31 Code of ethics for research followed by the departments

Response:

a) The Institution follows the University Guideline G-53 (University Research Policy Guidelines) and G-58 (Policy Guidelines for Publication and Presentation of Research at Symposia/Meetings/Conferences)

Ethical Clearance should be obtained from the Institutional Ethics Committee (IEC) if the proposal involves research on human participants. Ethics committee approval should be obtained before beginning the research work. Ethics committee approval is needed for all kinds of biomedical research involving human participants or their samples or stored data/ clinical records. Research should not be done if ethics committee has not given the clearance.

The composition of ethics committee is as per ICMR Ethical Guidelines. The IECs should be multidisciplinary and multi-sectorial in composition. Independence and competence are the two hallmarks of an IEC. The number of persons in an ethics committee should be kept fairly small (8 - 12 members). It is generally accepted that a minimum of five persons is required to form the quorum without which a decision regarding the research should not be taken. The IEC should appoint from among its members a Chairman who should be from outside the Institution and not head of the same Institution to maintain the independence of the Committee. The Member Secretary should be from the same Institution and should conduct the business of the Committee. Other members should be a mix of medical/ non-medical, scientific and non-scientific persons including lay persons to represent the differed points of view. The composition may be as follows:-

1. Chairperson, 2. One - two persons from basic medical science area, 3. One - two clinicians from various Institutes, 4. One legal expert or retired judge, 5. One social scientist/ representative of non-governmental voluntary agency, 6. One philosopher/ ethicist/ theologian, 7. One lay person from the community, 8. Member Secretary

b) There is an established University/institutional ethics committee which screens various projects/proposals related to human samples/ animals and ensures that appropriate measures should be taken during handling of animals or processing of samples. We also strictly follow plagiarism policy of the university by using software ‘Turnitin’.

46 How does the department ensure that programme objectives are constantly met and learning outcomes are monitored?

Response:

Outcome assessment is a systematic evaluative process that is implemented to secure learning experiences that are congruent with the original goals and objectives, thereby providing a basis for effective and continuous quality improvement of the academic unit.

The assessment plan includes:

1. Mission: The mission is defined for the domain which flows down to the institution level and finally to the programme level.
2. Objectives: Every programme has objectives defined in line with the institution and domain goals under the following categories:
 - (a) Programme Educational objectives (PEO)
 - (b) Programme Operational objectives (POO)
3. Outcomes: The outcomes of every programme are categorised as:
 - (a) Programme Learning outcomes (PLO)
 - (b) Programme Operational outcomes (POO)

Mapping of PEOs with PLOs: The relationship of PEOs and PLOs are clearly indicated through the mapping of learning outcomes with educational objectives. Each outcome addresses one or more objectives. Outcomes are assessed and achievement of an outcome indicates attainment of the objective.

Assessment of Learning and Operational Outcomes: Each learning outcome is assessed by at least one direct and one indirect tool. Some examples of direct tools are comprehensive exam, dissertation report rubrics, communication skills rubrics, behavioural science rubrics etc. Indirect assessment tools include student exit survey, alumni survey, feedback of industry internship guide etc. Similarly, operational outcomes are also assessed using operational assessment tools such as student feedback of course faculty, plagiarism check of internship/dissertation reports etc. All the above mentioned tools are developed by the programme review committee (PRC) and implemented by the programme outcome assessment committee (POAC).

Programme review: Through the review of our programmes, we seek to evaluate whether

- Students are learning the knowledge, skills and traits necessary to achieve the programme objectives and in turn the institution, domain and university goals.
- The curriculum is coherent, current and consistent
- The instruction is effective in enabling the student
- The resources are adequate for student learning
- The academic support services are adequate to facilitate student learning

We have illustrated the implementation of outcome assessment plan for one of our programmes at Amity Institute of Anthropology, namely B.Sc (H) Anthropology as Appendix 1

49 State whether the programme/ department is accredited/ graded by other agencies?

Response:

The Institute is accredited by BSI. However, the University is accredited by UGC

50 Briefly highlight the contributions of the department in generating new knowledge, basic or applied:

Response:

Faculty at AIA work at the community level carrying out research on all aspects of humankind. At AIA various research works related to tribes and other population are conducted with very good outcome for policy planning and implementation.

The project ‘Health and Family Welfare Infrastructure (Private and Public Sector) in East Khasi Hills (Meghalaya) Focusing on Abortion’, was sponsored by Ministry of Health and Family Welfare (Project Director: Dr. Roumi Deb). It was conducted in thirty-five villages from all the seven blocks of East Khasi Hill district of Meghalaya. The data collection was on the various health aspects related to women and children in the community.

The project Demographic and genetic studies related to the incidence of Neural Tube Defects (NTDs)’ was sponsored by ‘Indian Council of Medical Research’ (Project Director: Dr. Roumi Deb). This project aimed to assess the role of hyperthermia, drug exposure and chronic illness of the mother during pregnancy behind the Neural Tube Defect child. Besides to study the role of PAX-1, 3, 7 & 9 genes in the incidence of Neural Tube Defect and to screen the mothers of Neural Tube Defects and the control mothers for MTHFR C677T polymorphism. Project Director: Dr. Roumi Deb.

