Curriculum guidelines for teacher use in organizing and teaching a course to prepare 11th and 12th grade students for entry level child care occupations were developed as part of a pilot study which is reported in VT 006 870. Major emphasis of the program included orientation to the world of work, types of child care services, duties of the child care aide, and needs, growth, development, behavior, and guidance of children. The 1-year program requires 1 hour daily plus 300 hours on-the-job work experience. Content areas are: (1) Overview To World of Work, (2) Today's Labor Force, (3) Securing A Job, (4) Success on the Job, (5) Child Care Services, (6) The Child Care Aide, (7) Basic Needs of Children, (8) Growth and Development of Children, (9) Behavior and Guidance, and (10) Play of Children. Unit organization is composed of objectives, generalizations, sub-concepts designating experiences, student generalizations, and evaluation. Resource materials keyed to each sub-concept are included in the units. The document also contains bibliographies of books, pamphlets, films, and supplementary materials for the world of work and child care services. (FP)

OVERVIEW TO CHILD CARE SERVICES

1. Scope - A suggested Curriculum Guide for Child Care Service Workers for Entry Level Jobs was developed for use with high school students at the 11th and 12th grade levels. Major emphases include orientation to the world of work; types of child care services; duties of a child care aide; and needs, growth, development, behavior, and guidance of children.

Length of Program - one year or 36 weeks of classes, one hour in length, and 300 hours during the year of on-the-job work experience duty.

Credit - 2 units of credit

2. Purpose - The purpose of the program is to prepare high school junior and senior girls to become employable in entry level jobs in child care services.

3. Overall Objectives for the Program:

To develop an increased awareness of the various job opportunities available to a child care service worker.

To develop an awareness of and a desire to develop personal characteristics or qualities needed for job success.

To develop a positive attitude toward work as a part of life and a desirable segment of education.

To acquire some basic knowledge about the needs, growth, development, behavior and guidance of children.

To develop skills for successful performance as required for child care service workers.

To develop a desire to obtain a job in child care services on completion of the training program or to continue education for a more technical job or profession in child care or a related area.

4. Need Based on Survey Findings - The area of child care services offers varied entry level jobs for specially trained high school girls. A survey of Stillwater revealed twenty-one day care centers and/or private kindergartens. Twenty of the twenty-one "owner-operators" or directors of the child care services interviewed stated that there is a need for trained child care service workers. Thirty homemakers were interviewed also, and a much smaller proportion of the homemakers indicated a need for help with this type training. Additional evidence has been obtained from other sources to support the belief that a need does exist for this type training.

Since the survey was made, a day care center has been opened as a part of the community action program, and a continuous Head Start Program is in operation.

The specific skills indicated by a majority of the respondents in both groups interviewed (owner-operators and homemakers) as being important for the students to perform were directing and supervising play, administering first aid, serving food, personal care of child, preparing for rest periods and for bed, preparing and caring for equipment and supplies, and house-keeping tasks, such as putting away equipment and straightening the room.

A job analysis based on survey findings indicated that a child care service worker needed knowledge of and skill in first aid, food preparation, methods of guiding and supervising children, and preschool development and organization. Preparation and use of materials and equipment and planning and guiding preschool activities are also important. Owner-operators indicated that a wholesome attitude toward work would be beneficial in employer-employee relations, as well as other items included in a unit on the world of work.

5. Use of Materials - The materials herein presented are intended for use as a guide to the teacher in organizing and teaching a child care service program based on the needs of her own community as identified through a survey. Each teacher will want to assess her own experiences and competences, the needs and opportunities in her community, and the needs and capabilities of her students before outlining her program. A survey of the community will be helpful, as well as the appointment and use of an advisory committee.

As each individual teacher plans her program, she should carefully review the objectives, concepts, generalizations, learning experiences, and evaluation methods and select those most appropriate for her situation. These should be adapted and supplemented to meet the needs of her students. Specific suggestions follow for each of the component parts of the framework used in developing each curriculum.

Behaviorial Objectives - It is recommended that these be cooperatively developed by the teacher and student after the teacher has prepared a tentative list of objectives to be included. Objectives have been stated to include both the specific behavior and the content, and to include specific behavior in the cognitive, affective and psychomotor domains. Overall objectives are stated in the overview with more specific objectives being included for each concept.

Concepts - Concepts are the big overall ideas and subconcepts are used for breakdown of the broader, more inclusive term, phrase or key idea. No attempt was made to include a complete or all-inclusive list of either concepts or subconcepts.

Generalizations - Two types are listed. The first is considered overall for the purpose of guiding the teacher in selecting learning experiences, evaluation methods, etc. The second "Student Generalization" is presented as an example of the type of generalization which it is hoped that students would be able to state as a result of the learning experiences provided. In most instances the teacher could expect students to be able to state several generalizations.

Evaluation - Emphasis should be placed on cooperative evaluation and self-evaluation techniques.

Resource Materials - Resource materials are listed in two places. At the end of each unit, resource materials are listed for each subconcept. In the bibliography is a complete listing of all references suggested for the course. These materials should be supplemented by those available in each classroom.

The units "Orientation to the World of Work" and "Introduction to Child Care Services" were presented at the beginning of the school year. Throughout the year various aspects of the World of Work were emphasized. However, units may be taught in any sequence which fits the student, the community, and the teacher. The teacher may find ideas in the materials from which she can create units which are more applicable in her situation.

Various evaluation forms and teaching devices are included in the supplementary materials. These have proved useful in the particular situation in Stillwater. They are included as being suggestive of the type materials the teacher may adapt or develop for use in her particular situation.

UNIT I - CHILD CARE SERVICES

OBJECTIVES: To develop an awareness of the need for child care services.

