect upon approval by the Governor.