A study of Migrant women in the Informal Sector of Delhi Regions funded by ICSSR (PI- Prof. Roumi Deb). This study documents migrant women’s experiences of living in the city and working in the informal sector. Carried out for six months in slum settlements in Delhi, the objective was to understand, through women’s eyes, the processes of migration to the city, finding work, setting up a home and building a new life. This study documents the fact that women are migrating in search of livelihood, that women are important economic agents in this process.

Prevalence and Risk Factors leading to HIV Infection Among the Two Tribes of Jaintia Hills, Meghalaya (PI- Prof. Roumi Deb). Present study clearly indicates that HIV is prevalent (4.92%) in almost all parts of the Jaintia Hills, Meghalaya. More numbers of women are infected with HIV in comparison to their male counterparts and the main mode of transmission is mostly sexual transmission. Study reveals that due to lack of knowledge regarding HIV/AIDS, illiteracy youths are not able to access the prevention services. There are no HIV/ AIDS prevention programmes or activities sponsored by local mosque or churches in the study area. Awareness programme regarding various aspects of HIV/AIDS was conducted among the youths of Jaintia Hills through HIV/AIDS Awareness Programme, focus group discussion at the school, college, community level under the present study.

Ovarian Cancer screening is being carried out under a DBT sanctioned Project in the Malwa region of Punjab, where the women are screened for carcinoma in the ovaries. If found, follow up of these women is done where they are referred to a gynaecologist for further assessment. Also, pesticide detection is being carried out in the blood samples of these women in order to understand its role in cancer causation.

HIV screening is being carried out at mass level under DST funded project among the Tangkhul Naga of Manipur. It was observed that the Tangkhul's which a very sensitive tribe with less awareness still live with prejudice and stigma against HIV/AIDS which acts as a huge barrier in availing medical services as well as hampers proper administration of measures and implementations programs. In such sensitive scenario, acquiring the accurate rate of HIV prevalence becomes impossible. People do not come forward for blood screening, and HIV/AIDS infection is still kept in hush.

34. How many students have cleared Civil Services and Defence Services examinations, NET, SET, GATE and other competitive examinations? Give details category-wise.

Response:

The students in Biotechnology aim for going for higher education. In the past years we have seen that many students opted for higher education both in India and abroad. As biotechnology is a research based field and there is a lot of scope in foreign countries for students to opt for PG or PhD. They qualify GRE, TOEFL.

Others who do not opt for higher education are given placement opportunities in biotech, life sciences or pharma companies. Students are placed in the business domain of these industries such as in Business development, Marketing executives, research analyst etc. Students of PG level are absorbed by the industry as R and D support, Quality control analyst, Production Units and technical support as well. Our students have qualified exams of national and international levels.

Response:

The feed backs from all stake holders (faculty, academia, research, industry and alumni) are taken so that programme can be designed and students can get edge in joining industry and research institutes. International programmes are introduced to provide global exposure to the students in related fields.

Three continent (3C) programmes were designed to create global leaders. The 3 Continent programmes have been crafted to develop the skills and confidence required to navigate through this new global environment. 46 How does the department ensure that programme objectives are constantly met and learning outcomes are monitored?

Response :

Outcome assessment is a systematic evaluative process that is implemented to secure learning experiences that are congruent with the original goals and objectives, thereby providing a basis for effective and continuous quality improvement of the academic unit.

The assessment plan includes:

- 2) Mission: The mission is defined for the domain which flows down to the institution level and finally to the programme level.
- 3) Objectives: Every programme has objectives defined in line with the institution and domain goals under the following categories:
 - 1. Programme Educational objectives (PEO)
 - 2. Programme Operational objectives (POO)
- 4) Outcomes: The outcomes of every programme are categorised as:
 - 1. Programme Learning outcomes (PLO)
 - 2. Programme Operational outcomes (POO)

Mapping of PEOs with PLOs: The relationship of PEOs and PLOs are clearly indicated through the mapping of learning outcomes with educational objectives. Each outcome addresses one or more objectives. Outcomes are assessed and achievement of an outcome indicates attainment of the objective.

Assessment of Learning and Operational Outcomes: Each learning outcome is assessed by at least one direct and one indirect tool. Some examples of direct tools are comprehensive exam, dissertation report rubrics, communication skills rubrics, behavioural science rubrics etc. Indirect assessment tools include student exit survey, alumni survey, feedback of industry internship guide etc. Similarly, operational outcomes are also assessed using operational assessment tools such as student feedback of course faculty, plagiarism check of internship/dissertation reports etc. All the above mentioned tools are developed by the programme review committee (PRC) and implemented by the programme outcome assessment committee (POAC).

Programme review: Through the review of our programmes, we seek to evaluate whether

- Students are learning the knowledge, skills and traits necessary to achieve the programme objectives and in turn the institution, domain and university goals.
- The curriculum is coherent, current and consistent
- The instruction is effective in enabling the student
- The resources are adequate for student learning
- The academic support services are adequate to facilitate student learning

We have illustrated the implementation of outcome assessment plan for one of our programmes at Amity Institute of Biotechnology, namely M .Tech Biotechnology as Appendix 1

46 How does the department ensure that programme objectives are constantly met and learning outcomes are monitored?

Response:

Outcome assessment is a systematic evaluative process that is implemented to secure learning experiences that are congruent with the original goals and objectives, thereby providing a basis for effective and continuous quality improvement of the academic unit.