To become acquainted with the various types of child care services available.

To recognize opportunities for gainful employment in child care services.

To be aware of physical facilities and programming in child care services.

To learn the responsibilities of staff members in child care centers.

GENERALIZATIONS: The needs of children, of parents, and of the community influence the type and number of child care services available in a community.

Increasing awareness of the importance of the early childhood years to human development affects expectations people have of child care services.

Physical facilities, staff, and programming of a child care center, if based on the needs of the children they serve, enhance the social, emotional, mental, and physical development of those children.

The amount of education, experience, and responsibility of the staff members in child care centers varies resulting in different programs and facilities.

Persons with knowledge and skills that promote child development can help make the experiences in child care centers enriching as well as protective.

Flexibility in programming for children promotes enjoyment and benefits for the children.

A variety of experiences provides opportunities for growth and development of children.

Keeping accurate records is conducive to good management in child care services.

The prime concern for the health, protection, and safety of children has resulted in the setting of standards for the licensing of child care centers.

Subconcept A. PURPOSES OF AND NEEDS FOR CHILD CARE SERVICES

Experiences:

- ...Study history of the nursery school.
- ...Define child care services.
- ...Discuss the various purposes of child care services.
- ...View and discuss film: "A Chance at the Beginning."
- ...List the needs of parents, children, teachers, and society in regard to child care services.
- ...Discuss the increasing use of services for children and reasons why there is a need and desirability for supplementary care of children beyond what parents give.
- ...Listen to mothers (or interview them and report to class) tell of services they use and why they use them.
- ...Read about the working mother and discuss her problems in securing needed child care services.

Student Generalization:

- ...Child care services may serve various needs and purposes.

Evaluation:

- ...Film evaluations.
- ...Oral examinations.

Subconcept B. TYPES OF CHILD CARE SERVICES

Experiences:

- ...Prepare bulletin boards illustrating types of child care services.
- ...Report on different child care services available.
- ...Identify local child care services by conducting a survey.
- ...Obtain list of child care services from Child Welfare or other public service organizations.
- ...Invite owner of child care service to explain her program.
- ...Discuss special needs of children and services available: crippled children, children's hospitals, schools for the mentally retarded, foster homes, orphanages, juvenile detention homes, and others.
- ...Take field trips to special services mentioned above.
- ...Invite minister or education director to discuss church-related activities for children.
- ...Bring articles from periodicals dealing with child care services.
- ...Invite or interview persons who work with services for children to tell about the services available.
- ...Take a field trip to various types of child care services represented in the community.
- ...Suggest individual observations and visits to child care services.
- ...Show films on babysitting: "ABC's of Baby Sitting" and "Baby Sitter."

Student Generalization:

...Not all children would profit from the same type of day care.

Evaluation:

...Field trip evaluations.

Subconcept C. DAY CARE CENTERS

Experiences:

- ...Show film - "Little World" noting characteristics of this day care center. Have individual class members report on the characteristics listed in above film.
- ...Take field trips to day care centers and complete observation sheets containing questions on indoor and outdoor facilities, equipment, and storage.
- ...Prepare bulletin boards illustrating characteristics of a good day care center.
- ...Prepare and experiment with enrichment materials for day care centers.
- ...Listen to guest speakers (art, music, science teachers).
- ...Report on observations of routines and activities in the day care center.
- ...Identify and study the routines of the day care center program.
- ...Identify and practice activities of the day care center. (play, art, music, literature, and science.)
- ...Listen to public health nurse or doctor tell of health and safety factors in child care services.
- ...Invite a nurse to discuss, demonstrate, and use films on health and first aid.
- ...Discuss health inspection in child care centers, purposes and what to look for.
- ...Observe health inspection of children during observation in day care center and possibly perform as a part of work experience.
- ...Report and study common childhood diseases, immunizations and symptoms of illnesses.
- ...Discuss prevention of illness, sanitation, proper dish washing, isolation, and immunization.
- ...Discuss household items that may be dangerous to children.
- ...Discuss what to do in the event of an emergency, severe illness or injury to a child.
- ...Discuss laws governing medical treatment of children in day care centers.
- ...Become aware of hazards in children's environment.
- ...Demonstrate and practice the taking of temperature.
- ...Learn how to make beds that may be found in day care centers.
- ...Have a panel discussion on safety of children-- fire chief, sanitarian, or public health nurse.
- ...Discuss admission fees and policies of local centers.
- ...Study record forms of all types used for the business aspect of the center.

- ...Discuss and become familiar with standards of licensing in Oklahoma.
- ...Have persons in charge of licensing day care centers speak to class.
- ...Study the licensing standards of day care centers in Oklahoma and compare with standards of other states.

Student Generalization:

- ...The day care center is primarily concerned with the care and protection of the child.

Evaluation:

- ...Contest to see which section of the class can answer the most questions correctly concerning licensing standards.

Subconcept D. CHILD CARE SERVICE WORKERS

Experiences:

- ...List types of workers in various centers.
(Director, Assistant Director, Teacher, Nurse, Cook, Aide.)
- ...Interview or have workers speak to class about responsibilities in child care centers.
- ...Have group work on the various types of workers.
Have each group list the duties of particular workers on newsprint with a marking pencil and use for reference and discussion.
- ...Observe workers in child care center and list their responsibilities.

Student Generalization:

- ...Different types of child care services are operated by different types of workers.

Evaluation:

- ...Group work evaluation.

UNIT II - THE CHILD CARE AIDE

OBJECTIVES: To learn characteristics and responsibilities of a good employee in child care services.

To become aware of professional ethics in the area of child care.

To learn how to make application for employment in child care services.

To begin to develop special characteristics needed by persons who work with children.

To become aware of the role of the child care aide in promoting the physical, mental, social, and emotional well-being of children.

To become aware of the variety of duties an aide might perform in a child care center and of the importance of her job.

To develop skill in performing the duties of an aide in the child care center.

To learn to make good use of energy and time resources in performing the duties of an aide in a child care center.

GENERALIZATION: Good working relationships begin to develop as one becomes acquainted with the child care center and its policies, the staff, and the children.

The special traits which help one to work well with children may be developed through study and work experience.

The experiences and abilities of the child care aide affect the duties which she may be expected to perform in various child care centers.

The management of energy, time, and materials promotes an aide's efficiency on the job.

Any duty in the child care center will be important since it contributes to the well-being of children.

Contact with children contributes to the aide's satisfaction and learnings on the job.

Subconcept A. QUALITIES NEEDED FOR WORKING WITH CHILDREN

Experiences:

- ...View slide series on "The Child Care Aide" as described in supplementary material.
- ...Read about and discuss desirable qualities in persons who work with children.
- ...Have a bulletin board illustrating desirable and undesirable qualities of persons who work with children.
- ...Study and discuss personality, popularity, and the six types of maturity: chronological, physical, intellectual, emotional, social, philosophical.
- ...Study findings from interviews with employers concerning desirable qualities of child care workers.
- ...Discuss ways of improving accuracy in following directions, notetaking, asking for explanation, and paying attention.
- ...Listen to talk by school nurse or public health nurse on health and sanitation in nursery school.
- ...Take a field trip to public health department and, if possible, take the required steps to qualify for the health card defined in licensing standards.
- ...Identify situations that would require an understanding of professional ethics. Compare with ethics of other professions.
- ...Discuss proper dress and grooming for work in child care services.
- ...Watch (or participate in) style show by class members illustrating correct and incorrect clothing and grooming for child care aides.
- ...Listen to talk by Child Care Service Director or head teacher on qualities she hopes to find in a child care aide, or interview for the same information.
- ...Participate in role-playing: good and poor "conversations" with preschool children. Discuss such items as use of names and answering questions.
- ...Identify the voice qualities that are desirable for people who work with small children.
- ...Listen to talk by recreation director, physical education teacher, or some other person in this field on potential dangers on playground and during play activities.
- ...Read about and discuss safety for children.
- ...Report on safety practices from work experience observations.
- ...Make safety posters which might be displayed in the child care centers and which use pictures to illustrate hazards.
- ...Observe safety and protective practices for children.
- ...Collect newspaper stories or magazine articles regarding accidents with small children that could possibly have been avoided if the person caring for the child had been more alert.

Student Generalization:

- ...A person must possess or develop certain qualities to be successful in working with small children.

Evaluation:

- ...Have students do a self-evaluation on the qualities they possess that are desirable in a child care center worker. "What Do I Have To Offer?" (See supplementary material.)

Subconcept B. GETTING ACQUAINTED ON THE JOB

Experiences:

- ...Secure employment using the procedures discussed previously in the world of work unit which are appropriate to the particular situation.
- ...Develop a notebook or folder for keeping a record of work experience. Include names of director, teachers, children, and other staff.
- ...Have students visit a child care center and listen to staff discussing policies, rules, and schedules with director. If possible, obtain copies of the policies, rules, schedules, and a list of the names of the staff and children.
- ...Have students learn names of children and correct pronunciation and spelling of the names, and report to the class how many of the children they know.
- ...Set up regular times to observe in a center in preparation to begin work. Have students help with attendance, greeting children, and supervision of play whenever possible. Discuss observations and problems encountered during the next class period.
- ...Describe work experiences in class and evaluate experience.

Student Generalization:

- ...Observation in the day care center permits one to learn how things are done as well as the names of the staff and children.

Evaluation:

- ...Evaluate student's ability to complete a successful interview and obtain a job. Have students keep adequate records of work experiences.

Subconcept C. JOB DESCRIPTION OF ACTIVITIES

Experiences:

- ...List types of activities in child care centers.
- ...List equipment used in various activities.
- ...Individual class members study and report on various activities for children and practice telling stories, reading poems, leading songs or music activities in class.

- ...Prepare and experiment with creative art materials.
- ...Review values of activities for children. Suggest methods of guidance and supervision.
- ...Observe as many activities as possible in child care centers during work experience and assist in guiding activities when possible.
- ...Relate to children in free play activities.
- ...Have students plan an activity and supervise or guide children engaging in it.
- ...Keep a record of children's conversation during dramatic play.
- ...List types of materials used in activities.
- ...Report on the selection of materials for children's activities.
- ...Have each student prepare a science experience to use with the class.
- ...Have each student prepare to lead a music period for the class.
- ...List criteria for selection of materials for children.
- ...Prepare a file or notebook with directions for preparing materials for children's activities.
- ...Observe materials used in child care centers during work experience.
- ...Prepare and/or select materials for an activity with children. Use these materials with permission during work experience.
- ...Describe the "activities" observed during work experiences or observations in class.
- ...Have school or city librarian visit class and talk about selecting and telling stories to different age children and demonstrate care and repair of books.
- ...Make a list of books which would be helpful in selecting desirable books to read and purchase for children.
- ...Recall favorite stories from own childhood.
- ...Discuss fairy tales and their advantages and disadvantages.
- ...Repair books in child care center if possible.
- ...Select a suitable book from a child care center or library, and read to children in child care center.
- ...Tell stories to a child or group of children and make a "Story Telling Report." (See supplementary materials.)
- ...Discuss desirable characteristics of stories for children.
- ...Evaluate children's books according to criteria set up on the check sheet included in the supplementary materials.
- ...Bring to class a book for children, read and evaluate according to criteria for books for various ages of children. Review the book and tell why it was designated for that particular age.
- ...Practice reading books to children and practice telling stories. (This may be done in class.)
- ...Assist with children's activities in child care center.