The assessment plan includes:

1. Mission: The mission is defined for the domain which flows down to the institution level and finally to the programme level.
2. Objectives: Every programme has objectives defined in line with the institution and domain goals under the following categories:
 - (a) Programme Educational objectives (PEO)
 - (b) Programme Operational objectives (POO)
3. Outcomes: The outcomes of every programme are categorised as:
 - (a) Programme Learning outcomes (PLO)
 - (b) Programme Operational outcomes (POO)

Mapping of PEOs with PLOs: The relationship of PEOs and PLOs are clearly indicated through the mapping of learning outcomes with educational objectives. Each outcome addresses one or more objectives. Outcomes are assessed and achievement of an outcome indicates attainment of the objective.

Assessment of Learning and Operational Outcomes: Each learning outcome is assessed by at least one direct and one indirect tool. Some examples of direct tools are comprehensive exam, dissertation report rubrics, communication skills rubrics, behavioural science rubrics etc. Indirect assessment tools include student exit survey, alumni survey, feedback of industry internship guide etc. Similarly, operational outcomes are also assessed using operational assessment tools such as student feedback of course faculty, plagiarism check of internship/dissertation reports etc. All the above mentioned tools are developed by the programme review committee (PRC) and implemented by the programme outcome assessment committee (POAC).

Programme review: Through the review of our programmes, we seek to evaluate whether

- Students are learning the knowledge, skills and traits necessary to achieve the programme objectives and in turn the institution, domain and university goals.
- The instruction is effective in enabling the student
- The resources are adequate for student learning
- The academic support services are adequate to facilitate student learning

The B. Sc.(H) Marine Science programme is proposed to give students seeking acceptance into rapidly growing marine sector. This will also help advancement in making carrier in research by further doing Master's degree program and doctoral research. Each year many universities turn away many highly qualified students for a limited number of seats. Many of these students seek to reapply and are interested in pursuing opportunities to become better qualified. Students successfully completing this program will be well prepared to enter industry or opt for higher education.

INDUSTRY DEMAND : All major coastal industrial sectors including fish processing, commercial aquaculture, maritime industry require the Marine biologists.

GOVT POLICY : Govt is focussing on Blue revolution and giving more and more emphasis on marine industry. Pharma industry is also focussing on marine sector.

Career opportunities for the new program were analysed.

Necessary infrastructure was in place for starting the new program.

Program was bench marked with reputed national and international institutions like Goa University, Kerala University, Bangor University UK , Ghent University Belgium etc.

The appropriate comments/ suggestions are incorporated in the standard format and presented to the area advisory board for further approval.

The institutional Area Advisory Board (AAB) constitutes external experts from academia, industry, alumni and research. The representatives from the other Amity campuses are also invited for reviewing recommendations.

46. How does the department ensure that programme objectives are constantly met and learning outcomes are monitored?

Response:

Outcome assessment is a systematic evaluative process that is implemented to secure learning experiences that are congruent with the original goals and objectives, thereby providing a basis for effective and continuous quality improvement of the academic unit.

The assessment plan includes:

4. Mission: The mission is defined for the domain which flows down to the institution level and finally to the programme level.
5. Objectives: Every programme has objectives defined in line with the institution and domain goals under the following categories:
 - (a) Programme Educational objectives (PEO)
 - (b) Programme Operational objectives (POO)
6. Outcomes: The outcomes of every programme are categorised as:
 - (a) Programme Learning outcomes (PLO)
 - (b) Programme Operational outcomes (POO)

Mapping of PEOs with PLOs: The relationship of PEOs and PLOs are clearly indicated through the mapping of learning outcomes with educational objectives. Each outcome addresses one or more objectives. Outcomes are assessed and achievement of an outcome indicates attainment of the objective.

Assessment of Learning and Operational Outcomes: Each learning outcome is assessed by at least one direct and one indirect tool. Some examples of direct tools are comprehensive exam, dissertation report rubrics, communication skills rubrics, behavioural science rubrics etc. Indirect assessment tools include student exit survey, alumni survey, feedback of industry internship guide etc. Similarly, operational outcomes are also assessed using operational assessment tools such as student feedback of course faculty, plagiarism check of internship/dissertation reports etc. All the above mentioned tools are developed by the programme review committee (PRC) and implemented by the programme outcome assessment committee (POAC).

Programme review: Through the review of our programmes, we seek to evaluate whether

- Students are learning the knowledge, skills and traits necessary to achieve the programme objectives and in turn the institution, domain and university goals.
- The curriculum is coherent, current and consistent
- The instruction is effective in enabling the student
- The resources are adequate for student learning
- The academic support services are adequate to facilitate student learning

We have illustrated the implementation of outcome assessment plan for B.Sc (H) Marine Science below.

31. Code of ethics for research followed by the departments:

Response

AIMT carries out research in accordance with guidelines laid down by university. All procedures have been screened by the biosafety committee of the institution. The institution follows the university guidelines G-53 (University Research Policy Guidelines) and G-58 (Policy Guidelines for Publication and Presentation at Symposia/Conferences)

Research policy:

All faculty members of AIMT are expected to undertake research activities in addition to their teaching and administrative responsibilities, and should seek funding resources for the same, where appropriate. All research activities should be undertaken in compliance of the University's obligations under legislation, and in accordance with regulatory and ethical considerations.

Publication and Presentation Policy:

To maintain the highest ethical standards while publication of any research material, the following have to be adhered to: (i) Originality: All research material originating from Amity should be original and not plagiarized from any source. To ensure the same, all research material to be sent for publication should be checked for originality using appropriate plagiarism software that will be provided by the University to all its faculty, staff and students. The University may establish a central mechanism for checking Plagiarism for publication of PhD Thesis, Research papers, conference presentations etc. (ii) Authenticity: It will be the responsibility of the researchers (faculty/staff/students) to ensure that all the results of their research that are to be published in any form are authentic, not manipulated in any form and can be reproduced under the conditions so defined by the researcher. (iii) Authorship: It is the responsibility of the senior researcher in the group to ensure that due credit is given to individuals involved in the research activity, even if they are no longer associated with Amity when the research work is sent for publication. The role played by each individual for generation of the specific research findings being considered for publication must be clearly defined. The list of authors should accurately include individuals who have: G-58 5 • Substantial contributions to conceptualization and design, or acquisition of data, or analysis and interpretation of data; • Drafting/Revising the article for important intellectual content; and • Preparation of the final version of the article to be published. Further, it has to be ensured that persons are not provided undue credit during publication of research in which they have not been involved. Any disputes regarding authorship should be brought to the notice of the concerned Directorate, which will resolve such issues in a timely manner after considering the views of the aggrieved parties. The decision of the Directorate in this regard will be final and deemed to be binding to all the concerned parties. Any disputes of authorship arising after publication will be evaluated and looked into by the University DSI with immediate effect. The correction will be published if deemed appropriate. (iv) Acknowledgments: All individuals, organizations and funding sources that have facilitated the conduct of research by providing infrastructure, intellectual, financial, secretarial and other forms of support must be acknowledged in publication of all research material. All articles should be communicated for publication following intimation to the Head of Department/Institution and the Directorate . It will be the responsibility of the researcher to ensure originality and authenticity of work submitted, appropriate inclusion of researchers as authors/coauthors, acknowledgements, and to regularly provide status updates to HOD/HOI and the Directorate regarding the status of any publication.

41. Was any need assessment exercise undertaken before the development of new programme(s)?
If so, highlight the methodology.

Response:

The Bachelor of Science in Microbiology programme is proposed to give students seeking acceptance into rapidly growing industries like medical, pharmaceutical, environmental or food etc. This will also help advancement in making carrier in research by further doing Master's degree program and doctoral research. Each year many universities turn away many highly qualified students for a limited number of seats. Many of these students seek to reapply and are interested in pursuing opportunities to become better qualified. Students successfully completing this program will be well prepared to enter industry or opt for higher education.

INDUSTRY DEMAND : All major industrial sectors including Food, Water, Drug & Pharmaceuticals, Cosmetics, Agriculture, Petroleum Industries, Testing Laboratories etc. require the Microbiologists.

GOVT POLICY : Govt Sectors including Drug Inspectors, Food Inspectors, Quality Control Departments, Research Organizations like DBT, ICMR, ICAR, CSIR, MOFPI etc require the Microbiologists.

Bench markings with other programs

Career opportunities for the new program were analysed.

Necessary infrastructure was in place for starting the new program.

42. Does the department obtain feedback from

Response:

The department request for feedback from students, parents, alumni and industry in well-structured proforma.

Regular feedbacks are taken from stakeholders (faculty, academia, research, industry and alumni) for course curriculum in standard format prescribed by university. This also includes the feedbacks from the regular course faculty from all the campuses after end of each semester. The feed backs are reviewed by the Course Review Committee (CRC). The appropriate comments/ suggestions are incorporated in the standard format and presented to the area advisory board for further approval. The institutional Area Advisory Board (AAB) constitutes external experts from academia, industry, alumni and research. The representatives from the other Amity campuses are also invited for reviewing recommendations.

46. How does the department ensure that programme objectives are constantly met and learning outcomes are monitored?

Response:

Outcome assessment is a systematic evaluative process that is implemented to secure learning experiences that are congruent with the original goals and objectives, thereby providing a basis for effective and continuous quality improvement of the academic unit.

The assessment plan includes:

7. Mission: The mission is defined for the domain which flows down to the institution level and finally to the programme level.
8. Objectives: Every programme has objectives defined in line with the institution and domain goals under the following categories:
 - (a) Programme Educational objectives (PEO)
 - (b) Programme Operational objectives (POO)
9. Outcomes: The outcomes of every programme are categorised as:
 - (a) Programme Learning outcomes (PLO)
 - (b) Programme Operational outcomes (POO)

Mapping of PEOs with PLOs: The relationship of PEOs and PLOs are clearly indicated through the mapping of learning outcomes with educational objectives. Each outcome addresses one or more objectives. Outcomes are assessed and achievement of an outcome indicates attainment of the objective.