Student Generalization:

- ...Preparation is required on the part of the child care worker before the activities of the day care center can take place.

Evaluation:

- ...Evaluate students according to score card on their ability to select a book and evaluate it. (See supplementary materials.)
- ...Practical exams on story telling, reading books, leading music periods, leading science experiences.

Subconcept D. JOB DESCRIPTION OF ROUTINES

Experiences:

- ...Differentiate between routines and activities.
- ...List routines in child care centers.
- ...Have individual class members prepare reports on different routines. Use posters to illustrate ideas.
- ...Describe experiences in the child care center that revolve around the routines.
- ...Observe routines in child care center, assisting when possible.
- ...Prepare job analysis for each routine and review reasons for and values of routines. Follow job analysis in several routines.
- ...Discuss need for wise and varied arrangements of equipment and furniture. Try (in class or on paper plan) various room arrangements.
- ...Try new arrangements of equipment and/or furniture on the job if permitted.
- ...Observe types of housekeeping duties in child care centers. Assist when asked and assume responsibilities for duties when permitted.
- ...List equipment and furniture used in routines and activities.
- ...Have a guest speaker, a teacher from a nursery school or kindergarten, talk about the housekeeping tasks involved in her job.
- ...List kinds of clean-up activities.
- ...Prepare a job analysis for clean-up activities.
- ...Evaluate work experiences and job analysis--revise if necessary.
- ...Assist with clean-up activities or assume responsibility if requested.
- ...Follow job analysis in several clean-up activities.
- ...Study the kinds of records kept by child care centers.
- ...List characteristics of good record keeping.
- ...Fill out sample forms, if applicable.
- ...Observe other staff members performing their duties during work experience.
- ...Collect samples of forms used in child care centers.
- ...List jobs related to food preparation that could be done by child care aides.

- ...Report on methods to be used in performing these jobs.
- ...Interview and observe cook to see how an aide could help her.
- ...Help the cook prepare lunch or a snack and describe experiences in class.
- ...Identify possible situations where the need for first aid may arise.
- ...Discuss with school nurse or county health nurse what first aid techniques are appropriate and acceptable for use in child care centers. Review legal aspects involved.
- ...Study and practice simple first aid techniques.
- ...Survey child care center to discover policies and preparation for first aid.

Student Generalizations:

- ...The teacher working with small children spends a large portion of her time carrying out housekeeping tasks or routines.
- ...Completing routine jobs makes it possible to have the activities in the day care center.

Evaluation:

- ...Check sheet for students on attitudes concerning the completion of routine jobs in the day care center.

UNIT III---BASIC NEEDS OF CHILDREN

OBJECTIVES: To become aware of the basic needs of children.

To recognize how needs influence behavior of children.

To learn ways of providing for the basic needs of children.

GENERALIZATIONS: All children have needs which influence their behavior and development.

Programs and facilities for children should be based on an understanding of the needs of children.

The strength of the needs varies not only from child to child but also at different age levels.

An understanding of the different emotions children experience helps one to understand their behavior.

The emotional climate which surrounds children affects their development and understanding this emotional climate helps the aide make a positive contribution.

Subconcept A. PHYSICAL NEEDS

Experiences:

- ...Identify needs of children by having each student contribute a list of needs.
- ...Study pictures of children and answer the questions, "What are the needs of the child in the picture?" Try to determine whether they are being met.
- ...Make a list of physical needs and tell what effect they have on growth.
- ...Show pictures of children whose physical needs have or have not been met.
- ...Plan appropriate luncheon menus for children.
- ...Prepare food displays that will illustrate concepts taught in class, such as color, texture, serving size, and finger foods.
- ...Compare the differences in the sizes of servings children eat at various age levels with that of an adult.
- ...Show film - "Food As Children See It."
- ...Examine different sizes and types of eating utensils. Determine which would aid the child in eating.
- ...Debate the question: "Should children be required to eat all the food on their plates?"
- ...Identify reasons why children may not eat at mealtime. Prepare a list of foods children may not prefer. Discuss reasons why.

- ...Have students list foods they dislike. See if the dislikes can be traced back to their childhood.
- ...Visit a clothing store or factory to study desirable features of children's clothing. Bring pictures or examples that illustrate features such as self-help, durability, and ease of care.
- ...Have a doctor or nurse talk to class on health needs of children and the importance of good health habits.
- ...Study the importance of adequate diet, rest and sleep, exercise, fresh air and sunshine, and other factors in meeting children's physical needs. Suggest ways children can have plenty of sunlight, fresh air, and play without too much interference from adults.
- ...Observe and report on ways of meeting children's physical needs in child care centers.
- ...Help with daily routines and activities at the child care center.

Student Generalization:

- ...The child care center has a responsibility in meeting the physical needs of children.

Evaluation:

- ...Student observation reports.
- ...Teacher observation of student in work experiences.
- ...Group work and special reports.

Subconcept B. EMOTIONAL NEEDS

Experiences:

- ...Read and report on the fears children express.
- ...Discuss why children have fears and what can be done to overcome fears.
- ...Tell about strong emotions one can remember experiencing as a child.
- ...Give examples of children's behaviors in which fear or anger proved to be helpful to them.
- ...Discuss other emotions and how children express them.
- ...Discuss guidance for wholesome expression of emotions.
- ...Show films: "Terrible Two's and Trusting Three's" and "Frustrating Four's and Fascinating Five's".
- ...Discuss the films and relate them to social, emotional, and physical needs.
- ...Observe children's emotions as revealed through behavior.
- ...Discuss the causes of emotionality.
- ...Have students tell of instances they have observed of emotionality.
- ...Discuss guidance for children expressing strong emotion.
- ...Show film: "Shyness," and discuss by circular discussion. Have each student list five things he has learned from the film and read them one at a time as the teacher goes around the room. Students should not repeat ideas mentioned before by another student.
- ...Observe children who are exhibiting strong emotion.