Assessment of Learning and Operational Outcomes: Each learning outcome is assessed by at least one direct and one indirect tool. Some examples of direct tools are comprehensive exam, dissertation report rubrics, communication skills rubrics, behavioural science rubrics etc. Indirect assessment tools include student exit survey, alumni survey, feedback of industry internship guide etc. Similarly, operational outcomes are also assessed using operational assessment tools such as student feedback of course faculty, plagiarism check of internship/dissertation reports etc. All the above mentioned tools are developed by the programme review committee (PRC) and implemented by the programme outcome assessment committee (POAC).

Programme review: Through the review of our programmes, we seek to evaluate whether

- Students are learning the knowledge, skills and traits necessary to achieve the programme objectives and in turn the institution, domain and university goals.
 - The curriculum is coherent, current and consistent
 - The instruction is effective in enabling the student
 - The resources are adequate for student learning
 - The academic support services are adequate to facilitate student learning
- We have illustrated the implementation of outcome assessment plan for one of our programmes at Amity Institute of Biotechnology, namely MTech Biotechnology as Appendix 1

The institute is accredited by BSI, no other specific accreditation

50. Briefly highlight the contributions of the department in generating new knowledge, basic or applied.

Response:

Institute in last five years has successfully transferred technology of a novel root endophyte formulation i.e. ‘Rootonic’ to MS. Krauter Health Care Pvt. Ltd. By transferring consortia of seven patents for a sum of Rs. 50 Lakhs. This technology is being now rigorously tested in field under DBT-SIBRI project and the results are very positive.

Scientists from the institute have also recently filed a patent for a novel plant promoting endophytic fungus which will have a very positive impact on agriculture in future.

Institute has developed model framework of BSc and MSc programs and provided flexibility.

Program review committee implemented from 2014.

Development of framework for comprehensive exam, rubrics, and exit survey.

Generation of new knowledge basic or applied in the field:

1. New knowledge on how to isolate the high salinity tolerant genes from Piriformosporaindica has been generated by random over-expression in Escherichia coli. This new method has been published (World J. Microbiol. Biotechnol. 2015 Aug; 31(8):1195-209).

2. A unique DNA repair helicase XPB2 promoter has been isolated and characterized and shown to play important role in tolerating multiple stresses. This is published (Frontiers in Plant Sciences, doi: 10.3389/fpls.2015.01094).

3. A new function of a plant phloem motor protein pea forisome PsSEO-F1 in enhancing salinity stress tolerance in model plant has been shown. This is also published (Plant Cell Reports, 35(5), 1021-1041, 2016).

41. Was any need assessment exercise undertaken before the development of new programme(s)? If so, highlight the methodology.

Response:

The Bachelor of Science in Life Science programme is proposed to give students the broader knowledge of biological sciences specially related molecular biology, biochemistry, environment, microbiology, virology and immunology with applications. This will help advancement in making career in academic, research and industry. The faculty of AIVI periodically interact with experts from academia as well as the student community at large. Based on these interactions, AIVI decides the new courses and programmes that could be introduced which will have a positive impact on academia by contributing technically trained relevant research manpower. These are discussed and deliberated at length again in AAB and BoS of the institute. Finally necessary approvals are obtained from Standing Committee of AUUP before commencement.

Although B.Sc life sciences are offered by many universities, but many qualified students are turned away due to limited number of seats. Students successfully completing this program will be well prepared to opt for higher education in any life science subject of their interest. All major industrial sectors including Food, Drug & Pharmaceuticals, Cosmetics, Agriculture, Petroleum Industries, Testing Laboratories etc. require the trained biologists. Bench markings were done comparing with other programs offered by other national universities.

AIVI faculty members adopted the teaching methods such as i) Blended Learning ii) Case Based Learning iii) Inquiry/ Research Based Learning iv) Lab Based Learning v) Problem Based learning

46. How does the department ensure that programme objectives are constantly met and learning outcomes are monitored?

Response:

Students are assessed through Continuous internal assessment, class quiz, presentations, end term examination to ensure that programme objectives are met and these are discussed by the members of the Programme Review Committee. Further the Outcome Assessment Committee reviews the student learning outcome and programme objectives through their performance in the comprehensive examination. Outcome assessment is a systematic evaluative process that is implemented to secure learning experiences that are congruent with the original goals and objectives, thereby providing a basis for effective and continuous quality improvement of the academic unit.

The assessment plan includes:

10. Mission: The mission is defined for the domain which flows down to the institution level and finally to the programme level.

11. Objectives: Every programme has objectives defined in line with the institution and domain goals under the following categories:
 - (a) Programme Educational objectives (PEO)
 - (b) Programme Operational objectives (POO)
12. Outcomes: The outcomes of every programme are categorised as:
 - (a) Programme Learning outcomes (PLO)
 - (b) Programme Operational outcomes (POO)

Mapping of PEOs with PLOs: The relationship of PEOs and PLOs are clearly indicated through the mapping of learning outcomes with educational objectives. Each outcome addresses one or more objectives. Outcomes are assessed and achievement of an outcome indicates attainment of the objective.