- ...Discuss how emotional needs of children are met at various age levels.
- ...Compare emotions of teenagers with those of small children.
- ...Set up an example of some discipline problem resulting from emotion. Dramatize how this might be handled.
- ...Observe and report to class on how children's emotional needs were met in a child care center or in some other situation.
- ...Show film - "Children's Emotions."

Student Generalization:

- ...Small children possess the same emotions as teenagers, but they express them in different ways.

Evaluation:

- ...Using case studies, evaluate the student's understanding of emotional needs.

Subconcept C. INTELLECTUAL NEEDS

Experiences:

- ...Study the development of language of children.
- ...Report on conversations recorded during observation periods.
- ...Record children's conversations on tape if possible.
- ...Study ways in which children learn.
- ...Observe material and equipment in child care center that will contribute to learning.
- ...Identify ways that intellectual growth may be measured.

Student Generalization:

- ...Language is sometimes used as an indication of intellectual development.

Evaluation:

- ...Have students take a practical test using a tape recording and identify the age of the child according to his speech development.

Subconcept D. SOCIAL NEEDS

Experiences:

- ...Describe people who work well with children. List the characteristics they possess that make this possible.
- ...Bring to class poems and pictures that relate to the contributions children make to their families.
- ...Discuss TV programs that show parent-child relationships.
- ...Observe children and adults in child care center and in other social situations--home, church, stores.
- ...Discuss how a child develops socially.
- ...Discuss why children need close contacts with both adults and other children.
- ...Suggest ways of helping children be accepted by others.

- ...Find pictures that show children in social situations.
Use for bulletin boards or posters.
- ...Report to class on social behavior observed in child care center.
- ...Discuss own early social experience.
- ...Show films -"Helping the Child Accept the Do's" and "Helping the Child to Face the Don'ts."
- ...Discuss guidance for children to help them learn respect for rights of others and of property.
- ...Observe situations in which children are learning how to behave toward persons and things.
- ...Discuss "All Behavior is Caused." Give situations as evidence.
- ...Role play behavior a child might exhibit in an effort to meet specific needs.
- ...Have students tell of TB programs, stories they have read, or plots of books in which behavior obviously was caused in an effort to meet a need.
- ...Observe and report on behavior exhibited in child care centers and suggest causes for this behavior.

Student Generalization:

- ...A child first learns to get along with his family, and then with other children outside his family.

Evaluation:

- ...Observation forms showing a good understanding of social development may be used for evaluation purposes.

UNIT IV - GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT OF CHILDREN

OBJECTIVES: To acquire increased knowledge and understanding of the growth and development of children.

To increase understanding of children through observation.

To become aware of how child care workers and child care centers can contribute to the development of children.

To develop an appreciation for the individual differences in children.

To develop an awareness of the importance of infancy as a stage in child development.

GENERALIZATIONS: Understanding the principles of development gives one a basis for guiding children.

Recognizing that children tend to have similar characteristics at certain ages facilitates study and understanding of child development.

Sequence is more important than the age at which specific characteristics of development appear since individuals differ in their rate and pattern of development.

The various areas of development (social, emotional, physical and intellectual) are interrelated so that a study of the "whole child" contributes to understanding of children's growth and behavior.

Opportunities for observation enhance the study of child development.

Children need opportunities for experiences which promote their development.

Acceptance of individual differences in development contributes to the ability to work with children.

Subconcept A. IMPORTANCE OF INFANCY

Experiences:

...(A study of reproduction may be used as preparation for this unit.)

...Have Red Cross nurse talk on prenatal and infant care.

...Read from current literature about the period of infancy.

- ...List the desirable characteristics of an environment which promotes prenatal and postnatal growth.
- ...Have students chart the ages at which they sat up, began walking, had first tooth, said first word, and were toilet trained, and their lengths and weights at birth.
- ...Compare the charts for sequence in growth and differences in rates of growth. Bring baby books to class if possible.
- ...Have students bring baby pictures to class, number the pictures and have class members guess the identity.
- ...Invite a mother to bring her infant to class and answer questions about the development of the baby.
- ...Have mothers bring children to class and answer questions about the children's development.
- ...Prepare a display of infant's clothing.

Student Generalization:

- ...Growth rates vary more than sequence or order of growth.

Evaluation:

- ...Evaluate group work on bulletin boards and charts and special reports.

Subconcept B. WAYS CHILDREN GROW AND DEVELOP

Experiences:

- ...Compare children in the same family. Discuss their similarities and differences due to heredity.
- ...Prepare a bulletin board of candid snapshots of children or pictures from magazines and newspapers of children with the caption, "Can you tell their ages by what they do?"
- ...Read and report on physical, emotional, intellectual, and social development.
- ...Report how the activities of the center aid in the growth and development of the child in all areas.
- ...Have groups work on posters showing how children grow at different ages and what they can be expected to do.
- ...Listen to a tape recording of children at play and have class decide age of group as they consider play interest and vocabulary of the children.
- ...Present the principles of development utilizing an overhead projector.
- ...Observe muscular coordination of different children at the same age level.
- ...Use tape recorder to record play groups at the child care center.
- ...Note physical differences in children at the child care center.
- ...Identify surroundings of the child care center which aid in the growth and development of children.
- ...Observe two children of the same age in the child care center and record how they are alike and different in development.

- ...Demonstrate origami (making of objects by folding paper) and try out with children of different ages. Observe the differences in their muscular coordination.
- ...Show film - "A Long Time To Grow," and discuss the characteristics of various aged children shown in the film.

Student Generalization:

- ...The growth rate of a child does not necessarily correspond with his age.

Evaluation:

- ...Evaluate groups work on posters and other activities.
- ...Observation reports may also be an indication of understanding on the part of the student about the growth and development of children.

Subconcept C. GUIDING GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT

Experiences:

- ...Review films "Terrible Two's and Trusting Three's" "Frustrating Four's and Fascinating Five's."
- ...Discuss the difference in "seeing" and "observing."
- ...Plan specific observations for child care center by use of observation sheets.
- ...Read and summarize readings on child growth and development using study questions as guides.
- ...Describe the incidents from child care experiences which are pertinent.
- ...Report from child care center how various pieces of equipment and other aspects of the program aid in growth and development.
- ...Choose a piece of equipment from the child care center and list ways children may benefit from using it.

Student Generalization:

- ...A person can increase his understanding of children by observing them.

Evaluation:

- ...Students complete observations sheets exhibiting some depth of understanding.

UNIT V - BEHAVIOR AND GUIDANCE

OBJECTIVES: To become aware of factors which influence the behavior of children.

To gain knowledge of effective techniques for guiding children toward wholesome development.

To develop some skill in working with children.

GENERALIZATIONS: All behavior is caused; therefore, to alter behavior, one must find the cause.

Guidance will vary for children in different stages of development and for different children.

The setting of clear limits and enforcing them is conducive to feelings of security in children.

Understanding that patterns of behavior are developed early in life promotes concern for guidance that will contribute to the wholesome development of children.

Good habits may be encouraged and reinforced by setting good examples for children and helping children to understand the importance of such habits.

The reassuring presence of an adult promotes feelings of security for children when unfamiliar or uncertain situations confront them.

Letting a child know that he is liked even when his behavior is not condoned enhances his developing self-concept.

The use of positive guidance by child care service workers is conducive to cooperation and the learning of acceptable behavior by the children; skill in using positive guidance techniques may be developed through study and practice.

The arrangement of the playroom and materials influence play activities.

Subconcept A. MEETING INDIVIDUAL PROBLEMS

Experiences:

- ...Compare the behavior of two children at different age levels. Note changes in behavior due to the child's not feeling well.
- ...Collect cartoons depicting behavior of children, such as "Dennis the Menace" and "Peanuts".
- ...Using circular discussion, have students describe what they think would be a "well-adjusted" child.

- ...View films which depict behavior of children of different age levels. (e.g. "Terrible Two's and Trusting Three's").
- ...Define behavior problems such as thumbsucking, bed wetting, lying, and use of bad language.
- ...Role play behavior problems of children and how to guide them. (Desirable and undesirable methods.)
- ...Discuss problems students encounter in work. Read about behavior and how to guide the child to more acceptable behavior.
- ...Have students choose and report on specific behavior problems, giving opinions of three authors and student's own opinion.
- ...Have students report on behavior problems they encountered and how these problems were handled.

Student Generalization:

- ...Using positive guidance with young children helps to get the children to behave.

Evaluation:

- ...Student's observation reports.
- ...Observation of student during work experience.
- ...Evaluate class participation.
- ...Evaluate special assignments and reports on behavior problems.

Subconcept B. AIDS AND METHODS OF GUIDANCE

Experiences:

- ...Discuss changes in the methods of guidance of children during the past century.
- ...Prepare a list of key words, positive in nature, that students can use in verbal guidance.
- ...Give students a list of negative statements and have them rephrase into positive ones.
- ...Prepare a bulletin board showing both positive and negative statements and/or illustrations.
- ...See or review films - "Helping the Child Accept Do's" and "Helping the Child to Face the Don'ts."
- ...Identify ways you can show affection and acceptance to children.
- ...Report observations from work experience to class.
- ...Determine the supporting limits in the day care center.
- ...Discuss the importance of freedom in play and the importance of setting supporting limits for a child's welfare.
- ...Have students report to class an attempt they have made to enforce a limit in a day care center.
- ...Look at different programs in child care centers. Identify how this programing serves as indirect guidance of children.
- ...Discuss how the arrangement of equipment and placement of materials influences children's behavior, thereby affecting guidance.

- ...Cite instances in which physical guidance would be used to restrain activity.
- ...Have students demonstrate how to teach a child a simple task.
- ...Observe the different methods of guidance used in the child care center.
- ...Have students note the arrangement of the day care center and report how it affects behavior. If possible, have students teach the child how to perform a task at the day care center, using positive guidance techniques on the job.

Student Generalization:

- ...Using positive statements in guiding children takes practice.

Evaluation:

- ...Have conferences with the employer concerning the student's skill in guiding children.

Subconcept C: ESTABLISHING HABITS AND ROUTINES

Experiences:

- ...Have students list the habits they think are desirable for children to form.
- ...Relate these to routines and activities in the child care centers.
- ...Study the ways in which children may be helped to develop good habits.
- ...Have students note storage areas in the child care center. Identify how arrangement and types of storage help the children to put away toys and clothing.
- ...Observe the children and note their behavior in toileting, sleep, and mealtime. Note how the procedures, equipment, and teachers influence their behavior.
- ...Discuss and list how children can be taught to put away toys and equipment which have been used.
- ...Collect pictures of indoor play areas for children. Discuss and plan ways to store playthings.
- ...Identify how self-help features in clothing can be a tool in developing self-reliance.
- ...List finger foods that would be easy for children to eat.
- ...View and discuss film - "Food As Children See It."
- ...List other ways in which eating experiences may promote independence.
- ...Plan ways to help children do things for themselves.
- ...Eat with the children and observe how the children eat.
- ...Observe adaptations made in child care center which promote independence in children.
- ...Have students help with the preparation of food in the child care center.