Assessment of Learning and Operational Outcomes: Each learning outcome is assessed by at least one direct and one indirect tool. Some examples of direct tools are comprehensive exam, dissertation report rubrics, communication skills rubrics, behavioural science rubrics etc. Indirect assessment tools include student exit survey, alumni survey, feedback of industry internship guide etc. Similarly, operational outcomes are also assessed using operational assessment tools such as student feedback of course faculty, plagiarism check of internship/dissertation reports etc. All the above mentioned tools are developed by the programme review committee (PRC) and implemented by the programme outcome assessment committee (POAC).

Programme review: Through the review of our programmes, we seek to evaluate whether

- Students are learning the knowledge, skills and traits necessary to achieve the programme objectives and in turn the institution, domain and university goals.
- The curriculum is coherent, current and consistent
- The instruction is effective in enabling the student
- The resources are adequate for student learning
- The academic support services are adequate to facilitate student learning

46 How does the department ensure that programme objectives are constantly met and learning outcomes are monitored?

Response :

Outcome Assessment:

The learning outcome assessment monitoring is more qualitative and focuses on improving teaching methods by analyzing student learning outcomes.

Quantitative approach is followed for doing the review of the program/discipline as a whole, assessing its effectiveness, relevance and student learning.

The learning outcome monitoring include aligning of domain mission to institutional mission and finally to the program objective. These broad goals are categorized in two categories namely educational goal and operational goal.

Mapping of Program Educational Objectives (PEOs) and Program Learning Outcome (PLOs):

PEOs and PLOs are linked through mapping of learning outcomes with established objectives. Each outcome have an objective and achievement of the outcome indicates the attainment of the said objective.

Assessment of learning outcomes:

Each outcome is assessed by atleast one direct and one indirect method of evaluation. It is ensured that the outcome achieved is consistent with the objective and thereby with the mission at the institutional and domain level.

The result of the annual assessment and other relevant data are used to determine the effectiveness of the program during assessment of the learning outcomes.

Program Review:

Through program review we assess and overview the following criteria:

1. Students are learning the knowledge, skills and habits necessary to achieve program goals and objectives
2. The program goals are derived from the institution's mission.
3. The curriculum is coherent, current and consistent.
4. The instruction is acting as enabler to the students.
5. The requisite resources are adequate for student learning
6. The academic support services are adequate to facilitate student learning.

46 How does the department ensure that programme objectives are constantly met and learning outcomes are monitored?

Response :

The learning outcome assessment monitoring is qualitative and focuses on improving teaching methods by analysing student learning outcomes.

The learning outcome monitoring include aligning of domain mission to institutional mission and finally to the program objective.

Mapping of Program Educational Objectives (PEOs) and Program Learning Outcome (PLOs): PEOs and PLOs are linked through mapping of learning outcomes with established objectives. Each outcome has an objective and achievement of the outcome indicates the attainment of the course objective.

Assessment of learning outcomes:

Each outcome is assessed by at least one direct and one indirect method of evaluation. It is ensured that the outcome achieved is consistent with the objective and thereby with the mission at the institutional and domain level.

The result of the annual assessment and other relevant data are used to determine the effectiveness of the program during assessment of the learning outcomes.

Program Review:

Through program review we assess and overview the following criteria:

1. Students are learning the knowledge, skills and habits necessary to achieve program goals and objectives
2. The program goals are derived from the institution's mission.
3. The curriculum is coherent, current and consistent.
4. The requisite resources are adequate for student learning
5. The academic support services are adequate to facilitate student learning

Outcome Assessment is undertaken to ensure that programme objectives meet Learning Outcomes

The learning outcome assessment monitoring is more qualitative and focuses on improving teaching methods by analyzing student learning outcomes.

Quantitative approach is followed for doing the review of the program/discipline as a whole, assessing its effectiveness, relevance and student learning.

The learning outcome monitoring include aligning of domain mission to institutional mission and finally to the program objective. These broad goals are categorized in two categories namely educational goal and operational goal.

Mapping of Program Educational Objectives (PEOs) and Program Learning Outcome (PLOs):

PEOs and PLOs are linked through mapping of learning outcomes with established objectives. Each outcome have an objective and achievement of the outcome indicates the attainment of the said objective.

Assessment of learning outcomes:

Each outcome is assessed by at least one direct and one indirect method of evaluation. It is ensured that the outcome achieved is consistent with the objective and thereby with the mission at the institutional and domain level.

The result of the annual assessment and other relevant data are used to determine the effectiveness of the program during assessment of the learning outcomes.

Program Review:

Through program review we assess and overview the following criteria:

Response:

The launch of Amity Institute of Public Policy (AIPP) was the result of deliberations of Think Tank in Amity University involving over 20 senior academicians, professionals and academic administrators. The Think Tank members met couple of times over a period of two months deliberating on the need of starting Masters Program in Public Policy as a niche program inspired by the series of new initiatives undertaken by the Government of India. Dismantling of Planning Commission and setting up of NITI Aayog has also added new dimension in the field of Public Policy, paving the way for greater consultation. This has also lead to need for creation of new professionals dealing with various aspects of Policy making. The presentation was made on the present capacity in the country to create Public Policy professionals and also the programs offered by top educational institutions in the world in the field of Public Policy. Discussions were held with outside academia, Think Tanks, bureaucrats, Chambers of Commerce like, CII, FICCI, ASSOCHAM to understand the country's need to produce Public Policy Professionals.

It has been noted that while Public Policy is a complex and seamless program touching upon every domain of academics and professional practices, the Program MA (Public Policy & Governance) in Amity Institute of Public Policy was primarily intended to build professionals with more focus in the area of economics, public finance, social welfare, international relations and globalization, broadening the scope for the students of all background, making it a unique program in the country which has attracted the attention of many stakeholders including students from countries like Afghanistan, China and others.

42. Does the department obtain feedback from Stakeholders:

Response:

The Institute is very active in its interaction with the stakeholders, particularly the student community, academia, Think Tanks, the Chambers of Commerce and the individual experts in the field, in order to make the Masters' Program very enriching and relevant to the country's needs.

Since only the first batch has been inducted in to the Program, the students' feedback mechanism is yet to put in place.

51. Detail five major Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Challenges (SWOC) of the department.

Response:

#	Strengths
1	The course offered M.A (PPG) by the institution is a niche programme with a unique syllabus and has subjects from all the related areas which give a holistic approach to the programme, under the brand name Amity, which is being seen as a wonderful private initiative in India.
2	Not many universities have launched this programme in Public Policy and Governance, and hence it has huge potential to grow.
3	The brand value of Amity provides further impetus to Public Policy Programme.
4	The Amity Institute of Public Policy is able to draw senior professionals and experts in the field of Public Policy being located close to Delhi, the resourceful capital of India.
5	The ecosystem in Amity University, Noida makes the Public Policy Programme most enriching for the students to take full benefit out of this new programme which is multi-disciplinary in nature.
6	Masters in Public Policy and Governance is likely to gain further strength once it is able to reach out to the think tanks and the policy makers in the capital city Delhi.

#	Weaknesses
1	The programme being a niche and elite programme which is generally offered in top Universities in the world, the efficacy and essence of Public Policy Programme is yet to be understood locally amongst the students community and hence the response is a little sluggish.
2	The nomenclature of the programme being M.A., the students consider this to be as one of the MA programmes in humanities. The good institutions all over the world use the nomenclature, like Masters in Public Policy expanding the scope of including multi-disciplinary areas. However, this nomenclature is not allowed by UGC. The MA (Public Policy & Governance) is rated much below its potential.
3	Since this country has not produced adequate expertise in Public Policy, there is a huge dearth of faculty in the area of Public Policy & Governance.
4	The Public Policy professionals are misemployed by the government, however in India; such possibilities are remote which is further weakening the programme.
5	A public policy programme is highly linked to the research for which enough budgetary support is needed. The Amity Institute of Public Policy is not in a position to tap external funding to improve its research base in Public Policy.

#	Opportunities
1	1. The Public Policy holds the future for the students of diverse background who are expected to migrate into the domain of Public Policy in near future, once the students community realize the importance of the subject field, which offers huge job opportunities in the government, think tanks, International Agencies, NGOS and also academics. It is expected that real opportunities in Public Policy will be realized in the foreseeable future. The institute has signed MOU with Centre for Civil Society (CCS), New Delhi, a policy think tank in the country which is globally rated.
2	The Amity Institute of Public Policy is being developed as a policy think tank for the university.
3	Amity Institute of Public Policy intends to offer PHD programme on Public Policy once some of the think tanks in Delhi come forward to support the researches.
4	Amity Institute of Public Policy is committed to provide support services and advocacy on policy matters and provide policy inputs and policy response on relevant current issues.
5	The Public Policy specialized courses will be offered as electives to the students of Amity University as add on value courses on the subjects like, Globalization & Public Policy, Law & Public Policy, Public Policy and Governance, Economics & Public Policy, and Public Finance.

#	Challenges
1	The Public Policy programme at the Masters level is expected to draw the attention of the creamy layers of the students community in India and abroad and the institute will be challenged to meet the expectations of the students of high caliber and talent, and consequently there will be a pressure on the Institute to continuously upgrade the course curricula making it more relevant, locally and globally, and induct best possible brains as the team of faculty, meeting the ever growing aspirations of the progressive students community.
2	Since the country has not provided any Public Policy professionals through the university programmes this is a new emerging field which is likely to face many hurdles and challenges as the resources are limited in this field.
3	The Public Policy professionals need a good number of think tanks for their professional growth which is currently not upto the mark. The culture of think tank participation in India's Policy making process is in the stage of infancy unlike many other countries like U.S where Public Policy professionals and think tanks play a major role on policy framing.
4	In India the policy research is not fully integrated with academics for the reasons stated over.
5	The student's community is yet to understand the essence of public policy as in India's political system and in the system of governance the public policy professionals play a very limited role.

52. Future plans of the department.

Response:

It has been felt in the Institute that one program like MA (Public Policy & Governance) cannot be viable and the most likely expansion could be offering MA Program in Public Administration, which is very close to Public Policy domain as the Public Administration is being seen as a tool for effective implementation of Public Policy. It is has been accordingly decided that another program, namely MA (Public Administration) will be launched either in 2016-17 or 2017-18 depending on the students' response for the program.

Planning	Process	Target date
MA(Public Administration)	Under Process	2017-18
MA(Public Policy & Diplomacy)	Under Process	2017-18

The learning outcome monitoring include aligning of domain mission to institutional mission and finally to the program objective. These broad goals are categorized in two categories namely educational goal and operational goal.