- ...Have students cite instances of times when they were in new or strange situations and tell how they felt.
- ...View and discuss film, "Shyness."
- ...Review fears of children and children's emotions.
- ...List ways adults may help children prepare for and adjust to new experiences.
- ...Observe reactions of children to new or unfamiliar experiences.
- ...Have students share with the class an experience in which they observed a child learning through imitation.
- ...Working in groups, list personal behaviors which merit imitation.
- ...Observe experiences in day care center where learning took place.

Student Generalization:

- ...The activities and routines of the day care center have a role to play in the habit formation of children.

Evaluation:

- ...Film evaluations and observation records.

UNIT VI - PLAY OF CHILDREN

OBJECTIVES: To gain more understanding of the importance of play for children.

To develop and increase skill in guiding children's play activities.

To become familiar with materials and activities suitable for children of various ages.

GENERALIZATIONS: Play is one means through which children learn.

Play contributes directly to the physical, mental, emotional and social development of children.

The type of play in which children engage is related to their stage in development.

The use children make of toys and materials is affected by their needs and abilities.

Play equipment is most useful to children when it is suited to their stage of development.

Guidance of play activities requires alertness to provide for both safety and enrichment for the children.

Subconcept A. TOYS AND PLAY EQUIPMENT AND MATERIALS

Experiences:

- ...Discuss the value of toys in the physical and social development of children.
- ...Make an exhibit of toys which children enjoy. Read about the value of toys in the child's play. Tell how a child plays with each toy; explain how it helps him develop-- physically, socially, emotionally, and intellectually.
- ...Set up criteria for judging toys and play equipment for children of different ages and stages of development. Consider such criteria as attractiveness, durability, safety, and ease of use.
- ...Bring toys or pictures of toys to class and judge them by these criteria.
- ...Arrange an exhibit of household objects with which young children would enjoy playing. Include pots, pans, purse, oatmeal carton, wooden spoon, and other such items in your exhibit. List household articles that are unsafe when used as toys.

- ...Note children playing with household objects in the day care center.
- ...Have class members bring to class a picture of a toy showing play in the toy and one showing play in the child.
- ...Assemble a bulletin board entitled "Play Should Be in the Child; Not in the Toy."
- ...Prepare or list articles for a "Surprise Kit" of no-cost toys and play materials and share ideas with class.
- ...Take a "Surprise Kit" of no-cost toys and play materials to the child care center and use it with the children.
- ...View film "Planning Creative Play Equipment for Young Children."
- ...Develop play materials and discuss for which age child this toy is appropriate. Cite learnings anticipated. (Supplementary Materials.)
- ...View slides on "outdoor Play Equipment." (See Supplementary Materials for description of slide series.)
- ...Select or make play equipment for different ages and sexes.
- ...Discuss commonalities of indoor and outdoor play equipment.
- ...Study and compile ideas on the selection of toys, games, music, and stories for children.
- ...Prepare a notebook of ideas for games, songs, stories, finger plays, and other children's activities.

Student Generalization:

- ...Children need toys to help them in their play.

Evaluation:

- ...Observe student during work experience.
- ...Students judge toy according to criteria set up.
- ...Evaluate special reports in class, individual assignments, and special projects.

Subconcept B - TYPES AND STAGES OF PLAY

Experiences:

- ...Relate experiences with small children that point out how children play.
- ...Review the stages of play and give examples of each from personal experiences and day care center experiences.
- ...View slides on "Stages of Play." (Supplementary Materials.)
- ...Observe children's play in child care center, write up an observation sheet, and try to determine the various stages of play in which the children are engaged.
- ...Summarize observations and cite examples of how play contributes to acceptable behavior such as sharing, taking turns, cooperating, respect for belongings of others.
- ...Observe small children in order to discover the various types of play that children of various ages seem to enjoy.
- ...Discuss observations in light of what students have already learned about the development of children. Refer to previous notes made on observation sheets.

- ...View and discuss film, -"Understanding Children's Play."
- ...Cite learning experiences derived from play activities.
- ...Work in groups to report on types of play and their importance to the growth and development of children.
- ...Discuss equipment suitable for each type of play activity.
- ...Bring to class pictures that illustrate types of play and relate values of each.
- ...Have each student lead the class in a game, storytime, finger play and song.
- ...List and play some games which are appropriate for children of various ages.
- ...Set up guidelines to follow in the supervision of play.
- ...Discuss the role of adults in children's play. Include such topics as the guidance of children at play, arrangement of storage space for toys, and providing for safe play.
- ...Students use guidelines at the day care center and report experience to class.

Student Generalization:

- ...Observing children helps one to understand that play is work to children and work is play.

Evaluation:

- ...Evaluate student's observation reports.
- ...Give oral test using slides depicting children engaged in certain stages and types of play.
- ...Practical examination on telling stories, leading games, leading finger plays, leading music periods, and guiding science experiences.
- ...Evaluate student's improved skills in working with children in day care centers, and in leading play activities in classroom and on the job.
- ...Student does self-evaluation of skills used on the job.

SUGGESTIONS FOR PLAY EQUIPMENT TO BE MADE BY STUDENTS INTERESTED IN CHILD CARE SERVICES

Homemade toys and play equipment may be used to create interest, stimulate the student to use her imagination, and give her an entry into a child care center where additional equipment is needed. Below are a few suggestions for making materials and equipment.

Make finger paints, paste, and dough clay from recipes in booklets.