Mapping of Program Educational Objectives (PEOs) and Program Learning Outcome (PLOs):

PEOs and PLOs are linked through mapping of learning outcomes with established objectives. Each outcome have an objective and achievement of the outcome indicates the attainment of the said objective.

The learning outcome assessment monitoring is more qualitative and focuses on improving teaching methods by analyzing student learning outcomes.

Quantitative approach is followed for doing the review of the program/discipline as a whole, assessing its effectiveness, relevance and student learning.

The learning outcome monitoring include aligning of domain mission to institutional mission and finally to the program objective. These broad goals are categorized in two categories namely educational goal and operational goal.

Mapping of Program Educational Objectives (PEOs) and Program Learning Outcome (PLOs):

PEOs and PLOs are linked through mapping of learning outcomes with established objectives. Each outcome have an objective and achievement of the outcome indicates the attainment of the said objective.

Assessment of learning outcomes:

Each outcome is assessed by at least one direct and one indirect method of evaluation. It is ensured that the outcome achieved is consistent with the objective and thereby with the mission at the institutional and domain level.

The result of the annual assessment and other relevant data are used to determine the effectiveness of the program during assessment of the learning outcomes.

Program Review:

Through program review we assess and overview the following criteria:

50 Briefly highlight the contributions of the department in generating new knowledge, basic or applied.

Response:

Research work taken by students and faculty are focused towards generating new knowledge in clinical domain, new intervention or exploring the level of efficacy/effectiveness of already known interventions etc. The discussion that are held in Case Conferences and Psychotherapeutic meetings at the Department level also steered towards this end - generating new knowledge or new way of handling a symptom or syndrome, employing new intervention technique/s.

51 Detail five major Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Challenges (SWOC) of the department.

Response:

#	Strengths
1	Faculty members are clinically oriented and focused on imparting hands-on professional clinical training following prescribed code of conduct and ethical guidelines.
2	AIBHAS runs all its clinical programs in collaboration with several highly reputed service centres that ensures the availability of a variety of cases for comprehensive clinical training.
3	The Centre offers Professional training at all level - 1 - 4 yr. duration and Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology part time basis for those who have already completed the professional training and Registered with RCI. This allows lots of flexibility for trainees to choose their professional path and career goal.
4	AIBHAS being a part of large university campus with international reputation attracts a large number of cognitively resourceful and highly motivated students from all over the Country. This gives the department a unique advantage over other centres in selecting bright and highly committed students for the training program.
5	AIBHAS programs are supported with well-equipped library, and unlimited wifi connectivity for cutting edge research and implementing evidence-based interventions.
#	Weaknesses
1	University does not have its own hospital setup, hence dependency on other service centers.
2	Since faculty members are recruited in accordance with RCI stipulation, per program, no surplus hands for undertaking long-term funded research project.
3	Scope for outreach camp and community mental health programs is limited by the fact AIBHAS doesn't have its own hospital with inpatient and outpatient facilities.
4	Similarly, institute is handicapped in initiating chronic mental health care and rehabilitation of long-term mentally ill.
5	Due to high priority for tertiary care, the primary and secondary interventions involving the school, community etc. are carried out very minimal.
#	Opportunities
1	With the proposed new Doctoral program the faculty members may have some breathing time from clinical supervision of the trainees which they can invest in writing research project for funding etc. thereby help overcoming one of the shortcomings of the center.
2	AIBHAS is provided with an excellent physical infrastructure close to a popular General Hospital to develop it as Centre of Psychological and Rehabilitation services. Consultation and other services have already been started at this centre. If it picks up as a full-fledged mental and rehabilitation institute, the present dependency on other centres for imparting hands-on clinical training may be reduced.
3	Since many motivated students are denied admission because of limited seats, the institute has an opportunity to expand its clinical base and case load, and seek RCI's approval for higher intake. This not only fulfils the local demand for professional training but also contribute greatly for human resource development in the mental health area.

4	Work towards establishing liaison with Primary Health Care Department of General Hospital in order to enhance professional contributions in the areas of Behavioural Medicine, Neuro-rehabilitation and other speciality services.
5	School mental health program could be undertaken by the institute to train the teachers in recognizing and intervening with problem behaviours of children, and training professional students in primary and secondary intervention strategies.
#	Challenges
1	Integrating academic and clinical input under current Liaison model is one of the challenges faced by the institute.
2	Getting senior faculty members with the stipulated qualification and experience to sustain the clinical program is yet another challenge. Since many trained personnel prefer to move into private practice or work in corporate hospitals, availability of trained professionals to work in academic settings is sparse.
3	Since the institute imparts clinical training in borrowed settings, on which there is no administrative control, the flexibility in implementing and conducting various academic activities is minimal.
4	Since the centre doesn't have its own setup the quality control and quality check are limited. This in long-term may serve as serious limitation.
5	Since most centres in this part of the country prefer to treat patients on outdoor basis, attrition rate is very high. This can be a serious problem in imparting training in comprehensive intervention.

52 Future plans of the department.

- Expansion of Clinical Services and moving towards clinical self-sufficiency
- Working towards starting extra-mural research projects of long-term duration