With a little imagination, use can be made of scrap materials around the home and in the neighborhood.

Painting aprons-----men and boys shirts cut down to size, plastic raincoats

Materials for finger painting -----shelf paper butcher paper
protected table tops
pie pans

Paper for easel -----newsprint paper ends
butcher paper
wants ads of newspaper
backs of wall paper samples

Wood packing crates -----house keeping equipment storage shelves
easels

Cardboard -----easels if tacked to walls

Plastic curtains,
Plastic and oilcloth table cloths,
Formica scraps, and
Tile samples -----protection for table tops

Glass jars -----storage for paints, clay, etc.

Empty cans of all sizes,
Milk cartons, coffee cans
with plastic tops -----painted and used for size and color concepts, ends covered and used as drums, accessories for dramatic play, sandbox accessories

Plastic milk bottle caps -----paste containers

Spools -----string beads, spool toys, spool boards

Scraps of materials, string, paper, cotton, feathers, macaroni, straws ----pasting; used in learning different textures

Cigar boxes -----painted and mounted for pulling; blocks for stacking, storage of items

Scraps of wood from Lumber companies, industrial arts shop and construction work -----cut into different sizes and sanded for blocks, made into small toys, spool boards, nail boards, puzzles

Broom handles -----cut into small pieces for blocks; with decorated stuffed sock attached to the end, becomes a stick horse

Plastic bleach bottles -----decorated and made into animals, cut into scoops, horns, containers, etc.

Pictures of animals and people from magazines and catalogues -----mounted on cardboard become accessories for block and dramatic play

Acoustical tile and golf ball tees -----peg board

Styrofoam from packing crates -----toys, animals, etc.

Students may also enjoy making puppets, doll clothes, dress up dresses, cloth books, and numerous other items.

CHILD CARE SERVICES---FORMS

Teachers may wish to develop with their students various observation report forms and evaluation sheets. Appendices to other guides will have some of these.

The following may be helpful:

23. Do you like people?	___	___	23.
24. Are you friendly and congenial?	___	___	24.

BOOSTING THE SCORE

How did you do? If you answered yes to most of the questions, you have the makings of a good employee. All you need now are the necessary skills and training.

If on the other hand, you answered no to more than a few of the questions, you have some work to do. These are your weak spots, the things about you that can stand improvement. You can go into your "job training" right now by changing those things about yourself and your way of doing things that will help make your career successful.

OVERVIEW TO WORLD OF WORK

1. Scope. A Suggested Curriculum Guide for Orientation to the World of Work was developed to be used with high school students at the 11th and 12th grades as a part of the training program for each of the three areas - Child Care, Clothing, and Food Service. Major emphases included are an introduction to the world of work, youth and women in today's labor force, securing a job, and success on the job.

Length of program - Four to six weeks as one of the units in the year's program in each of the three areas. It may be taught as a separate unit and/or combined throughout the year with the units for each of the three areas. Since it is a part of the total year's program no additional credit is recommended.

2. Purpose. The purpose of this unit is to acquaint students with the world of work and help them to take their places in it.

3. Overall Objectives for the Unit.

To become interested in the development of competencies for employment.

To develop some understanding of today's world of work and the socio-economic conditions and technological developments involved.

To recognize and develop qualities which contribute to securing and holding a job.

To develop some skill in serving effectively in the world of work.

To develop a positive attitude toward work as a part of life and a desirable segment of education.

4. Need Based on Survey Finding. The survey indicated that there was a need for providing students with an orientation to the world of work. While some unique personal characteristics were desired by employers of the three areas, Child Care, Clothing, and Food Service, there was an overlapping of many characteristics desired in workers. All employers felt that personal appearance, good grooming and cleanliness were important. All were interested in the attitude of workers toward their work. Clothing and Food Service employers ranked honesty as the most important single personal characteristic. Many of the employers indicated a specific interest in having students study a unit on orientation to the world of work.

5. Use of Materials. The materials herein presented are intended for use as a guide to the teacher in organizing and teaching a unit, "Orientation to the World of Work." Each teacher will want to assess her own experiences and competencies, the needs and opportunities in her own community, and the needs and capabilities of her students before outlining her program. A survey of the community will be helpful as well as the appointment and use of an advisory committee.

As each individual teacher plans her program she should carefully review the objectives, concepts, generalizations, learning experiences, and evaluation methods and select those most appropriate for her situation. These should be adapted and supplemented to meet the needs of her students. Specific suggestions follow for each of the component parts of the framework used in developing each curriculum.

Behavioral Objectives - It is recommended that these be cooperatively developed by the teacher and student after the teacher has prepared a tentative list of objectives to be included. Objectives have been stated to include both the specific behavior and the content and include specific behavior in the cognitive, affective, and psychomotor domains. Overall objectives are stated in the overview with more specific objectives being included for each concept.

Concepts - Concepts are the big overall ideas and subconcepts are used for breakdown of the broader, more inclusive term, phrase or key idea. No attempt was made to include a complete or all-inclusive list of either concepts or subconcepts.

Generalizations - Two types are listed, the first being considered overall for the purpose of guiding the teacher in selection of learning experiences, evaluation methods, etc. The second Student Generalization is presented as an example of the type of generalization which it is hoped that students would be able to state as a result of the learning experiences provided. In most instances the teacher could expect students to be able to state several generalizations.

Evaluation - Emphasis should be placed on cooperative evaluation and self-evaluation techniques.

Resource materials should be supplemented by those available in the classroom.

UNIT I - TODAY'S LABOR FORCE

OBJECTIVES: To develop an understanding of the gainful employment program in home economics.

To acquire knowledge of the increasing importance of youth in the labor force.

To understand the nature of problems peculiar to women who work.
